EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

What To-day Means To You

"SAGITTARIUS"

If December 10th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a.m. to noon, from 4 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. and from 10 p.m. to 11:30 p.m. The danger periods are from 8 a.m. to 9:40 a.m. and from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Astrological influences on this date will make you feel "up and coming," and an active time is predicted, both mentally and physically. A workable inspiration will take you out of what you considered a tight hole. Health-giving forces.

The child born on this December 10th will have a simple, frank, outspoken nature. It will have the mind of an executive, although not an original one. It will be generous to the point of extravagance. It will sometimes be quarrelsome and petulant.

You have a very simple, very delightful nature, and it is not hard for the world to please you. You have the eye and soul of an artist, and can find beauty out of things, that seem to most of us commonplace. There are few things which are boring or futile to you, and your good nature and attendant interest, is responsibly met by other people. You never allow your joys to make yourself ish, neither do you allow your sorrows to make you bitter. There is thunder as well as sunshine in your nature, and you can show lightning flashes of temper, when your toes are pinched too hard. You can show your displeasures, as well as your pleasures.

You take your work seriously, enough so for profit, but not seriously enough to make yourself a drudge. You know how to discriminate between the important and non-important details, and you know how to use your head to save your feet. You know how to co-operate intelligently with others, and gain much through reciprocity of ideas. You never talk down to people, no matter how much they may seem to be your inferiors—you are truly democratic. You have too frank and open a nature to be an artful or illusive lover. You will, however, make a staunch and loyal lover. Your horoscope reveals that you will have the home of your dreams.

A Thought

Great thoughts and books sometimes disappear for generations, and turn up again unexpectedly like messages dropped in the sea, and carried to far-off shores.

District Churches

STIRLING

STIRLING, Dec. 10 (Examiner Correspondence)—On Sunday evening the minister and choir of St. Paul's Church exchanged with the Rev. Mr. Archer and the choir of the United Church, Havelock.

The Rev. Archer addressed a large and most appreciative congregation taking for his subject, "The Lord added to the church daily," "We are living in an age," said Mr. Archer, "when nothing is taken for granted. Every move is challenged. What is the real purpose of life? It is to bring the greatest good to the greatest number? The man of Galilee still stands pleading with us for redemption of His lost sheep.

Each life had a purpose, we are not here to dream, to drift or to play. Man is no frail barque thrown afloat upon life's sea, driven finally head on to a shoreless and lonely island. Life is real, life is earnest. There are two paths before us, one is getting and keeping the other is giving and serving. The first leads to self-annihilation.

Organibed effort is what we need. There are 1493 mission fields in the United Church. The church stands for civilisation. The Roman Empire would have fallen 150 years before had it not been for this organization. If to this we concentrate our talents, we will have made a contribution to the age."

The music was in itself a gospel in song. G. Clute, the leader, was assisted by twenty-four choir members. Two anthems were given, "Seek ye the Lord," and "Oh Worship the King." Miss Betty Conley sang, "The Plains of Peace," P. Way and B. Jones sang a duet, "In Heavenly Love Abiding," and Mr. Clute sang, "The Man of Nazareth."

ROSENEATH

The pulpit in the United Church was occupied by the Rev. Mr. Mears of Port Hope who delivered an excellent discourse on the beautiful life of David, taking his words from the eighth verse of Psalm 63. "My soul followeth hard after thee; thy right hand upholdeth thee."

"The central idea makes a man, it gives character to all the activities of his life. His central idea is what God gives him. David was a great friend of God, he resolved to remain true. God fearing, choosing religion first in time and in perference of all things of time.

David whose love was necessary for a fruitful and successful life—not sentimental love but love as it is in God. Christian workers need this wonderful love. We so often find those ready to criticize in church work and that patient kindly love should be our response."

The speaker admonished all to glorify God, things kindly meant often left a sting by look or tone—and until we can feel with and pot for others we cannot practice divine love.

In closing Rev. Mears mentioned, if David lived here now, he would very likely be called a missionary or a dreamer, he always took God for his defender and guide. "Therefore let us be like David when he cried for help, he fleeth to God as his rock of defence."

Trent River

The condition of Mr. David Burgess shows a slight improvement.

Mrs. Ridley Wood is making a good recovery from her recent illness.

Miss Ethyl Longmuir is spending a week with friends in Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Gardner, of Norwood, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Longmuir and Miss Bernice of Havelock, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Longmuir, Havelock Road.

Mr. Roy Burgess left on Sunday for Toronto, having been called there owing to the illness of his father, Mr. David Burgess. Mrs. Roy Burgess will remain for another week.

Mrs. W. W. Reden is improving from her recent illness.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND BRIEFS

A SPECIAL SERVICE TO THE EXAMINER

"Experience has demonstrated the fact that it is impossible to feed a mule sawdust and get him to move. Equally it is impossible to feed a stock market week after week on bad trade news and expect it to advance," is the way one Wall Street broker sizes up the situation for his clients. Among the unfavorable factors pointed out in mid-week trade statistics are decreased car loadings, rising gasoline stocks, lower copper metal prices and the decline in silver to a new low.

Gross sales of Dominion Stores Limited for the month of November present one of the most favorable comparisons in recent months. The dollar value for the period was only 2.8 per cent below the corresponding month of 1929 as against a drop of over 6 per cent in October and taking into consideration the decline in commodity prices this year it is apparent that the volume of sales is holding above that of the preceding year. Sales for November 1930, are officially valued at $2,343,979 contrasted with $2,410,864 in November 1929. For the first eleven months of the current year the total value of sales is reported at $20,271,555, a reduction of $453,942 or 2.20 per cent when contrasted with the total of $20,725,497 for the corresponding months of 1929. Dominion Stores are now in the final month of the fiscal period and the month of December is the biggest of the year so that total sales for 1930 will not fall far short of the record year of 1929. A short time ago official profit and loss figures for the first nine months were published indicating earnings for the period of $10.25 a share more than sufficient to meet the dividend requirement of $1.20 a share or the entire year.

The ordinary shares of the Massey Harris Company, Limited, are down to a new low in the Toronto Stock Exchange In October last, the passing of the dividend on the common shares was announced by the management, believing that it would be in the best interests of the shareholders to conserve resources mainting affairs a sound position and prepare to take advantage of the better times which are certain to follow. Massey-Harris ended their fiscal year in November last, but the annual financial report will not be ready for publication for some months yet. The world wide ramifications of the organization is a factor in the delay as the company must wait until figures from foreign operations are available before presenting complete statement to stockholders. Unfortunately the shareholders of Massey Harris are in the position of not having received official information as to earnings for 1930 and do doubt the low price at which the stock is selling in the market is disturbing to a great many.

Still under pressure, the market was more sensitive to the reactionary than the progressive forces to-day. Since the turn of the week, prices have inclined gently downward. Wall Street has been the principal factor determining the trend of the local market. It is noticeable, however, that fluctuations on Toronto Exchange are for small fractions only and that despite the tone, the weighted stock price index has not again fallen below 67, which has marked the resistance point of the market since November 12. Sharp upward thrusts in a few favored individual stocks have helped offset selling in other sections.

NORDON ACTIVE ON STANDARD

Oils Only Show Up Few Strong Spots on Mining List To-day.

MINOR RECESSIONS.

TORONTO, Dec. 10. (CP)—Trading was dull and uneventful in the forenoon session on the mining market to-day, oils showing a few strong spots but the balance of list displaying a predominance of minor recessions.

Nordon was active and four higher at 65, when taken at midday. Mayland, whose No. 6 well is reported to have made good progress last week, was up 10 to 80, and Home and International Pete showed small gains. Royalite advanced three quarters to $18.25. B. A. Oil was somewhat easier at $14.50.

Noranda, up a few cents to $13.90, was the only important copper to show change, reduction of the export price to 11.30 cents C.I.F. European ports finding little reflection in action of the base metal group. Amulet and Sherritt Gordon sold a cent of so lower, but other members of the section were steady.

Golds saw some light selling, McIntyre losing its recent advance or a quarter, Dome 10, Vipond 4, Wright-Hargreaves a couple and Siscoe a point. Teck Hughes recovered 5 to $5.60 and balance of the group was holding.

HOUDE CHARGES GOV'T ADOPTED TORY REFORMS

Opposition Head Claims Agricultural Relief Come Only When Disaster Threatened.

FOUR HOUR SPEECH.

Says Bridges For Tourist Traffic Should Not Be Toll Structures.

QUEBEC, Que., December 10 (C P.). — The Government had "taken fright" over the recent by-elections and consequently had included in the Speech from the Throne many reforms "preached by the Conservatives for twenty years at least," Camillien Houde, Leader of the Provincial Opposition, declared during a speech lasting four and a half hours last night in the Provincial Legislature.

Mr. Houde hailed the result in Maskinonge as a moral defeat for the Government, as the majority had been greatly reduced, he said. In Two Mountains he welcomed the election of Jean Paul Sauve, as a worthy successor of his father, Hon. Arthur Sauve, now Postmaster-General, and the defeat of Hon. Gordon W. Scott, former Provincial Treasurer, in Huntingdon, was "the death knell of the present Government," Mr. Houde said. The Opposition had not opposed Robert Taschereau, son of Premier L. A. Taschereau, in Bellechasse, owing o lack of monetary means, he went on.

Suggestions Taken Up.

Dealing with the Speech from the Throne, Mr. Houde said that relief of agriculture came only when the basic industry was facing disaster. The Opposition suggestions, formerly turned down "scornfully" by the Government, had been taken into the speech. He offered his "sincere sympathy" to Hon. Adelard Godbout who had "accepted the agricultural portfolio in a critical period."

Bridges to be built as aids to the tourist trade might serve that purpose if they were not to be toll bridges, he went on. Strangers hated these tolls, he said, adding that campaigns had been started in New England States to prevent tourists from coming here, because of these tolls.

He approved the creation of a separate Minister of Labor as outlined in the Speech from the Throne, but asked also for the nomination of a Minister of Trade and Commerce, "who would have plenty to do to establish confidence and proper conditions in our commercial classes."

MALONEY HOPES

question. He is interested particularly in the Board's methods in dealing with the present situation with regard to wheat.

Favors 100 Per Cent. Pool.

His personal view, and the view of a great proportion of the people of Australia, he said, was that there should be a more highly developed organization of wheat growers. Mr. Moloney declared he was in favor of a 100 per cent. compulsory pool backed up by a minimum price guarantee on the part of the Government. So far, he said, Queensland is the only State in the Australian Commonwealth possessing such a pool. A bill for the creation of a national pool along the same lines was defeated recently in the Australian Senate after having been passed in the House of Representatives, he said. Yet, he thought, the majority of growers in Australia would favor such a measure should it be put to the test of a plebiscite.

Mr. Moloney appeared in excellent health and spirits, and in no way upset by the speed with which he is conducting his trip. He will leave Washington on Friday night, arriving in Ottawa on Saturday. Later he will go to Montreal and Quebec, before proceeding to Vancouver and thence homeward.

McNEVIN SUGGESTS

industry. Even the producer who markets his wares in an orderly manner, suffers by the action of the "dumper," Mr. Morrison declared.

"If indifference to the condition of agriculture is to be continued indefinitely in the future as in the past, only one course is left open and that is "direct represetnation for his industry in the councils of the nation" as per clauses 14 and 24 in the reaffirmation of principles, the secretary said.

Could Be Effective Body.

The U.F.O., he said ,if conducted properly as a place to discuss the problems of their industry would be wonderfully effective in developing the vision of farmers to the possibilities of the position they should occupy. "Those who feel the pulse of the movement and watch the signs of gathering unrest are well aware that agriculture in its extremity is about to assert itself as an aggressive force in demanding relief from the economic burdens that have been placed upon it.

"It was adding insult to injury, he declared, to admonish the farmer to lessen his cost of production while he harvests his 60 cents per bushel wheat with a $250 binder and compete with other industries in a labor market that enjoys a standardized short week, short day and a minimum wage rate per hour, which in turn raises the cost of labor to the farmer and raises also the cost of the commodities he requires to live and to carry on his industry. Cost, plus profit is an accepted theory in nearly all industries other than agriculture; there is no accepted cost on agricultural production. Neither is there any allowance for profit.'

MEMBERS OF BAR

On behalf of the members of the Bar and of the whole community, Mr. Hall rejoiced that the Judge had been so long spared to sit upon the bench. He hoped that His Honor would out-rival some of the famed English judges for longevity and long and faithful service to the public, mentioning Lord Lindley, 93 years of age, and Lord Halsbury who died at the age of 98.

G. N. Gordon recalled that during most of his twenty-one years on the bench Judge Huycke had been the leader of the Ontario County Judge's Association. He recalled the many important duties of civic service which falls upon the shoulders of Judge Huycke.

The unfailing courtesy and almost paternal interest taken in the junior members of the Bar by Judge Huycke was only another example of the kindness and gentlemanly qualities always shown by His Honor, declared J. A. O'Brien, Mr. O'Brien recalled his own feelings eleven years ago when he come to Peterborough a stranger, fresh from the Law School to practise before a strange judge, and how quickly he was put at his ease by the friendly manner of Judge Huycke. He also added a word of appreciation of the manner in which His Honor discharged justice. The cold neutrality of a judge was tempered with the milk of human kindness in the case of Judge Huycke, he said.

Judge Huycke stated that the felicitations reminded him of his age. "I am touched indeed by your very kind and all too flattering remarks" he said. "It is a difficult thing to be a judge. One must maintain the dignity of the bench and administer the law. I suppose at times I have displeased some of the members of the Bar and other times many persons, but I do not strive to please anyone except my conscience and my sense of justice."

Modestly he corrected Mr. Gordon, stating that only for ten years had he been president of the Ontario County Judges' Association.

In the administration of justice it is not common to meet with public approval, declared His Honor, but if his services had met public commendation he wasg lad and would continue to serve even better in the future than in the past.

BRAZILIAN SELLS LOWER TO-DAY

Toronto Exchange in Sympathy With New York Shows Lower Tendency.

B. A. OIL UNCHANGED.

TORONTO, Dec. 10. (CP)—Fractionally lower in sympathy with New York, the Toronto Stock Exchange market this morning continued in much the same tone as previously this week. Losses never threatened to induce liquidation, in fact the volume was less again to-day, showing a daily contraction since Monday.

Oils delayed appearance at the opening and it was on into the second hour before they showed any significant activity. B. A. Oil was practically unchanged from last night. Superior rose above 29 on one transaction and Imperial and International Petroleum both eased.

Brazilian sold lower again, Massey-Harris cut under yesterday's record low, Walkers, C.P.R., Ford of Canada were easier in tone rather than otherwise. Steels continued firm but light traders. Atlantic Sugar was holding well between 16 and 17, near yesterday's top price. Hamilton Bridge gained a point and Canadian Dredge was stronger at 27.

International Nickel was unchanged to higher and Noranda better at 14.

NEW YORK LIST AGAIN DROPS TO LOWER LEVELS

Numerous 2 to Five Point Losses in Rail, Industrial and Utility Issues.

CALL MONEY FIRM.

United States' Weekly Steel Trade Reviews Sound Optimistic Note.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(C.P.)—The stock market flirted to-day with the three year low level recorded just one month ago.

After pushing up a little during the first hour the list gave way under persistent selling, and by early afternoon, losses of 2 to 5 points were numerous. The rails, having already broken the average price of 20 issues, to record the lowest level since May, 1926, moved still lower, and a handful of industrials and utilities penetrated below the bottom prices of a month ago.

Failure of the copper producers to maintain their recent advance in the price of the metal to 12 cents a pound, was an unsettling development offsetting favorable news from the steel industry. Bethlehem Steel, Westinghouse Electric, Johns Manville, Illinois Central, St. Louis Southwestern, New Haven Railroad, International Harvester, Eastman Kodak, and American and Foreign Power sold off 2 to 8 points to new bottom prices. U. S. Steel, American Can, American Water Works, Consolidated Gas, and Dupont were among issues sagging 2 points or so.

As had been forecast, the weekly steel trade reviews sounded an optimistic note, and the United States Steel Corporation reported an increase in its unfilled orders during November of 157,873 tons.

Call money was firm at 2 per cent. There was no concession in the outside market, where limited funds were offered yesterday at 1⅛ per cent.

MOTORISTS CHARGED WITH NEGLIGENCE

Richard Oliver, Ottawa, and Rev. D. M. Kerr of Renfrew Suffer Injuries.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., December 10 (C.P.). — True bills were returned this morning by the Grand Jury at the General Sessions of the Peace here against Anton Kopp, Ottawa, charged with criminal negligence in connection with a motor accident near Gananoque, in which Richard Oliver, Ottawa, was fatally injured, and against John A. Flood, Brockville, also charged with criminal negligence in connection with a motor accident near here in which Rev. D M. Kerr, Renfrew, Ont., was injured.

KING GEORGE GOES SHOOTING.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—(C.P.) —The King, accompanied by the Duke of York and Prince George, to-day left Buckingham Palace for Windsor to do some shooting on the pheasant reserves there.

It is the first time the King has gone shooting since his illness in 1928. The trip was postponed from yesterday because of the fog which lay over Southern England then.

If you buy out of town, and I buy out of town, and all our neighbors buy out of town, what in thunder will become of our town? Ever think about it?

MINING BRIEFS

A Special Service to The Examiner

TORONTO, Dec. 10. (Special to Examiner.)—Though copper price trend in London during the past week or so has been steadily downward. To-day's cut by copper exporters of one cent to 11.30 cents CIF European ports came as something of a surprise to the street. It was generally conceded the differential between the export price and the actual sales price of metal in New York was too great, but it was believed producers were determined to maintain their position. Quotation of Custom Smelters and dealers moved up from 10.25cents early last week to 11.5 near the close of that period, indicating a good chance existed in stabilizing the figure at the 12 cent level established by large producers shortly after the production curtail agreement was reached.

The trade is anxiously awaiting publication of month end copper statistics which are due any day now. Though cuts in rate of output were only in force for a part of November, the heavy sales enjoyed for a time should have had a beneficial effect on the picture and it was anticipated a small drop or a nominal increase only would be shown in stocks of refined metal. The action of the exporters leaves this question very much in doubt. According to some authorities the end of January, at the latest, should see definite signs of improving statistical position for copper, and while not expecting any decided price advance, they are of the opinion the 12 cent level could be maintained providing the business improvement anticipated for the first half of 1931 materializes.

Another rather disappointing development was the drop taken by silver yesterday to a new low of 33 cents an ounce in New York, the decline took place in a quiet market and was much larger than the drop registered in London where silver sold off 3-16 , or about three eighths of a cent. Recent talk of stabilization of the white metal price built up hopes for definite action in this regard, but the further decline indicates the market is still in demoralized condition. Renewed demand for silver from China is looked to as the only thing that can turn the price, and this phase of the situation is still too unsettled to amount to very much.

The Amulet official statement shows that revenue from sales of copper and zinc concentrates during the relatively short time the mill was in operation was sufficient to reduce the company's net debt to $80,000 on November 30, compared with $150,000 on June 30, end of the last fiscal period. It also provided for mine and mill supplies valued at $28,000. The new loan, amounting to the sum of $250,000 which can be drawn up on as needed, places the company in a good position to weather the uncertain period indicated for the immediate future and will provide working capital when operations are resumed at the mill following improvement in metal prices.

Production from sylvanite is reported to be averaging $65,000 monthly, the output for the ten months ended October 31 was approximately $643,000 and the total is likely to reach $775,000 for the full year. The ore grades over $10 per ton and although development costs are comparatively high, the profit should be ample to cover the dividend rate of four cents per share annually. It is interesting to note that the first carload of blister copper from the Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting plant at Flin Flon was consigned to Nichols Copper Co., Long Island N.Y., for refining. The first electrolytic shipment was destined for a consignee in Great Britain. Apparently the company has been successful in making arrangements for the handling of its output, though the question of sales of the metal is still undecided.

BIRTH CERTIFICATE DRAWN UP IN 1648

Document Precious From Civil and Historic Viewpoint.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 9.—A yellowed document reposing in the vaults of Notre Dame Church celebrated its 282nd anniversary on Nov. 24 last. It is the birth and baptismal certificate of Barbe Le-Mounier, first white child to be born in the fort that grew to be Montreal.

Written in Latin, in behalf of one of the Jesuit missionaries whose order was serving the settlement in 1648, the document is so precious from the civil and historic viewpoint that the Quebec Government has had a facsimile made.

The document, E. Z. Massicotte, Court House archivist announced recently, reveals that the little girl was brought into the world by Dr. Jean Pouppe, of whom little is known. Her godparents were illustrious people, the real founders of Montreal. The godfather was Paul Chomedey de Maisonneuve, her godmother Jeanne Mance. The exact identity of the missionary who wrote the certificate is not know, but the Superior of the Jesuits in 1648 was Rev. Georges d'Eudemarre.

The register in which the entry is made was a special one kept by the Jesuits between 1642 and 1657, Mr. Massicotte explained. There is a sprinkling of entries before that of the first white child; they cover the births and baptisms of children of converted Indians. The Jesuits kept their register in Latin until the year when the Sulpician Order came here, founded a parish and started maintenance of a church register in French.

The little girl was born in the fort which was located below the Riviere St. Pierre, running roughly on a line of the Common street of today and westward toward Pointe a Callieres, now Point St. Charles.

125 PARADE WITH RANGERS

PLAN WINTER PROGRAM.

Last night's parade of the Peterborough Rangers Regiment, surprised even the O.C. himself, by its size and enthusiasm. There were 125 all ranks, turned out voluntarily, to participate in the opening program of regimental sports, shooting and drill.

It seemed as if the oft expressed wish of Colonel M. H. Park, V.D., that the Rangers Regiment shall be second to none, had all at once reached consummation. Such a parade was but the result of the wonderful esperit de corps, which has been fostered in the unit, by the O.C. and his officers, and is evidence of the whole-hearted co-operation of all ranks.

Throughout the winter it is planned to make such parades a weekly feature, and commencing with next week physical training instruction and boxing classes will be introduced under the instructorship of Sergeant-Majors Turner and Gaskell.

To give some little idea of the ambitious program which was undertaken last evening, it may be mentioned that B and C Companies played indoor baseball; D Company heard lectures on musketry, while A Company and H. Q. Wing undertook preliminary practice on the indoor miniature range under Lt. G. R. Milton, preparatory to commencing a program of competition, which will proceed throughout the winter months. Prizes are to be presented each parade night for the best shot.

Following the parade, members of B Company held a smoker at Paragon Hall.

Next week C Company will commence training in bayonet fighting, while a baseball game is scheduled between A and D Companies, and also between H. Q. Wing and N.C.O's. Officers will attend a lecture next week.

Softball League

It is also hoped to get a Garrison Softball League under way at the beginning of the New Year. Invitations have been extended to other units in the garrison to participate.

That the Peterborough Rangers' pride is well founded is evidenced, by the reports given at the Infantry Association meeting held at Kingston on Saturday last, when it was announced that in M.D. 3 the Rangers hold third place in the Infantry Association competitions, having only been beaten by the Ottawa Highlanders and the Governor General's Foot Guards, while the Rangers hold first place in the Field Training Competitions and second place for having the best arms and stores. In the latter instance the Ottawa Highlanders took first place.

It is interesting to note that two former officers of the Peterbor Rangers were elected as first and second vice-presidents of the Infantry Association, respectively, namely Colonel W. G. Hall and Colonel Magwood of Cornwall. Colonel Fraser Hadley of the Regiment de Hull was re-elected president of the Association.

Fire Destroys Liner Tied In English Dock

BLYTH, England, December 10 (C. P.). — Fire spreading through the old Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Scotland, docked here for dismantling, reached her fuel tanks late this afternoon and 300 tons of oil went up in a great roaring flame. The ship will probably be a total loss.

The blaze was discovered early this morning in the second-class quarters, but every fire engine in town could not check its progress. It was believed to have been caused by an electrical short circuit

VIRGIN MARTYR'S ANNUAL FESTIVAL

Girls Delight In Singleness By Celebrating Saint's Anniversary.

ST. CATHARINE'S HISTORY.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 10.—On St. Catharines' Day, Nov. 25 girls throughout the province of Quebec took delight in their blessed singleness by celebrating the virgin martyr's anniversary in a traditionally joyous manner.

Typically Parisian in its origin, in Canada pulling taffy is one of the delightful pastimes indulged in by both boys and girls. These festive gatherings have been known to end in "fincailles" thus defeating the original purpose of the celebration.

Spinsters, or rather "bachelor girls" as they prefer to be called, have St. Catherine as their inspiration. She was as sweet a girl as the taffy distributed. In France and in all countries where French customs of old have endeared themselves to the populace, it is axiomatic that "les vielles filles" ("the old maids", continue the practices of their ancestors.

To make the celebration perfect tradition calls for snow on the ground and the inauguration of winter sports, but this year the festivities took place in balmy Autumn weather.

Among the earlier saints of the Roman calendar, St. Catherine holds an exalted position. She is said to have been of royal birth and was one of the most distinguished ladies of Alexandria in the beginning of the fourth century. From a child she was noted for her learning and philosophy and while very young she became a convert to the Christian faith. During the persecution instituted by the Emperor Maximinus II, St. Catherine, assuming the office of an advocate of Christianity, displayed such cogency of argument and powers of eloquence as silenced her pagan adversaries. Maximinus thereupon assembled the most learned philosophers in Alexandria to confute her, but she did more than vanquish them in debate—she converted some of them to a belief in the Christian doctrines. The Emperor commanded them to be put to death by fire and for St. Catherine he reserved an even more cruel punishment. She was placed in a machine composed of four wheels connected together and armed with sharp spikes so that, as they revolved, the victim might be torn to pieces. According to the legend, a miracle prevented consummation of this project. When the executioners were binding Catherine to the whee's a flash of lightning severed the cords and broke the machine to pieces, causing the death of the executioners and a number of bystanders. Maximinus, however, was unrelenting. He ordered the girl to be carried beyond the walls of the city where she was beheaded. The celebrated Convent of St. Catherine, situated on the slope of Mount Sinai and founded in the sixth century, contains in its church a marble sarcophagus in which relics of St. Catherine are deposited. A well-known concomitant of St. Catharine is the wheel on which her torture was attempted and which figures in pictured representations of the saint. From this circumstance is derived the well-known circular window in ecclesiastical architecture termed a Catherine-wheel window. The famous Catherine-wheel firework takes its name from the infamous wheel, of which the contraption used by professional candy-makers is likewise reminiscent.

GHOST STORIES REVIVED.

People of Portchester, England, are more certain than ever that ghosts inhabit the famous ancient castle of the place. They point to the recent finding of three skeletons at a spot where they say ghosts were definitely seen to vanish on at least three separate occasions last winter. The castle was once an early British camp, then a Roman fortress, later a Norman stronghold, and in the Napoleonic war a jail for French prisoners. Smallpox and other epidemics broke out several times among the French prisoners, and a great number of them died and were buried there. Portchester Castle has been designated by the government as an Ancient Monument, and the skeletons were unearthed during repair work by Office of Works laborers.

AUSTRALIA CUTS BUTTER BOUNTY

Move Means Increase of 5 Cents Per Pound Before it Can Be Laid Down in Canada.

AIDS DOMINION PRODUCER.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Dec. 9 (C.P.) — The Federal Stabilization Committee to-day reduced the bounty on Australian butter for export, to 4d per pound, effective on Dec. 31 next.

In effect, this means an increase of five cents per pound for the butter necessary before it can be laid down in Canada. Reports of fears in Canada that Australian butter would flood the Dominion market at 24 cents a pound have been discounted here, but the action of the board today is a concrete step in favor of the Canadian producer.

There is a Canadian duty of one cent a pound and the prevailing Australian price is about 36 cents a pound, so that it would cost, discounting the bounty of seven cents, about 30 cents in Canada. Against this there is a dumping duty of roughly, at the present time, 5 or 6 cents, which Australian exporters believe can be avoided by shipping on consignment to be sold on commission.

MR. EDWARDS STATES HIS CASE

Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir: Your informant got things considerably twisted in reporting my accident on the highway near Omemee on Saturday, November 29.

I had been in Lindsay on Friday, had called on the drug trade and doctors and hospitals, spent Friday evening in Peterborough and was in our Peterborough office on Saturday morning and was on my way back to Toronto here.

I was proceeding slowly on the icy pavement in the middle of the road when my rear end slipped to the right pointing my nose to the left and in a distance of perhaps thirty to forty feet gradually went off the road despite what I could do on the slippery surface. The highway being banked here to a distance of about three and a half feet and going off on the left hand side of the road, left me on the low side of the car.

I felt nothing could stop the car from going over, it was in such a position and had plenty of time to think, but in getting out at the right or upper side, just as I got clear of the car it started to go over, the door hitting me on the head and knocking me down and it was from this that I received the cuts.

The car did not turn around in the opposite direction from which it was going and there wasn't even a glass cracked in it. Will you kindly correct your report as it was quite erroneous.

Yours very truly,
Alan W. Edwards.

CANADA AT PRESENT

Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir:—If one is to get a just idea of Canada it is necessary to pay at least occasional visits to the large centres like Montreal. In view of the fact however, that people of different races and language think and act with equal variety it is necessary to acquire a working knowledge of their language and customs.

I am fortunate in knowing some prominent French-Canadians who are good enough to invite me to fraternize with them occasionally. French - Canadians are divided broadly speaking, into the usual two classes of mankind, those who wish to progress and those who wish to have their own little way.

It is the old case all over again of endeavoring to stop the progress of the world and of one's country by shutting and bolting one's own back gate. If the wants and needs of the masses depended in any way upon what they decide upon it would be logical to bow to their decision but when universal franchise has resulted in nothing but universal failure, it becomes apparent and we need experts in politics for the nation's business as in anything else.

French-Canada is represented by a much higher class of men than English Canada. In Parliament we have long known that there is no comparison. It is this lack of mentality in public business that has left us in the most extraordinary state of collapse, that it would be possible to imagine. It is doubtful if even a man of Mr. Bennett's ability can do much with it. He has, however, given up the idea of re-organizing Canada's tariff policy for the next session, at any rate. Why? If we answer that question we will see what it is that we are doing or trying to do—and cannot do.

Here is Canada ready to undertake public works of the colossal kind involving such expansion as the Montreal C.N.R. terminal and not able to go on with anything because of what? That is another question to answer. Clearly we are making a mess of our affairs but the idea that grain is the basis of prosperity is surely the craziest economic fallacy of all. Does any person allege that the high price of foodstuffs is the basis of prosperity?

What nonsense!

J. H. Burnham.

DISPOSING OF THE WHEAT SURPLUS.

Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—Your paper of a recent date carries an advertisement with your evident approval that deserves notice. It is the "Eat More Wheat" slogan of a shredded wheat company with the professed purpose of reducing the Canadian wheat surplus by a large use of their product. Think of the many problems that would be solved if human beings, in respect to consumptive and financial ability, were only so constituted as to accommodate themselves to the "eat more" campaigns that are staged from time to time by interested parties! Since that is not the case, it is evident that if a person "eats more" of this he shall have to eat less of that.

Has it occurred to you that if your advertisers gained their end, there would be no further demand for other forms of breakfast food? As a consequence the magnificent Quaker Oats industry which is such a valuable asset to your city would be forced out of business, and the huge market it provides for Canadian oats would be wiped out. Are you willing to lend your support to such a campaign? Do you imagine the citizens of Peterborough and district would approve? How could you square yourself with thousands of Canadian Scots whose fierce anger you would stir up by becoming a party to an insidious and wicked effort to oust the "chief of Scotia's food" from its age-long and honored position? Beware, lest some morning you find your establishment a mass of wreckage! History is full of instances of Scotsmen doing deeds of greater violence under slighter provocation.

But let us consider the farmer and his wheat surplus. First of all, the public should be grateful that for once, a protected industry has been frank enough to publish the important facts of its business, and thus enable the people to know of the shameless and merciless exploitation they suffer from in connection with the most common necessaries of life.

Here in substance is the appeal of the advertisement: 9,000,000 Canadians can help our farmers to dispose of 6,800,000 bushels of wheat yearly by eating two shredded wheat biscuits every day. Now for the arithmetic. On that basis, 6,370,000,000 biscuits would be required, at a cost of $65,700,000. The wheat used in making that supply would bring to our farmers at present prices $4,420,000. That is, the consuming public will have to pay $15.00 for $1.00 that finds its way to the farmer. Suppose a farmer with a family of five falls in with the slogan. His supply of shredded wheat for a year would cost him $36.50, the equivalent of 56 bushels of his wheat. According to the facts of the advertisement, it requires less than four bushels to make that supply. In other words, he is invited to hand over to the shredded wheat company and its distributors fifteen bushels of wheat in return for which he will receive one with which to feed his family. At that rate of doing business, he wouldn't be long, would he, in getting rid of his surplus of wheat and everything else he could gather together on his farm?

Could you probably not find many more business concerns who, if they were willing to do so, could furnish similar evidence of their heartless exploitation of a long-suffering public on account of this protected position? And by the way, Mr. Editor, would it be possible for you to ascertain from your public-spirited, altruistic-minded advertisers if, in view of the fact that within a year the price of wheat to the farmer has been cut in two, there is any chance of the price of shredded wheat being reduced to the people who are short-sighted enough to buy it?

Yours, in all sincerity,
JOHNNY ROLLED OATS.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, December 10. — Receipts at the Union Stock Yards yesterday were: 949 cattle, 250 calves, 675 hogs, 821 sheep and lambs.

There were 1,100 cattle over from Monday in addition to the fresh supply at the opening of the market. Trade was slow in starting, buyers showing little interest in the stale killers and the ate arrivingg shipments helped to delay operations up to 11 o'clock. A few fairly good butcher steers sold at $7.00 a cwt., and some plain downward to $5.00. Prospects are that choice butchers will sell steady at Monday's 25 cents a cwt. advance. Prices on store cattle are a shade easier than last week at $5.25 to $5.90 a cwt for fair to good stockers and feeders in yesterday's early sales.

The calf market is steady at $11.00 to $12.00 a cwt. for choice vealers with heavy grassers at $4.50 to $6.00 a cwt. Opening lamb prices were firm at $8.75 a cwt. for good ewes and wethers in a light offering. Culls and bucks are selling at $6.75 to $7.00 a cwt. The best sheep are a shade higher than Monday at $4.75 with culls steady ranging downward to $2.00 a cwt.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WININPEG, December 10.—Wheat values on the Grain Exchange slumped shortly after the opening yesterday, but the final hour witnessed an advance of 1¼c from the low marks. Final quotations were ⅝c to ⅞c higher than Monday.

Export business was lacking yesterday and the volume of trading was small. Strength in the December future was attributed to the buying by shippers for this month in an effort to fill tonnage. The advance at Liverpool was also a bullish factor.

Offerings were light in the cash market and trading dull, with values practically unchanged. Oats and barley were the only coarse grains displaying activity, the others very dull. Prices showed little change.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, Dec. 10. — The butter market showed no signs of returning life yesterday and the few sales that did go through were on the previous basis of 29c to 29½c for No. 1 and 28c to 28¾c for No. 2, with the lower prices operating more than the higher. Buyers were taking their time and not becoming too interested, even when fine churnings were offered at good discounts. They seemed to have made up their minds to hold out until the import situation has cleared up, and, as this will not occur right away, the outlook for the immediate future is not too good.

Eggs

Brokers reported some arrivals of fresh eggs, which they cleared at 50c for extras, and 43c for firsts, graded in free cases, but though the demand for fresh supplies was fairly good, the general consumptive demand has not been up to the mark. Storage eggs have not moved as they should and with fresh eggs becoming more plentiful the market appears to be going weaker.

Country shippers were quoted 50c to 52c for extras, 43c to 45c for firsts, 28c to 29c for seconds, and 35c to 37c for pullets, extras, ungraded, delivered, cases returned. Retailers were asked to pay 60c to 62c for extras in cartons, 58c to 60c for extras, loose, 53c to 55c for firsts loose, 33c to 35c for seconds loose, and 50c for pullet extras loose. British Columbia supplies, which were purchased at high prices, were responsible for quotations to retailers not declining to the same extent as those quoted to shippers.

Cheese

Cheese prices were unchanged at 13c to 13½c for new, large, 13½c to 13¾c for twins, and 13¾c to 14 for triplets, to shippers.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10. — Brokers in wheat went on a virtual strike yesterday. Many flocked over to the corn crowd, general trading interest in wheat having been reduced almost to zero, apparently because Government-sponsored operations had permitted little or no freedom of movement. On the other hand, active commission house buying rallied corn briskly from price setbacks, associated with the ideal weather over the corn belt.

Wheat Closes Higher

Corn closed unsettled at Monday's finish to ½c higher, wheat irregular from ¼c decline to ½c gain, with oats ¼c off to ¼c to ⅝c up, and provisions unchanged to 17c lower.

JEAN'S SANTA CLAUS

By JULIE ANNE MOORE

...cards had been received. This ...ed list at Jean's suggestion, was to be published in the newspaper with a request that those named write to Santa Claus in care of the Examiner if they wanted a beautiful miniature baby for Christmas.

Jean had been explaining the purpose of this combing process to "Ira Trelling, who had general charge of the girls working on the Miniature Baby Plan, when Lionel came into the general office and wandered idly about the room while waiting for Jean to complete her instructions.

Jean watched him out the corner of her eye, but went on talking until at last for lack of anything more to say to Miss Trelling, she looked up and acknowledged his uneasy smile.

"Are you very busy?" he asked, frowning. "I've something important to talk to you about when you're free."

Jean's heart missed a beat, then pounded rapidly. He was going to ask her . . .

"I've finished," she said quietly. "Do you want to talk here?"

"Lord, no!"

Jean smiled inwardly at his irritation. She preceded him to the front office.

"It's five minutes to twelve," he told her. "Let's go somewhere and eat. Or at least sit down. I can't talk in this place."

She tried to think of a reasonable excuse but could not. After all, she told herself, she had to face it sooner or later, so why not now? And what would her answer be? "Ye gods!" she thought helplessly. "I can't! I can't! Not after yesterday. And yet . . ."

But she left the thought unfinished, and without a word lifted her arms as the coat Lionel held for her. Tucked her hair under her little hat, and walked out of the office, Lionel following.

"Do you like Chinese food?" he asked, when they were in the street.

"I like any kind of food when I'm hungry," she replied, "which I am not."

"Then it doesn't matter," he said. "There's a Chinese restaurant over on West 43rd street with little cozy compartments along the wall where we can talk."

They found it a modern place, not at all like the cosier of the food joints. There were not more than a dozen persons in the restaurant, a fact of which Lionel was seemingly unconscious.

When they had given their orders and the waiter had departed, Lionel said: "There's no use to beat about the bush, Jean. The sooner it's over, the better."

"Yes?" Jean said quietly. "Don't beat about them."

His eyes wandered as he seemed hard ly to see her. Recalled the only gentleman who came to the office to see me yesterday."

Jean nodded. "It wasn't so old, however," she added spitefully.

"All right. That isn't important. Do you know who he is?"

She shook her head, casually, as if to say she didn't care.

"That," said Lionel, "was my old man. You're surprised? But that isn't the half of it. He and mother have come to spend the holidays in New York and . . ." he shook his head jerkily as if to rid his brain of an unpleasant thought, "and to meet my wife."

"Lionel!" Jean was all sympathy now. "But, what are you going to do?"

He shook his head hopelessly. "You see, as soon as we were married I wired the folks. Mother wired at once for us to come home for a visit. But, before we could go, we had separated. I couldn't tell mother that. She'd never understand. So, now they've come here, more than anything else to see her."

Jean stared at him dumbly, unable to think of a single construction suggestion.

Suddenly Lionel was leaning toward her, hope in his eyes. "I've thought of everything, Jean," he told her with a quiet eagerness; "and there's just one way out. Will you help me?"

"I . . .?" puzzled. "But how can I."

He said bluntly: "By pretending you're my wife, Jean. Don't look at me like that. I'm in trouble. I've wanted to ask you to marry me anyway; but you understand there's been no legal separation."

"Then, even if I . . ."

"Wait a moment, please, if you'll do this, I'll file papers for divorce at once. She'll never contest it. And after the folks have gone home and I'm free, we'll be married, you and I."

Jean felt as if he had struck her in the face.

"But I don't understand. Are you asking me to live with you, before we're married?"

He studied her face a moment uncertainly. Then: "Not necessarily. If you'll simply pretend, go around with me, convince the old man and my mother that you're my wife. Don't you see Jean? You'll only have to act the part, and then very soon we will be married, and they'll never know. Will you Jean?"

Jean said promptly: "No. You're asking the impossible."

The waiter brought their lunch, and shuffled away. Lionel renewed his plea, sought new arguments, pleaded his love for her, appealed to her sympathies. But Jean was adamant.

Once she interrupted him to ask: "Why don't you try to find your wife?" And was amazed when he answered: "I have found her. But what's the use? We didn't make a go of it the first time; why should we now? Besides, she refuses to come back to me."

"But if you explained. If you told her that your parents were here, and for just a month."

"I have explained," Lionel said hopelessly. "Not two hours ago. That's where I went when I left the office this morning. I begged her; but she would not listen to me."

"Oh!" Then, cattily: "So when she fails you, you ask me?"

"No, Jean. You know better than that. But I needed a wife, in a hurry, and she was it. I'm in love with you, darling; but it seemed too much to ask of you. But when she refused, simply to act as my wife in public, why, I thought perhaps you'd understand, Jean. But, I suppose I hadn't any right to ask you."

Jean was immediately contrite. It was too much to ask. And yet, he really was in a predicament. And he did want her to marry him when it was possible. And it wouldn't do her any great harm just to pose as his wife in public. And . . .

She was suddenly filled with a desire to be alone, and when at last they came out the restaurant, she told him that she was not going back to the office, but to her room.

Jean asked presently: "What did you tell them yesterday, Lionel? About your wife?"

"I said she'd gone to visit an aunt in Massachusetts for a few dzys. I had to find some excuse." And then, as he divined the reason for her question: "You . . . you don't mean you'll do it! Jean!"

"Oh, I don't know. I'll be insane if I do, but . . . Stretch it out. Tell them she'll be gone a week. In the meantime, I may do it, Lionel. I'm going home and think."

He caught her hand eagerly. "You're perfect, Jean! If you only will." And, as she was starting down the stairs: "By the way, I've taken my car out of hock for the benefit of the folks. Can I come by for you in the morning?"

"I suppose so," she called back indifferently, and ran on down the stairs.

The prospect of an hour alone in the quiet of her room was responsible for her rapid gait when she left the subway. She wanted to shut herself in, and think.

But when she turned into her street, and saw a tall soberly dressed young man pacing to and fro before the house in which she and Mollie lived, she walked more slowly, staring intently.

Presently, when she was not more than a dozen feet away, the young man turned on his heel and walked toward her. Suddenly he stopped and grinned broadly.

For a moment she gazed at him, uncertainly. Then, with a wild cry of "Phil!" she ran to him and threw herself in his open arms.

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

When she could free herself from his embrace, Jean stood off and gazed at Phil appraisingly.

"You've changed, Phil," she told him, laughing happily. "Or is it your new suit? But I declare you look broader through the shoulders."

"That's because your used to all these little shallow-chested New York boys," he replied, a cumbersome attempt at levity. "You haven't forgotten your promise, have you? About Christmas morning?"

"You'd be swil-headed if you knew how constantly I've thought of it. Only it's seemed sometimes that Christmas was a long time off, Phil."

He shifted his weight from one foot to the other, uncomfortably. "We don't have to wait," he informed her, grinning. "To-morrow morning would do just as well, as far as I'm concerned."

"Oh, but you don't know what I'm doing. Did you ever hear of a miniature baby? But of course you haven't. Anyway, I'm actually in charge of a tremendously big program with oodles to spend on making little girls of New York happy on Christmas. I'll tell you all about it when we've ran out of other topics. How's Kelsey?"

"Same old place," he told her. "Kelsey never changes."

They gazed at each other for a time in silence. Presently Jean said: "Mollie Wilder and I have just one room up here, Phil. I'll be glad to have you come up if . . ."

"But we'll have to go some place to talk."

"How about a show. Any matinees?"

"What is to-day? Thursday? No, but we can go to a talkie. What difference does it make?"

"Not a bit, to me."

She turned toward the door. "I'll only be a minute. Don't run away."

He put a hand on her arm quickly and held her. "Tell me something. Do you love me?"

Standing on the step, she was as tall as he. "At this very moment," she said softly, putting her face dangerously close to his, "I do, Phil. But you'd have to know a lot about my very recent history to understand that. And it may not last."

In the doorway she looked back and blew him a kiss, and instantly disappeared into the dark hall.

Before ten o'clock that night Phillip had brought her back to her door once more, noticeably refreshed by this contact with the old life. It had been a delightful afternoon and evening, a tonic to her confused brain and jaded nerves. But when, with a last "Don't forget Christmas morning!" he had gone, Jean went to her room and to bed knowin that however much she cared for Phillip, her brief experience in New York had put something between them.

Every day I think that if life becomes any more involved, I will simply have to give up. And within twenty-four hours, the complications have doubled. I certainly wished on the right star the night Phil and I drove home from the football game. But when I wished for adventure I wasn't asking for carload lots of it delivered all at once. After an almost unbelieveable session with Lionel in a Chinese restaurant yesterday afternoon, I came home to find Phil waiting outside the house. We went to a talkie in the afternoon, had dinner on Seventh Avenue, and took in "Black Boy" at the Granby last night. The same old Phil, attentive and a darling, but . . . Something is happening to me. He didn't kiss me the whole time he was here and somehow I didn't mind. Could it be that New York is turning my head? At least half a dozen times he told me that he would be waiting Christmas morning with the marriage license and if he is? But what will I do about Lionel? He is in a dreadful predicament and wants me to pose as his wife while his folks are in New York. He told me yesterday that he had found his wife but that she refuses to live with him, even for the month that his parents are here. What a strange attitude toward marriage. Lionel's father was most distinguished looking. They must be fairly wealthy. But if I should agree to his plan, and then, when he had divorced his wife, decided I did not love him, what? It is all a terrible mess! I suppose I ought to feel flattered that I have two men anxious to marry me. But I'm afraid I don't. If Sandy would only hurry back, I could think more clearly. He gives me a sort of balance that I haven't without him.

It was after seven when Jean awoke next morning. Mollie was standing before the mirror pulling on her hat.

Jean sat up and saw Mollie's face in the mirror. Her eyes were red and under them were little dark crescents that she had attempted to cover with powder.

"Mollie!" Jean cried, suddenly crossing the room and putting an arm about her friend. "You've been crying!"

Mollie continued to stare in the mirror. "Don't be silly," she said trying to speak casually. "I've been getting too little sleep. Go on back to bed, honey."

"But, something's wrong, Mollie. It's in your eyes. Can't you tell me?"

Mollie pushed her away a little roughly. "You're cuckoo," she snapped. "I'm all right; but I mean to turn in early to-night. So long."

Jean was not deceived but she hesitated to say anything more. She wondered if something had happened at the store. Or perhaps, but the thought of Mollie worrying over her husband brought a smile to Jean's lips. Mollie wasn't that kind. She seemed to take the New Yorker's view of marriage, wed 'em and leave 'em. As Lionel had. Lionel's wife had left him, and, until his mother and father had come from Missouri to upset his plans, he had thought very little of his erstwhile bride. Mollie's husband worried her even less. She had left him and she apparently had forgotten him.

Jean's shoulders lifted meaningly. That wasn't her idea of marriage. When she went to the altar with a man, he was taking her for better or worse, and it would be worse for him if he ever tried to leave her.

When she had dressed she took a magazine from the table and stretched out on the bed again. Lionel had said he would drive by for her.

An hour later a knock brought her to her feet. "Just a minute!" she called out cheerily, and fastening a hook on the shoulder of her frock, ran to the mirror to rake a comb through her yellow hair.

Suddenly she was motionless, listening. Voices came to her from outside her door, men's voices. Then it wasn't Lionel. But who? The voices, still indistinct, grew in volume, as if raised in anger.

The broad light of day gave her courage. She crossed the floor boldly, and jerked the door open.

Lionel, red-faced, stepped in, or tried to; but immediately a long arm from behind grasped his shoulder and jerked him out again.

"Phil!" she cried. "I thought . . ."

But neither of them saw her. Pulled back into the hall, Lionel had suddenly struck out, his clenched fist landing solidly on Phillip's chin. Instantly Phillip was a maddened animal. With set jaw, he charged upon Lionel, his fists shooting out in rapid succession. Caught by the first blow, Lionel quickly jumped to one side and drew his fist back.

But the blow was never struck, for as the two men closed in and clinched, they discovered at the same instant that it was not each other that they tore at, but Jean, badly frightened, but determined.

Phillip, blind with rage, made an effort to push her aside roughly; but it was useless. She clung to him, saying nothing, but staring into his blurred eyes with all the hatred of her being.

Lionel was the first to speak. Adjusting his disarranged tie, he said quietly: "I'm very sorry, Jean. He was standing outside your door when I came up. I merely asked him if he was looking for someone. And he seemed to think I had insulted him."

"Was it any of your business what I was looking for?" Phillip shot at him, his eyes still blazing. "What are you coming up to a young lady's bedroom for?"

Lionel replied: "I might ask the same question of you?"

"I came up," Phillip said thickly, "because I, because this young lady is going to be my wife."

Lionel caught his breath sharply. He turned to Jean, the question in his eyes.

But Jean was staring curiously at Phillip, her head shaking slowly. "No, Phil," said Jean soberly. "I'm not going to be your wife. Not after this. Do you think I'll ever recover from the humiliation of having . . ."

Phillip interrupted angrily. "Who is this fellow?" he demanded.

"I won't make a ridiculous situation more impossible by introducing you. He's one of my two bosses at the office. Aside from that he's a friend of mine." And a moment later, "I thought you told me you were going back to Kelsey last night?"

Phillip's head gave a little upward jerk, a gesture of contempt. "Oh, I see. You thought you had me out of the way, so . . ."

Jean's blue eyes flashed fire. A slim hand shot out and pointed to the stairs. "Will you please leave here, at once!"

Phillip saw his mistake, too late. "Jean," pleading.

Abruptly Phillip swung about and walked off.

"Gee, but I'm sorry, Jean," Lionel said earnestly when Phillip had gone down the stairs. "I really am. Are you about ready to go to the office?"

Jean had stepped back into her room. Now she turned and looked at him coldly. "I'm not going to the office," she told him evenly. Not with you."

"But, good Lord! I . . ."

"You were as much to blame, as he was," she cut him off, and closed the door in his face.

Christmas Customs Come From Many Lands

2,000 YEARS BEFORE CHRIST SAME SPIRIT WAS TO BE FOUND

ORIGIN OF FESTIVAL.

[illegible] that ties the human race to any of its customs, that its many lands and peoples share in common, has been since time immemorial the keystone upon which has been built the whole structure of Christmas.

Back 2,000 years before the birth of the child Jesus in the stable at Bethlehem, there are historic evidences of the keeping of a season that was in spirit much like the essential character of the Christmas season that tradition has brought down to us, despite the natural inclination of the Christian world to date the great festival from the birth of Christ.

Authentic record of the actual date and season of the year in which the Christ was born has never, however, been established, and historians disagree as to them both. It was many years after his life on earth, however, before December 25th was fixed as the date for celebration of His birthday, and from that time on Christians united in accepting the day as sacred to His birth and to His service—the Christ-mas.

Forerunners of Carols.

Going back before the Christian era students of the festival have found trace that most of the nations of ancient time recognized the period of that which we know as the winter solstice as a season of rejoicing. The return march of the sun up into the heavens, and the season's turn from short days and long nights to days of lengthening light and warmth, impelled a natural demonstration of pleasure that it was so. The Roman Saturnalia, which fell at such a period, was such a festivity of rejoicing, marked by privileges and hailed as exempt from ills, with the spirit of mirth and unbounded license abroad everywhere, the hymns of this time to the sun were forerunners of our Christmas carols. Presents were passed from friend to friend, Gifts were made to the poor, quarrels forgotten and feuds ended.

In the northern countries of ancient Europe the god Thor was the object of similar celebration at the same season, the song, dance and feast universal and mingled with the savage religious rites. Some authorities find the origin of the word 'Yule' in the name of this celebration—"Yule", "Jule", "Jul", or "Jol".

Origin of Festival.

The Christian festival of the Nativity has incorporated the character of these early celebrations and appears to have been appointed very shortly after the establishment of a new religion. It is first definitely recorded in the history of the second century although there are indications that it was in order even earlier. Students of Christmas, while disagreeing upon the exact time of the birth of Jesus, agree that in the early years of the church there was a union celebration of the Nativity and the Epiphany in the belief that the birth of Jesus coincided with the appearance of a star in the East which revealed it to the Gentiles.

The word Kris' mas is held to be "Christ's mass", however, and the word Noel is from the French word "nouvelles' meaning tidings. Druids, Romans, Saxons, Jews, Anglo Saxons have all kept such a festival, marked in the days of the Romans by temporary equality of slaves and masters of the Druids by the use of evergreens and the mistletoe in temple rites, by the Jews with a dedication of their temples, and in the days of the Anglo-Saxons by the elaborate customs which have long endured and which marked the Middle Ages.

Crowned on Christmas Day.

A succession of Roman emperors that began with Charlemagne was crowned on Christmas Day, including Alfred the Great (whose defeat by the Danish host is held to have happened because he would not interrupt himself and court in their twelve-days' celebration of the season even with the enemy horde at the gates, the Danish king Edward, and Edward I the Confessor and his son Harold, whose coronation took place together with the consecration of Westminster Abbey in 1066.

The next Christmas day saw William the Conqueror crowned there, but it was in the days of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries when "Merrie England's" Christmas celebrations rose to their height of splendor with their Anglo Saxon rites and customs. It was then that baronial castle and manor house rang with the merriment of the season, and every village inn kept hospitable cheer. The Yule log roared and the wassail bowl was everywhere. The ale went round and the sugar-and-cinnamon sweetened-water toast hailed friend to friend. Old Father Christmas rode his goat through the streets of the city and the lanes of the villages, and as he rested at the hearth from house to house, his kind hearted sons looked in upon the poor.

Virginians Observed Day.

It was by way of the Virginias that Christmas observance came to America, and in England the restoration of the royal family to the throne restored the rites of Christmas there. It was not until 1659, however, that the law against its celebration was repealed in New England. With this halting by the Puritans the Christmas festival began a languishing from the immense elaborateness of its earlier celebrations that has gradually grown, but Christmas, one truly believes, will never become extinct. Amid changing custom the spirit of the season still survives, and while uproarious merriment may have passed by the board, the period of its commemoration continues to exist as a time of celebration all over the civilized world.

Northern Germany holds the faith that Mary and the Christ child pass through the lanes and streets on Christmas Eve, and in Austria arises our adopted custom of placing candles in the windows Christmas Eve—that the Christ Child passing by in darkened ways might not stumble.

Paris has originated a more secular celebration of Christmas Eve staging its "revillion" in cafes with its climax in midnight Christmas supper. In Russia "Koleuda" comes with its Christmas Eve procession through the streets its carol-singing for coppers, the masquerading of revelers as animals, significant of the manger, and with its trees in the homes of noblemen.

Scandinavia has given us many a Christmas custom. Peace prevails for all the season there, with old feuds forgotten. There the shoes of the family are set in a row with their retiring, that its members might live in peace throughout the year to come. There is found the Yule log, the dancing and the skating, and it was a custom of long-standing in other years, and may still be followed in parts of the peninsula, to celebrate the season with the yearly bath, the great wash tub dragged out into the center of the house for the series of ablutions. Candles burn all night for "Kristine" who brings the gifts, there are games until the carolers burst in upon the revelers, masked performance and pantomime and mock military drills.

Many countries claim the Christmas tree. In Scandinavia there is the legend of the "service" tree supposed to have sprung from the soil where a pair of lovers were killed by violence, and where the tree mysteriously appears with its myriads of lights at the Christmas time when no winds blow. A thirteenth century romance features the gigantic tree ablaze with burning candles found by a questing hero, with the haloed child shining at its top, the whole flamea with candles, the tree significant of mankind,e the candles of humans, good or bad, th child of the Christ Child. Germany, keeping Christmas, often welcomes its guests with green branches ornamented with lighted candles. One of the loveliest of its legends tells that Martin Luther walking over the snowy winter hills at night and observing the beauty of the glittering stars against the dark, set up for his children a tiny fir, with candles representing the stars.

Celebration in Egypt.

Back so far as the time of ancient Egypt is traced the origin of the custom of decking our homes with greens, for then branches of the date palm were hung in homes during the winter solstice, symbolic of "life triumphant", the symbol that our Christmas greens to-day interpret.

It was during the reign of Queen Victoria and her marriage to a German prince that the custom of the Christmas tree was brought into England, and German emigrants brought it to America.

Carols had their beginning back to a few centuries after the birth of Christ when bishops sang them in the churches to their clergy. Not until the 16th century did they take the finish and form in which we hear them sung. They then became festal chants introduced by the Norman French into England, but repudiated by the Puritans along with Christmas. The ballad form appeared about this time, and it was then that the "waits" made their rounds of the homes before dawn on Christmas morning, singing in payment for coins. The word carols comes from the Latin cantare (to sing) and rola! (the interjection of joy).

The Christmas card originated in England in 1840 as a successor to the "Christmas piece," a roll of ornamental paper note paper bearing greetings from engraver's apprentices to their friends. One Thomas Sharrock is credited with originating the first Christmas card, but the first one of which a copy exists was by Sir Henry Cole and 1,000 impressions of it were lithographed and hand-colored for sale in London. It was not until 1881, however, that the card was revived and reprinted in color process for general use, and from that time the popularity of the card rose rapidly. Kate Greenaway was but one of the celebrated artists who received good prices for original paintings for cards. Cards were fringed and frosted and padded and scented (those made of silk), and their subjects were generally children, kittens, puppies, sprays of flowers and scenes. Then, sa later, the religious card was not so generally procurable. America originated the more generous use of holly and mistletoe on cards, and added the poinsetta because of its seasonableness and color, in the 1890's.

CONFIDENCE PAIR TRICK VETERAN

German Loses Six Years Savings in Vancouver on Flim-flam Game.

Planned Home For Mother.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 10 — His dreams of a quiet little home in his native Wurtembourg shattered, Paul Fellger, 38, German war veteran, today found his dreams during six years' toil in Western Canada, would never come true as he realized all his savings had been stolen from him by two confidence men who met him the day before he was to sail from Vancouver for his homeland.

Fellger came to Canada in April, 1924, vowing to work and save in order that he could go back to Germany and build a home for himself and aged mother. During all these years Fellger shepherd sheep on the Prairies. Everything was sacrificed by the determined war veteran, even necessities, so that his bank savings might grow, faster. A stout pair of well made army shoes had done him service all the time, and not once did he take a day off for recreation in either Cardston or Lethbridge, the two nearest cities to the ranch where he was employed.

Had $3,300 in Bank

As a result he saved enough to buy his ticket home by way of Vancouver and the Panama Canal, and had $3,300 to his credit in a Lethbridge bank.

Arriving at Vancouver Fellger fell victim to an old established "flim-flam" game hinging on race horses by two slick partners in the Pacific Coast city who then shipped the still unsuspecting sheepman to this city where he made his complaint to the police.

Fellger said he had served in the Great War with the 121st Wurtenburgers. Two hours after arriving at the front on August 21, 1914, he lost his right arm. Since then he had a pension of $10 a month.

He has worked on ranches in Western Canada ever since arriving. His latest job being with W. E. Pitcher, near Cardston, Alta. His average pay cheque was $50 each month.

SCOTCH RELICS TO BE SHOWN.

Many relics and heirlooms rich in tradition are to be lent by prominent Scotch families for the Exhibition of Scottish Art and Treasures in London in February. The Countess of Lufthgow is lending a jeweled stomacher and a rope of pearls which were the property of Mary Queen of Scots. The Earl of Airlie will lend the Garter Ribbon of Prince Charlie, and Lady Carmichael will supply the cap worn by Charles I. when he went to the scaffold, a handkerchief, and his beautifully illuminated Prayer Book. One section of the exhibition will be devoted to weapons of different periods. Hugh Walpole, the novelist, is lending the death mask of Sir Walter Scott, and there will be relics of Robert the Bruce, John Knox and Burns.

Britain's oldest married couple, Mr. and Mrs. William Walker, who are 91 and 92 respectively, recently celebrated their seventy-third wedding anniversary at Wainfleet, England.

17TH CENTURY ART OF HOLLAND AND FLANDERS STUDIED BY CLUB

Miss S. A. Tompkins Read Interesting Paper to Art Study Club.

FLANDERS' GOLDEN AGE.

"Seventeenth Century Art in Holland and Flanders," was the subject of a very interesting paper given by Miss S. A. Tomkins to the members of the Art Study Club of the Lyceum Women's Art Association, at their last regular meeting.

In opening her address, Miss Tomkins said:

"As every advance in any department of life is built on what has already been done—so seventeenth century art had its foundation in the work of the earlier artists. In the fifteenth century, Flemish art was superior to Italian, but in the sixteenth century, Italian art rose to such supreme heights that it influenced the Flemings until it finally carried away the whole school and they became Italianized, and the group was called Romanists—the Bril family only remaining Flemish. Nevertheless, they prepared the way for Rubens. In the second half of the sixteenth century, another change detached them further from the Old Flemish and also separated them from the Italians and this renewed real originality. Color resumed its important function towards the end of the sixteenth century. Otto Venius led in developing a taste for more realistic art. He was the third and only master that Rubens had.

Portraiture remained truer to Flemish instincts and landscapes to some extent, and these two finally delivered Flanders from Italian influence. Natural attitudes, luminosity, brilliant color, delicate technique, were characteristics of Flemish art.

Flander's Golden Age

"It was in the school of painting that Flanders once again covered herself with glory in the seventeenth century, and perhaps it might all be encompassed by one word—Rubens. With him the new golden age began."

Miss Tomkins went on to outline in detail the career and work of Peter Paul Rubens, so called because he was born on the feast day of St. Peter and St. Paul. Then came sketches of his contemporary, Snyder, and his pupils, of whom Van Dyck was the greatest. "But Rubens' pupils failed to retain individuality. It seems as though he absorbed all their best—and left them empty."

Then came the portion of the paper dedicated to the Dutch School. "In 1600 the tide turned for Holland against Spain, after thirty years of war. In 1609, when Hals was twenty-five and Rembrandt three years old, the Dutch were strong enough to wring recognition of their religious and trading freedom. Spiritual fervor caused by outside oppression was followed by combative dogmas at home. Prosperity followed trade and the zenith in wealth and art was reached. Success, as ever, took away the stimulus of the life and death struggle and lost them the sympathy of other powers. The nation waxed energy in jealousies at home and in commercial wars and lost their power and position. They emerged again in 1678 with triumph—when Rembrandt, Hals, Vermeer, Metsu were dead — Steen dying—Cuyp Ruisdael, DeKooch in decline—and there was no fresh talent, let alone genius, at hand—and by the end of the seventeenth century, Holland, with its simplicity of taste vanquished by ostenation, had degenerated into the art of Mieres, Van der Werff, Van der Heyden, Netschu. A nation gets the art it deserves. Rembrandt-Hals-Vermeenr — DeKooch, Cuyp-Ruisdael—De Koninch, were particular channels for the expression of the country's general greatness of soul. The pettiness of later artists was caused by the materialistic spirit of the time. The public was very niggardly in patronage of great men and they all died neglected, and later generations discovered their greatness."

Miss Tomkins outlined here the general characteristics of the artists of the Dutch School, concluding with the paragraph:

"We began with Rubens—we close with Rembrandt. Both Roman Catholic Flanders and Protestant Holland had their periods of vision on the mountain top. Perhaps the latter had the clearer view. Both came down, and as before, failed to bring the vision to meet everyday life."

SOCIETY AVIATRIX AFTER NEW MARK

FOUGHT MOUNTAIN STORM.

WICHITA, Kas., Dec. 10. — Miss Ruth Nichols, Rye, N.Y., society girl and flier, hoped to reach Roosevelt Field to-day in a single hop, completing her west-east transcontinental attempt to better the mark established by Mrs. Keith-Miller.

Reaching Wichita from Los Angeles without a stop yesterday Miss Nichols consumed seven hours and one minute, or nearly an hour more than the single hop record for the distance which was established by Capt Frank Hawks. Her time was six minutes more than the single hop mark for the route of Colonel Charles Lindbergh and his wife, Anne.

Aviation experts considered Miss Nichol's time remarkable since she battled a Rocky Mountain storm which forced her to ascend 20,000 feet.

The society girl-flier said last night weather conditions would govern the time of her take-off to-day.

25 NEW TOWERS TO BE ERECTED

Will Be Placed in Northern Ontario For Observation Purposes.

BUILT THIS WINTER.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 10. (CP)—Announcement has been made by the Provincial Forestry Department that 25 new steel towers for observation work will be erected in strategic positions in Northern Ontario this winter.

The department is also considering installing additional short wave radio stations to provide swift communication with outlying points.

Three of the new towers will be erected in the North Bay district, four in Sudbury district, five in Kenora district, five in Thunder Bay district, three in Oba district and one each in Algonquin Park, Sault Ste Marie, Georgian Bay and Cochrane districts. There are 146 towers at present in use. Telephone communication will be installed installed in each structure.

The department is considering the use of wireless in planes, a practice which has already been tried with success. Communication between aeroplanes in flight and the land would be invaluable in emergencies, it was stated.

LONDON SUSPECT WANTED IN LINDSAY

LINDSAY, Dec. 10. — (Examiner Correspondence.) — The arrest in London Ont., of Lang, on a charge of forgery, who has also many aliases, recalls the activities of that individual in Lindsay a little over a year ago. Lang, it is alleged, succeeded in passing two cheques during his brief stay in town. He visited the Dominion bank and forged the name of Moffatt to a Tech Hughes cheque for $105.00. He next visited the Bank of Montreal and put over another cheque for a smaller amount. He was a suave, affable individual, and did not linger long after securing the money. According to the police Lang has passed about fifty of these cheques in different parts of the country, which, it is alleged, he secured by robbing apartment houses and other places in Toronto.

He presented one of these cheques to a teller in one of the banks at London. The latter immediately notified the police and Lang was placed under arrest. A copy of the forged signature has been forwarded to Lindsay, where it has been recognized as similar to the one on the cheques passed here.

A BEDTIME STORY

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S GOLF GAME.

One day Uncle Wiggily stood at the front window of his bungalow looking out. There was a little snow on the ground, but not enough to make a big snowball a snow man or a snow fort.

"In fact," said Uncle Wiggily, speaking out loud, "there isn't enough snow to stop me from playing golf if I wanted to."

"Don't tell me you are going to start in at the beginning of winter to play golf!" exclaimed Mrs. Longears who was mending Uncle Wiggily's socks and who heard what he said. "The idea! Just when other rabbits are putting away their clubs and their knickers and big stockings you start in talking about golf!"

"Oh, I didn't mean to start out now and play a big game of golf," said Uncle Wiggily. "I was thinking of this new kind, garden golf, baby golf or Tom Thumb golf, whatever you want to call it. I could sort of make a baby golf game right in my yard here, before the snow gets too deep."

"Oh, if you mean that kind all right," spoke Uncle Wiggily's wife. "I'm in favor of that. But what will you do for golf balls?"

"I think I could make some snowballs hard enough, so I could knock them around a bit," Mr. Longears said. "You know in this new baby golf game you don't need to hit the balls as hard as you do in a big, long golf course. You just tap them. Of course a snowball would never last in a regular golf game. But for Tom Thumb it's all right."

"And what will you do for clubs?" asked Nurse Jane, who was using the new feather broom on the end of her tail to dust the piano. Nurse Jane was like one of the family. Uncle Wiggily and his wife didn't mind her joining in their talk. So Nurse Jane asked about clubs.

"Fore!" called Uncle Wiggily.

"I only need one club," Mr. Longears answered. "That's all the players use in baby golf. I have an old red, white and blue striped rheumatism crutch somewhere around the bungalow; haven't I, Nurse Jane?"

"Yes," the muskrat lady housekeeper answered. "It's one I gnawed for you out of a corn stalk."

"That will do very well for my new golf game," said the rabbit.

Soon Uncle Wiggily was in the yard laying out his baby golf course. He swept the snow aside, making many paths. Then he found some of his rabbit children's old toys of which they had become tired and used them to make traps, or hard places for him to drive his golf snowballs through.

"For hole number one," said Uncle Wiggily as he swept clean the first path, "I'll use this old jumping Jack of baby Bunty's." He put the Jack upright on the path, his legs far apart so a ball would roll between them, and unless Uncle Wiggily drove his ball straight, the Jack would lean over and catch hold of it in his wooden hands.

"That's a good obstacle for my golf game," murmured Mr. Longears. Nurse Jane had given him some old tea cups which he sunk here and there about the yard for holes into which to knock the golf snowballs.

On hole two Uncle Wiggily put an old Noah's Ark that Jingle, one of his rabbit girls, had thrown away. There was a hole in one end and another hole in the roof of the little wooden houseboat.

"So if I drive my golf snowbal inlto the Ark and it pops out of the roof, that will be a fine shot!" chuckled Mr. Longears.

On hole three the bunny gentleman put a little old sea saw teeter tauter game which Jangle had tossed aside. Once two little rabbit dolls used to teeter up and down on the tauter. But the dolls had broken off and now it was just a piece of wood, that moved up and down.

"I'll drive a ball up the down end of the sea saw, it will roll to the middle and off the other end and into the cup," thought the bunny. "I'll have a swell Tom Thumb golf course here pretty soon."

So Uncle Wiggily worked away until he had his garden golf course all laid out with many old toys for obstacles. Then he made himself some round, hard balls of snow and took his old rheumatism crutch for a putter and he began to play.

"Fore!" called Uncle Wiggily as he teed his snowball on the end of the first snow swept path. "Look out, jumping Jack!" The rabbit drove the ball right between Jack's legs. Jack made a grab for it but missed and Uncle Wiggily found the ball down in the cup.

"Ha! Ha! A hole in one!" cried the delighted rabbit. Then he went to hole two, to drive the ball through the old Noah's Ark. This time he didn't call "Fore!" which means "Look out!" But he suddenly banged the snowball. He hit it hard. It went up in the air instead of rolling in the end and out of the roof of the Noah's Ark, and then some one yelled.

"Ouch! Oh, my eye!" Mr. Twistytail, the pig, coming along just then, caught the snowball on his left eye.

"Oh, I'm so sorry!" said Mr. Longears. "I didn't mean that!"

"I know it, so I'll forgive you!" grunted the pig. "And I'll play golf with you. It's lots of fun."

Merrily the game went on and Mr. Longears won. But perhaps this was because Mr. Twistytail could only see out of one eye. Anyhow they had a good time.

SALFORD HALTS RELIEF SCHEMES

English Borough Resolves to Suspend All Capital Expenditure For Year.

MANCHESTER, England, Dec. 10—(C.P.)—Salford, the big borough adjoining Manchester which in everything except name and administrative purposes is really part of this city, has resolved to suspend all capital expenditure for twelve months. The effect is that all development and unemployment relief schemes have been suspended or abandoned.

Salford local taxes amount to 17 shillings in the pound and it is asserted another three shillings would be necessary to carry out present programmes. This would mean a rate of assessment of 20 shillings in the pound. For fifty years Salford has opposed amalgamation with Manchester, though there are strong reasons for believing that Salford, with it low rateable taxation value, is in an unfair position compared with its bigger neighbor.

Such amalgamations however have always been stoutly resisted. Bootle, for instance, strongly objects to amalgamation with Liverpool.

BRIBERY AT POLLS BLIGHT ON HONOR

Corruption Increased Since Women Given Franchise Says Liberal Club Head.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 10. (CP)—Miss Anne E. Stuart of Grand Pre, N.S., president of the King's County Women's Liberal Club, is authority for the statement that since women were given the franchise there is much more corruption surrounding election. Addressing the annual meeting of the Ottawa Women's Liberal Club she said "surely there must be some way to overcome these practices."

Miss Stuart spoke at length of "the dreadful blight to honor and citizenship which is being created by bribery." She had been told by one Nova Scotia woman that it was necessary to fight the devil with his own weapons. This mode of warfare was deprecated by the speaker.

The true spirit of Liberalism, Miss Stuart concluded, was that British fair play be given to all.

Mrs. A. J. Major was elected 1931 President of the Ottawa Club.

Perform Operation On Finlayson To-Day

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 10. (CP)—A major operation will be performed upon Hon. William Finlayson, Minister of Lands and Forests for Ontario, in Toronto General Hospital to-day.

Overwork is believed to have brought about the illness. For some time Mr. Finlayson's health has not been of the best but he remained at his desk and attended to the affairs of his department as usual, as well as making extensive trips throughout Ontario.

Illegal Operation Costs Woman 7 Years

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 10. (CP)—Found guilty of manslaughter in connection with an illegal operation, Mrs. Antonina Syncurizowa alias Hespner, was sentenced to four years in Portsmouth penitentiary by Mr. Justice Raney last night, sentence to date from the time of her arrest last January. The jury accompanied their verdict with a strong recommendation for mercy.

The case arose from the death of Mrs. Mary Bereba on January last following an illegal operation.

WALTER F. ELLIS.

HAVELOCK, Dec. 10.—The funeral was held on December 2nd, of Walter F. Ellis, fourth son of Mr. and Mrs. William Ellis of Rockdale, who died following an accident, in his twenty-third year.

The deceased man was brought up with the family of his uncle, Mr. F. C. Steneburgh of Rockdale and was much liked and respected in the community. He was a member of the Free Methodist Church at the time of Rev. F. Loft's ministry.

Following the death of his brother, Oscar, some years ago, Walter went to work with his brother, Carmine. This autumn he came north to Detroit to work for the Johnson Company once again, where he was engaged in relining a salt mine shaft. The work was superintended by his uncle, Walter Steenburgh. On November 26, while engaged on this task, he was seriously injured when the "skip" or bucket was descending He was removed to Delray Industrial Hospital, and his parents were notified.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis and their son, Frank, in the company of Mr. H. Little, a neighbour, undertook the journey to Detroit and were able to see the deceased before he lapsed into unconsciousness. He died on November 29th.

The body was brought to the deceased man's home community for burial, where the service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Kay assisted by Rev. Bretheren Bosco, Goodrich, and Moffatt. Interment took place at Rockdale Cemetery. The funeral was under the auspices of the Loyal Orange Lodge of which the late Mr. Ellis was a member.

ANGLICAN GUILD HOLDS BAZAAR

COLORFULLY DECORATED.

OMEMEE, Dec. 10.—(Examiner Correspondence). — The Woman's Guild of the Anglican church held its annual bazaar on Friday afternoon, in the basement of the church, a large crowd attended during the afternoon and evening.

The basement was artistically decorated and on entering the 'country store' was first visited. This booth was in charge of Mrs. J. Bannon, Mrs. George McQuade and Miss Atwell. Here all good things to eat, consisting of cream, fresh eggs, fowl etc. The 'men's booth' which had in store grain, vegetables, apples, etc., donated by the men of the congregation and was in charge of Mrs. Middleton, Mrs. F. Bent and Miss Essie Woods. On the opposite side of the basement the fancy work was located, beautiful needlework was on display and was in charge of Mrs. Gowans, Mrs. Jamieson and the Misses A. Stephenson, S. Clarke and M. Thorne. The "apron booth" was well visited and was carefully looked after by Mrs. R. Stinson, Mrs Deyell and Miss M. Bannon.

The children were not forgotten. Mrs. V. Jones had a well-filled fish pond. When the children all had great fun and no disappointment was encountered as every child caught a fish.

The tea room was in charge of Mrs. George Fee, Mrs. Newman, Mrs. Clementt, Mrs. James and Miss L. Fee and were assisted by a number of girls. The tables were decorated with baby mums and were well laden with all good things to eat The ladies were very pleased with this very successful bazaar, netting them more than two hundred dollars.

The A.Y.P.A. of Christ's Church held its weekly meeting, the president, H. Hill, taking the opening exercises, and Mrs. Audrey Weir in charge of the meeting, which took the form of a musical night, and the following program was given: "The life of Mozart", by B. Stephenson; "The Twelfth Mass" was played by Miss Curry; "Song Without Words", Miss Audrey Weir; reading on the life of Handel, Miss Mildred Jones; "Gavotte in B Flat Minor", was played by Miss Audrey Weir; "Scenes from Alice in Wonderland", by Miss Helen Johnson; "The Life of Beethoven", was taken by Mrs. F. Bent; "Minuet in G" was then played by Miss Curry, and a history of the authors of our hymns by Miss Audrey Weir brought the program to a close after which group contests were enjoyed.

Plan Used In Europe

Owen D. Young, whose war debt settlement plans is now operative in Europe, has, although avoiding any direct statement as to economic or moral justice of the plan, upon his recent return from abroad made the plea that America should turn a sympathetic ear to any suggestions for readjustments debts in these times.

FOG NOT DEADLY IF UNPOLLUTED

Belgian Professor's Emphatic Declaration Rouses Keen Interest.

EXPERIMENTS CONTINUE.

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Dec. 10 (C.P.). —An emphatic declaration that the fog in the Meuse Valley which took 67 lives last week could not have killed anyone if it had been uncontaminated was made to-day by Prof. Nolf, president of the Belgian Red Cross, at the opening of an official inquiry into the disaster.

His statement aroused lively interest, for it gave some support to a belief that noxious fumes from industrial plants in the Engis district were responsible for the deaths. The Health Commission, after a hurried investigation last week, announced that the deaths were attributable to the weakened respiratory system of the victims.

Members of that Commission who sat with the board convening to-day said their work had been difficult because by the time they reached the Engis area the fog had disappeared.

It was expected that the sessions of the new investigating commission would be protracted, for it probably will be necessary to conduct a series of laboratory experiments.

Stubborn Coughs Ended by Recipe, Mixed at Home

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up a stubborn, lingering cough. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs little, but it gives real relief even for those dreaded coughs that follow severe cold epidemics.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a 16 oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. Thus you make 16 ounces of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and tastes so good that even children like it.

Not only does this simple mixture soothe and heal the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease, but also it is absorbed into the blood, and acts directly upon the bronchial tubes, thus aiding the whole system in throwing off the cough. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of distressing coughs, chest colds, and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Our Mail

Conducted by ANNE WILCOX

Dear Anne:

I once lived near and was lucky enough to be a friend of your correspondent, "High Flyer" but she left us. Now she doesn't even write to tell us anything. Probably Joe is still on the sick list. It is not Sonny for I see him at play, it may be that she is snowed under. She's tiny you know, but here's hoping she gets busy and gives us all a line.

I would like Christmas gift suggestions for a grown up family if possible.

I made a crumb cake this morning and it's so good I'll ask you to print it for others for Christmas.

Sincerely,
COUSIN OF HIGH FLYER.

How would you like to give a family gift? By the time you purchased gifts for all the adult members of the family you could have enough money to purchase some articles for the home—a fireside chair, lamp or something the entire family might use. We are delighted to hear from a new friend and hope High Flyer will see it and let us hear from her soon again. I hope she is not ill, and now that the snow has all gone, she can't be 'snowed under!' Thank you very much for the recipe.

Dear Anne:

Here's wishing the neighbors a joyful Christmas and not forgetting yourself. Like you I'd like letters from each and all. Write them yourself? Ay, that's the rub when you are all cooped up.

Well, anyway, beloved neighbor, 'Let us love, for love is rest, and he who loveth not remains unblest.'

God bless you all.

TINY TIM

I don't think you are a new neighbor, are you? Somehow your writing seems familiar. Thank you for your good wishes and would like to hear from you again.

The big match will require the support of every person in the district and every man interested in good plowing is urged to be present at the annual meeting.

Madoc

MADOC, Dec. 10—(Examiner Correspondence).—The Woman's Missionary Society of Trinity United Church met at the home of Mrs. F. E. Brown for the December meeting on Thursday, 4th, with a good attendance, Mrs. S. S. Ashley in the chair. After singing of "Rejoice, the Lord is King", and Scripture reading, followed by prayer, the business of the month was disposed of, and reports received, after which Mrs. C. N. Whytock and Mrs. Nickle had charge of the program.

A devotional leaflet, "Give us this day our daily bread," was given by Mrs. Whytock, and a beautiful solo, "The Gift," by Mrs. A. Kincaid, was much enjoyed by all. Chapters two and three of the study book, "Fruits of Christian Missions in Japan," was taken by Mrs. Nickle. A very brief review of Chapter I, "Japan's position in the modern world" was given, followed by the historical review of Christian work in Japan, and the part taken by the Candian Church and by the W.M.S. then some of the social problems of the Japanese workers.

Short prayers were offered by Mesdames Rivers, Dingman, and Huffman, and a few verses of Christian hymns and the Mizpah Benediction closed a profitable afternoon. A social half-hour was enjoyed at the close.

• More proof that children take cod-liver oil willingly—this emulsified way

LIKE so many other youngsters, David McCoy, pictured above, hates plain cod-liver oil. His mother admitted it frankly when the Scott's Emulsion reporter recently called at her home at 187 Sackville St., Toronto. But Mrs. McCoy was anxious to see if David would feel any differently about Scott's Emulsion of Cod-Liver Oil, so she gladly consented to let him try it.

David took a spoonful. Then he grinned. . . . "Say, I do like this," he said. "It tastes good!"

Pleasanter to take—but that isn't all!

Pale, underweight, run-down children — they need cod-liver oil. Give it to them the pleasantest way—give them Scott's Emulsion.

Scott's Emulsion doesn't upset even delicate stomachs. It brings you purest, Norwegian cod-liver oil in its pleasantest form—a perfect emulsion. Easier to take—easier to digest. You get more good out of Scott's Emulsion and you feel the benefits quicker.

Scott's Emulsion contains no alcohol. It is rich in vitamin A, the growth-promoting vitamin that helps guard against disease. It is rich in vitamin D, the sunshine vitamin that prevents rickets. It also contains vital minerals that aid in forming sound bones and teeth. This gives Scott's Emulsion a special advantage for growing children, infants, nursing and expectant mothers.

The members of Otonabee Lodge, No. 13, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, who came home—at the invitation of their mother lodge—to receive honorable recognition of their long continued membership, included Brothers Thomas H. Sills, P.G., one of the most active workers in the lodge when a resident here, as Degree Captain and Financial Secretary, and now residing in Niagara Falls, Ont.; George W. Might (Tiney) of North Toronto, an engineer in the employ of the C.N.R., a veteran in every sense of the word, one who when the call came for volunteers for Africa was one of the first to respond, and when the second call came for overseas volunteers, quietly stepped off his engine, enlisted amongst the foremost, came back again safely, and went to work as if nothing unusual had happened, and at this time is fit, and should the third call came, he is liable to do it again. Thomas Henderson of Toledo, who holds a responsible position with the Overland Company, also came through for the presentation, and was warmly welcomed by the Old Boys. Brothers R. C. Gibbs and F. A. Tully of Vancouver, B.C., were unable to be present, owing to being so far from home, but will receive their jewels through one of their local lodges. Brother W. Dixon Jewett, P.G. of Cannington, Ont., a former active member of the lodge, was a welcome visitor to his mother lodge, as was also Past Grand Master James A. Tully of Alberta Lodge No. 1, Calgary, Alta., and now residing in Toronto. Visitors, members of outside lodges included Bros. J. M. Brooks, Corinthian Lodge, No. 61, Oshawa; J. A. Anderson, Peaceful Dove Lodge, No. 135, Cannington; C. H. Puill, Niagara Falls, Ont.; G. H. Butler, Samaritan Lodge, No. 27, Detroit, Michigan; E. A. Drader, Sydenham Valley, No. 120, Wallaceburg, Ont.; N. J. M. Lockhart, Grand Master, Empire, No. 87, St. Catharines, Ont.

Among the members who sent their regrets at their inability to be present were Brother George J. Early of Cannigton, a charter member of the lodge, and who next year is eligible for the fifty year "honorable veteran jewel" and whom the boys of Otonabee Lodge are all hoping to have with them on that auspicious occasion as he was one of the mainsprings of of good old Otonabee Lodge No. 13. Brother George B. Van Blaricom, a former editor of The Peterborough Review and now editor of The Canadian Lumberman, also forwarded his regrets at his inability to be present, and to quote his words, "Trusted that the event may pass off successfully and that old Otonabee may go marching on triumphantly until it reaches its Golden Jubilee, two years hence, when we will all be on hand to proclaim the joyful tidings." Brother William S. Robinson, also a former active worker of the lodge, expressed his regrets at not being able to be present, stating "that if not present with you in body I shall be with you in spirit." Regret was expressed by all on learning of the serious illness of three of the senior members of Otonabee Lodge, namely Bros. Frank E. Mackay, P.G., former editor of The Evening Daily Review, and one of the most energetic workers in the lodge in the days gone by, as was also Bro. Thomas Armstrong, P.G., who is also seriously ill, and a telegram from Montreal advises that Brother Joseph H. Louden is dying in the General Hospital there. This news was learned with deep regret by all who had the great pleasure of associating with these members in their years of former activities in the lodge.

ZULU DANCE CAPTURES PARIS.

Paris society has adopted for its favorite dance this season one which was originated by a Zulu tribe. It is called the Moochi, and was imported by a dancing pair who introduced the Charleston into France. They toured Africa last summer and were present at a Zulu war dance. After listening for hours to the beating of drums and watching the native dancers, they managed to catch the trick rhythm and were also able to imitate it successfully. The ballroom version of the Moochi has been somewhat modified from the Zulu dance. The music is three-four time, and the dance has something of a fox trot "atmosphere."

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

A few days ago we were discussing the making of Christmas gifts, among these being kitchen curtains, towels, etc.

• • • • • • •

And today we will discuss first the making of a bean bag or soft ball for a little child. This, you will find, is made from a dish design.

• • • • • • •

Cut two circles from cloth having them a little larger than the dish outline to allow for seams. On one trace the dish and outline the design.

• • • • • • •

Seam the two circles together all except sufficient space to stuff in the beans, the cotton wadding, bran or whatever filling is to be used. Complete the seam and the toy is finished.

• • • • • • •

By making the back of the head of some soft rough textile in black, brown, tan grey or white, the head is given a more realistic appearance.

• • • • • • •

A set of four or six bags or balls of this sort with a painted wooden box cover having a hole a little larger than the balls cut in the centre makes a bean bag set for a child that will be sure to please.

• • • • • • •

The board can be rested on books at one end to give it a slant when the game is played. Or a narrow piece of box can be hinged on one end under the top portion. To make this set even finer, have three or five holes of varying sizes cut in the top.

• • • • • • •

Mark beneath the smallest one 20, the medium sized ones 10 and the largest 5, indicating the credits to be scored by getting the balls into the respective holes.

• • • • • • •

For a rag-a-muffin doll use a dish pattern, transferring the features only to unbleached cotton cloth. The dish pattern I have in mind is the one representing the dish running away from the spoon.

• • • • • • •

Make the circle a trifle larger than the dish outlines and extend two lines below the mouth to indicate the neck. Cut out the head and neck portions in one piece.

• • • • • • •

Embroider the features. Use beads or small buttons for the eyes or work them in French knots.

• • • • • • •

The back of the head is made as follows: Cut a pice of unbleached cotton cloth the same size and shape as the face and neck portion.

• • • • • • •

Fold the back portion in half and crease it hard. Use yarn in either black or yellow for the hair, cutting it into 14-inch lengths. Place a number of thicknesses on the back-of-the-head portion, having strands extend perpendicularly.

• • • • • • •

Run a basting thread around the head to hold the strands in place and machine stitch close to the edge.

• • • • • • •

Position the front head portion, face down, over the hair side of the back portion and machine stitch around it and the neck portion, leaving the end of the neck unstitched.

• • • • • • •

Turn the head right side out. The hair will be securely held in place and the part of it that is on the wrong side will help stuff the head.

• • • • • • •

Use cotton batting for the rest of the filling. Divide the hair into two equal portions and braid in two braids. Fasten the stuffed neck to the body of a doll and bring one braid down over each shoulder.

FARM WOMEN URGE FOR WORLD PEACE

President Claims One of First Lessons to Learn is Pride in Their Calling.

TORONTO, Ont., December 10 (C. P.). — One of the first lessons farm women have to learn is pride in their calling. This was the injunction of Mrs. R. Wyman of Thesalon, president of the United Farm Women of Ontario, who welcomed more than 200 delegates to the 13th annual meeting of the association here.

The stand taken by the Women's Institutes on Cadet training was criticized by Mrs. J. Alexander Wallace, Simcoe, in the citizenship report.

Defeat of a resolution opposing Cadet training in the public schools at the convention of Women's Institutes last week, was not a little disappointing, Mrs. Wallace said. She said Institutes did not realy represent the rural thought of the country as they were largely composed of town women and were dominated by political and urban influence. Her opinion was endorsed by the meeting.

A petition for world peace was introduced by Miss M. J. Macpherson, Toronto, secretary, and accepted by the meeting. It was presented to the members by the Calgary Local of the United Farm Women of Alberta, to be forwarded eventually to the Premier of Canada.

The petition registered a protest against the spirit of war and requested those signing it to pledge themselves to do everything in their power to abolish war and by thought and deed to foster in their homes and communities a spirit of goodwill towards people of every race and creed.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D

STOMACH ULCER VERY COMMON.

You sometimes hear that one of your friends has stomach ulcer, or ulcer of first part of small intestine into which the stomach empties.

An ulcer on the arm or leg that you can see is bad enough, but to have an ulcer right on the lining of the stomach would seem to be a serious matter.

Now ulcer of the stomach is a serious matter, and yet as a matter of fact it occurs in about 10 people in every hundred.

Fortunately just as an ulcer elsewhere in the body will heal if properly treated, so also will an ulcer of the stomach.

Now what causes a stomach ulcer?

There are three factors entering into the cause. First, the gastric juice itself which contains pepsin and hydrochloric acid. Second, some injury to the lining of the stomach wall which allows the pepsin and hydrochloric acid to damage it. Third, any condition that lowers the general resistance of the patient such as anaemia, infected teeth and tonsils, emotional disturbance and so forth.

Fortunately half the ulcers heal themselves because the patient will do without food for two or three meals or will eat small soft meals, that give the stomach a rest.

If the ulcer persists then medical treatment must be used, which consists for the most part of the use of baking soda or other alkali, and liquid or soft meals.

This may mean weeks or months of treatment, depending on the patience and obedience to instructions on the part of the patient.

And the big point to remember is that the condition that paved the way for the ulcer to start must be treated or removed, whether it is nervousness, emotional distrubance, infected teeth or tonsils, or other condition. It may of course be said that these conditions do not actually cause the ulcer but yet it must be admitted that by undermining the patient's health they prevent the healing of the ulcer.

Where the ulcer will not heal, or where the ulcer perforates, and allows the contents of stomach or intestine to escape into the abdomen, operation must be performed.

Sore member these points about ulcer. Ten out of every hundred people have ulcer of the stomach; at least half of these ulcers heal without any treatment; careful dieting and alkali treatment cures almost all the rest; and surgery is successful in at least 90 per cent of the remaining cases if recognized in time.

FOREST ENTRY TAKES LAURELS AS BEST CLYDE

5,000 SEE SHOW.

Durham County Judging Team Presented With John S. Martin Cup.

GUELPH, Ont., Dec. 10.—"Daisy Carbrooke," a beautiful animal owned by Brandon Bros., of Forest, earned fame for herself at the Ontario Provincial Winter Fair yesterday, when she captured the Walker House Trophy for the best Canadian bred Clydesdale mare against a strong array of competition representing breeders in all parts of the Province. The Bright Special Trophy for the best Canadian bred draught stallion, went to Hass Bros., Paris, on "Fairview King," and the reserve award in the same class to James Torrance, of Markham, on Lascelles, which, incidentally, was Grand Champion Clydesdale stallion.

A. Hewson of Malton won the Messenger Cup for the best two Canadian bred draught fillies two years and under, the reserve going to W. F. Batty, Brooklin. "Lascelles," Torrance's prize winner, also won the senion stallion championship for Clydes, while the junior championship went to Nelson Wagg, of Claremont, whose horse "Lockbrow," also won the reserve grand championship. A. Hewson, Brandon Bros., and W. F. Batty also shared honors in Clydesdale mares, capturing between them all the championships except senior reserve, which went to R. J. Scott, of Cromarty. Gilbert E. Arnold, Grenville, Quebec, won the Percheron stallion and mare championships, while William Lang of Hillsburg and Smith and Son, Delhi, led all comers in the Hackney stallion classes. G. A. M. Davidson, Unionville, won three pony championships, the only other going to J. W. Fleury, of Brampton.

Harness horses provided the central attraction at the night light horse show, and Western Ontario breeders came into their own to win many of the roadster, hackney and pony classes which featured the night's entertainment.

A crowd of 5,000 persons witnessed the show, one of the biggest crowds in years, and the brand of entertainment provded was of a nature which won the approval of those in attendance. William Bovaird, Brampton; John Campbell, Georgetown; G. A. M. Davison, Unionville; C. E. Innes, Simcoe, and William Newman, St. Catharines, were heavy winners in the harness classes, dividing the major awards fairly evenly between them. Sam P. Jarvis, of Aurora, and Miss Helen Watson, of Toronto, swept the boards in the performance events, capturing firsts and seconds respectively in the ladies' hunter and the two jumpers abreast events.

Saddle horse classes were won by G. A. P. Brickenden of London, and G. A. M. Davison, Unionville. A feature last night was the presentation of the John S. Martin Trophy to the Durham County team, winners in the junior farmers' inter-county judging competition, and the George E. Day Trophy to the fourth years, winners of the O.A.C. inter-year competition.

AVIATORS REPORT MAPS INACCURATE

Heights of Mountains Not Correctly Recorded—Rivers Unmapped.

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, Dec. 9 (C.P.)—Marked discrepancies in maps of certain Newfoundland districts as compared with the actual topography of the country were reported on their arrival here by Arthur Fraser and Douglas Sullivan, who flew from Toronto to St. John's in November with a moth plane for the Newfoundland Airways.

After six days at Stephenville Crossing, in the district of Port au Port on the West Coast, where they were retarded by bad weather, the fliers got away for the flight across the interior. Shortly after leaving Bay St. George, the plane crossed the Hare Hills at an altitude of 6,000 feet by their instruments, and although the range is shown to be 2,000 feet high on existing maps, the plane cleared the hills by only a few hundred feet. Inaccuracies were also found in numerous other ranges, and large bodies of water were flown over which have no place on maps of Newfoundland.

Although Fraser and Sullivan left Toronto on November 7 and arrived at St. John's on November 19, the actual elapsed time for the flight, made in eight stages, was only eighteen hours and thirty minutes.

GOV'T IS ANXIOUS THAT C. N. BETTER ITS CREDIT STAND

No Desire to Inject Politics Into Relations With Either Railway, Says Manion.

Watch Capitalization Outlay.

Rumors of Railway War in Dominion Are Scoffed At.

MONTREAL, Dec. 10. (CP)—The Government did not desire to inject politics into its relations with either of the great railway systems, Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals, declared last night in a banquet given in his honor by the St. Patrick's society. "I am sure," he added, "that neither of the great railway systems aspires to control the policies of the Government."

Referring to the Canadian National, the Minister stated: "We believe it to be the Government's duty as trustees for the people of Canada—indeed as trustees of the Canadian National Railways itself—to avoid unwise or unnecessary increase in already heavy capitalization and interest charges."

Improve Credit Position

Dr. Manion read a prepared statementment during the course of his address outlining the relationship of the Government to the railways. He emphasized that the Government was anxious that the Canadian National Railways should improve its own credit position, Dr. Manion's statement in part follows:

"A prominent journal some time ago foreshadowed a railway war in Canada. I think it is unnecessarily alarmed, for I have associations with Mr. Beatty and Sir Henry Thornton, and I assure you there is no railway war in sight.

"Our Government realizes too well the immense importance of our two great railway systems to countenance any such foolish conflict. Fair treatment will be given by us to the great National system, but I am sure no Canadian citizen would wish unfair treatment meted out to that other great institution, the Canadian Pacific Railway. Our aim will be greater co-operation and less duplication.

MANY UNEMPLOYED ADD TO EDUCATION

40,000 Men and Women to be Studying Various Courses by End of Year.

BOSTON, Mass., Dec. 9 (C.P.)—Officials of the Division of University Extension, State Department of Education, feel the present unemployment situation is probably directly responsible for the unusually large number who are seeking additional education. They believe the applicants realize more keenly than ever before the value of education and extra knowledge in their particular lines of endeavor.

The total enrollment to date for the extension courses has reached more than 10,000, with several classes yet to start. In addition, more than 2,000 students have enrolled in correspondence courses. A total of 40,000 men and women is expected to be studying the various courses by the end of the academic year.

The most popular course is one on the classics, given twice a week by Professor E. Rogers, of "snob" fame. Other subjects accorded excellent attendance are correct English, social psychology, international affairs, retail credit and collecting, and stenography. Financial courses are more popular than ever.

OCEAN FLIER CLAIMS BRIDE AT MELBOURNE

Wing Commander Charles Kingsford Smith Marries Miss Mary Powell.

HOLDS MANY RECORDS

Wedding Climaxes Romance Which Began Aboard Pacific Liner in 1927.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Dec. 10 Wing Commander Charles Kingsford Smith, who flew around the world searching for the end of the rainbow, to-day claimed a bride, more precious than a pot of gold, for his own.

He and Miss Mary Powell, pretty Irish-Australian girl who has waited for him while he flew across an ocean and four continents, were married this afternoon at Scots' Church while 10,000 people waited outside to catch a glimpse of them.

Only immediate friends of the couple witnessed the ceremony. A number of Air Force officers were present and formed an arch of honor at the doorway under which the bride and bridegroom passed as they left the church.

The bride was attired in white and silver with a long tulle veil. Her aviator husband wore his Air Force uniform and was accompanied by his friend and companion of his trans-Pacific flight, C. T. P. Ulm. Four bridesmaids attended Mrs. Kingsford Smith.

Began in 1927

The wedding climaxed a romance which had its beginning in 1927 after the aviator's trans-Pacific flight when, travelling to Australia by liner from Vancouver, B.C., he met the golden-haired Irish girl aboard, and fell in love with her.

Shortly before his take-off this year for New York from Ireland in the Southern Cross he announced their engagement and said that for her sake, when he had completed his trans-Atlantic flight, he would give up all long distance flying and settle down to the comparatively obscurity and safety of a mail and passenger airline promoter and pilot.

Kingsford Smith has flown both the Pacific and Atlantic oceans, is the only pilot to have accomplished both feats, and he also holds the record for a flight between England and Australia.

Toronto Leafs Vacate Top Place to Canadiens

SPEEDY FINAL PERIOD SPELLS 2 TO 1 DEFEAT FOR WEAKENED SMYTHES

Penalty to Cotton and Injury to Jackson Enables Hahbitants to Overcome Lead.

MAROONS LOSE AT BOSTON.

All Home Teams Except the Quakers Win in Last Night's N.H.L. Games.

TORONTO, Ont. Dec. 10.—(By the Canadian Press.)—All the home teams but Philadelphia won in last night's National Hockey League schedule of four games. Boston defeated Montreal Maroons, two to one; Detroit pronounced the American group leaders, Chicago, 1 to 0; Montreal Canadiens secured undisputed possession of first place in the Canadian section by nosing out the short-handed Toronto Maple Leafs, two to one, and New York Rangers outscored Ottawa, three to two. The Quakers lost to New York Americans by the odd goal in three.

By a peculiar co-incident every game was decided by one goal margins, indicating the closeness of this season's race in both groups.

Weakened by the loss of Charlie Conacher and Joe Primeau, two of their leading point scorers, Maple Leafs displayed surprising strength against Montreal's Flying Frenchmen. After a scoreless opening 20 minutes the Leafs took the lead in the middle frame when King Clancy netted Harvey Jackson's rebound. Nearly eight minutes of the final period had elapsed before the Habitants knotted the count while the Leafs were playing five to six through a penalty. Pete Lepine notched the tieing marker on G. Mantha's assist.

The victory put the Canucks two points in the van of the Leafs for the leadership of the group and as the Leafs have the hardest part of the schedule for the next few games, the Canadiens appear certain to consolidate their position.

Ottawa's flashy Senators put up a great fight against the Rangers. After being outscored in the first period when Bill Cook tallied on Brother Bun's pass, the Senators forged to the front on goals by Frankie Finnigan and Art Gagne.

A rousing rally in the final session rewarded the New Yorkers with a brace of markers and victory. Bun Cook and Frankie Boucher were the successful marksmen, and their efforts kept the Rangers on even terms with Detroit for third place in the American section.

Montreal's big Maroon team put up a hard rugged battle against Boston's burly Bruins, but they could not overcome a two-goal lead the champions secured in the first 28 minutes of the game. Harry Oliver beat the Maroon goalkeeper for the only tally of the opening frame, while George Owen and Eddie Shore combined for second Boston tally eight minutes after the second period had started. Jimmy Ward put the Montrealers back into contention with an unassisted marker, but the Bruin defence tightened after that and the Maroons were held in subjection.

A fighting Falcon team sent the American group leaders down to their second defeat of the season at Detroit, when they checked the fast-skating Blackhawks into submission and then netted the lone tally of the fray late in the third frame.

It was one of the most hectic tussles seen in the Motor City this or any other season, with Bert McInenly, Ottawa product, emerging the star, when he engineered the play which enabled Abbie Goodfellow, another Ottawan, to score on a hard, low shot to the corner.

As a result of their defeat, Chicago's lead was cut two points, Boston having 13 points to the Blackhawks' 15.

Americans were hard pressed to attain victory over the lowly Philadelphians, who missed many fine scoring chances through lack of finish around the nets. A goal by Al Hughes in the overtime period gave the Amerks the winning point which enabled them to tie Maroons for last place in the Canadian group.

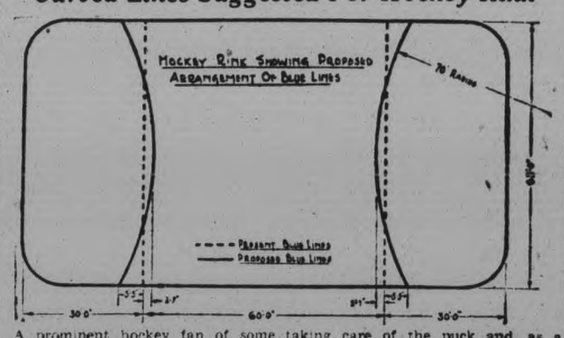
No Player Deals Across the Board

Curved Lines Suggested For Hockey Rink



A prominent hockey fan of some years standing, who prefers to be anonymous, writes to the Examiner, saying he has read with a great deal of interest the criticism and comment on the 1930-31 rules. He says: "I think it will be agreed by everybody, that after the first game the referees were much more liberal in their interpretation of the off-side rule governing the crossing of the blue line by the attacking forwards but, in spite of this letting up, many fine attacks and fine plays were stopped because one or the other of the wing men have crossed the blue line a few feet ahead of the puck or the man carrying the puck.

"It seems to me that if the speed of the game which is what has established it on its present basis, is to be maintained, something must be done which will permit a forward line on the attack, going up the ice, to cross the opponents' blue line without slackening speed. At the same time, I think it will be agreed that it is almost impossible for the centre man carrying the puck to travel at as high a rate of speed as the wing men who are travelling free. This condition is so because, first of all, the centre man carrying the puck has the responsibility of taking care of the puck and, as a rule, is the man checked most closely. This, therefore, leads to a condition whereby the wing men, coming up at a fast clip, have to slow up when they come to the blue line, and, in some cases, stop altogether so as to permit the puck or the puck-carrier to get across the line first. This naturally slows up the play and I think you will find in almost every instance where play is stopped for an infraction of this rule it is because the wing men in their anxiety and rush of speed have crossed the blue line without recognizing the fact.

"This, therefore, is my suggestion making any change in the present rules, while it may sound just a little absurd, here it is anyway. Why not have a curved blue line instead of a straight line? There is no real reason insofar as I am aware, for the blue line being straight. If it were curved toward the defense area from the centre, not a great curve but a curve which placed the ends of the blue line 6, 8 or 10 feet closer to the defending end of the rink from the centre of the blue line, you can then have exactly the same rule as in effect to-day, but give the attacking wings a chance to keep up their speed and move slightly forward of the centre man carrying the puck."

CLEVELAND, Dec. 10.—(CP)—A top-notch crew of sockers will perform before a capacity house tonight in the fifth annual Christmas fund benefit fight sponsored by the Cleveland News.

Three featured 10-round bouts were arranged, with the finale between Fidel La Bara, who once sat on the top rung in the feather-weight division, and Eddie Shea, tough Chicago veteran.

Jackie Fields, former welter-weight champ, will meet the challenge of Paul Pirrone, doughty Clevelander who is punching his way along the comeback trail, in one of the other features. The third headliner will be between Johnny Farr, Cleveland light-weight and Ray Miller of Chicago.

La Barba, Fields and Farr will enter the ring as the favorites.

Mickey Cohen, Cleveland bantam, will battle Ollie Bartlett of Detroit in one of the three four-round preliminaries.

Approximately 12,000 persons will see the bouts. All seats have been sold, some of them for $10 and $25, and the profits will be added to the News' Christmas toyshop.

Young English Worker Challenges Carnera

LONDON, Dec. 10 (A.P.)—Primo Carnera's match against Reg. Meen, young English shoe factory worker, to be held in Albert Hall, Dec. 18, has resulted in widespread opposition by sportsmen. Agitation against the match was started by The Daily Mail.

Jeff Dickson, American promoter, told The Mail that Meen challenged Carnera, and that otherwise he would not have promoted the match. Opponents of the fight declare that Meen is no match for the big Italian and should not, for safety's sake, be allowed in the same ring with him.

BISONS DOWN TIGERS 3 TO 1 TO REGAIN LEAD

Windsor and Pittsburgh the Other Winning Teams in International League.

BULLDOGS IN SECOND.

TORONTO, Ont., December 10 (C.P.). — Windsor, Buffalo, and Pittsburg were the victorious teams in last night's International Hockey League games.

The Buldogs strengthened their hold on second place by defeating the fourth place Cleveland Indians, 3 to 2, while the Bisons retained their commanding lead at the head of the parade by easily downing Detroit 3 to 1. Pittsburg advanced to within a point of the Olympics and Indians when they defeated the cellar occupants, Syracuse, 2 to 1.

Loyd Gross' clever goal in the first period started the pace setters on their way to victory. While there was no scoring in the second period, the Bisons made certain of two points when Babe Bogardis and Martin each scored to give their team a commanding lead.

The fast improving Yellow Jackets of Pittsburgh thrilled a large crowd of home town fans by the clean-cut manner in which they trounced the luckless Stars. A goal in the first frame by Gregg and another in the second by Milt Halliday practically clinched the verdict before Pete Lalangio netted for the tail-enders.

Liquor Store Closing Proves False Report

LINDSAY, Dec. 10. — (Examiner Correspondence.)— During the past week a report has been circulated in this district to the effect that the Liquor Control Board was contemplating closing the liquor stores in Lindsay, Port Hope and Trenton because of the falling off in sales. This report, like all false ones, spread rapidly and it is understood the management and staff of the local store have been besieged with inquiries from business men and others relative to the matter.

The report, of course, was manufactured out of the whole cloth, its origin being traced to a remark made by a local jokesmith following the municipal election to the effect that the new council would close up the liquor store.

DEALS NIPPED BY EXCESSIVE DEMANDS OF CLUB OWNERS

New York Yankees Want Willie Kamm and Moe Berg From White Sox.

DRAFT QUESTION TO-DAY.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (C.P.)—Major league club owners and managers have set some sort of a record for the first two days of the annual mid-winter meetings—they've failed to complete a single player deal of any importance.

It's not because they haven't tried. Hour after hour in the hotel lobbies the conversations go on, but every budding deal has been nipped by the frost of excessive demands before it reached full bloom.

The New York Yankees, for instance, have been talking things over with the St. Louis Browns, the Chicago White Sox and the Boston Red Sox without getting anywhere. From the Browns, the Yanks would like to get a pitcher, particularly George Blaeholder, but the Browns are interested only in a pitcher the Yankees do not want to lose, young Henry Johnson.

Third Baseman Willie Kamm and Catcher Moe Berg are the players the Yankees would be glad to take off the White Sox' hands and they still have a hankering for either Danny MacFayden or Ed. Morris, Red Sox pitching aces. Outfielder Harry Rice is the Yankee most likely to figure in a trade.

Roger Hornsby of the Chicago Cubs has about given up hope of getting First Baseman Jim Bottomley from the Cardinals, and will string along with Charlie Grimm and George Kelly. The Giants could use Wallie Berger, slugging outfielder of the Boston Braves, but everytime John McGraw tries to do business, someone asks for Third Baseman Freddie Lindstrom and the whole thing's off.

There are more veterans around the meetings looking for jobs than in some years. Cy Perkins, old Philadelphia Athletic catcher, would like to hook up with Portland of the Pacific Coast League, while Jack Quinn thinks he still could be of assistance to a major league pitching staff. He talked to Hornsby, but the Cubs already have 17 pitchers. Bob Shawkey, who was mentioned as Portland's next manager before Spencer Abbott beat him to it, is here scouting around, and so are Wallie Schang, Joe Dugan and Oscar Vitt.

Sisler Through

It is understood that George Sisler has come to the end of his playing days with the Boston Braves and may become a coach with that club if he can't find anything better. The club has promised not to stand in his way. There's only one sure thing about Sisler, and that is he won't drop back into the minors.

Neither the American nor the National leagues accomplished much of other than routine nature at yesterday's meetings. To-day the much-heralded conference over the draft situation was to be held between the committee of nine from the American Association, International and Pacific Coast Leagues and a committee representing the majors. The American League representatives were to be Ernest F. Barnard, President of the league; Frank Navit of Detroit; Jacob Ruppert of the Yankees; and L. C. McAvoy of the St. Louis Browns. Conferees for the National League were Barney Dreyfuss of Pittsburgh; William L. Veeck of the Chicago Cubs, and Emil Fuchs of the Boston Braves.

The American League passed one interesting rule, ordering the numbering of players both at home and on the road.

Greenleaf Meets Allen In Final Billiard Match

NEW YOAK, December 10 (C. P.).— Ralph Greenleaf, who has monopolized world and national billiards title for the past eleven years, gets has second test of the current tournament at Dwyer's Billiard Academy to-day, meeting Bennie Allen, of Kansas City, in the final of a three-match program.

On the basis of his first game against Thomas Boatman of Portland, Ore., Greenleaf should have little trouble in defeating Allen, who won the national title three times before Greenleaf climbed to the top and now is endeavoring to come back. Allen lost his first match of the tournament to Onofrio Lauri, of New York, yesterday.

CLUB ORGANIZED AT BAILIEBORO

Arnold Brown Elected President of Newly Formed Athletic Association.

DEVELOP CLEAN SPORT.

BAILIEBORO, Dec. 10 (Examiner Correspondence).—Twenty-two of the young men of the community joined the Bailieboro Athletic Association, which was orzaniged in the Bailieboro hall on Monday evening, when Arnold Brown was elected president of the newly organized association.

For some time the boys have been talking over the proposition of forming just such a society and a week ago a committee of five including Arnold Brown, Archie Deyell, Joe Barnard, Alymer Dawson, and Karl Lang, met and drew up a constitution, which was approved of and passed by the meeting.

This association aims to promote, stimulate, and develop clean sport in this community, and to develop literary tastes and talents.

The officers elected to carry on the interests of the association are: President, Arnold Brown; 1st Vice President, Alymer Dawson; 2nd Vice-President, Archie Deyell; Secretary-Treasurer, Alex. Watt; Recording Secretary, Keith Barnard. Honorary members, including older residents of the community, will be added to the executive.

It was decided to charge one dollar registration fee and the boys will all have sweaters with the Bailieboro Athletic Association crest.

The constitution also calls for a weekly meeting each Monday evening at 8 o'clock. The annual meeting and election of officers to be held the second Monday of October.

Tokujiro Tsutsui's Japanese theatrical troupe made such a hit in Berlin, Germany, recently, that its stay had to be extended and the performances repeated.

WEIGHT TELLS IN TITLE MATCH

Even Should Chocolate Win Featherweight Title, Weight Will Get the Cuban

'ERE HE DEFENDS CROWN:

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—If Kid Chocolate wins the featherweight title from Christopher Battalino next Friday night at the Garden he may never defend it.

So says Senor Luis Guttierrez, his managing director, who declares that the weight will defeat Chocolate within four months. Win, lose or draw with Battalino the "Keed" leaves for Havana next week and he will not be back until February.

"If he returns as champion, he will be automatically barred from fights with overweight opponents and will not defend his title until May or June in an outdoor bout. If by that time, he cannot make 126 pounds naturally he will follow the example of Kid Kaplan, who relinquished the championship and automatically cast his lot with the lightweights.

Keed Filling Out

Gutierrez came out on this point yesterday at the St. Nicholas gymnasium after Chocolate had boxed four furious rounds with two sparring partners, and was cooling out in his dressing room.

"I weel not sacrifice the Keed to weight" asserted his pilot. "I have seen too many good fighters ruined that way. When Chocolate came here two years ago he weighed 117 pounds. He has grown an inch since last Spring and is filling out. His fighting weight is ten pounds above what it was two years ago. In six months at the most he weel be a lightweight.

"When he fought Al Singer a year ago last Summer he weighed 122 when he started to train and we built him up to 125. Singer had nearly four pounds on him the night of the fight. Last Summer he was up to 126 when he started work for Jack Berg. For LaBarba a few weeks ago he came down from 131½ to 123 and made a bad fight. He started in at 130 for Battalino and to-day he scaled 127½.

CUP FOR THE "GAMEST LOSER"

"To the gamest loser in the world," goes this trophy, funds for which were raised by Mayor James Walker of New York, by individual donations after Sir Thomas Lipton, perennial challenger for the America's Cup, failed to win the mug at the Newport yacht races. It was presented to Sir Thomas by Mayor Walker in New York, as a symbol of America's appreciation of him.

BUN COOK IS KING SCORER

CANUCKS ON TOP.

TORONTO, Dec. 10 (C.P.)—Another change in the scoring leadership of the American section, National Hockey League resulted from Games played this week. Bun Cook of New York Rangers, is now king of the "crack shots," having scored four goal and seven assists. Brother Bill Cook, of the same team, is one point behind. To Joe Primeau goes the palm for leading his group in assists. Primeau has helped out seven times, the same number as Bun Cook.

Canadiens are two points ahead of Maple Leafs in the team standing for the Canadian group by virtue of their victory over the Leafs last night, while Chicago is still out in front of the other loop, even though they did lose their engagement last night.

Expected Ten Thousand Resin Ring Fans Will See Poppy Day Fund Show At Toronto

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 10 (C.P.)—What kings of sock and grapple have failed to do—attract a capacity house of 10,000 fans or more—an appeal to followers of these sports in aid of the Poppy Day Fund has accomplished.

To-night at the Coliseum two boxing bouts and two wrestling matches have been programed for the entertainment of the fans supporting the fund for needy veterans of the Great War. Pinky Kaufman, New York welterweight, and Jackie Horner, recent conqueror of Jackie Phillips, Canadian welterweight champion, are matched in the boxing headliner. Al. Baffert, French heavyweight champion, meets Joe Malcewicz, in the feature wrestling bout.

In the opening boxing exhibition, two punchers come together and a quick termination of the encounter is expected. "Red" Bragan does not go in for science, but he packs a terrific wallop, as does his opponent, Jimmie Burns of Scotland. The bout is scheduled for six rounds.

In the preliminary grappling tussle, George Vassel and Dr. Freddy Meyers, Chicago, will probably give the fans a thrill with an exhibition of clever wrestling interspersed with plenty of rough stuff.

Bowling
Alley Gossip
By Pin Boy

The ten Westclox bowling teams finished up the first half of the schedule last night in a smother of strikes and spares that kept the decisions rather close, and the Clockmakers will now rest up until the first week in the new year.

Jakie Beckerman has apparently convinced his gang that they are of championship calibre as is evidenced by the fact that they are securely located in first place in the league. Ainslie's crew are next in line, while Tommy Cupoli's trundlers are third.

The Automobile League will crash the alleys for the second time this season to-night in their regular league games and according to rumours some brilliant fireworks are expected. The Ford and Buick crews are determined that bowling fandom will learn that last week's results were purely accidental when to-night's scores are published.

"Handsome Harry" the landscape architect from Halifax, is back and should serve as a stimulus to whichever team in the motor league that he joins. It is understood that his services are being solicited by the Gillespie-Robinson-Wilson team but no definite information is available.

he following is the order of playing for the Automobile League to-night:—Chryslers vs. Durant, alleys 11-12; Ford vs. Oldsmobile, alleys 15-16; Buick vs. Chevrolet, alleys 13-14; Hudson Essex vs. Pontiacs, alleys 9-10.

REGENT STREET CHURCH L. A. HOLDS SUCCESSFUL BAZAAR

Interior of School Room Gaily Decorated With Christmas Colors.

BEAUTIFUL GIFTS.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 10.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The Ladies' Aid of Regent Street United church scored another success in their bazaar and Christmas Fair on Friday afternoon. The weather out-of-doors was so mild that it belied the idea that Christmas was just around the corner but in the school room of the Regent Street Church the red, green and white decorations combined with Christmas greens proclaimed the approval of the festive season and tempted one with a beautiful assortment of gifts.

Mrs. Albert Darling and Mrs. S. S. Spence, president and treasurer, received the guests.

In a pretty alcove just to the right of the entrance was a booth where sweets of all sorts were offered, all homemade and attractive. This was in charge of Mesdames Harry Dunford, A. E. Higgins, P. Spence and L. Webster.

Next door was the woollen table where all sorts of knitted articles were displayed, Mrs. J. Reid, Mrs. A. C. Carver, Mrs. Robert White, Mrs. N. S. Osborne, and Mrs. J. Millage were in charge.

The home cooking table loaded with biscuits, bread, pies, cookies and tarts required a specially large staff. The convenors were Mesdames J. Moore, W. H. Stabler, and E. J. Sanderson, and the assistants were Mesdames H. J. Abbott, H. Bickell, J. E. Galvin, A. V. Hill, W. Dunford, E. Allen, R. Simpson, B. Payne, T. Milburn, A. Northey and J. Morrison.

Mrs. F. H. Richardson and Mrs. John A. Murphy had a very attractive array of pretty hankies displayed in a miniature Christmas tree.

Aprons of all sorts were shown on an open table some practical and severely plain, others were embroidered or had some other fancy touch. Mrs. G. A. Welbourne, Mrs. D. H. Webster, Mrs. J. Charlton, Mrs. H. J. Brown, Mrs. Sargent, Mrs. John Hendren, Mrs. Percy Darling, Mrs. J. R. Northey, and Mrs. G. H. Spence were in charge.

Mrs. S. A. Kemp, Mrs. N. Payne and Mrs. Walter Hamblin were joint convenors of the fancy work table and they had as assistants Mesdames C. W. Garoutt, L. A. Jones, and J. R. Robinson and Miss Milburn.

The tea room occupied the central space and was entered through an old fashioned gate set in a white picket fence and was the mecca of every woman who feels the urge for a cup of tea in the afternoon. Mrs William Frankish and Mrs. J. H. Payne poured team and those who assisted were Mesdames W. Purdy, Wilbert Frankish, F. G. Erskine and S. A. Grylls and Lulu and Grace Darling. The convenors were Mesdames Stanley Richardson and John Millage.

Financially the whole affair was successful and the ladies who worked so hard all through the year deserve credit for their splendid effort.

Mrs. C. M. Westmacott Honored By Friends

Presentation Made By Millbrook Society at Home of Mrs. T. C. Collins.

MILLBROOK, Dec. 10.—A social gathering was held at the home of Mrs. T. B. Collins on Friday evening, taking the form of a 'going-away party' in honor of Mrs. C. M. Westmacott, who leaves on Tuesday, December 9, at noon for Victoria, B. C., where she will spend the winter with her sister, Mrs. R. Fowler, visiting another sister, Mrs Stowe, of Winnipeg, en route to the Pacific Coast.

The event was arranged in connection with the regular weekly practice of the choir of Saint Thomas' church, of which Miss M. L. Collins is the organist, the social part of the occasion which followed the practice hour coming as a complete surprise to the guest in whose honor it had been specially prepared.

Games and music were interrupted at a prearranged time when Rev. P. W. A. Roberts, rector in charge of the parish, called upon Robert Stone, as the member longest connected with the choir, to make a few remarks indicative of the appreciation felt toward Mrs. Westmacott for her loyal support of the choir in all its undertakings, the care of the surplices being her special charge.

The presentation of a handsome black suede, fitted purse, followed. Mrs. H. R. Scott reading the brief address, and offering the gift. Mrs. Westmacott was deeply touched by the tangible evidence of affection and esteem, and though taken altogether by surprise, voiced her gratitude in a few well-chosen remarks.

The Woman's Auxiliary, of which Mrs. Westmacott is president, also remembered their chief officer before her departure, by the gift of a lovely bouquet of mauve, bronze and gold chysantheumums, and another organization with which she has been actively connected, made presentation of a mauve moire silk travelling companion, rubber-lined, and of a size suitable for slipping conveniently into her suitcase for use while on the train.

Mrs. Westmacott expects to return and re-open her home here some time in April. Miss Rose Marcamara, who leaves with Mrs. Westmacott, will spend the winter with her brother in Toronto.

ATHEISTS MOBILIZE TEACHERS FOR ANTI-CHRISTMAS CAMPAIGN

Soviet Public To Be Told Festive Season is a Delusion.

USE MORAL FORCE ONLY.

MOSCOW, Dec. 10 (C.P.). — The Soviet anti-Christmas campaign began to-day with an announcement by the All-Union Society of Militant Atheists that thousands of professors, teachers, lecturers and students had been mobilized to instruct the public about Christmas and how it is a snare and delusion.

The lecturers will reveal to countless meetings of workers and peasants "the attempts of clergymen and priests to utilize the legend of the birth of Christ for counter-revolutionary purposes."

Stalin's Warning Helps.

Only moral force will be exerted, however, since Joseph Stalin's pronouncement of last spring, the efforts of the more enthusiastic Atheists to persecute the religiously inclined by law have somewhat cooled. In that pronouncement Stalin warned the authorities against severe measures in farm collectivization and the anti-religious campaign.

Since then a number of churches have re-opened and the priests are conducting services unmolested. Many churches, however, were razed or converted into halls, workers' clubs, hospitals and the like, when it was found church attendance dwindled and then the majority of the district voted to discontinue them.

On Christmas night theatres and clubs will offer extra entertainment with the purpose of attracting the wavering from church services.

NOTICE OF REGISTRATION OF BY-LAW.

Any motion to quash or set aside the same, or any part thereof, must be made within three months after the first publication of this notice, and cannot be made thereafter.

1930 NAVIGATION ENDS FOR WINTER ON GREAT LAKES

Death Toll Only 50 Compared With Over 100 Last Year.

POOR FINANCIAL SEASON.

Only One or Two Freighters Out—Rest Being Overhauled in Dock.

TORONTO, Ont., December 10 (C.P.). — Four days before the "official" close of navigation, sailors of the Great Lakes have given up the unequal fight against storms and ice, and to-day navigation is closing. Strangely enough, last year navigation also shut down on December 10, but in that case, the "official" close had been set for December 12. With the exception of one or two boats which are on their way to winter storage quarters, all vessels are safely tied up and the work of laying up is proceeding. Engines are being smeared with heavy oil, deckhouses covered in, dishes, linens, and things which contribute to the comfort of the crews are being stowed away.

The season of 1930 has been a good one, so far as loss of life is concerned, but a poor one financially. The total death toll was remarkably low, with less than 50 men losing their lives this year, as compared to more than 100 last year. The greatest catastrophe of the season came in June, when the drill boat John B. King was struck by lightning near Brockville, Ont. The lightning exploded dynamite which had been placed in drill holes directly beneath the boat, and 30 men died in the resultant explosion. Other disasters included the sinking of the sandsucker Whalen, the barge Salvor, the steamer North Shore, and the schooner Our Son, last of her type on the Great Lakes.

Many Lean Christmases.

But it is over now. Crews will continue working in the majority of cases for another week or so, and then the "home for Christmas" rush will begin. Some of the workers are fortunate enough to have accumulated a "stake" large enough to last over the winter but fewer boats operated this year than usual, and grain congestion, which left many boats tied under elevator spouts for weeks, left the majority of crews out of work for some time, and it will be somewhat of a scant Christmas for many. For three months or more, the sailors will rest at home, preparing for the arduous season of 1931.

Unusual statements regarding the inadvisability of making a living by sailing the "never sail again" attitude, stories of hardships and heroism will as usual be discussed by members of the "hot stove" league this winter. Then, with the coming of spring, all this will be forgotten, and once again the trek for the lakes will commence.

Meanwhile, the great inland seas, which contribute so materially to the prosperity of Canada, will not be disturbed by the throbbing engines of freighters until spring comes again.

As half of the cost of the London Mayor's Show and Banquet fell upon the new Lord Mayor this year his bill for his own inauguration was nearly $15,000.

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. 15 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The panther, feeling the weight upon him diminish, quickly crawled from beneath the fallen tree trunk. And as Tarzan let the tree fall back to earth, the two beasts turned to look at each other. A grim smile played upon the ape-man's lips. Fear was a thing unknown to him. Yet he knew that he had taken his life in his hands to free this savage jungle fellow.

It would not have surprised him had the cat sprung upon him the instant it had been released. But it did not do so. As Tarzan climbed out of the maze of tangled branches the panther stepped warily aside. After a moment's hesitation, the ape-man quickly went on through the jungle. To his surprise, the panther followed on behind him, like a dog following its master.

At length Tarzan decided that Sheeta was following him because of friendly feeling. Later in the day the scent of a deer sent Tarzan into the trees. When he had dropped his noose about the animal's neck, he called to Sheeta, using a purr similar to that which he had heard panthers make wher they hunted in pairs. Almost immediately Sheeta came bounding through the underbrush.

At sight of the carcass of Bara and the smell of blood the panther gave forth a shrill scream of hunger. Before Tarzan had cooked his portion, he tossed Sheeta some of the raw meat, and soon the two were feeding side by side. For several days this strangely assorted pair roamed the jungle together. When one made a kill, he called the other and thus they fed well and often.

POLICE CALLED IN TO END DISPUTE

Men After Working 27 Days Object When Employer Says They Owe Him Money.

ACCOUNTS KEPT WRONG.

COCHRANE, Ont., Dec. 10. (CP)—A gang of ten men employed at clearing right-of-way for the power line from the Abitibi canyon, working twenty-seven and a half days, ended up owing their employer money according to the accounts kept by the sub-contractor and presented to the men on Dec. 3. The men, all foreign by birth, but some of whom had served in the Canadian army, protested to the Provincial Police, and as a result Sergt. Frank Gardiner brought charges in Police Court against W. J. Kitts, contractor, and Harry Kolemitz, sub-contractor.

The defence of Mr. Kitts was that the men had entered into a partnership to take the right-of way cutting under sub-contract from him. If their price of $30 per acre was too low that was not his responsibility, he told the court. However, he stated, he believed there had been a wrong count in the number of acres cleared, that the men had actually cleared 45 acres though only credited with 34. When settlement would be made on a basis of the recount there should be more than $200 coming to the men instead of them being in debt to the contractor. On the understanding that such a squaring up would be made Magistrate Tucker dismissed the charges.

CONSERVATION OF GAME PAYS

National Parks System Source of Large Incomes.

$300,000,000 PROFIT

MONTREAL, December 10 — Canada's policy of game conservation followed in the setting aside of some 10,000 square miles of national parks and game sanctuaries has not only saved the wild life of Canada from extinction, but has also paid dividends, said Alan N. Longstaff, press representative of the Canadian National Railways, in an address before the Montreal Kiwanis Club Canada is "cashing in" on the wilderness Mr. Longstaff declared, and her tourist industry, bringing into this country as much as $300,000,000 per year, has resulted largely from the provision of such magnificent health-building recreation areas as these National Parks provide.

The speaker dealt chiefly with the results of wild life conservation in Jasper National Park in the Canadian Rockies, which, with its area of 4,200 square miles is the largest of greatest game sanctuary in the world. Canada's national parks and the A recent census of big game animals within its borders showed an estimated 18,000 to 20,000 bighorn mountain sheep, 4,000 to 5,000 mountain goats 8,000 to 10,000 caribou, 20,500 mule deer, 8,000 moose, and from 2,000 to 3,000 elk or wapiti. In addition to these animals black and brown bears were counted by the thousands, while grizzly bears were found in the higher altitudes and less frequented sections.

Graze on Fairways.

"Because the animals are given absolute protection, the visitor to Jasper Park Lodge plays over a famous golf course whose fairways are kept cropped by bands of mule deer and elk, just as in Europe flocks of sheep are kept on famous golf courses to keep the fairways in condition," Mr. Langstaff stated.

The benefits of this conservation policy were not limited to those enjoyed by the tourist, who was able to see and photograph deer and bears in the grounds of Jasper Park Lodge, but they extended also to the man who felt a legitimate urge to get out into the hills and secure some big game trophies. Guides, outfitters, and sportsmen were unanimous in declaring that there are now more big game animals in the hunting territories adjacent to the park borders than had ever been seen since these districts had been opened. This increase of game came by means of the overflow of animals from the breeding areas within the park limits to the hunting areas outside.

The audience was taken on a pictorial big game hunt into the Blue Creek area lying north-west of the park. Action "shots" of moose, deer, sheep, goats, and caribou were thrown on the screen during the showing of a film, "Big Game Trails," from the Canadian National motion picture libraries, from which films were loaned to sportsmen's and other organizations in Canada and other countries. Mr. Longstaff explained, in order to show sportsmen all over the world exactly what they might find in hunting and fishing territories along the Canadian National Sysem.

COVETED AWARD IS GIVEN KELLOGG

SEES NO SIGN OF WAR.

OSLO, Norway, Dec. 10. (CP)—Frank B. Kellogg, former United States Secretary of State, to-day received the Nobel peace prize for 1929 in the presence of King Haakon and a distinguished audience.

Dr. Nathan Soederblom, Archbishop of Upsala, received the peace award for 1930.

Premier McWinckel in an address praising the work of Mr. Kellogg and Dr. Soederblom said the League of Nations is the most powerful institute for promoting peace which the world has developed. He recalled that the League was created on the initiative of the United States and declared that while the United States is not one of its members, the nation has not stood apart from the "great international efforts to secure peace."

"It is not enough," said he, "to declare war a crime. We must recognize that the murder of thousands of men to settle an international dispute is no more excusable than the murder of one man."

Mr. Kellogg expressed deep appreciation of the honor. He regretted, he said, to hear many voices raised in predictions of another war.

Sees No Conflict Coming

Western civilization, said he, could not survive another such conflict, but he declared he saw nothing to indicate another war in the offing.

Archbishop Soederblom said he believed he had received the prize as the representative of the ecumenical movement within the churches. He paid homage to the memory of Alfred Nobel, declaring that the establishment of the brotherhood of man was one of the great aims of the founder of the Nobel awards.

The award was voted to Mr. Kellogg for his activities in connection with the Kellogg-Briand Peace Pact. Dr. Soederblom has long been active in the cause of world peace and was the principal organizer of the Christian Unity Conference held in Stockholm five years ago.

Great Selling Campaign For a Fine Canadian Product

The Clover Leaf Salmon Campaign Has Had Wonderful Response in Peterborough.

Nothing has appealed to the citizens of Peterborough just in the same manner as the test campaign now being conducted here by the manufacturers of Clover Leaf Salmon. So great has been the interest in this great Canadian product that stocks of salmon thought to be sufficient to fill all demands in Peterborough were quickly depleted and the display of goods in the Examiner Show windows had to be taken out to fill orders.

Canned salmon can now be intelligently purchased at all grocers by asking for Clover Leaf Red, Medium or Pink. Each are of equal value in food properties and edible qualities but the red the most costly, the medium more moderate in price and the pink quite inexpensive.

A sample order from your grocer will tell the whole story. Include Clover Leaf canned salmon in all your grocery orders.

U.S. May Use Farm Board Grain For Relief

THREE NAMED AS COMMITTEE TO STUDY PLAN

Chairman Legge Warns That Proposal Might Affect Prices Adversely.

USE 40,000,000 BUSHELS.

Board Be Forced to Replace From Market Large Portion to Maintain Prices.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—The Agriculture Committee of the United States Senate today appointed a sub-committee of three to consider and report on the Capper resolution to authorize utilization of 40,000,000 bushels of Grain Stabilization Corporation wheat for unemployment relief.

Chairman Legge of the Farm Board warned the Senate Agriculture Committee enactment of the Capper resolution to distribute 40,000,00 bushels of the grain stabilization corporation's wheat for benefit of the unemployed might affect prices adversely.

Would Replace Portion

Legge said the corporation, to maintain prices in event of such a distribution, would have to buy back a large proportion of the amount devoted to relief purposes.

"It would just replace so much wheat coming from other sources of supply", he said of the wheat.

He pointed out the domestic price was now approximately 20 cents above the world price and to maintain that level the board would have to bear the burden of carrying a large portion of the surplus.

Legge would not estimate the amount of increased consumption if the 40,000,000 bushels were diverted for relief, but said it would be small.

Questions Method

While welcoming "any means of getting rid" of the wheat holdings, Legge said from the standpoint of relieving the suffering, there was a question whether providing one food commodity would be as helpful as a general supply of all things needed.

The sub-committee is composed of Senators Capper, Kansas, author of the resolution and Walcott, Connecticut, Republicans; and Thomas, Oklahoma, Democrat.

It was appointed after Chairman Legge, of the Farm Board, had testified regarding the affect of the resolution on stabilization operations.

STIFF PROBLEMS FACING PARLEY

Will New Federal Gov't of India Be Responsible to Federal Legislature?

OPINIONS DIFFER.

LONDON, Dec. 11 (By George Hambleton, C.P. Staff Correspondent).—The Round-Table Conference is coming to grips with the great, over-riding problem of responsible government for India. So far, the conference has progressed more rapidly than even the optimist expected. It has secured general agreement in favor of a federation comprising not only "British" India, but also "Indian" India, or the Native States ruled by their own Princes and chiefs.

But once that federal authority is created, what is to be its power? Will the members of the new Federal Government of India be responsible to the Federal Legislature, as the Government at Ottawa is responsible to the Dominion Parliament? That is the problem which lies before the conference in the coming week.

Opinions Differ

On it, there is a sharp difference of opinion. On the one hand there is an insistent demand from India for self government. On the other hand, a self-governing India is regarded by some as an ideal for which India is not yet prepared.

Meanwhile, behind the scenes at Downing Street, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald as chairman of the conference is moving to secure settlement of the Hindu-Moslem difference. There have been private meetings and more are planned. A compromise is mentioned, which would include the retention of communal representation in the Punjab and in Bengal, where Moslems are in the majority. In India as a whole, the Moslems are in a big majority.

France will spend $80,000,000 on public works in the next 12 months.

Trapped in Sea of Gasoline Fire Three Workmen Are Fatally Burned

PROVIDENCE, R.I., December 11 (C.P.). — Trapped in a sea of fire when an electric light bulb dropped into a mechanic's pit and set fire to gasoline which had spilled on the floor in the garage of the Holbrook Raw Hide Company, here to-day, three men were probably fatally burned and a fourth man less seriously burned.

Three of the men are in Rhode Island Hospital, where physicians and nurses were struggling to save their lives.

The critically injured are: William H. Neil, 38, Joseph M. Mullaney, 41, and Henry V. Mahoney, 21.

All of these men are suffering third degree burns on the body, face, and hands.

Harold E. Kenyon, 28, suffered burns on the right leg, right hand, and face. His condition is not serious.

COBOURG MEETING.

Percy Township Delegation Urges Road Be Assumed By Counties.

(By Staff Reporter)

COBOURG, Dec. 11. — A Percy township deputation petitioned the Counties Council yesterday to assume the Hastings-Trent Bridge road as a county road.

The deputation included George F. Stevenson, C. C. Huycke, George J. Picken, Arthur Waters, Fred Long, Edward McConnell, Harold McConnell and Ernest Stevenson. Their request was referred to the Roads and Bridges committee.

This road runs east in the village of Hastings, parallels the river and at the end of seven miles joins the Campbellford - Havelock road at Woodland cheese factory. Two miles of it are in Seymour township. Ernest Stevenson said it was used by many tourists and others going from Hastings to Trent Bridge. In a sense it is a link between the Hastings-Roseneath county road and the Campbellford-Havelock county road.

Deputy-reeve C. H. Curtis of Percy and Reeve Van Volkenburg of Seymour supported the petition, affirming that this road is more important than many members of the council probably supposed. Percy has 23 miles of county roads and Seymour 22.

Premier's Pension Pledge

The committee on legislation and by-laws of which Reeve Fred Hyland (Cartwright) is chairman, declined to endorse duplicate resolutions from Frontenac and Dundas, Stormont and Glengarry counties, calling upon Premier Bennett to fulfill his pre-election promise that the Federal government would assume the entire cost of Old Age Pensions.

"Give him a chance to redeem his pledge," Reeve N. Hartt of Murray township advised. "Premier Bennett hasn't had time and opportunity to take over the cost of Old Age Pensions. We should wait at least until his first session of Parliament is over. Then, if he hasn't made good on this promise, we can remind him of it. I would be one of the first to suggest a resolution like these if I felt that Mr. Bennett had his chance and did not carry out his promise.

Mr. Van Volkenburg seconded the motion to table the two resolutions for future reference, if necessary.

Mothers' Allowance.

Bruce and York counties propose that the Mothers' Allowance Act be extended to include mothers of only one child. Their resolutions were fyled without action. Members expressed the opinion that the administrators of mothers' allowance had given this amendment consideration. It was also felt that the government would not be influenced by a resolution from the counties. The additional most that would be incurred was at present deterring the Ontario government from adopting this sole remaining category of mothers with one child.

Mrs. E. K. Macdonald, deputy-reeve of Cobourg, said she was naturally in sympathy with the Bruce and York counties' proposal, but she lacked information that woud assist her

Talks Too Much; Gets Six Months

LINDSAY, Ont., December 11 (Special to The Examiner). — James Edward Lytle, aged 18, years, of Victoria Road, was sentenced to six months' determinate and one year indeterminate today by Magistrate Jordan. Lytle talked too much.

Last night the store of P. S. Duxbury, Victoria Road, was entered, $26.00 taken from the till. A number of villagers were sympathizing with Mrs. Duxbury, one of them being Edward Lytle. The prisoner said he saw three men leave the store in an old car with open top. Provincial Constables Porter and Nelson were suspicious and finally Lytle admitted the theft. The money was found in Lytle's car under a mat.

FAMOUS SINGER DIES IN LONDON

IN ALL GREAT FESTIVALS.

LONDON, Dec. 11.— (By Thos. T. Champion, C. P. Staff Correspondent.)—News of the death of Robert Watkin Mills at the age of 74 yesterday, was received with regretful interest by choralists of the older generation all over England. To these, the name of Mills brought memories of a whole gallery of bygone songsters—Albani, Ada Crossley, Belle Cole, Ella Russell, Edward Lloyd, Charles Santley, Ben Davis and others—amongst whom Mills had a foremost place. His singing at the coronations of King Edward and then of King George was an additional ornamentation to a reputation which already had been fully established.

Mills appeared in almost every great English music festival. The war and perhaps a change in English public taste has caused discontinuance of many of these, and somehow there are few vocalists of Watkins Mills' stamp nowadays.

QUEBEC WOULD AID WESTERN CANADA

Taschereau Says Federal Authorities Should Consult Provinces.

QUEBEC, Que., Dec. 11.—(C.P.)—If Canada as a whole was to help the west through its present wheat difficulties the Dominion government "might at least consult Quebec since this old province and the old province of Ontario will have to bear most of the burden of such relief," Premier L. A. Taschereau stated during an address last night in the Legislature. The Premier was continuing the debate on the reply to the Speech from the Throne.

Quebec was willing to help the west again, as it had in the past, the Premier said. This province's sons and daughters had played a large part in civilizing and colonizing the west. Nevertheless he felt Ontario and Quebec should be spoken to before the Dominion Government acted on suggestions of aiding the western governments.

REPORT IS MADE TO JUDGE HUYCKE BY GRAND JURY

Recommends That Elevator Be Installed in County House of Refuge.

ADDITION TO HOSPITAL.

Unemployed Being Well Looked After Jurors Believe.

Public institutions in the county are being carefully and most properly managed the Grand Jury, impanelled at the General Sessions of the Peace now sitting to inspect these institutions, go reported this morning to His Honor Judge Huycke. The Grand Jury did recommend the installation of several small pieces of apparatus for washing in House of Refuge and the Children's Shelter. Also the jury recommended that an elevator be installed in the House of Refuge to assist the old people in moving about its four stories. An addition to Nicholls Hospital, which the jurors found overcrowded, was deemed most necessary, and also a careful examination of the acoustic properties of the Court Room with view to having "the present unsatisfactory hearing facilities improved."

Further the Grand Jury observed that "while there is much unemployment in the county and city of Peterborough, we believe that everything possible is being done by the authorities to relieve the present situation. The jurors looked forward to a return of normal conditions in the near future.

Judge Huycke praised the jury for its fine work and commented upon the keen manner in which its duties had been carried out.

The Jury's report said: "We, residents of the County of Peterborough having been selected to act on the Grand Jury of the County Court and General Sessions of the Peace, held in the City of Peterborough on the ninth day of December, 1930, wish to congratulate the County on the fact that there are no criminal cases to come before the court at this time.

"Following instructions from Your Honor, we made an inspection of the various County institutions.

"At the House of Refuge we found twenty inmates well looked after. Buildings are in excellent order and reflect great credit upon Mr. and Mrs. Fry for the manner in which they perform their duties. We recommend advisability of procuring a suitable washing machine and providing an adequate room for the

FATHER IS VICTOR IN HIS APPEAL

Judge Rules Oshawa Man Not Under Legal Duty to Support Child.

WIFE DIVORCED, KEEPS SON.

TORONTO Ont., Dec. 11.—No legal duty under the civil law of the Province or under the criminal law could be applied to the case of Lucius Wright who appealed a conviction of three months for non-support of his child, the First Divisional Court ruled to-day. They allowed the appeal and quashed the conviction. Mr. Justice Grant, writing the decision of the court, declares "that with great reluctance I am compelled to the conclusion that the contention put forward by the accused is well founded." The appeal is from a conviction by Police Magistrate Creighton at Oshawa, and was based on the main ground that Lucius Wright was not under legal duty to provide necessaries.

Mr. Justice Grant points out the circumstances of the case were unusual for Mrs. Constance Wright obtained a divorce from the appellant on May 31 last. The child, an eight year old boy, has been living with his mother. No action for custody was taken and a civil action by the mother against the father for non-support was dismissed.

That there is no civil liability under Ontario law, resting upon a father to maintain and provide necessaries for his child has been decided in numerous cases, Mr. Justice Grant explains.

Snakes in Theatre Fail to Stop Show

BERLIN, Dec. 11. — (A.P.)— Snakes crawling through the theatre where "All Quiet on the Western Front" is being screened here caused a near panic at last night's show, but the excitement subsided when it was discovered that the reptiles were of the harmless garden variety.

One girl was horrified to find a large snake curling about her chair leg. A policeman in a nearby seat grabbed it and assured her that it was not a kind which would bite a human being. Two others were caught in another part of the house.

Berlin Fascists, in an effort to discourage attendance at the cinema, last week loosed white rats into the theatre floor, and have used other means of demonstrating their protest at its showing.

COUNTIES BALK AT RENT BOOST COBOURG WANTS

AT SAME $2,000 RENT.

Councillors Fear Election Day If They Acceded to Increase.

COBOURG, Dec. 11.—As tenants of nearly half the town's ancient court house and municipal building, the Council of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham is set against and boost in their rent. A resolution by the Property Committee, moved by Dr. W. E. Wilson of Hastings, offered to renew the lease, which expires on December 31, for five years at the present annual rental of $2,000. And the committee suggested that Cobourg's council submit a reply by Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

"We can't go back to our ratepayers and tell them that in this year of decreased values we agreed to pay a higher rental for our quarters in this building," said Reeve Percy Stinson of Millbrook.

He stated that farm incomes had been greatly reduced this year, and many farmers were faced with a real difficulty of making both ends meet.

"It seems to me that somebody has got to say 'No,' and this is where we might begin," Mr. Stinson added.

George Annis, Deputy-Reeve of Darlington township, expressed a similar attitude toward Cobourg's demand for more rent. Some farms that had earned up to $300 or $400 a year were now vacant, he said, by way of emphasizing the financial stringency in rural sections.

Reeve Gordon Parker of Alnwick township said he agreed with Mr. Stinson and Mr. Annis.

"And I think the majority of the members feel the way I do about it," Mr. Parker declared.

The 1921 Agreement

Harry Maguire outlined Cobourg Council's claim for increased rent from the Counties, and John Davidson, also representing the town, said that Cobourg had made a mistake in 1921 by agreeing to the sum of $2,000, with the Counties paying their own light bill and half the cost of heating the building.

Reeve N. Hartt (Murray) replied to the effect that Mr. Davidson was reflecting upon Cobourg's Council of 1921.

"As a matter of fact," said Mr. Hartt, "Cobourg's Council at that time thought they were driving a hard bargain with the Counties

GRACE BRANDON GIVES EVIDENCE IN MURDER TRIAL

GOVT'S STAR WITNESS.

Set August 1930 Wedding Date Shortly After Mrs. Shepard Died in July, 1929.

KANSAS CITY, December 11 (C.P.). — Miss Grace Brandon, young stenographer of San Antonio, Texas, who figured as the "other woman" in the murder trial of Major Charles A. Shepard, charged with the poison murder of his second wife, took the stand to-day as the Government's star witness and wept as she related what Shepard had told her regarding his relations with Mrs. Shepard. Shepard was a former resident of Belleville, Ont.

"He said he and his wife had not been getting along well the last five years" the girl testified, "and that they had kept up congenial appearances at social functions because of his rank in the army."

Met Shepard in Nov.

She related that she had met Shepard about Nov. 1, 1928. At that time she said he was taking a flight surgeon's course at Brooks Field, San Antonio.

"Did you know Major Shepard was married?" she was asked.

"Yes, I did know. I asked him if his wife objected."

The testimony did not bring out what Shepard's reply was.

"He asked me if he got a divorce, whether I would marry him .

HOOVER EMERGES AS STRONG MAN IN WHITE HOUSE

Hope Abandoned of Republican and Democrat Cooperation on Relief Scheme.

FLOOD OF ELOQUENCE.

Times Claims President's Chances For Re-election Been Bettered.

WASHINGTON, D.C., December 11 (By Ken. Clark, C.P. Staff Correspondent). — Two major developments in the political situation here stand out clearly to-day after a flood of eloquence on Capitol Hill.

First—President Herbert Hoover has emerged as the strong man in the White House.

Second—Any hope of co-operation between Democrats and Republicans in dealing with the administration's program for relieving unemployment and drought has gone aglimmering.

Second Ultimatum.

For the second time within a fortnight the White House has spoken with no uncertain sound, this time saying: "Prosperity cannot be restored by raids on the public treasury, and making reference to legislators who are "playing politics at the expense of human misery."

SOVIET VILLAGES ACROSS UNION PREPARING FOR ANNUAL ELECTION

ONLY ONE PARTY IN RUSSIA.

(By Victor Eubank—Associated Press Staff Correspondent).

MOSCOW, Dec. 11. — The Soviet elections, greatly different from those of any other country in the world, are being held this month in the villages throughout the Union. Elections in the towns, districts and cities will be held in January and, from among all the successful candidates will be chosen members of the All-Union Congress of Soviets which meets in Moscow in March.

Workers Only Allowed.

It is needless to say that those who finally achieve seats in the important National Congress will be Communists of unimpeachable records, whose forbears were workers and peasants and who are thoroughly in sympathy with party policies. No one whose father was a trader, merchant or kulak (landed peasant) has even the slightest chance of being elected to the lowest position, much less achieving the seats of the mighty in the Capital.

There is only one party in present-day Russia. Its principles are those of the dead Lenin, god of the Communists, and the much-alive Stalin who, although holding no official post, has a wide reputation as the Dictator of the Republic.

The campaign this year, as set forth in all the newspapers (which are controlled by the Government and party) has had to do with the popularizing of Socialistic construction as embodied in the famous five-year plan, the booming of collective farming among the peasants, the extermination of the kulak, furtherance of the new Government loan, and promulgation of the idea that war constantly threatens Russia from the invasion of foreign Imperialists.

Isvestia, newspaper mouthpiece for the Government, says: "The election campaign must be conducted on the basis of self-criticism. We must disclose the difficulties of our growth. We must reveal our mistakes. However, we must not allow our class enemies—the Kuluk, Priest, Speculator, etc.—to replace our 'self-critic-

EINSTEIN RAPS AT MILITARISM

Father of Complex Scientfic Theory Arrives in United States.

WIFE DOES TRANSLATING.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11 (C.P.).—Albert Einstein, father of a scientific theory so complex that few human beings can understand it, landed today in the United States and gave a simple forceful message pleading for an end to militarism.

From the drawing-room of the Liner Belgenland he spoke in German:

"Kill the monster of militarism. Your political and economic position to-day is such that you can entirely destroy militarism whenever you set your hand to it."

The physicist's wife translated his address.

Surrounded by a reportorial multitude which stood on chairs about him to see over those ahead, Einstein sat with his wife at a table and remarked:

"This is just like a punch and judy show."

He showed his "relativity complex." A few minutes later when he drew a German friend aside from the phalanx cameramen and whispered, "I do not see them. I feel like I am on top of a high mountain and I do not look down."

OTTAWA SHELTER IS DRAWING CARD

NOT A GOV'T INSTITUTION.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 11 (C.P.).—The executive of the Canadian Legion has decided that it cannot possibly take care of veterans from other cities. Since the Ottawa Legion Shelter was opened last Saturday, more than 60 men have been given beds and over a hundred fed. The Minister of Public Works, Hon. H. A. Stewart, has acceded to the Legion's request for the lower floor of the present shelter building, which will enable the Legion to put in forty more beds, these being supplied by the Department of National Defence.

Other towns are now sending their destitute veterans to Ottawa to the shelter. It was reported that in two cases the mayors of Northern Ontario towns paid the fare for unemployed veterans to journey to Ottawa so they could find food and bed at the Ottawa Legion Shelter.

Col. R. Girouard of the Legion executive pointed out to-day the shelter is not a Government or municipal institution, but is being maintained by the Ottawa Branch of the Legion. It could not therefore undertake the care of veterans except those of Ottawa.

SYSTEM OF SPYS FOILED PLOTTERS

HUNDREDS ARRESTED.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 11. (AP)—The Daily Mail prints the purported details of a vast conspiracy by disgruntled Russians to overthrow Joseph Stalin.

The Mail, presenting the story as the explanation of reports of mutinies and other mysterious happenings in Russia last month, said the plan was to unseat the head of the Communist party and establish a directorate, including Leo Trotzky, Christian Rakovsky and Gregory S Zinovieff. The two latter were exiled with Trotzky in 1928.

Alexis I. Rykoff, who at various times has been under suspicion by the Stalin faction of the Communist party, and at one time made a humble retraction of his "heretical" activities, was named as another conspirator.

The plans failed, said The Mail, at the zero hour because of Stalin's superior spy system, and hundreds were arrested.

$1,000 CLAIMED FROM BUSH FIRE

Farmer Set Out Bush Fire and it Spread Into Neighbor's Lands.

IN HARVEY TOWNSHIP.

Fires spread. Wellington Tate found that out last May when he put out fires to burn brush on his clearing in Harvey Township. The fire, fanned by a breeze, spread across the road to the woods owned by Peter Graham, and now Graham is claiming $1,000 from Tate for damages wrought by the flames to the trees.

The case is being heard in the General Sessions of the Peace before His Honor Judge Huycke by a jury. J. A. O'Brien is acting for Graham and W. F. Huycke for the defendant, Tate.

Much in the case hangs about the actual value of the trees destroyed by the fire. Several witnesses estimated the number on the 25 acres, claimed to have been burned over, at 3,500. One estimated the value per tree at twenty cents.

Hugh Gibbons, a farmer in Harvey said that he and Peter Graham, the plaintiff, were attracted to the fire at about 11 o'clock the morning of May 11. The fire had spread from

BICKELL IS GIVEN $200 DAMAGES

$300 WAS CLAIMED.

Two hundred dollars is the damages the jury yesterday afternoon decreed that Evans Blewett, Smith Township farmer, should pay Bruce Bickell, a farmer in the same township. Bickell claimed $300 damages in the action, maintaining that due to an accident on the Lakefield road on September 19 in which Floyd Blewett, the defendant's son, had injured two of his horses and caused him other losses to that extent, when the boy hit the grader which the horses were drawing with his car.

The defence, conducted by G. N. Gordon, K.C., maintained that young Blewett did not have his father's permission to drive the car that day and therefore the father could not be held liable for the damages.

R. R. Hall, K.C., acting for the plaintiff, argued that since the evidence showed the boy had a driver's permit, had driven the car friquently on other occasions and was acting as his father's agent in running the farm during the father's absence, it must follow that the boy had virtual permission to use the car, if not actual permission.

Mr. Gordon stated that he would appeal the jury's decision.

In giving evidence in the case, Lillian Maud Blewett, wife of the defendant, Evans Blewett, said that she drove her husband's car and had an operator's permit. Floyd, her son had no occasion to use the car without his father's permission, she said. Instructions to her were that she was not to allow Floyd to drive the car only time he drove alone was when he went to see his girl.

On September 19, the day of the accident witness and her son drove to Peterborough and had a picnic with friends at the Lift Lock. After the picnic witness and her friends went to a theatre and she was going to drive home with them. Floyd had the car and was driving it home, she said.

Cross-examined, she admitted that she had the full right to drive the car at all times. The car was a family car, but was not for the full use of the whole family.

POULTRY SHOW IS CALLED OFF

First Time in 23 Years Winter Exhibit Will Not Be Held.

ECONOMIC REASONS.

For the first time in twenty-three years, Peterborough will not have a poultry show this winter.

Such was the decision reluctantly arrived at by members of the Peterborough Poultry Association at last night's regular meeting after the situation had been discussed from every angle and the prospects carefully reviewed. It was the opinion of those present that having regard to the economic conditions at present it would be inadvisable to attempt to hold a show this winter. Some hope was entertained that later on in 1931, say next December, it might be found possible to have a show in order that the yearly record might not be broken but even that is by no means certain at present.

The Peterborough Poultry Association has held a poultry show here every winter for twenty-two years in succession, and the event has gained a most enviable reputation among poultry men throughout the country. The annual show, while not receiving the support from the general public that its excellence merited, has nevertheless attracted a very large number of fine birds, and it is a matter of regret that financial conditions at this time have made it necessary to abandon the event for the present.

Outside of the show itself, the Association will carry on its usual activities during the winter. Regular meetings will be held, lectures arranged, and the customary program aimed at improving the quality of the poultry produced in this section of Ontario will be completed. The Association regrets most sincerely that circumstances have rendered the cancellation of this winter's show necessary and still hopes that before next year has passed that a show can be arranged.

Radical Socialist Asked To Form Gov't

PARIS, December 11 (C.P.). — Quitting the right and centre for the left, President Doumergue to-day asked Theodore Steeg, Radical Socialist Senator and former Resident General of French Morocco, to form a government to replace that of Andre Tardieu, which resigned a week ago after an adverse vote in the Senate.

M. Steeg said that he would give the President his reply this afternoon. He is the fourth man to be asked to solve the present ministerial crisis. Raymond Poincare refused because of ill-health, and Louis Barthou and Pierre Laval failed and had to return their mandates.

SANTIAGO DE CHILE, December 10 (C.P.). — An attempt against the lives of President Colonel Carlos Ibanez and members of his party was thwarted last night by Government agents who discovered and removed a bomb set to blow up the Presidential train as it neared the capital from the south.

Police and Government detectives, who had been watching the development of an "anarchist" plot against the President and his Government for days, watched while the conspirators placed ten kilos of dynamite under the railroad bridge across the Rio Maipo, 30 kilometers southwest of Santiago, and then dismantled the charge before the President's train passed over it.

At least four persons have been arrested. Their names were not learned.

Fine Charity Work Of Fire Department

The charity work of the Fire Department is gaining rapidly. Several contributions have been received, including winter clothing and underwear, toys, and a sack of potatoes. People are requested to give as much as they are able, especially in the grocery line, as very little has been received to date. Children have a wonderful chance to show their unselfishness and love of giving by bringing any old toys for which they no longer care, and the Fire Fighters will mend them up and distribute them with the same alacrity as they would speed to a fire and distribute water. If the contributor is unable to deliver gifts at the station, the Department will be glad to call in their cars.

The Firemen wish to acknowledge gifts from and express their thanks to the following: Fred Leach (toys), Murray Street Baptist Church (clothes), Fred Fowler (toys), "A Friend" (toys), Clara Bradshaw (toys), Jack Williams (toys), Mrs. A. Thackeray (toys), Mr. Elliott (clothes), Mrs. V. Hill (clothes and toys), T. H. (winter clothing), Mr. Atkinson (sack of potatoes).

Urge That Municipalities Be Allowked to Tap Hydro Lines—Do Own Distributing.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 11.—A long afternoon of debating resulted in the passing by the Ontario United Farmers of several resolutions pertaining to their various interests.

Following the presidential address by Bruce McNevin of Omemee, and the secretarys' report by J. J. Morrison, the meeting delved into a long list of resolutions concerning the operations of their various clubs and other subjects. In a number of instances a long discussion only led to the shelving of the subject involved until the next convention. The meeting, however, passed a resolution calling for the regular announcement of names of owners and publishers of all newspapers and other publications. Another resolution passed demanded that municipalities be allowed to tap Hpdro transmission lines and do their own distributing and that the 20-year payment plan for farmers be eliminated and the farmers put on the same power contract basis as municipalities. Three resolutions dealing with war and peace were referred to a special committee for further discussion.

Value of Co-operation

The meeting attempted to discover the reason for the increasing drop in membership and the failures through non-attendance of various clubs. W. A. Amos, of Palmerston, President of the co-operative movement, declared the movement would only be revived by individual leadership in these rural clubs He thought the farmers would appreciate the value of co-operation now that depression was in their midst.

The major cause for the present depression was placed by R. H. Halbert, past president, on the sale of liquor. He said they could not take 50 million dollars away from people for booze and yet expect to sell them their farm products.

The organization, he thought, should be used for the "uplift of the people—politically and socially" and "let the co-operative company take care of its own profits."

During the various discussions Mr McNevin "took the opportunity" of criticising the treatment of stock brokers convicted of "stealing the people's money." He thought they should be made to make restitution "to the last cent" and not be left off with a fine and a short prison term.

A meeting of the United Farm young people elected Russell Hare of Manitoulin, Haldimand County, as their President.

Oratorical honors went to Miss Bessie Bowman, of Guelph, Ont., representing the district of South Wellington.

Destitute Settlers Worrying Australia

LONDON, Dec. 10 (C. P. Cable).—The plight of more than 300 settlers in the State of Victoria, who went out under an Australian-English land scheme seven years ago, and are now asserted to be in a state of destitution, was brought up in the House of Commons last night. Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary for the Dominions, said the British Government could not be held responsible. "We certainly approved the scheme," he said, "but we made our contribution and there should be equal responsibility on the part of the Dominions."

The Minister explained that Prime Minister J. H. Scullin of Australia had stated during the Imperial Conference that an inquiry would be instituted by the Australian Government, which would do whatever was possible in the matter.

EMPIRE CHEESE FACTORY HEARS ANNUAL REPORT

Annual Meeting Shows Good Year of Business Considering Market Conditions.

SEVERAL SPEAKERS HEARD.

F. Peake is President For 1931 —Canadian Bank of Commerce Retains Account.

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 11.—A fine attendant of patrons marked the annual meeting of the Empire Cheese Factory, held yesterday afternoon. Officers for the ensuing year were elected, and are as follows, President, F. Peake; secretary, E. Mitchell, directors, Frank Lee, Charles Godden, William Haig, F. Peake and E. Mitchell and auditor, E. Craighead.

The annual report was read by the secretary, covering each month, and the auditor presented the total report for the year. This was as follows:

Season's Report

Pounds of milk, 1,704,084; pounds of cheese, 142,702; money from cheese, $21,647.15; cost of manufacturing, $2,272.16; total pounds of butter fat, 3,822; money derived from butter, $942.58; cost of manufacturing butter, $305.76; average pound of milk per pound of cheese, 11.94; average price per pound of cheese, $15.16; average price per standard of milk, $39.75; average price per pound of butter fat, $41.10; balance on hand $82.85.

The question of the ice was discussed and it was decided that the north side be responsible for putting it in the coming season. A motion was also put on the books to the effect that no milk cans be used by the patrons for the drawing of whey. It was also decided that all non-patrons be allowed to buy butter at the same price as in the past.

H. W. Lapp, manager of the Campbellford branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce addressed the meeting, expressing his appreciation of the handling of the factory account during the past year. He stated that he had enjoyed doing business both with the factory and individually with the patrons, and hoped that the account would remain with his institution. Mr. Lapp stated that he had done all that was possible to make the year's business easy, and had tried to meet the factory in the matter of rates.

Bank Managers Speak

Following this address, J. R. Smith, manager of the Campbellford branch of the Bank of Montreal, spoke to the gathering, stating that he had been asked by some of the patrons to attend the meeting and to solicit the factory account for his bank for the coming year. He said that he was glad to have this opportunity, as the Bank of Montreal had handled the factory business for many years in the past, a former manager of the institution being instrumental in founding the Empire factory, and for this reason he felt that the Bank of Montreal should have the account. Mr. Smith continued by speaking on the cheese situation, stating that he did not think that the farmer would get much more for his cheese next year, owing to the condition of the market, declaring that cheese to many was a luxury. He saw, however, a bright prospect in the fact that the cost of living would be lower in the future, and this fact would counteract the low price of cheese. The speaker also gave a description of the home market, stating that in his opinion the Canadian cheese was handicapped by the improper method of packing, explaining that Swiss cheese as it is placed on the Canadian market, was a very strong competitor.

The question of the bank account was, on motion, balloted upon, which resulted in the Canadian Bank of Commerce retaining it.

J. A. Murray, local cheese instructor, addressed the meeting. He stated that although the cheese situation had not been good in the past year, yet in his opinion the dairy business was the best outlet for milk in Ontario. He was pleased to state that the quality of the cheese in the district was good, and that the price had been on an average one half cent higher in Central Ontario than it had been in the east. The Empire factory had had but few pick-outs during the year, Mr. Murray stated, explaining that this defect was not the fault of factory conditions, but that the blame rested with one of the patrons. He said that they had a good maker in Mr. Shillinglaw and that he had done well for the factory during the past year.

The speaker also touched on the Herd competition, explaining the winners and the size of their holdings, and declaring that in entering the contest the patrons were not only helping themselves, but the factory also.

Of the manufacture of cheese Mr. Murray stated that to bring in the money a factory must have plenty of first grades. The one big trouble in the district this year had been rancid flavor, and this, he said, was put down as a patron's defect, and not a mechanical failing. He was pleased to say that this group had been lowest in workmanship defects this year.

Mr. Murray concluded by saying that he was pleased with the factory conditions as they existed at the Empire factory.

WEDDINGS

GARDNER—CLARKE

HAVELOCK, Dec. 11. (Examiner Correspondence).—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clarke, King street, Havelock, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Saturday, Dec. 6, at 11 a.m. when their daughter Elfreida M., became the bride of Dr. Gerald H. Gardner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gardner of Norwood.

The bride who was unattended, was given in marriage by her father and looked charming in a gown of egg shell pink satin faced crepe with shoes and hose to match and wore a bridal wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses.

Rev. Dr. Lennox, pastor of Knox Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony which took place under an arch of evergreens in the spacious drawing room. Mrs. John McConnell sister of the groom played the wedding march.

After the ceremony, at which only the immediate families were present, the bride led the way to the large dining room, which was beautifully decorated in a pink and white scheme, where a sumptuous repast was served.

The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful fur neckpiece, to the pianist a silver flower basket.

After the wedding breakfast, the happy couple left for a trip to Kingston, Ottawa and Montreal, the bride travelling in a dress of mountain green, with shoes and hose to match, and brown broadcloth coat trimmed with muskrat, with hat and accessories matching. On their return, the happy young couple will take up their residence in Havelock.

Action Result of Report

The arrests came about as the result of the report submitted to the council by Judge J. H. Denton on his inquiry into York Township affairs. County Crown Attorney Frank Moore issued the warrants after a conference with Magistrate William Keith and Chief Constable John Faulds.

Of the six former members of the council Messrs. Woolner and Little were the only members of the 1930 council and they resigned after Judge Denton's report was made which stated all six were "of dull moral perception" or "actually and consciously dishonest."

The investigation by Judge Denton was ordered by the Township Council on motion of Reeve W. J. Gilbert-Dean after an audit had revealed huge discrepancies in township contracts for the past five years.

The former Township Engineer, D. K.C. Strathearn, was dismissed as were numerous other members of the engineering staff in accordance with the recommendations of the report. Judge Denton's report was made in October after a lengthy investigation which started in August, was adjourned for about three weeks and resumed in September.

Admission of several of the arrested former councillors that they had received $500 victory bonds from Holden, and admission by Strathearn of receiving several thousands of dollars from contractors featured the evidence at the investigation.

Highway Engineers In Havelock District

HAVELOCK, Dec. 11 (Exam. Correspondence).—Havelock was again visited by highway engineers last week, when a party surveyed a line through the village north of the C.P.R. Citizens are now hopeful that the new road may eventually run through the village. Latest rumors are that the road will cross the C.P.R. at the present crossing in Norwood, but by an overhead bridge, and come on down through Havelock and join the present road east of the stone house crossing in Belmont.

British overseas trade is reported still to be declining.

WARKWORTH BOWLING BANQUET LARGELY ATTENDED BY MEMBERS

ENJOY GOOD YEAR.

(Examiner Correspondence)

HASTINGS, Dec. 11.—The Trent Valley Bowling League banquet in Warkworth on Wednesday night was very largely attended, delegates were present from the five towns in the league, namely, Brighton, Norwood, Havelock and Hastings.

The banquet tables were set in the Home Cafe and great credit must go to Mrs. Summers, proprietor of the cafe for the sumptuous dinner. After the delegates had partaken of the dinner they adjourned to the Community Hall for the business part of the meeting.

The league had enjoyed a very prosperous year, starting as it did with four teams for the first, Havelock joining for the second half schedule.

Mr. Riggar before calling on D. B. Cutcliffe of Norwood to present Warkworth with the winning shield, explained how he with the help of the managers of the Royal Bank branches had secured from the Head Office of the Royal Bank the handsome shield.

Mr. Cutcliffe, in present the shield to George Dawe, president of the Warkworth Club, said it was with great pleasure that he presented the shield to Warkworth. He also touched on the fine sportsmanship that had been shown by all the clubs during the past year and hoped that it would continue on this year.

Mr. Dawe in accepting the shield thanked those who were in any way responsible for getting it for the League. He was also very pleased that it was won by the Warkworth club for the first time. Mr. Dawe expressed his belief that if districts were formed all over the Province and each district winner play-off, it would eventually come to a Provincial play-off and then a Dominion which would do a great deal of good for the sport of bowling.

Before the election of officers took place the minutes of the first meeting and a special meeting held during the year were read, and on motion were adopted. The secretary, Mr. Neal, then read the financial report, which showed the league to be in very good standing at the end of their first year.

Before the election of officers Dr. Carlton of Norwood was called to give the meeting some idea of what took place at the District meeting held in Peterborough a short time ago.

Officers Elected.

The following officers were elected for 1931:

President—P. M. Grover, Norwood.

1st Vice-President—C. E. Jones, Hastings.

2nd Vice-President—Geo. Dawe, Warkworth.

3rd Vice-President—H. G. Mathison, Havelock.

4th Vice-President—C. O. Sharpe, Brighton.

Secretary-Treasurer — Mr. Neal, Warkworth.

The executive committee is composed of the president and the four vices. The schedule, which will be a double one, winners of the first half to meet the winners of the second half for the shield, or in the event of the same club winning both halves, they would become holders of the trophy. Games to count in the schedule same as last year. The play-offs to be home-and-home games, and in event of a tie, to be played off on neutral grounds.

The meeting then went into discussion on rules to be used. Last year they made a lot of their own. This year, however, it was decided to follow as closely as possible the rules laid down by the Lawn Bowling Association. Another point that was up for a very lengthy discussion was the classification of players in each club. The object of some of the delegates present was to have it so that rinks could not be packed when playing against each other in league games. This would give members in all the clubs an equal chance in the league. However, after much discussion, the matter was left over as it was felt impossible to do it in clubs where they only had a small membership, sometimes hardly able to get enough players together to go away for a league game.

Council. I know that, because I was here at that time."

Year of Plenty Was 1921.

Mr. Hartt's inference was that Cobourg was thoroughly satisfied with the $2,000 rental in one of the best years this country had ever experienced.

The discussion ranged broadly over its general theme, from the probable terms or understanding in the first lease about 1860 to the possibility of transferring the counties' headquarters to Port Hope, or of finding another building in Cobourg.

"Technically, I suppose you can pull out" said Mr. Davidson, "but it is only common sense to believe that there was an original agreement by which the counties would occupy part of this building. Cobourg's council of that time would not have put up a building as large as this if they were not assured that the county would occupy a considerable part of it. We don't want you to pull out and there's no use of that kind of talk. We feel that Cobourg has been losing money at a rental of $2,000 a year since 1921. We believe the two councils can get together and settle this on a fair basis.

The counties' response was the committee's motion proffering $2,000 for five year. But, if Cobourg reject this "status quo ante" what will happen if the lease expires and the counties council finds itself homeless? Of course Mayor Wilkmott is expected to accede to the counties request, by calling a special meeting of the town council tonight to deal with the proposed renewal of the lease at $2,000 a year.

Payments to High School and Collegiate Institute for education of counties' pupils were approved as follows: Norwood, $99; Oshawa $1,563.60; Orono, $4,958.70; Trenton, $4,054.65; Picton, $32.96; Peterborough, $754.20.

Campbellford Vacancy.

The appointment of a successor to J. C. Birmingham, Campbellford High School trustee, was laid over to January.

Deputy-Reeve Stone reported the cost of a newly installed heating system at the jail to have been $1,167.36.

Mr. Stone resigned the chairmanship of the Property Committee, because of his indisposition, and is succeeded by G. F. Annis of Darlington.

Tate's place across the road onto about an acre of Graham's property. Witness had no doubt the fire came from Tate's "burns."

Witness and Graham called neighbors and secured shovels and pails to begin fighting the fire. Within two hours the fire rangers weer on the scene and also about 200 neighbors. The men engaged in stamping out the blaze, plowing furrows and building backfires.

He said the growth of trees was thick. The trees averaged about one to 35 years of age. Witness estimated about 2500 trees on Graham's property were destroyed.

Cross-examined he estimated that 65 trees of 6 inch diameter and better were left standing.

George Potts, resident of Lindsay, an experienced lumber man, said that last spring was abnormally dry. He said that previous to the fire Graham's property was a fairly nice re-forestration proposition. The trees largely consisted of evergreens. He estimated that 800 to 1000 Christmas trees could have been secured off the property.

Peter Graham, the plaintiff, said he had been a resident of Harvey for 40 years.

Archie Henderson of Union Creek, a fire ranger and lumber man, said that he saw the fire on Tate's property at about 9 o'clock, May 11. At that time the wind was north but later it blew from the south-east carrying the fire over onto Graham's property. At 4 o'clock the fire was burning on Graham's property and the men began fighting the flames. Tate used his team in back-cutting the fire.

The case is continuing to day.

Bandits' Confessions Frees Quebec Youth

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 11 (C.P.)—Eric Hugill was "honorably discharged" yesterday by Judge Widdifield on a charge of armed robbery of the Bank of Nova Scota at Agincourt in September.

Hugill was arrested in Windsor and brought to Toronto, but subsequently two men, arrested for another robbery admitted that they had also staged the Agincourt hold-up. They were convicted and sent to Portsmouth penitentiary for 16 years with lashes added.

Hugill's counsel said that in this case it should be a most "honorable discharge." His honor remarked there was only one discharge but possibly defence counsel had accomplished his ends by his statement. Hugill had previously been released on bail furnished by his father.

REV. ARPAD GOVAN DIES IN OTTAWA

Old Campbellford Boy and Well-Known Clergyman is Dead.

76 YEARS OLD

OTTAWA, Dec. 11.—(Special to the Examiner)—Rev. Arpad Govan, B.A., B.D., inister of Williamstown United church, died in Ottawa December 8 in his 76th year.

Dr. Govan was one of the best known clergymen in Eastern Ontario and was minister of Williamstown congregation for over forty years. At a recent meetting of Glengarry Presbytery of the United Church held at Kirk Hill, Dr. Govan resigned the office of secretary of presbytery, and a striking tribute was paid to his work and character by his brethren. The resolution referred to the fact that "for the past twelve years Dr. Govan has been the efficient secretary of presbytery, and during the transition period in connection with Church Union it was of inestimable value to have an official of suh tact and insight in charge of presbytery matters. His knowledge of church law and procedure, his unfailing courtesy and kind consideration, his conscientious attention to his work, and his intimate acquaintance with the different congregations assisted greatly in facilitating all church interests within the presbytery."

Born at Campbellford, Ont., on March 11, 1855, Dr. Govan was the son of Walter Govan. He attended the public and high schools of his native town, and graduated from Queen's University, Kingston, in 1877, being gold medalist in mathematics in the Arts course of that year.

Of special interest is the fact that Williamstown congregation was organized in 1887; the present St. Andrew's church was built ni 1912; the centenary celebrations of the church was held in 1912; and the fortieth anniversary of Dr. Govan's ministry as pastor of that congregation was celebrated in 1926. His name is treasured in the hearts and homes of many families in that section of Eastern Ontario for his Christian character and devoted service.

During the one hundred and forty-three years of history of St. Andrew's church, Williamstown, there have only been five ministers in charge of the congregation.

In 1913 Dr. Govan was honored by bieng elected moderator of the Montreal and Ottawa Synod of the Presbyterian Church, and in June of this year, he was unanimously chosen as resident of the Montreal and Ottawa Conference of the United Church. Queens Theological College, Kingston, conferred on him the degree of DD. in 1923.

Dr. Govan is survived by his widow, who was formerly Miss Mary Tait of L'Amble, Ont., to whom he was married in 1889, and three daughters, Miss Margaret Govan of Toronto, Miss Maybelle Govan of Williamstown and Mrs. T. K. Waddell of Findley avenue Ottawa. One, son Walter paid the supreme sacrifice in the Great War, being killed in 1917.

The remains were conveyed to Williamstown and the funeral service was held at St. Andrew's United church, Williamstown, on Wednesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. The service was in charge of conference and presbytery officers.

AN IMPORTANT CONFERENCE.

Canadians will sincerely hope that Hon. Parker J. Moloney, Minister of Markets for Australia, may prove a good prophet in his prediction that trade between Australia and Canada will be very materially increased by the conference that is to be held with Canadian Ministers next week.

Hon. Mr. Moloney declares that this result will materialize if present plans are carried out, and the people of this country, realizing the value to Canada of increased trade within the Empire, will await the result of the conference with keen interest.

Preliminary negotiations have already taken place, but up to the present there has been nothing given out as to the details of the plans that are being pressed—in fact, there has not been a hint as to the items most likely to be affected by the new treaty that is likely to be the result of next week's conference.

It is to be hoped that whatever trade agreement may be reached it will be mutually satisfactory; otherwise it is not likely to survive very long, as our recent experience in regard to New Zealand butter has shown.

The Australian-Canadian conference is a matter of great importance to both countries, and there will be general anxiety for its successful culmination.

A WONDERFUL CONTRIBUTION.

The Examiner's Christmas Relief Fund has been given a wonderful impetus through the generosity of J. A. Stewart, manager of the Capitol Theatre, and the co-operation of Famous Players, which are making it possible for the holding of a benefit midnight performance on Thursday of next week, every cent of the proceeds of which will be devoted to unemployment relief.

This splendid contribution, which will undoubtedly add a very material sum to the Christmas fund, is thoroughly appreciated by The Examiner, which takes this opportunity of commending the benefit program to its readers as one entirely deserving of support.

As has been said, 100 per cent. of the proceeds of the affair will be turned over for relief purposes—not a dollar being required for expenses.

The Capitol Theatre is being supplied without charge by Famous Players, the Capitol staff are donating their services, Mr. Stewart is furnishing the picture program, The Examiner will provide advertising space and tickets, and the tickets are being sold by committees whose work is purely voluntary.

That is remarkable co-operation that should ensure the complete financial success of this benefit performance if the public responds in the same spirit.

There is need for every dollar that can be raised, and The Examiner bespeaks a cheery response when the citizens are called upon to buy tickets for this most interesting event.

THE POULTRY SHOW IS OFF.

The announcement that because of present conditions the Peterborough Poultry Association has decided to abandon its annual poultry show for this winter after a splendid record of twenty-two successful shows, will be received with regret.

The decision was arrived at most reluctantly, and the officers and members of the association have the sympathy of the public because of the circumstances that have made it necessary to abandon what has been a most successful annual event.

It has required enthusiasm and careful planning to stage a poultry show for twenty-two years in succession, and to have to experience a break in the chain at this time must be a great disappointment to those willing workers whose energy and time and experience have unhesitatingly been given in the interest of the Poultry Association and of the annual exhibition.

At faint glimmer of hope exists that while there will be no show this winter, 1931 may yet see the association able to announce that the year after will not be a complete blank.

The Peterborough Poultry Show, which for over two decades has been attracting a very fine class of birds and has played a prominent part in encouraging the development of better poultry strains in this part of Ontario, is too useful and important event to be completely scrapped, and it is to be hoped that it will be found possible to arrange a 1931 show toward the end of next year.

The association has done a great work on behalf of the poultry industry here, and the public shares its regret at the temporary halting of one of its major activities.

GIVE PRIVATE ENTERPRISE A CHANCE.

With much sounding of trumpets there has been heralded from Ottawa the birth of a new organization "for the betterment of Canadian radio," which sponsors the idea of a national broadcasting company and objects to the present broadcasting conditions in this country.

So far as The Examiner is able to size up the situation, Canadian radio enthusiasts are not demanding to be saved by any such organization as is now being promoted.

There is not a great deal wrong with radio in this country except that Canadian stations are being starved in the matter of power as compared with United States broadcasting units; this condition is, of course, not the fault of the stations themselves, but of the official attitude adopted toward them, with the result that for two years applications on the part of Canadian stations for increased power have been summarily rejected by the federal authorities.

While the greater power available to American stations leads to a deluge of United States broadcasts into Canadian loud-speakers, the Dominion's radio stations and commercial sponsors of a good many programs deserve credit for what they are doing in the providing of distinctively Canadian radio fare that compares in quality with the best offered elsewhere.

Before private enterprise in the handling of radio broadcasting in this country is condemned out of hand, private enterprise should get a square deal.

And for some time it has been getting anything but that, which accounts for the fact that Canadian stations which have been anxious to increase their power are still striving manfully with weak units to compete with their foreign high-powered rivals.

THE RISING TIDE.

The rising tide of unemployment in the United Kingdom is the cause of the greatest perturbation to the Labor Government. That administration achieved power largely through the same condition, which has grown steadily worse in the last couple of years, and it is predicted the total out of work may reach the stupendous figure of 3,000,000 during the winter. Last week's figures showed a total of $2,300,000.

The unemployment fund, fashioned to work on its own financial basis when the unemployed are fewer than 1,000,000, has gone in debt to the treasury almost $300,000,000, and the Government has asked for authorization to borrow $50,000,000 more from the treasury. Otherwise the unemployment fund would disappear before January 1. It is not difficult to understand why in such a situation the Government's proposal to give doles to children for going to school between the ages of 14 and 15, is not a universally popular measure.

There are no indications that the Government has succeeded in making a bargain with David Lloyd George on repeal of the Trades Disputes Act. This law, passed after the general strike in 1926, makes another general strike a crime. The MacDonald Government has promised the Left Wingers to repeal this law, and at the recent Socialist convention pledged itself to do something about it before the end of the year. It is probable the Government will soon bring in a repeal bill, but will not, for tactical reasons, press the bill before the Christmas holidays.

The Government's situation is made somewhat more painful by the fact there is no sign the unemployment increase is stopping. Many Englishmen expect the figures to go as high as 3,000,000 this winter. This, however, would mean a much faster increase than the 20,000 to 25,000 rise weekly in recent months. If Mr. Snowden has to find $150,000,000, the alleged shortage of treasury receipts, plus $350,000,000 for unemployment fund borrowings, it is evident his budget will not be good news for the British taxpayers. Since the income tax is said to have reached a point beyond which it will not produce more revenue, there is a good deal of speculation on where the Chancellor of the Exchequer is going to find the money. But no one doubts he will do so.

The whole situation may strengthen the argument of the Baldwin party that the time has come to resort to indirect customs duty taxation, because the well of direct taxation have been drained dry.—St. Catharines Standard.

A CHINESE BOY'S ACHIEVEMENT.

If a Canadian boy were to go with his parents to China when he was eleven years of age, not knowing a syllable of the language, and had to go to a Chinese school, study with other Chinese children, learn the language, and cram into four years all the subjects that the other boys, (who had the advantage of knowing the language all along), learned in eight years, it would generally be conceded by Canadians that a superhuman and impossible task was being set. Reversing the positions, it would seem that a Chinese boy coming to Canada at the age of eleven would have a similarly hopeless prospect.

In St. Thomas there have been some remarkably bright Chinese boys who outstripped local boys in the same classes, and it might not be so surprising to St. Thomasites to know that Wilfred Wai-nong Quong, formerly of Moose Jaw, and now of Boston, performed this prodigious feat.

Wilfred Wai-nong Quong came to Canada eight years ago, when he was eleven years old. His father was a humble laundryman, and located at Moose Jaw. He could not speak a word of English, but he went to school, learned the language, (which must be about as difficult for a Chinese as Chinese would be to a Canadian boy), passed all the examinations of an eight years' course in four years, went through high school and matriculated! An extraordinary feat which, if accomplished by a Canadian boy who for some reason or other had not been able to go to school until he was eleven, and who, in addition, knew the language, would be paragraphed from one end of the Dominion to the other. It is such a stupendous achievement that it is almost incredible.

In his peregrinations through Canada, Dr. Tehyi Hsieh came across this lad and conferred upon him the "Friendship Scholarship" which he founded. It maintains, at Emerson College, the Chinese boy in Canada showing the most promise. This scholarship not only carries tuition, but maintenance, and also the guardianship of Dr. Hsieh, in the role of god-father.

Wilfred Wai-nong Quong becomes a member of Dr. Hsieh's own family and is treated as a son. He had to have another name when the transition was made, and in the presence of Mrs. MacClanahan, mother of the wife of Sir Wilfred Grenfell, Dr. Hsieh conferred upon him the Christian name of the great medical missionary. And it may be taken for granted that Wilfred Wai-nong Quong will do honor to that name, and be worthy of his brilliant new "father."

Canadians seldom exhibit a personal interest in the quiet, industrious, inoffensive Chinese who go about their business so efficiently, without making their presence known more than is necessary. But the record of Wilfred must cause the ordinary citizen to pause and ponder what manner of men and boys these are, to wonder what latent potentialities smolder under their somewhat suppressed existence, and to entertain for them a new respect and admiration.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Mayor Wemp and Sam McBride might be persuaded to put on a bout for the benefit of Toronto's unemployed.

And now it's the attempt to subsidize grand opera that is getting the British Government into trouble. Probably a subsidized jazz band would be more popular.

Premier Ramsay MacDonald has appointed a royal commission to enquire into the dole system. It has not yet been announced that Premier Ferguson will be an important witness.

Make your Christmas shopping this year serve a double purpose, of giving pleasure to friends you remember and jobs to Canadian workers.

There are scores of Peterborough families in need of the necessaries of life and without hope of anything savoring of Christmas cheer unless assistance is forthcoming. The Examiner's Christmas Relief Fund offers a chance for the more fortunate to help those who are in need.

The honor of staging the best radio comedy of the current season must be given to Moscow.

JEAN'S SANTA CLAUS

By JULIE ANNE MOORE

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

Oh, Lord! If I have to go through another day like yesterday, I shouldn't have ordered Phil out of the house, but what could I do? A fist fight outside my door. Lionel was equally responsible, but, I suppose I expected more of Phil. Can I ever foregt it! They were like two angry dogs. But I souldn't have been so harsh with Phil. He doesn't understand these New York people and he probably thought . . . Heaven knows what he thought, but he must have imagined he was protecting me. And now it's all over. I might write Phil and try to explain. No; I couldn't he'd misinterpret that. Why did they behave like such children! I went to the office, alone. All day Lionel was trying to catch me alone, but I evaded him. I'm sick, sick! I wish I had never left Kelsey. There's been nothing but trouble since I came here. And now Mollie's added to all my other worries. Something is breaking her heart, but she won't tell me anything. I woke up in the middle of the night last night and found her crying, and this morning she cut me off short when I tried to talk to her and went out without saying goodbye. Why, why did I ever come to this miserable city?

Jean left the office at eleven-thirty, chiefly to get away from Lionel. He had made a nuisance of himself all morning, explaining, apologizing, pleading. But her humiliation was too sincere to be forgotten so easily, and she gave him no encouragement.

Her plans for the miniature baby distribution were moving rapidly to a head. The manufacturers had agreed to pack and wrap each individual doll for mailing. On Tuesday she had written them suggesting that if they would provide office room, she would move her force of workers to their plant in lower Manhattan where the girls would prepare address labels and assist in putting them on the packages.

This morning she had received a telephone call from the general manager of the factory offering not only ample office space but the service of ten of his own girls to work under her direction, gratis, and urging that the work be started at once inasmuch as they barely had two weeks left.

For the past few days new names had been pouring into the office as a result of the second list published in the newspapers. This morning, however, there had been but a few stragglers, and Jean assumed that the city had been about as thoroughly combed as was physically possible. To-morrow, then, her girls would be moved to the factory and the last fever of work would begin.

As she strolled aimlessly along Fifth Avenue now, however, she was conscious of a feeling of uneasiness about the whole plan. Was she managing it as efficiently as someone with more experience in such work might have done? Had she, in fact, exhausted every possible source for names of little girls who were entitled to miniature babies? Certainly she could think of nothing that she had neglected.

The air was pregnant with the promise of Christmas to-day. Everywhere Jean saw it, and felt it, and despite her troubles was moved to delightful little sensations of expectancy because of its nearness. Once she had said to Phillip that no girl ever outgrows the illusion of Santa Clau. Now she knew how truly she had spoken. The thought carried her back through the years to her childhood, when both her mother and father were living and Christmas was a time for gaily decorated trees, and hung stockings, and at least a week of indescribable ecstasy.

The thrills of those irresponsibly happy days were almost as fresh in retrospection as they had been then. Not for many years now had there been such delightful ceremonies for her as the dressing of a tree, or the hanging of the most commodious available stocking—but the magic of the season remained.

For a time it had seemed that the approaching holiday would hold a new promise for her in Phillip's threat. That, she had thought once, would be her one and only Christmas present; Phillip—and his inevitable marriage license. But—now there was nothing. Nothing but the profound satisfaction of knowing that what she had missed in happiness she was instrumental in giving to thousands of New York's little tots.

Now and again as she wandered along Fifth Avenue, she had stopped to stare into beautifully dressed shop windows, but less because she was interested by what was in them than unconsciously she sought a fixed object upon which to project her thoughts.

But now she found herself gazing upon a masterpiece of taste and restraint in window decorating, a fairly large window, artistically appointed with three pieces of Louis XIV, and displaying—carelessly thrown across the back of a chair in the centre—an exquisite ermine wrap.

The immaculately white wrap flashed upon Jeances consciousness like a burst of sunlight. Never had she seen anything so beautiful, so infinitely desirable. Mentally she reached through the thick plate-glass, gathere it up in her arms and held it eagerly to her hungry heart.

"Oh, Lord," she thought naively, "it's a sin to want it; but I do. Was there ever anything like it? It's gorgeous! Gorgeous!"

She leaned against the window, her little nose flattened on the glass, her big eyes staring greedily. And yet if she could have analyzed her emotions, she would have known that it was not simply the costly wrap that held her enthralled, but everything for which it stood, wealth, leisure, luxury. It was the emblem of that ratified social atmosphere of which every poor little girl dreams, and to which one in a million is elevated by extraordinary good fortune or cunning or both. Desirable enough in itself, it was the symbol of a remote plane of life infinitwly more desirable.

"I'll cancel the original order, Santa Claus," she thought with a whimsical little smile. "I asked for adventure, and you couldn't wait until Christmas to give it to me. All right, old fellow, but I've had plenty, if it's all the same to you. Now take me less seriously and put me down on the list for that wrap. Not really, you understand," she added quickly. "Heavens, no! I'd have to have a million dollars besides to wear it But just kid me alongabout it. Let me think I'm going to get it. That will be enough for me. Just thinking about it."

Someone stood behind her, apparently gazing over her shoulder at the ermine wrap. A deep, gentle voice said: 'You really like it so much, Jean?"

For a moment she stood frozen, her face still to the window. Then, slowly, she turned and looked up into the smiling face of the amused young man behind her. And for no reason she could have assigned, as her hands reached out and rested lightly on his arms, two tiny tears slipped down her hot cheeks and fell upon her topcoat.

"Sandy . . ."

It was no cry of joy, nor of surprise but a varely audible whisper.

"Oh, Sandy, I'm glad."

The smile faded from his lips. Understanding nothing but the obvious emotion of this strange little creature before him, he bent over and kissed her, softly.

There before one of the most exclusive shops on Fifth Avenue—which is to say, the world—Sandy kissed Jean full on her lips, blissfully unconscious of the hundred who might have observed them had they not been too busy observing objects they found more interesting. There on 5th ave. Sandy gently touched her burning lips with his own, and the dark clouds that had been gathering about her were suddenly dissipated. Strangely, unaccountably, Jean was serenely happy.

But presently, when she was able to return his smile, she was full of questions. When did he come? How had he found her? Had he come looking for her? Where was he going now? Couldn't he see she was being consumed by curiosity?

Patiently Sandy enlightened her. He had arrived half an hour before and gone straight to the office. Lionel had told him she had gone out early. He had been accompanied from Boston by the daddy of the Miniature Baby Plan and had to go immediately to take lunch with him at his hotel. He had decided to walk on the remote chance that he might encounter her on the way. And for a great deal that he had to tell her, as well as for answers to the thousand other questions that loomed in her blue eyes, they would both have to wait until to-night, perhaps to-morrow.

She had walked part of the way with him. "I can't detain you any longer, Sandy," she told hi presently; "and yet I can't let you go, I've needed you terribly, Mr. Laughing Eyes."

Hat off, he took her hand in his and squeezed it tenderly. "And believe it or not, Miss Adventure," he smiled, 'I've missed you, even more terribly. If you only knew how, but . . ." suddenly—"I simply must go, Jean. I'm late now."

Sandy did not appear at the office during the afternoon, but knowing that he was back was enough. Jean's skies were rosy. She radiated happiness, even in the melancholy presence of the penitent Lionel, and going home at five she walked on air, buoyed by the sense of Sandy's nearness and the memory of his kiss.

Presently, she knew, she would have to face reality once more, a stark, confusing, painful reality. But for the moment she was magnificently happy.

However, she face reality sooner than she expected, for arriving at her room she found Mollie with her face buried in a pillow and the bed shaking with her sobs.

She threw an arm about the prostrate girl and pressed her cheek to the tear-stained face on the pillow.

"Mollie, Mollie. Won't you tell me what's wrong, darling? You've been worrying your heart out for two or three days. You can't . . ."

"I've got to tell you now!" Mollie sobbed. "I didn't want to, but I've got to"

'Please, Mollie. Look at me and tell me. What's happened?"

But Mollie kept her face in the pillow. "You ought to know!" she cried, emphasizing the last word.

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN

Although Mollie refused to be more definite, Jean surmised what might be the trouble. But the most obvious and rational solution of her trouble, Mollie persistently rejected. She would not, she told Jean with an air of finality, make any effort to find her husband. Him she held responsible for what she saw as her present tragic situation, and "I hate him! I hate him!" she cried out passionately as Jean attempted to reason with her.

"But, Mollie," Jean pleaded, 'don't you understand that you can't go on alone? We simply must find him."

"Do you want me to live with a man I despise?" Mollie demanded.

"Of course not. But you don't despise him, Mollie. One of you made a mistake the day you separated. From the little you've told me, I think you've fel all along that the fault was largely your own. It's a matter of pride, Mollie. I'm almost sure of that, and it's time now to put pride aside."

She did not need to have Mollie tell her that it was the threatened loss of freedom and the economic difficulties presented that hurt most.

No matter how you think you feel toward him, you can't shut your eyes to his obligation."

Mollie looked at her quickly. "Obligation? You don't mean . . . But you're right! It is his obligation!"

"No, not his alone, Mollie. You've got to be fair. But it's your duty to find him and tell him. Your duty to yourself and to . . ."

Mollie shuddered and a nervous hand flew up in protest. "I know. Don't talk any more about it. Not now, Jean."

"All right. But remember this: the time for pride and vanity has passed. I'm not nosing into your affairs, Mollie, but I don't mean to stand by with my hands folded while you worry your heart out. Either you find your husband and reach some sort of understanding with him or I will."

Mollie's sad little smile was one of mingled gratitude and apprehension. 'You're a peach, Jean." The smile disappeared. Her brows hovered over hard little eyes. "But you leave him to me. I'll find him. I'll find him and I'll tell him plenty."

What a world of drama could be put into this diary if I could only be frank with myself. But there are some things that cannot be put into writing. I can think about them, but when I put them in black and white they frighten me. Last night I came home riding on a cloud, gloriously happy. For the time I had forgotten all my troubles. It was just as if they'd never been. And then I came up to the room and found Mollie crying. She's in desperate trouble and there seems to be nothing I can do to help. No wonder she's been so worried. If it were me, I . . . I don't know what I would do. I don't think I could stand it. Not, at least, if I were in Mollie's situation. As a matter of fact there's only ont thing to be done, and she's promised me she'll do it. But even if she tries, she may fail. Sandy came back yesterday. Found me gawking at the most magnificent ermine wrap that was ever made, in a Fifth Avenue shop. I'll never forget that moment when I turned around and found him there behind me. He's wonderful! The man he calls the "daddy" of the Miniature Baby Plan came back from Boston with him. I'm dying to see what he looks like. But suppose he doesn't like the way I've handled his precious plan? But I can't worry about that now. There's enough to turn me gray-headed without it. I think there ought to be a law against letting a poor girl see an ermine wrap like that one. Could I step out with a drape like that decorating me? Could I?

Sandy was waiting for her when Jean arrived at the office. He held out a hand to her and led the way into his office.

"Make yourself comfortable," he suggested, seating himself on his desk. "This conference is likely to go on far into the night if we don't have any interruptions."

She spurned the chair he indicated and pulled herself up on the desk beside him "This is more comfortable," she explained, smiling. "Is this to be a business or semi-business session?"

"The business session is over. Lionel has given me a complete report on your activities since I've been away.I"

Her face reddened, wondering if Lionel's report had been confined to business.

"He tells me," Sandy resumed, "that your clerical force moved out to the factory this morning. You know, Jean, you're a born executive. I hate to think what might have happened to the Miniature Baby Plan if you hadn't come along."

"So it's to be a mush session. Is that it? Now be serious. Not too serious, but . . . tell me what you've been doing in Boston."

"But I am serious," Sandy insisted, "and I won't be diverted so easily. You've been doing a splendid job, and you must know it. When we first started, that morning you came in and took hold. I'd have wagered good money we couldn't have managed delivery of more than half those dolls by Christmas. Lionel tells me you're going to get the all out with a day or two to spare."

"Lionel doesn't know," Jean told him soberly. "We don't know until the last m nute. But I'll admit the prospects look good. But you dodged my questions as to how you've been occupying your time while you were away."

Sandy laughed easily, "You wouldn't believe me if I told you. Golf, riding, motoring, swimming."

"Swimming? In December?"

"Indoors, of course," he smiled. "As a guest of our Miniature Baby Plan daddy I've had access to all his luxuries, and there are several. The swimming pool is one of the minor conveniences. Would you like to live in a place like that, Jean?"

"Gee! I don't know. What's it like?"

"Well, it's hard to describe. The house is enormous. Rooms galore. Drawing room, living room, music room, library, game room, breakfast room, dining room, and a kitchen as big as our general office back there. That's the first floor. Then upstairs, and they're beautiful circular stairs, Jean. Upstairs, at the east end, he has his personal library where he spends most of his time writing, and browsing over a stuffy collection of first editions. Then a flock of bedrooms, big airy rooms where you can stretch out as much as you please with a bath to every room, and . . ."

Jean's eyes were wide with amazement. "Heavens!" she cried. "That sounds more like a hotel than a residence Had you finished?"

"Almost. There was one other room two rooms, in fact. I occupied them."

"You occupied two rooms?"

Sandy nodded, grinning. "There's just an open arch doorway between them," he explained. "One is the bedroom; the other is what he called the playroom. You see, they used to be occupied by his son, his only son. I snooped into a closet in the playroom, Jean, and guess what I saw. A lot of banged up little toys. They've saved everthing!"

"They . . . ?"

"Oh, he's not living there alone. His . . . the boy's mother is there too, of course. But imagine, preserving all those broken toys."

"Poor things," Jean said softly. "He, the boy, died?"

"Lord, no!" Sandy laughed. "He grew up and went off in search of his fortune. But you've no idea how they want him back, Jean. I think they'd willingly exchange all they have for a little four room cottage, if they could have him back in it. They made an awful fuss over me. I thought I'd never get away."

Sandy pulled his feet up on the desk and wrapped his arms around his knees. Jean drummed her heels against the desk lightly. For a space they sat thus, averting each other's eyes, thinking.

But suddenly Jean was on her feet. "Sandy! I'd almost forgotten. For days I've been threatening to go to see Ellen and I took an oath I'd go to-day. You couldn't afford the time to."

Sandy was puzzled. "Who's Ellen?" he asked.

"Why . . . But of course you don't know. You see, I haven't told you a thing. And there's so much to tell. Ellen's a little girl, the sweetest most beautiful little thing you ever laid your eyes on. Her guardian wrote to make sure she'd get her miniature baby, and I went out to see her. She's adorable! But, do you know who her father was? Fargeson!"

Presently he walked across the room and took his hat and coat from the rack. "Get your things. I'll run you out. Fargeson's child! What a tragedy!"

But when their taxi turned into East 34th Street, Jean saw another taxi standing before the dingy house in which Ellen and Miss Wood lived. Jean suddenly caught Sandy's arm. "Tell the driver to stop here a moment," she whispered quickly. They were not more than fifty feet from the other machine and the woman walking from the house toward it seemed strangely familiar. . . .

"What's wrong?" Sandy asked curiously.

But Jean was staring intently, and as the woman, about to get into the taxi, turned and looked toward them, Jean caught her breath sharply, and drew away from the door.

"Say!" said Sandy impatiently. "What's all the mystery?"

The other taxi was slipping off down the street.

'It's all right," Jean said presently. "Tell the driver to pull up where the other taxi was a moment ago. I . . . I was seeing things, I suppose."

But she knew quite well that she had not been seeing things, that the woman she had seen come out of the house and get into the taxi was Marcia White.

When they came to the top of the narrow stairs, Sandy hesitated. "Hadn't I better wait here?"

But Jean took his hand and pulled him after her. 'Miss Wood won't mind. She'll be flattered to have you."

Miss Wood answered her knock. "My dear!" she said, surprised. She

A Thought

REASONS ENOUGH

The vice-president of an Ohio National Bank recently applied for a life insurance policy for his sixteen-year-old son and gave the following reasons for wanting the insurance:

Because I believe every boy should start in life from his father's shoulders. I am trying to give all the benefit of my experience to the important things of life that I can, and life insurance is one of them.

Because I am a banker and realize somewhat better than the average man I believe, the value of regular and systematic saving.

Because while helping to settle and adjust many estates, I have visited many bereft homes, have known many families suddenly deprived of the provider and protector. I know what life insurance has meant to many more.

What To-day Means To You

"SAGITTARIUS."

If December 11th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7 a.m. to 9 a.m., from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. and from 6 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. The danger periods are from 10:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and from 4 p.m. to 5:20 p.m.

A slow, indifferent time is pictured, horoscopically, for this date, and business affairs may be neglected for pleasures. The influence of your elders will be felt, and should not be avoided. Business progress possible, if sufficient effort be made.

The child born on this December 11th will have an anxious, restless nature, and will be a type which needs encouragement and praise. It will lack initiative, although it will be a splendid worker under the direction of others. It will have to cultivate self-reliance, if possible.

You possess three keys which will open the doors of success to you; energy optimism and courage, and they will also fit into the doors of happiness. You are a very busy person, and too much interested in what you consider to be your individual job, to worry about yourself and your fate. You have the courage for an adventurious life, so you will never suffer from boredom. You have sufficient amount of optimism, to keep you from letting worry get the upper hand. You love schemes, and would make an excellent detective, and probably your associates recognize your amateur ability in this line. You would be disappointed if life gave you no problems to unravel, and you would not wish your handicaps to be lessened. You are out to get all you can out of life, but on the other hand you give what is expected of you in return. You are careful of other people's feelings and rights, and although you are shrewd, you are not "hard."

You are not incapable of taking flights of fancy, but in the essential things of life, you are always loyal to facts. You are big enough minded to change your view points in order to keep up-to-date with time and circumstance. You have a dry sense of humor, and are more of a chuckler than a laugher, and are never loud and boisterous. An early marriage is not indicated, nor would it be advisable.

TEACHING OF FRENCH OPPOSED

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 11. (CP)—Considering a request from the Urban School Trustees Association for an expression of opinion regarding the teaching of French in public schools, the management committee of the local Board of Education at its final meeting, took the stand that as it opposes the introducing of French to the curriculum "no action" be taken on the association's request.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND BRIEFS

A SPECIAL SERVICE TO THE EXAMINER

The final stage of the major business cycle which began in 1921, is marked by the current depression, with the minor depressions of 1924 and 1927 considered merely as ripples on the larger wave, says the Brookmire Economic Service Inc. Factors which promoted the prosperity of the past cycle are missing from the first half of the next decade, and, barring a major war, this period should be a relatively quiet one. Regarding the nearest project, the forecast states that since October, the general rate of operations has been so low that they feel confident that shortages are in the making. Brookmire is inclined to the view that improvement will start by the spring of 1931, in either the first or second quarter. The rise if it starts at that time will undoubtedly be slow and irregular probably disappointing to most people. By the middle or fall of the year it is possible the upward curve may assume a sharp slant. They feel, however, that any precipitous advance would soon give way to a secondary reaction. Continuing this forecast says: "We doubt whether a normal level of business will be reached before the spring of 1932. The 1929-30 decline seems about completed. The early months of 1931 should see the beginning of a moderate and irregular advance running into 1932, with business results in the coming year about equal to those of 1930, but on a rising trend."

Downward Trend.

For the fourth consecutive day this week, the market on Toronto Stock Exchange showed selling outweighing buying and fractional recessions appeared throughout the list. The steady pressure this week, while never compelling forced liquidation to any large extent, nevertheless has caused many of the leaders to sink down to within a point or less of their lows for the year. Fairly heavy selling occurred in Brazilian which declined the major part of a point and at times sold under yesterday's low.

While all stock markets dipped yesterday the closing averages are still a couple of points above the extreme low point for the year. The Wall Street market dropped beyond the previous low at one time yesterday but finally recovered to close the Dow-Jones industrial average at 173.98 or more than 2 points above the bottom for 1930 of 171.60 established November 10. Weighted indexes of the Financial News bureau for the Toronto and Montreal Exchanges are still two points above the minimum for the year. Lows for 1930 to date were touched on the Canadian boards on October 22 and when Wall Street was setting a new low mark on November 10 the Canadian Exchanges were closed in celebration of Thanksgiving Day but dropped to within a few points of the October bottom on October 11. From then on the range here has been between 65 and 69 on the local market against the extreme low of 64 and between 60 and 66 in Montreal Contrasted with the October bottom of 57. Yesterday's reaction in Montrea carried the index back to 60 or the same spot as on November 11 while the Toronto exchange index of 66 at Wednesday's close is the same as that of November 12 and one point above that of November 11.

Rumors Denied.

Montreal has a denial of the rumors that have been circulated following the advance in the market price of the shares of Atlantic Sugar Refineries. Reports that the financial structure of this company was to be reorganized to possibly improve the position of the junior securities are said to be unfounded in well informed quarters. Earnings for the current year it is said, will compare favorably with 1929 and the balance sheet at the end of the year will show bonds redeemed in accordance with sinking fund requirements with working capital maintained around the level of the previous period.

Although the Canadian markets are suffering from the business depression, drastic depreciation in valuations and lack of interest they have not had much to worry over as Wall Street. Lower earnings for industrial companies and unsatisfactory international conditions, over production, or under consumption have the same influence in both centres but in addition to this New York has had to absorb considerable selling to establish tax losses is in the hand of professional traders who go short or long of the market at opportune times and in addition there is the influence of an unsatisfactory banking condition in some parts of the country. Two Canadian banks in reporting to stockholders for 1930 were able toshow profit well maintained in comparison with 1930 were able to show profit well maintained in comparison with 1929 and improvement in the ratio of cash and quick assets to total liabilities to the public. It is not necessary to sell securities here to establish tax losses and the professional element on the local boards is a negligible factor.

NEW YORK LIST DRIFTS LOWER

Rail, Theatre and Utility Issues Among Stocks to Decline.

SOME 6 POINT DROPS.

Selling was in fair volume, and several issues declined 2 to 6 points to new lows for the bear market.

Liquidation, however, was orderly and unhastened.

Shares recording new minimum levels with losses of 2 to 4 points included New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio, Norfolk and Western, Paramount, American and Foreign Power, Johns Manville, Case, Columbian Carbon, American Water Works, and Worthington Pump. Atchison lost 6 points. Other shares losing 2 to 3 points included U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Eastman, Byers, American Tobacco "B", Fox, American Can, and Loews'.

Credit conditions were little changed. Call money was rather firm at 2 per cent. Canadian exchange declined sharply, resulting in a shipment of $5,000,000 in gold from Montreal to New York.

Winnipeg Review

Special Service to The Examiner through the courtesy of E. J. Bawlf Company, Grain and Stock Brokers, of Toronto

Local wheat market was again dull and featureless with the price trend somewhat erratic within a narrow range. Market opened about ¼ lower, losing another half cent during the first hour, but around mid session this loss was more than recovered on a little short covering and some local support based on the strong tone in Chicago. However, this bulge was not held the market again selling off and made new lows for the day. It was reported that the Farm Board was again buying May wheat in Minneapolis and Chicago markets and had raised the "pegged" price another half cent. The local cash market was extremely dull, and while offerings were not pressing, the demand was practically nil, with terminals taking what odd cars were coming out. Spreads were generally unchanged. Export sales overnight were insignificant, a little durums only being worked. Country marketings on Tuesday were 788,000 bushels as compared to 316,000 a year ago.

Coarse Grains—These markets were all lower and were largely following the trend of wheat and corn. There was nothing of feature going on outside of routine spreading.

Flax—This market continued dull and featureless with prices lower in sympathy with the weakness in the general grain list, closing prices ¾ to 1 7-8 lower.

Liverpool Cables due ½ lower based on Winnipeg.

LOWER TREND COPPER GROUP

Nickel, Noranda and Hudson Bay Active in Base Metal Section.

SHERRITT EASIER.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 11. (CP)—To-day's forenoon session on the mining market was uneventful with copper showing an irregularly lower trend, golds just holding and oils somewhs easier.

International Nickel dropped 20 to $17.05 and Noranda showed a small loss at $13.70. Hudson Bay recovered 15 to $4.40 and balance of the Base Metal group was practically unchanged. Sherritt Gordon saw some selling. Price easing another 4 to 74, but other Lindsleys were steady.

Dome with a gain of 15 to $8.70, was the only gold to show any noticeable change. Wright-Hargreaves firmed a couple to $1.69 and Big Missouri, Kirkland Lake Gold and Howey were a point or so up from last night. Vipond eased one to 87.

Acme Gas lost another fraction to 26, Ajax Oil was off 2 to $1.39, Mayland 5 to 75 and Dalhousie and Home Oil a point each to 49 and $1.95, respectively.

HOOVER EMERGES

bers of Congress may have the result of delaying enactment of the administration's plan for relief, it is doubtful if there ever was any fundamental agreement between the Republicans and Democrats in Congress to let the administration carry out its program in the present emergency without halt or check. So that the disruptive effect of the presidential attack is more apparent than real.

Further, it is perfectly plain, that whatever friends the President loses in Congress by his outspoken criticism, he will gain admiration throughout the country by his Roosevelt-an pronouncement. The New York Times says ". . . it is evident the President will need and ought to have, strong support from the outside public in his efforts to keep Congress from making ducks and drakes of our public finance."

Chances Bettered.

There seems no doubt he will get it and if his chances for renomination as candidate for the White House in 1932 have been at all diminished by his emergence as a driving, fighting character, his chances for election have certainly been bettered.

LUMBER CAMPS WILL BE OPENED

Gravenhurst and Lindsay Firms to Employ Large Staff in Northern Bush.

TRACTORS EMPLOYED.

LINDSAY, Dec. 11 (Examiner Correspondence).—The Mickle & Dyment Lumber Company, of Gravenhurst, which has extensive timber limits in the County of Haliburton, is planning to put in a camp in Hindon Township in order to take out a million feet of hardwood. It will be hauled by tractor to Haliburton village and transported by train to outside points.

Industrial Alcohol, Limited, which has a large alcohol plant in Lindsay, is, it is understood, planning to take out thousands of cords of wood for the manufacture of wood alcohol, etc. The operations of the two firms will give employment to a goodly number of men during the winter.

GRACE BRANDON GIVES EVIDENCE

"Was there any understanding that you were engaged when he left San Antonio?" (this was in December, 1928, approximately nine months before Mrs. Shepard's death).

"No."

"There was no real understanding" she explained. "He asked me if I would write to him and I told him I would."

Miss Brandon said she corresponded with Major Shepard after he returned to Fort Riley.

The witness said Shepard had mentioned his "unhappy home life" a number of times.

Miss Brandon told of a trip to Laredo, Tex., with Shepard and another couple. Asked what words of affection the army officer used, the witness replied:

"I don't remember exactly; he told me he loved me and had never met any one just like me."

Asked To Wed Him Secretly.

In July, 1929, shortly after his wife's death, Shepard visited her in San Antonio and asked her to wed him secretly, she testified. She said she told him, however, she would not marry him for a year or a year and a half because she did not want a scandal from marriage right after Mrs. Shepard's death.

"Did you at that time set a date for the wedding?"

"We agreed on August, 1930."

The Government introduced a letter apparently written by Shepard in jail at Denver, indicating he attempted to influence Miss Brandon's testimony.

Some of the love letters the stenographer sent Major Shepard were made public to-day by defence counsel. They will be introduced in the trial.

The letter dated between January 1, 1930, and March 1, 1930, contain expressions of ardent love, itemized garage bills on the motor car Shepard bought for her on time payments, and reiteration of undying affection.

REPORT IS MADE

purpose of drying clothes during the winter months. We also understand that the new roof has not proved satisfactory.

"The Children's Shelter was found to be in good order and the needs of the fourteen children ably looked after by Mrs. Elliott. We would recommend a washing machine of a type suitable to this very important part of the matron's duties.

"The Sisters in charge of St. Vincent's Orphanage are indeed competent, everything being well kept and in good order. A clothes mangle would fill a much needed want there.

"The three hospitals were visited and everything found in good condition, although Nicholl's should be provided with additional buildings as it is overcrowded at all times.

"At the House of Providence close to ninety inmates are receiving proper attention as four floors are in use here. we think an elevator should be installed.

"The Protestant Home is providing, at present, suitable accomodation for thirty-nine men and women. Miss Lancaster, the able superintendent, has this worthy institution running in perfect order.

"At the County Jail we found a prisoner who was adjudged insane on the twenty-first day of November last, and we think he should be removed to a proper place of confinement. Otherwise conditions were of the best.

"Due to prevailing conditions in the Court Room we suggest an expert in acoustics be interviewed and if it is found possible have necessary changes made to the room so that present unsatisfactory speaking facilities be improved.

"While there is much unemployment in the County and City of Peterborough, we believe that everything possible is being done by the authorities to relieve the present situation. We confidently look forward to a return to normal conditions and prosperity in the near future.

"The Grand Jury have much pleasure in congratulating Your Honor on the twenty-first anniversary of your faithful service on the bench."

TORONTO LIST ISSUES LOWER

Ford of Canada, Nickel and Noranda Are Fractionally Off.

C.P.R. IS UNCHANGED.

TORONTO, Dec. 11. (CP)—Reactionary Wall Street made for lower prices on Toronto Stock Exchange today. Inter-listed issues were almost uniformly lower, though as trading tended to dry-up on the decline this morning there was nothing in the situation to cause alarm.

Particular pressure appeared against Brazilian Traction, the stock losing nearly a point from its previous close and at times going below yesterday's low of 22½. Ford of Canada dropped to 21, Nickel and Noranda were off fractionally, the former just above 17.

Service Stations sank to 32.

C.P.R. held better this morning, unchanged to higher; Massey-Harris moved up to 12 on early sales; Canadian Dredge was unchanged. B. A. Oil part of the time was above last night's close of 14. Brokers had plenty of buying orders at at 14, the floor reported. Imperial, International Petroleum, McColl lost less than a point, Imperial only about ½ point above its 30 low.

LT.-GEN. SIR W. H. ANDERSON IS DEAD

LONDON, Dec. 11 (C.P.)—Lieut.-General Sir Warren Hastings Anderson died to-day at the age of 58 years. He served in the South African War and the Great War, and was afterwards Commandant of the Staff College at Camberly, and with the General Staff of the Allied Forces in Turkey, 1922-23. After three years commanding the Baluchistan district of India, he became Quarter-Master General to the Forces in 1927.

SOVIET VILLAGES

ism' with their 'criticism.' We must draw a line of difference between self-criticism within the system of proletarian dictatorship and criticism from outside."

Great Caution Taken

The elections of every village and town hall will be carefully scrutinized by the higher authorities. Election officials throughout the country have been cautioned to take necessary measures to isolate the Kulaks and other disfranchised elements. Special lists of persons who, according to the constitution, are deprived of voting rights—such as Kulaks, extraders, former aristocrats, Priests—must be posted in public places in all villages and towns before the elections are held.

Candidates to village, town, district and city Soviets are appointed or elected from party, trade-union and social organizations at general meetings of the workers, where the choice is signified by the raised hands of the majority. From these local Soviets members of the District Congress of Soviets are chosen In this fashion, from the original local or occupational unit, the Soviets pyramid up to the National Congress.

Efforts are being made this year to attract a larger percentage of women to the election meetings. Isvestia declares that the number of women with voting rights who will participate this year will increase from 46 per cent in 1929 to 65 per cent. The authorities estimate that some 80 million persons will take part in the present elections.

TWILIGHT CIRCLE ELECTS OFFICERS

Treasurer's Report Shows Members Have Nearly Reached Allocation for Year.

The members of the Twilight Mission Circle of George Street United Church held their meeting yesterday. A business session followed the supper for the election of officers for 1931:

Hon. president, Mrs. H. Dulmage; president, Miss Helen Burns; 1st vice-president, Miss Ethel Mills; 2nd vice-president, Miss Grace Burns; recording secretary and press reporter, Miss Evelyn Miller; corresponding secretary, Miss Doorthy Wiman; treasurer, Miss Evelyn Routley; pianist, Miss Grace Cunningham; assistant pianist, Miss Lillian Stoneham; mite box secretary, Miss Margaret Taylor; group leaders Misses Ethel Mills and Grace Burns.

A pleasing missionary program was rendered, opening with the Christmas hymn, "It came upon the midnight clear," followed by a Christmas story of Jesus told by Margaret Taylor. Miss Lillian Stoneham sang a solo. Miss Ethel Mills gave a reading on missionary work among the Ukrainians. The treasurer gave her report after money from the mite boxes had been counted. It was found they had almost reached their allocation, and expect to receive the balance before the end of the year. Mrs. W. E. Coon made a few remarks congratulating the girls on their work, and exipaining the great need this year of renewed effort on the part of missionary workers. The meeting closed by repeating the Mizpah benediction in unison.

Real Laying Bee

Bigger and better eggs appears to be the slogan of the hens owned by William C. McKim and kept at 495 Chamberlain street. Laying over-sized eggs has become a habit of these hens during the past two weeks. The biggest egg laid to date by these hens is one 5¾ inches in circumference and 7¼ inches around the long way. But Mr. McKim has picked several dozen eggs out of the nests which were within a quarter inch of the same measurements. These eggs are being produced by White Leghorns hatched in May and Barred Rocks hatched in April. Mr. McKim has 135 hens, which are joining in the laying bee and 60 pullets which are about ready to begin producing.

Fire Starts In Cellar, House Is Damaged

The poor construction of many houses and the unforeseen peril and danger caused by leaving oily rags in an isolated place were the significant facts concerning the fire at the home of Arthur A. Hill, 197 Murray street, at 9.40 last evening, according to Chief Gimblett.

The fire was first noticed by Jean J. Kingan, the next door neighbor, when her dog was barking furiously. The neighbor saw the flames from the window, and immediately sent in an alarm to the fire department. At that time the house was flooded with smoke; Mrs. Hill was out and Mr. Hill and the baby were in bed unsuspecting danger.

The man and his child were rescued by Captain Jones and Fireman Macdonald and with the aid of several others present. First a 35 gallon chemical tank was used, then a 100-foot chemical hose and finally 200 feet of 2½ inch hose.

The conflagration apparently started in the fruit cellar from the spontaneous combustion of some oily rags, although Mrs. Hill was not aware of their presence there. The flames leaped up the wall, devouring the shelves and making a melee of the preserves.

The flames spread rapidly and burned the floor joists and the lower part of the south wall. The fire had attained some headway before the the Department were on the scene ,and it was not without difficulty that the blaze was put under control.

JEAN'S SANTA CLAUS

By JULIE ANNE MOORE

...veloped Sandy's bow with a ...t smile, and suddenly lowered her ...imost to a whisper. "You barely ...d meeting Ellen's mother. She has ...gone."

...leaned heavily against the door. ..., was that her taxi that drove off a ...ute ago?" she managed to ask.

Miss Wood nodded slowly. "Yes," she ...softly. "She came to tell Ellen good ...bye. She's going abroad, to live."

CHAPTER NINETEEN

Sandy's exclamation upon seeing little Ellen reminded Jean of something Lionel had said the day they selected the model miniature baby.

"Why . . ." said Sandy, taking the child in his arms, "she's a pocket edition of you jean!"

Ellen smiled happily and studied the design in his tie. Miss Wood, standing a little to one side, beamed upon them proudly.

"Isn't that funny?" Jean laughed. "The first time I saw Ellen, I said to myself: 'She's the living miniature baby.' You'll understand what I mean when you see the dolls. And the day Lionel and I selected the miniature baby he said it was an exact replica of me."

"Yellow-haired, blue-eyed miniature babies!" said Sandy. "There are possibilities for a popular song in that. Think I'll try my hand at it." And to Ellen: "What do you want Santa Claus to bring you for Christmas?"

"A minator baby," Ellen said promptly. "And he's going to bring me one, too. He wrote me a letterand told me so."

"Gee, that's great!" Sandy declared. "But what else do you want him to bring you? A carriage for your miniature baby, and a little bed, and . . ."

Ellen shook her little head firmly. "Miss Wood says I mustn't want anything else, cause there are lots of poor little girls who might not have anything. What do you want Santa Claus to bring you?"

Sandy blinked. "Hmm! Would you believe me if I told you?"

Ellen nodded eagerly.

"I want a minatoo baby, too."

Ellen laughed deliciously. "Great big grown men don't have minatoo babies," she declared stoutly.

"Just the same I want one," Sandy insisted soberly. "I want a big yellow-haired, blue-eyed minatoo baby just like you're going to get, Ellen. Do you suppose Santa will bring me one?"

Ellen put a small finger to her cheek and gazed off thoughtfully. Then: "Why don't you write him and ask him to? He might."

Sandy stood up and looked at Jean. "What do you think, Jean? Would he bring me one if I wrote him?"

But Jean had heard little of their conversation. She was thinking of Marcia White, and wondering what Sandy would say if she told him that Marcia was Ellen's mother.

Now, when they had left Ellen with a promise to take her on a tour of the toy departments very soon, could Jean put Marcia from her mind. As Ellen's mother, Marcia was, reasonably, Fargeson's widow, and had been his wife when she had gone to Sandy with her story of needing funds with which to continue her study of art.

The truth came to Jean at last. It had been a deliberate conspiracy. Fargeson and Marcia had, in the popular jargon, "framed" Sandy, presumably for purpose of blackmail. Jean marvelled that she had not seen through it before. And Sandy, why hadn't he guessed it? Why, but she had to tell him, of course. She could not let him go on thinking Marcia was an innocent young art student.

But when she turned to him in the taxi and would have told him, she saw at once how impossible it was. Sandy was in love with Marvia. Anything that Jean might say tending to show that Marcia was not all that he believed her to be, he would most certainly misunderstand. And after all, if he should question her statement, she did not know that she could prove that which was perfectly obvious to her.

One thing, however, she did speak to him about. "Did you ever know a little, dried-up weazel known as Slim Diggers, Sandy?"

At first the name seemed wholly strange to him, but after a moment he said: "Yes, I have. I'd almost forgotten him. He came to Marcia's apartment one night with Fargeson." And then, in surprise: "But where did you hear of him?"

"I met him," she told him simply. "He came to Marcia's apartment with Fargeson the night I was there."

"The night of the murder? But good heavens! Why didn't you tell me this sooner?"

"I thought it best not to," she replied quietly. "I shouldn't have told you Fargeson was there if he hadn't been killed."

A silence.

"Oh, I see." And turning to her again: "But my dear Jean, you didn't think for a moment that Marcia was . . . was deceiving me?"

"I didn't think anything. It was none of my business. However, let's not quarrel about it. I simply thought I would ask you about Diggers. He only stayed a few minutes. We heard him open and close the door when he went out. He couldn't have had anything to do with the murder."

"You heard him," Sandy said slowly. "but did you see him go out! How do you know he didn't open and shut the door from the inside and then hide somewhere in the apartment until you had gone?"

Jean shuddered. She didn't know, of course; but the thought that Slim Diggers might have been hiding in the apartment when she had gone back to her room alone was upsetting. "I don't know anything, Sandy. If you think Diggers' presence that night important, why you have my permission to tell the police."

"Of course it's important. And I've no choice but to tell the police. And when they've found Diggers, they'll be very near a solution of the murder, I'm thinking.

Lionel was entertaining a visitor when they returned to the office, a very large, ruddy faced man with a twinkle in his blue eyes that somehow reminded her of Sandy. He rose as she entered, and a moment later was reaching behind her to take Sandy's outstretched hand.

"Welcome, welcome!" Sandy cried cordially. "We're late, but it couldn't be helped. Have you been waiting long?"

The big man shook his grey head, smiling. "You've interrupted a delightful session. Lionel has been telling me about the babies."

Jean had started to her desk, but Sandy called to her and she came back, a little uneasy.

"Dad," said Sandy, "you are now face to face with the young woman who, single handed, is making your idea one of the biggest things the I.P.P. has ever done." And, with a mischievous smile: "Jean, gaze upon the daddy of the Miniature Baby Plan—my father."

Jean could only stare dumbly. So the daddy of the plan was Sandy's father. And the little boy who had grown up and left that enormous and amazing house in Boston was Sandy.

She knew that she had, mechanically, given her hand to the elder Clause and that he was speaking praise of her work. But it was a full minute before she had regained possession of her faculties and was able to listen intelligently.

"Sandy has told me everything you have done," the loder man was saying, "and I'm naturally delighted. But I hadn't expected to find such a child. You're almost young enough for a miniature baby yourself."

"I'm well preserved," Jean laughed. "Actually, I'm old, years older than when I came to New York a few weeks ago. Are you really pleased with what I've done?"

He gave her hand an assuring squeeze. "More than pleased. "You're doing what Sandy told me a few da' before you came to New York probably could not be done."

"Oh, say!" Sandy protested. "That's hardly fair, giving me away to my face. Give me credit for finding someone who could do it, Dad."

These two were congenial companions, not simply father and son. Jean listened to their good-humored banter, thrilled by the perfect understanding between them.

Presently the elder Clause said: "Sandy's mother and I are returning to Boston this afternoon, Miss Melba, but we both hope to see you again before Christmas. You're handling the Miniatufe Baby Plan magnificently, and we want to see you properly rewarded."

Jean said quickly: "But I have been rewarded. My salary is out of all proportion with what I do. And besides, if it weren't, I'd be fully repaid in knowing that I'd been able to help you give happieness to the thousands of little girls who will be gloriously happy Christmas morning because of what you are doing. Oh, no," with a positive little shake of her yellow head. "I wouldn't have any other reward."

Sandy walked to the elevator with his father. The moment they were out of the room, Lionel caught Jean's arm and jerked his head toward Sandy's office. The door was closed, but Jean could see nothing unusual.

"I've had the devil's own time," Lionel told her in an undertone, "Mr. Clause was determined to go into Sandy's office, and I had to do some fast thinking to keep him out."

Jean stared at him curiously. "But why shouldn't he go in Sandy's office?"

He put a finger to his lips. "Not so loud. She asked for you first, and then for Sandy. I didn't want her hanging around out here so I told her to wait in there."

"Will you tell me what you are talking about, Lionel?" Jean demanded impatiently. "Who is it in Sandy's office?"

At that moment Sandy returned, smiling amiably. Lionel pointed and whispered: "Marcia's in your office, Sandy. Wanted to see you and Jean and she's loaded for trouble."

Jean went directly to her desk, but presently Sandy came out of his office and called her. "Marcia wants to talk to both of us," he told her, softly. "I don't like the look in her eye, but don't let her frighten you."

Marcia did not return Jean's casual nod. She sat by Sandy's desk and tapped a neat foot ominously. Jean dropped into a chair a few feet away. Sandy half leaned, half sat on his desk.

"All right, Marcia," he said quietly, "you wanted to speak to us together, you said. What is it?"

It was like setting off a charge of powder. Marcia needed nothing more than an invitation.

She said, coldly: "I've come to tell your young friend that I've stood all the abuse from the police that I intend to. She murdered Mr. Fargeson and she'll have to accept the consequences."

Jean stared at her blankly, wondering if the woman were mad.

"I mean it!" Marcia snapped. "You were the only other person in the apartment that night, and you'll have a hard time explaining to the police why you ran away, leaving the outside door open.

Sandy, plainly amazed, said: "But Marcia, why in the name of all that's holy should Jean want to kill Fargeson? She didn't even know him."

Marcia laughed bitterly. "Didn't she? Then" quietly "why did she call Fargeson by his first name the minute she walked into the apartment?"

"Why," Sandy was stunned. "I didn't know that she did, until now."

Suddenly Jean was out of her chair, her eyes blazing upon Sandy: "Do you believe that outrageous lie?"

Sandy looked from Marcia to Jean. "I . . . I don't know what to believe, Jean. If . . ."

"Never mind," Jean shot at him. "You've committed yourself. You don't know what to believe. You mean you don't know whether to believe me or this, this miserable woman who has been living a lie since the day she walked into this office and told you she was studying art and wanted to borrow money! She didn't want to borrow money; she wanted to steal it, and the only reason she hasn't blackmailed you before was because you paid too well without it."

Marcia, her face purple with rage, leaped to her feet, but Sandy was suddenly between them.

"Jean," he said coldly, "you're mad. Marcia could sue you for libel ten times over for what you've said in here. Now don't say any more."

Jean turned on him fiercely. "And you still believe her? You poor fool!" She fairly spat the words at him. "Listen to me, that woman is Fargeson's widow, widow of Sampson the bootleg king and gangster, little Ellen's mother. And I can prove it in any court in the country!"

Abruptly Jean turned on her heel and ran out of the office, slamming the door behind her.

Dazed, Sandy turned to Marcia. "Marcia, is that true?"

But Marcia's voice came from between her clenched teeth like a hiss. "That little devil! I'll have her taken for a ride before the day's over!"

District Churches

FENELLA

Rev. Mr. Mears of Port Hope occupied the pulpit of Fenella United Church on Sunday evening, choosing his text from Daniel 4. 27: "Break off thy sins by righteousness, and thine iniquities by showing mercy to the poor."

"What shall we do with our sins? If we confess our sins He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins and cleanse us from all iniquities. What becomes of sins confessed? Will they be held against you? No, as far as the west is from the east, those sins will never confront you. But there may be seed of sin that with fostering care, may rise up and destroy you. What shall we as professors of religion do with the sin that remains in us? Break off your sins by righteousness, said the prophet as he reproached Nebuchadnezzar for his pride, his sins, his rebellion, cast out, oh king the evil with the good." Christian character has not merely passive quality, it is not negative but positive, the things you do, count more than the things you refrain from doing. You cannot have an empty heart, if not filled with goodness, it is filled with badness. It is the positive part of Christianity that is important. Christianity does not always say don't, it says do. If you desire to escape the power of temptation be busy, if you wish to be happy be busy. The gardener not only kills the weeds in his garden plot, but he sows the seeds of good plants that will grow and crowd out the weeds. Some church members are too censorious, they seem to delight in discovering the seamy side of life.

What shall we do about it? Pray? Yes, but something else, teach that uncivil tongue to speak kind words, appreciative words, turn away from that fault finding. Then again what of those with a melancholy temper, a morbid outlook on life, the words of the text again, "break off thy sins." If you would not dwell among the shadows, let the sunlight in, get into some good Christian work, and get an ever brighter vision of life. If we go out and front life and front our duty, do the work that awaits us, not dwelling on the temptations that may surround us, our bark will be kept afloat and sail at last into its quiet harbor."

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, December 11. — Winnipeg wheat prices yesterday ignored strength at Liverpool and Chicago, and turned downward in a very dull market. At the close of trading losses of 1¼c to 1c were marked up.

Profit-taking sales and heavy offerings from other sources overshadowed any buying appearing. The December future slumped 1¼c under Wednesday's figure. Disappointing export sales overnight were another depressing factor.

Dullness marked trading in coarse grains and cash wheat, and prices held unchanged.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, Dec. 11.—Receipts of Ontario fresh eggs were moving fairly well on the local market yesterday, and brokers were quoting 50c for extras, 42c to 45c for firsts, 40c for pullet extras, and 28c to 30c for seconds, graded, in free cases. The country shipper was quoted less money for extras, at 48c to 50c and steady prices for the other grades at 43c to 45c for firsts, 28c to 29c for seconds, and 35c to 37c for pullet extras, ungraded, delivered, cases returned. Retailers were offered supplies at lower prices, extras being quoted at 60c in cartons; extras, loose, 58c; firsts, loose, 53c; seconds, loose, 35c; and pullet extras, loose 47c.

British Columbia eggs were offered to the wholesalers at 57c for extras, 52c for firsts, and 46c for pullet extras, Government graded, and in free cases; but, though a few cars were quoted on spot, the demand was poor, which was probably due to an increased Ontario production and previous commitments on coast supplies.

Butter

There was little trade in butter; in fact, business in this commodity was at a lower ebb than in many years, according to prominent brokers. Prices were unchanged at 29c to 29½c for No. 1 and 28c to 28½c for No. 2 creamery to shippers, and 33c to 33½c for No. 1 prints, and 32c to 32½c for No. 2 prints to retailers.

Cheese

Prices to shippers for cheese were steady with previous quotations, but retailers were offered new stocks at ½c lower. There shipper was quoted 13c to 13½c for new large, 13½c to 13¾c for twins, and 13¾c to 14c for triplets, while the retailer was offered new large at 16c, twins 16½c and triplets 16½c.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Dec. 11.— Prices of eggs and cheese were lower, while butter and potatoes were unchanged on the produce and dairy market here yesterday.

British Columbia fresh eggs per car-lot lost 1 cent a dozen, extras selling at 57c, firsts 51c and pullets 45c. Receipts were 302 cases.

On the cheese market prices were ½c lower. Ontario was quoted at 11½c and Quebec at 11c a pound. Receipts were 266 boxes.

Regraded, grass-make Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized creamery butter was unchanged at 29c to 29½c a pound. Solids were 32c and prints 33c to retailers and receipts totalled 128 boxes.

On the potato market prices were unchanged. New Brunswick Green Mountains, in car-lots per 90 pounds in bulk, were 75c to 80c and dealers were selling ex-track, at 90c to 95c per 80-pound bag.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—Corn broke 3c a bushel yesterday from an early advance that accompanied an increase of speculative buying of future deliveries. Buying was based on unexpected smallness of receipts and on prospects of rainy weather over the corn belt. However, selling out by early buyers disclosed that the market was minus adequate support, and a transient upturn in wheat was also wiped out.

Corn closed heavy, 1 5-8c to 2¼ lower than Tuesday; wheat irregular at ¼c decline to an equal gain; oats 3-8c to ⅝c down, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 30c.

OLD HASTINGS BOY JOSEPH FIFE, DEAD

Prominent Business Man of Fort William Dies After Lengthy Illness.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Dec. 11—Joseph A. Fife, founder and president of the Fife Hardware Company, and for the past twenty-three years well known business man and citizen of Fort William, died recently at his home in this city.

Mr. Fife had not enjoyed good health for more than two years, and for two months was confined to his room. It was learned a few weeks ago that his condition was so serious that not hope was held out for his recovery.

Joseph Ashley Fife was born in 1869 in Hastings, the son of Benjamin Fife and descendant of David Fife, originator of the famous Red Fife wheat. His early life was spent on a farm at Ponsonby, near Guelph, whither his family moved when he was five. Mr. Fife went to Chicago at the age of 22, and remained there for four years. In 1897 he settled at Kenora where he went into partnership with his cousin, Lt. Col. A. T. Fife, in the hardware business. Ten years later he opened a branch business in Nigigon, and in the following year came to Fort William to establish the Fife Hardware Company. The late Mr. Fife was married in 1898 to Margaret Murdoch, who now survives him.

The deceased was a nephew of the late Dr. Fife and of Isaac Fife of the city of Peterborough, and the whole family is known there.

Mr. Fife was a member of the Rotary Club, his name having been the first on the application for a charter which was sent to Chicago in 1916. For several years he was Vice-President of the club, and in 1920 started the Rotary movement in Kenora. He was a member of Kam Lodge No. 584, A.F. and A.M. He was Vice-President of the McKellar General Hospital, and was on the council of the Chamber of Commerce. The late Mr. Fife was also a member of the board of stewards, Wesley United Church, and took an active interest in church affairs; before church union he was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Mr. Fife is survived by his widow, an adopted daughter, Margaret Griffis, and three brothers, F. M. Fife of Minneapolis, A. W. Fife of Moose Jaw, and E. R. Fife of Fruitland, Ontario.

Mrs. Bart Thackeray Entertains Society

ROSENEATH, Dec. 11 (Examiner Correspondence).—Mrs. Bart Thackeray entertained the ladies of the Women's Institute on Thursday afternoon; the president, Miss Elva Sandercock, presiding throughout the meeting. Considerable business was discussed. Among the many letters received asking for help, it was decided to send $10.00 to Toronto City Mission in aid of the poor; also a letter from Haliburton asking for second-hand clothing, this was left open for any who may have clothing to give, and if enough is collected a bale will be packed and sent in the near future.

The January meeting will be the second Thursday in January, at the home of Mrs. Lily Turner.

The program for the afternoon consisted of a piano duet by Mrs. B. Thackeray and Mrs. Moyer; Reading, "Good Advice to W.I.," by Mrs. Ednel Blodgett; Piano Solo, Miss Doris Mouncey; Reading on the L.C.A. and results, by Mrs. D. Brisbin; Reading, "What is Christmas?" by Miss Mary Braithwaite; also a reading on Christmas by Mrs. M. Davey.

The paper for the meeting "Canadian Women of note," was ably given by Miss Eliza Brown, which was very educational and full of good points and thoroughly enjoyed.

A gift exchange took place at the close of the meeting, which gave considerable merriment.

ENO'S "FRUIT SALT"

Read what the mother of this lovely Canadian Baby says:

Bushey Ave., Mount Dennis, Ont.

Dear Sirs,

I feel it my duty to tell you what Virol has done for my baby. At 3 months it was a hard problem to find a food suitable. He had indigestion so bad and was so frail and lifeless, fretting and could not sleep.

I got a tin of Virol and put ½ eggspoon in his bottle as he could only take skim milk; he seemed more satisfied and went to sleep for 2 hours which was such a relief to me.

I have continued to give him Virol and he now weighs 21 lbs.; he will be 10 months on January 21st. I just give him ½ teaspoonful in 4 feedings and 2 I leave without Virol, "which does not please him" as he likes his Virol.

He has eight teeth and is in splendid condition with a smile for everyone.

Virol is a wonderful food and well worth the money. I am very happy to give you particulars and I am glad to give you full permission to publish any of them at any time.

Yours sincerely,
Mrs. W. J. TRACY.

CAPT. E. BURKE IS FOUND DEAD IN LONE CAMP

Yukon Tragedy Bared By Pilot Wasson After Weeks of Searching.

SMOKE SIGNAL WAS CLUE.

Two Companions, Guarding Body, Rescued in Last Stages of Starvation.

WHITE HORSE, Yukon, Dec. 11.—Captain E. J. A. Burke, a World War airman, who in peacetime adventured in Canada's northland, perished from exposure on Nov. 20, while heroic fellow-fliers were battling to find him. His two companions Emil Kading, Vancouver air engineer, and Robert Marten, Atlin prospector, were rescued in the last stages of exhaustion.

The hero of the solving of British Columbia's greatest air mystery is Pilot W. L. Wasson, who brought the news of Burke's death, and the two tired survivors, to White Horse.

Too Weak to Tell Story

Kading and Marten were too weak to give full details of their wanderings in the mountain wilderness of the Yukon since they were lost on Oct. 11. But it was learned from them that Burke had died on Nov. 20 after the party had made camp in the timber following a long struggle with snow and bush. The signal smoke from the place where the two survivors had apparently made their last encampment before death should overtake them also attracted the attention of Wasson and Joe Walsh, a guide accompanying him.

The smoke was spotted from the air, and the rescuers were able to land on a small lake about twelve miles distant. They mushed on snowshoes to the camp, and found Kading and Marten near starvation, keeping what seemed a closing vigil over the body of their dead pilot and companion.

Unable to lift the plane off the small lake with a heavy load, Wasson and Walsh had to leave Burke's body behind. They plan to return and bring it to White Horse immediately. The three men had wandered forty miles north of where they landed their plane, near the headwaters of the Liard River when forced down in October.

Four men have perished in the grim epic of the air now being brought to a close. Pilot Robin "Pat" Renahan, Vancouver aviator; Air Engineer Frank Hatcher and Sam Clerf, Seattle men, disappeared near Prince Rupert on Oct. 23 while flying north to Burke's rescue. Hope has been given up for their safety.

LIBERAL RALLY PLANS APPROVED

Delegates Seated By Districts Will Take Up Hundreds of Resolutions.

DISCUSS LEADERSHIP.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 11.— Plans modelled on those of the National Liberal Convention of 1919 when Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King was elected to the leadership of the Dominion Liberal party, have been approved by the Executive committee in charge of arangements for the Ontario Liberal convention opening in Toronto on Tuesday next.

The delegates will be seated by districts. Toronto and the Yorks will be in one section of the hall while other blocks of seats will be reserved for the delegates from Northern, Eastern, Western, Southern and Central Ontario.

Among the material for the hundreds of resolutions to come before the convention are prohibition and temperance, highways, Hydro power, timber, Northern Ontario administration, Liquor Control Act, gasoline tax, income tax, all sources of government revenue, the Security Frauds Prevention Act, and mining operations, agriculture, gun licenses and game laws—these are destined to keepy the Resolutions committee occupied.

The Liberal stand with regard to the prohibition plank in the party and the all-important question of the leadership of the party will come up before the convention.

Delegates are due to arrive on Sunday night, some 800 expected, and will spend Monday discussing the various resolutions before getting down to the scheduled program on Tuesday and Wednesday.

PRICE FORESEES CABINET CHANGE

Praises Ferguson, Bennett After Brief Announcement Regarding New Administration.

AT WINDSOR BANQUET.

WINDSOR, Dec. 11.—Announcing that the retirement of Premier G. Howard Ferguson will be followed by important changes in the Provincial Cabinet, Attorney-General William H. Price told members of the Macdonald-Cartier Club at a banquet in Windsor Wednesday night that the present administration in Ontario is about to pass away.

"The personnel of the Government will remain the same to some extent, but there will be enough changes to justify the statement that a new administration is going to come into office," he said.

In what he described as a purely political speech, he commended the record of the Ferguson administration and, turning his attention for a moment to Federal politics, paid tribute to the courage of Hon. H. B. Bennett in outlining his proposals at the recent Imperial Conference in London.

Beyond his initial statement that cabinet changes were impending, the attorney-general made no further specific reference to the matter. He did not emphasize his remarks, but used the statement as an introduction to his speech which touched largely upon the work of his own department.

The attorney-general also devoted considerable time to a eulogy of the retiring Ontario Premier, whose place, he declared, would "be difficult to fill."

ALBERTANS GATHER STRAY NAGS; CANNERS BUY FOR HORSE MEAT

New Industry, Now in U. S., May Start Soon in Western Province.

"NOT HALF-BAD"

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Dec. 11. — (SNS)—Nondescript nags from every nook and corner of the short grass country of Southeastern Alberta were gathered up during the latter part of October in a monster round-up near Coutts on the Alberta-Montana border. Trained riders scoured the prairie for these range strays in one of the biggest wild horse coups seen in this part of the west in years.

Overrun with hundreds of these ponies, some branded but scores without the faintest trace of an iron, the country was being eaten over constituting a menace that had brought bitter complaints from farmers and ranchers for years. Finally the provincial government gave orders for the roundup and immediately a crew of cowmen set ut to rid the range of these hungry and wandering plugs.

Now down in Butte, Montana, there is a horse meating packing plant. When it became known to the operators of this cannery that Southern Alberta was to be the scene of a roundup of stray horses they soon had their representatives on the scene and hundreds of these range ponies were bought for a song and shipped to Butte. There they were slaughtered put through the plant to emerge as choice horse meat.

"Not half bad," is the verdict of Albertans who have tasted the "corned meat" product, for some of the nags shipped to the States for slaughter come back in cans. The bulk of the output, however, goes to the large eastern cities of the U. S. A. and abroad to continental Europe where horsemeat is a staple food product. So attractive has the horsemeat packing business become that there is a possibility soon of a plant being established somewhere in Alberta, probably either at Lethbridge or Calgary. American interests are investigating the field.

Hundreds of wild horses from the interior of British Columbia are also going to the Montana cannery. At Oliver, B. C., the Indians recently staged a big roundup of horses, the unclaimed animals being shipped by rail from B. C. to Lethbridge, thence south to Butte. The coppery cowpunchers have made good profit in this enterprise and the country will be better off rid of these pilfering plugs.

ALL IN THE 'PHONE

Our telephone went on the blink on Sunday. We called a number and there was no response. After much jiggling of the hook up and down and after wondering audibly several times what could be the matter with Central, and saying that she shouldn't go to sleep on the job, even if it was Sunday, it finally dawned on us that there might be something wrong with the mechanism, and we let it alone for a while. Then someone called us up and we heard the voice shouting far away and shouted back, without any result except a waste of temper at both ends of the wire.

So we slipped out to a neighboring 'phone and told them all about it and they sent an obliging young man on Monday, who explained about the wires getting broken somehow. He took the old instrument off the wall and put a brand new one on.

Now, the old 'phone had a cranky voice. It used to make a lot of clamor there on the wall. When we heard it ring, it sounded just like someone shouting, "Come here quick, and no back talk about it." And we would go in a hurry and feeling sort of fussed up and impatient and take down the receiver and bark into it.

But this nice little telephone is the politest thing imaginable. It has a musical, kindly little tinkle that says: "If you please, will you come and talk to this nice person that has something pleasant to say to you." And we go right away and speak softly into the transmitter and then the voice at the other end takes on a kindly intonation.

And all because the gruff old telephone went away and this mild-mannered, friendly one took its place.

DECREASE SHOWN FINANCIAL REPORT

Brae Cheese and Butter Company Holds Annual Meeting.

BURNBRAE, Dec. 11 (Examiner Correspondence)—The annual meeting of the Brae Cheese and Butter Co., held in the factory residence on Saturday afternoon reflected the depression of the past season in the financial reports presented. Lower prices kept a number away from the factory and this coupled with heavy sales of dairy cattle to the United States last spring, resulted in a greatly decreased make at Brae for 1930. Only 64,515 pounds of cheese being manufactured with 1,835 pounds of whey fat being sold.

The average price for cheese was 15.11 cents a pound and for whey fat slightly under 27 cents a pound. The average price for butterfat for the season as paid to the patrons from the cheese account was 34.62 cents a pound which compares favorably with some of the larger factories in spite of a very high expense rate which cut the usually substantial balance to about one-third of its usual proportions.

Sam Hobbs, Jr., has been the successful maker at Brae for the past season and has been engaged for 1931. He proved his ability by winning first and a special prize at both Campbellford and Warkworth fairs.

John Murray, district instructor, addressed the meeting and gave much practical advice. Roy Smith, manager of the Campbellford Branch of the Bank of Montreal, also spoke a few words on the cheese situation.

The retiring board of directors and officers were re-elected as follows: President, Malcolm Totten; secretary, E. L. Anderson; directors, Alfred Linn, Bert Hay, R. J. Cleugh, Harry Bedford and W. A. Hume.

LAYMEN HEAR MISSION TALKS

Rev. Samuel Morton and Rev. Mr. Davidson Are Speakers at Banquet.

AT SPRINGVILLE

SPRINGVILLE, Dec. 11.—(Examiner Correspondence).— The Rev. Samuel Martin of Churchill, Hudson Bay and Rev. Mr. Davidson, returned missionary from India brought inspiring messages from their respective fields of work to those who were privileged to be present at the Laymen's banquet held at Springville United Church on Friday.

The Rev. Mr. Moyer, pastor of the church introduced the speakers, expressing his appreciation of the banquet and his delight and gratitude at having been able to secure two such able speakers for a laymen's meeting.

The Rev. Mr. Whitham of Cavan opened with prayer and Melville Johnston, lay representative of Springville took charge of the meeting. Two records were played delivering in clear vibrating tones, speeches fro m the Moderator and the Rev. Dr. Peter Bryce to the members of the United Church of Canada impressing the great importance of making a sacrifical offering to the Missionary and Maintenance Fund that the preaching of the gospel may not fall down in these trying years.

Mr. Davidson speaking of India centred his address about the caste system and the law of Karma (the direst law the Hindu religion has ever known). This law comprises the belief in the transition of life from one life to the next. This combined with the caste system explains the rigidness and heartlessness of that system. Likewise with the warrior, merchant and laborer classes. These four castes comprise five-sixths of India's population. The remaining one-sixth are known as outcastes. They are descendants of the Aborigines of India and are called "Bhils", but are mostly counted as Hindus.

Each of the four previously named castes are divided into sub castes and between all of these groups there is no social dealing without forfetting the principles of their caste.

Three-fourths of India's population are farmers who live in the villages and have made no improvements or advancements for the last thousand years. Religion is the answer to this deplorable condition. The caste is a shackle, and Christianity is loosening the shackle by winning people of all castes and outcastes to Christ. Outcastes who were by the old system treated no better than the animals are now being educated and uplifted until many have become ministers, teachers and doctors.

Rev Mr. Martin Speaks

The Rev. Sam Martin sketched deftly his word picture of Churchill's exact location on the map of Canada. Located 800 miles from Saskatoon or Regina, 600 miles north and 50 miles east of Winnipeg situated in township 112 on the shore of Hudson Bay stands Churchill, the recognised outlet port of the north.

Mr. Martin spoke of the rapid advancement in this district during the past thirty-five years. The power used in development has increased as 10,000 to 100. Immense engines and trains have taken the place of the little pioneer engine, airplanes and train service make a one time seven-day trip possible in forty-five minutes.

He told of the need of a church, the grant given by the United church of Canada, and the realization of his hope when lumber for the church arrived over the newly built railroad on April 30 and the first service held on June 16. Hundreds of men are now regular attendants at church services. Not only are they receiving spiritual benefit, but their loved ones at home are made more contented.

"It is a great privilege," said Mr. Martin, "to minister to those who have left our homes. Let us see that the administration of the gospel is given to them."

Miss Scott of Peterborough added enjoyment to the evening by two beautiful solos, "There's a Beautiful Land on High" and "My Task." Mrs. Moyer played the accompaniments.

W.M.S. ELECTS YEAR'S OFFICERS

George Street United Church Society Holds Annual Meeting.

REPORTS READ

The annual meeting of the W. M. S. of George Street United church was held in the board room of the Sunday School hall yesterday afternoon with a very large attendance.

The president, Mrs. W. E. Coon presided and welcomed the large gathering. Mrs. E. E. Harvey had charge of the devotional period. Miss Olive Sayers of the Twilight Mission Circle read the Scripture lesson and Mrs. Kenmure of Y. W. A. read a devotional leaflet followed by prayer by Mrs. Wasson. Mrs. E. E. Harvey told a Christmas story "The greatest gift—a loving heart" after which the Christmas hymn "Silent Night, Holy Night" was sung.

The secretary, Mrs. W. H. Morton gave a splendid report of the November meeting and the treasurer, Mrs. H. Dulmage, the financial report showing that the society had up to date exceeded their allocation, having contributed through the group system over one thousand dollars.

The corresponding secretary, Miss E. Might read a number of replies from those to whom letters of sympathy had been sent. Mrs. J. W. Hales for the sick and visiting committee reported, and Mrs. J. Spencer, the strangers secretary also reported.

Deep regret was expressed by the president in the passing of two of the members, Mrs. Harper and Mrs. Hart. Announcement was made of a Travel Talk with illustrated views, will be given by Dr. Buchannan on Friday evening, Dec. 12, under the auspices of the Ladies Aid Society. Mrs. J. Spencer and Mrs. H. Strong were appointed to audit the books for the past year and it was decided to continue the group system for another year.

Rev. J. E. Millyard then took the chair for the election of officers, reading the report of the nominating committee which was accepted in full with the exception of two slight changes.

A pleasing program followed, consisting of readings on Christmas Day in other lands.

The meeting closed with prayer led by Rev. J. E. Millyard.

Outlook Is Bright For Dark Coats This Season

(1) A charming black crepe afternoon frock with touches of ecru lace. (2) A smart coat of black "granis," a new rough-surfaced material by Rodier. It has a cravat collar of black broadtail and a belt of black suede with a big silver buckle. The oversleeve is exceedingly smart. (3) This coat is of the new imitation boardtail. It is really a coat dress and is glorified by the addition of a white ermine cravat and silver buttons. (4) A pretty black and white street costume, the vestee, cuffs and trimmings of white flannel. Black and white kid shoes are a new fashion note, to complete the ensemble.

ST. JAMES' W.M.S. HAS GOOD YEAR

Annual Meeting Held Recently in the Sunday School Hall.

A very successful year's work marked the efforts of St. James' W.M.S. as reported by the treasurer, when a large attendance gathered in the S.S. Hall of St. James' United church.

Mrs. P. Sollitt occupied the chair and a spirit of Christmas was brought into the meeting with the splenddi program, which opened with the hymn, "Faith of our Fathers." Mrs. Beavis led in an earnest prayer of thanksgiving for our Christian land and for the work Christian women are endeavoring to advance through the W.M.S.

The scripture lesson, a Christmas message, the story of Christ's birth as told in St. Luke's gospel 2:8 to 16, "While shepherds watched their flocks by night" was read by Mrs. W. Rose, after whcih prayer was offered by Mrs. Moorhouse. Mrs. A. Rosborough and Miss Aileen Rose sang very effectively in duet "Silent Night." Mrs. Sollitt was the accompanist.

A short business session consisting of the minutes of the last meeting as well as those of the last annual meeting, were read, fees were paid and the offering and donations received.

Rev. Mr. Moorhouse presided at the election of officers for the coming year and the meeting voted that this election be by ballot.

After a short prayer, the scrutineers, Mrs. Rose and Mrs. English, were appointed, with Mrs. Ingham, secretary.

The following executive for 1931 was the election results:

A splendid spirit of co-operation pervaded the meeting and the outlook for the future is especially hopeful from the successful ending of the year 1930.

TRADE MEETINGS IN BUENOS AIRES

Canadians to Discuss Several Commodities With Argentinians.

Canadian business men are to have the opportunity of making a trip to Argentina on March 2, 1931.

The big objective of the Canadian visit is the British Empire Trade Exhibition, to be opened by the Prince of Wales in person at Buenos Ayres. Following a request from the British Chamber of Commerce, the Argentinian Chamber made plans to organize daily meetings of forums on the Exhibition grounds. These meetings will be spread over the period of the stay of 11 days which Canadians will make in and around the picturesque Latin-American capital.

Topics discussed and members present at these meetings will vary from day to day. For instance, one day will be devoted to the Canadian makers of and the Argentinian buyers of farm implements, another day to the furniture trade and so on through a list of makers and buyers of practically every commodity from silk handkerchiefs to heavy duty trucks. "It would be advisable," says the letter officially informing Canadians of the idea of these meetings," that the representatives refer to the character and mentality of Latin-American business men, which require personal contacts made by the Canadian manufacturers with the buyers."

Presbyterial President Visits Fidelis Mission

The Fidelis Mission Band of George Street United Church held a very interesting meeting on Monday afternoon when Mrs. S. H. Moyer president of the Presbyterial, visited them as well as a number of the members of the W.M.S.

Mrs. Moyer spoke on different flowers in our gardens, drawing comparisons between different types of flowers and children, both in Canada and other lands.

The members of the band presented a beautiful missionary exercise, concluding with a chorus, "The World's Children For Jesus."

Special prizes of life certificates were presented to Ruth Parnell, Joy Walker, Wilda A. I. Brown and the badges were pinned on by Mrs. Rowe, a former leader of the band. These were awarded for general proficiency. Special mention was made of work of Olive Rowe and Jean Kerr on their test in written examinations on missionary work and they were presented with pictures by Mrs. J. E. Millyard. Before the conclusion of the meeting the band leaders presented each member present with a little Christmas favor.

Mrs. Wellwood moved a hearty vote of thanks to Mrs. Moyer for her splendid address; this was seconded by Lenore Lewis.

The little tearoom at the Christmas sale held in All Saints' parish hall on Tuesday and Wednesday, under the auspices of the Women's Guild of the church, was a very colorful adjunct to the general attractive appearance of the hall, with its evergreen boughs and red and green streamers and twinkling lights. The front of the platform, which formed the setting for the service of afternoon tea and hot supper, was covered with spruce boughs, dotted with artificial snow and tiny colored lights. At the back was a green screen centered with a huge Santa head and there were little red bells and vases of bittersweet on the tables. The large serving table was centered with an effective Christmas wreath of silver-leaved mistletoe and holly holding a tall red taper. Velvet-leaved poinsettias and red candles in silver candlesticks finished a pretty decorative scheme. Mrs. N. H. Sutton and Mrs. L. Dobbin were in charge of the tea room and supper, and Mrs. W. Seaman poured tea, assisted by Mrs. J. Elliott, Mrs. G. Hillier, Mrs. F. Marshall, Miss M. Elliotson and Miss Mamie Benor.

Mr. Andrew Allan, son of the Rev. and Mrs. William Allan, and president of the Players' Guild of University College, Toronto, as well as editor of the Varsity daily publication, had the part of Witwoud in the Congreve play, "The Way of the World" presented at Hart House Theatre, Toronto on Friday and Saturday last, with evening performances on both days and a Saturday matinee. The Toronto press carried the following review of the presentation: "With an aplomb and finesse hardly looked for in university dramatics, the Players' Guild of University College last night carried off William Congreve's brilliant comedy, "The Way of the World" to the accompanying plaudits of the first night audience in Hart House Theatre. From the opening curtain to the epilogue the audience enjoyed its quiet laughter as the famous lines were spoken. They delighted in the difficult foppishness which Andy Allan (editor of the Varsity) assumed so well. Then as his sun waned came 'Victor' Lange as Mirabell, finally being disclosed as the hero of the piece. Patricia Godfrey took the weighty role of Lady Wishfort and Isabel Dickson, with her superb nonchalance, and Ruth Hallenby, as the intriguing serving woman, were close seconds for honors."

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

In an almost miraculous manner some homes give the impression of being run with the aid of servants when actually they are not.

• • • • • • •

There is about them that air of repose and luxury which makes them delightful places in which to be entertained. No sense of hurry prevails when a dinner party is in progress. The hostess is not bustling about here and there. Yet everything is accomplished.

• • • • • • •

Conversation seems not to be interrupted by the little duties that make the hostess uneasy and her presence intermittant as is so often the case in the servantless home.

• • • • • • •

The decoration of the home and the management of it are the factors that combine to make the desired impression. It is particularly the management of which I am thinking, especially in relation to serving a meal

• • • • • • •

I was at a delightful dinner recently and because it was so effortless in the eyes of the guests it was doubly enjoyable.

• • • • • • •

Several things which causes confusion in passing had been eliminated. Vegetables were all served from a small table beside the hostess which also contained the main course.

• • • • • • •

All were served at one time, and because the occasion was only semi-formal, the salads were on the main table beside each plate. This did away with one process of table clearing.

• • • • • • •

A novel idea too, was a kind of fancy bread to be eaten with a fork was put upon each main course dish, so that bread and butter plates and spreaders were not needed.

• • • • • • •

That Body of Yours

GETTING RID OF PAIN WITHOUT DRUGS.

There is nothing that takes away the strength as does constant pain, and it is not surprising therefore that many suffering individuals take heavy doses of aspirin, codeine, or even morphine, in order to get relief.

The terrible pain of facial neuralgia has driven many an individual to suicide as has also that of sciatica and inflammation of the nerves and their branches.

And so when it was discovered that cutting the nerve supplying a certain region where the pain was intense, gave perfect relief, many operations have since been performed on nerves supplying face, abdomen, hip and leg. Cutting a nerve supplying a tuberculosis lung has given rest to that lung. This was a great improvement over previous operations for this condition.

However, Dr. N. N. Nasaroff, Liepsig, instead of cutting the nerve, now moisten the nerve trunks with an 80 percent alcohol solution. The nerve is exposed for a distance of four or five inches and is freely bathed in the solution. The pain immediately disappears.

Where there is an ulcer of the leg complicating the pain in the nerve, the ulcer heals promptly. These old nerve ulcers, as they were sometimes called, were terribly slow in healing.

This same physician reports excellent results in neuralgia of face by moistening the artery supplying the face with blood, by using the 90 per cent alcoholic solution.

In every case some good effect was attained, either a marked lessening of the pain, or the pain stopped completely.

In some cases the pain stopped while the patient was on the table; in others not until towards evening of the day of application, and occasionally not for two weeks afterward.

The big point about this simple treatment is that in every case some good effect was attained. And when you think of the terrific pain of what is called trifacial neuralgia, affecting the whole side of the face, and that this pain can be stopped or lessened in this manner, it is certainly very gratifying.

I know that even this simple method of relieving pain means an operation, but it is quite free from danger. As compared with the use of pain killing drugs which keep patient almost in a stupor with the danger of the drug forming habit, the operation of bathing the artery is much to be preferred.

Poor Children To Get Free Dental Service

SAULT STE MARIE, Ont., Dec. 11. The announcement that free dental services would be provided by the Ontario Government to all the underprivileged children of the Province through the Childrens Aid Societies was made at a public meeting here by Hon. W. G. Martin, Minister of Public Welfare.

Crippled children came in for a measure of sympathy from the Minister who assured his hearers that the recommendations concerning them in the Ross report would be carefully considered. "For crippled children" he declared, "a day of emancipation is coming."

The establishment of a girl's school at Bowmanville similar to the industrial school for boys there at the present time was also announced. Mr. Martin said that he felt the need for a school for girls was as great as for boys.

CHRISTMAS COLORS DECORATE BOOTHS

Women's Guild of All Saints' Church Holds Annual Yuletide Sale.

The annual Christmas sale of the Women's Guild of All Saints' Church had the real Christmas note this year in its decorations. The big parish hall made an attractive picture with the green and red of the season as a predominant note. The booths, arranged against the wall on either side, were covered with evergreen boughs dotted with artificial snow and painted pine cones and festooned with streamers of crimson and green paper and the long, glittering silver strands that resemble icicles. Over each booth were two small crossed flags. The bright illumination of the whole interior gave a pleasant and cheerful note to the gay bazaar, which had a splendid patronage during Tuesday and Wednesday.

At the door, a jolly Kris Kringle smiled a welcome over the cardboard chimney that formed the front for the fish pond, which was in charge of Mrs. G. Worboy, Mrs. J. Runnett and Miss Betty Runnett.

Next door was the booth where fancy work and quilts were sold, in charge of Mrs. A. Milne and Mrs. W. Rogers. Mrs. E. LeBarr and her assistants of the Senior Girls' Auxiliary had a dainty little booth devoted to a sale of novelties; fancy work was sold by Mesdames J. Detcher, R. Cottrell, J. Johnston, C. Curtis; a novelty sale was looked after by Mrs. B. Burns and Mrs. G. A. Benor, and candy in lovely little baskets was sold by Mrs. A. Clysdale and Mrs. Ted Burnham, in a very pretty little kiosk that was topped with a glistening silver star and a tiny Santa Claus, and had a fringe of crimson and emerald green chenille and scarlet poinsettias.

An exceptionally attractive tea room, arranged on the platform at the west end of the hall, had decorations of spruce boughs and red bells and tiny electric lights. It was in charge of Mrs. N. H. Sutton and Mrs. L. Dobbin. Hot supper also was served here during both nights.

The Brownton Guild sold useful and fancy articles and home-made cooking at a booth in charge of the president, Mrs. J. Hetherington, with Mrs. H. Allen and Mrs. J. Black. Mrs. R. Hurst and Mrs. J. N. Watson had the sale of fancy work and aprons for the Ladies' Bible Class of the church, and the Country Store, its tiny Christmas tree gay with icicle hangers and a little Santa Claus, was in charge of Mrs. P. Fitzgerald, Mrs. K. Sisson and Mrs. C. Edwards, with the cooking sale supervised by Mrs. C. Meek and Mrs. E. Brown.

The sale of fancy work by the South end group was looked after by Mrs. T. Sabin and Mrs. E. Dillon and a brilliantly-lighted Christmas tree, gay with red and green streamers and icicles, with mystery parcels attached to the boughs which stretched up sixteen feet to the ceiling, was in charge of Mrs. F. Roberts.

On Tuesday evening Rick Roberts and his Melody Men played for the crowd and an Orthophonic loaned by E. V. Warne provided music during the afternoon.

DIVISION OF DIOCESE OF TORONTO AND ESTABLISHING OF NEW DIOCESE SET FORTH IN INTERESTING PAPER

Proposal is to Form New Diocese With Peterborough as Headquarters.

CONTROVERSIAL SUBJECT.

Paper Was Written By Rev. Morris Kingsford, Rector at Gore's Landing.

Proposals to make a division in the present large Diocese of Toronto contained in a paper read before the Rural Deaneries of Peterborough, Northumberland and Durham, and distributed at their request and expense, reopens an old controversy which dates back to the time of the ministry of Rev. J. W. B. Beck, M.A., who was rector of St. John's Anglican Church, this city, from 1856 till shortly before his death in 1889.

The paper, which is here quoted, virtually, in full, was read by Rev. Morris Kingsford, a member of the Rural-Decanal Chapter of Northumberland and Durham. He was at one time curate of St. John's Church before going to England where he was vicar of a parish for four years, afterwards returning to Canada to take up the incumbency of his present church at Gore's Landing.

Authorization to publish the paper in pamphlet form, was given him, following the reading of it, at a meeting of the Rural-Decanal meeting in this city, in June this year. The paper in pamphlet form has been recently published, as follows:

"When the Anglican National Commission visited the Rural Deanery of Northumberland and Durham in February, 1930, the subject of a division of the Diocese of Toronto came up for discussion. I made the statement that, speaking from memory, I believed there was already available a sum of $75,000 as a Diocesan endowment for a Diocese of Peterborough. The Commissioners all said that if there were such sum they would have heard of it at Peterborough a few days before. I therefore went to Peterborough to enquire and found there is a sum of more than $75,000, being three bequests; the Wilson bequest and two Johnson bequests. This money has been left to augment the stipends of the poorer livings in the Archdeaconry of Peterborough, and, therefore, forms a very handsome nucleus for the endowment of a Diocese of Peterborough, although, of course, earmarked for a particular branch of the Diocesan Finance."

"The source of information from which this paper has been prepared are the following:"

"The Toronto Synod Journal, 1929; the Canadian Church Year Book, 1930. I am indebted to the Rev. J. Leach of the United Church for the year book of the United Church. The secretaries or [illegible] attained its present status after thirty-five years growth."

Statistics.

"The statistics of the proposed Diocese would be roughly as follows. The figures while pretty close to the correct amount are necessarily approximate."

"Forty-six parishes composing 19 missions 27 self-supporting parishes; 87 congregations; 65 clergy, 5,416 families 20,285 number of people on parish lists, $157,641 receipts from congregations $29,899 receipts from outside; $187,540 total receipts, $16,729 allotments due; $13,108 allotments paid, $16,359 grants received for missions, 1,043 value of rectory glebes, 5,554 revenue from glebes, 3,837 revenue from Parish endowments, 72,551 value of endowment of parishes."

"Then follows the total value of building, churches, halls, and rectories, amounting to a total equity value of $1,374,350."

Name of Diocese.

"What would the name of the Diocese be? Peterborough is the most suitable name—There is already a city, a county, and Archdeaconry of that name. Whether any other of the numerous denominations, such as the Church of Rome, the Church of Russia, and the rest, have used the name is beside the point in this the British Empire. Many of our Dioceses are mis-named to their own disadvantage. The name of the Diocese of Ontario for instance, is a complete misnomer, and it was a spineless, weak-kneed policy at the outset which shirked calling the Diocese the Diocese of Kingston. In the same way the Archbishop of Rupert's land should be the Archbishop of Winnipeg. Local pride is a legitimate emotion to appeal to and, moreover, whatever may have been the origin of the name of Peterborough, Canada, it is associated in men's minds with Peterborough, England. It is a good old English name and why should the Church of England not foster English names?"

See City.

"The See City would obviously be Peterborough itself. Geographically it is placed practically at the meeting point of four of the six Counties. No Parish in the proposed diocese would be more than two hours distant from Peterborough by road. The railways, highways and waterways all converge at Peterborough. Oshawa is a larger city, but it is in a corner of the Diocese. Moreover, Peterborough has a most beautifully placed parish church for a cathedral."

"In Canada fifteen Dioceses would be smaller in wealth, numbers, clergy, etc., and eleven Dioceses larger. Peterborough would be, therefore, the twelfth largest Diocese in Canada (not in area of course)."

"After dividions the Toronto Diocese would still be easily the most populous diocese, in fact, being more than twice as large as the next two dioceses combined. Toronto would contain 155,000 persons. The next two in numbers, Montreal and Huron, contain about 70,000 persons each."

Stipends of Clergy.

"The question of a new diocese is closely allied with that of stipends of the clergy. For more than two years the minimum stipend for the whole of Canada of the United Church has been $1,800 p.a. with furnished house and initial transportation."

"In the area under review, namely the Archdeaconry of Peterborough and a small adjacent eastern territory, only eight parishes out of the forty-six pay even the minimum salary of the United Church, and of these eight parishes only one is strictly speaking rural, namely Perrytown."

"Before Union, Methodist ministers received $1,650 and houses, etc."

"The Church of England loses forty clergy a year to the United States mainly owing to the inadequacy of the stipends received in Canada. Estimating $5,000 as the cost to the church of training each clergyman, the church is losing $200,000 a year in cash in this way alone. A business man would say at once what a short-sighted policy! But the layman must be told the facts and they look to the clergy to tell them the facts."

"It may be supposed that the clergy who have gone to the United States have left poorer Dioceses, but many have gone from Toronto, From personal knowledge the following parishes in the Eastern part of the Diocese have lost clergy to a foreign land of late years—Peterborough, All Saints, St. Johns, St. Georges, St. Lukes (since returned), Perrytown, Campbellford, Colborne, Newcastle (three). The list could probably be greatly extended."

"Toronto is the richest Canadian Diocese and should set the standard. Surely one Canadian diocese out of twenty-six can at least reach the minimum of the United States for the whole of Canada."

"The minimum stipend in Montreal is $1,500."

"The average stipend in Niagara is $1,300."

"The average stipend in Toronto Diocese is somethat higher, although some men are receiving less than $1,200."

Finance.

"How can the necessary money to form a new diocese be obtained and what is necessary? At present the total mission grants from the Synod funds and paid to the Peterborough area total $16,359 p.m."

Total	$16,359
Deduct allottments raised locally	3,149	$13,210
Deduct interest from the three bequests	5,374
		$7,836

"To increase all beneficiaries to $1,800 p.a. minimum would require an additional $4,050."

"So that adding together the amount received externally, $7,836 and $4,050 needed to increase to $1,800 we get the total of $11,886 p.a. new money needed. This would be interest on about $250,000 Capital amount needed for Diocese, therefore:

Bishop	$100,000
Clergy stipends	250,000
Diocesan Staff	50,000
Total	$400,000

"With this sum a new Diocese would be formed and every parish clergyman both in Toronto and Peterborough Dioceses would be receiving a $1,800 p.a. minimum. This would be because $7,836 p.a. at present supplied from Synod funds for the Peterborough area would be released to be spent in the remaining portion of the old Diocese."

"An adjustment of the commutation funds, beneficiary funds, etc., could be made upon an equitable basis."

Objections.

"What are the objections to the suggested division of the Diocese?"

"(1) Wait till the Anglican National Commission gives its report. But procrastination never built up any church—"Wait and see," is a fatal policy driving forty clergy a year from the country."

"(2) Where is the money to come from? The Archdeaconry of Peterborough will doubtless do its share, but most of the funds would come from Toronto itself—a Diocesan 'drive" would be necessary and that is a matter for the laymen to tackle. During the last decade several parishes and institutions have raised or received amounts as large or nearly so as that needed to form the Diocese. For instance St. Paul's, Christ Church, Grace Church, etc., also Trinity College, Wycliffe College and Trinity College School."

"Last year the Bishop of Montreal collected $150,000 without even a campaign to increase county livings."

"Toronto is of course, an infinitely stronger Diocese."

"(3) It would be, of course, objected that now is a bad time financially to raise money. There never was a good time. Faith will remove mountains."

"(4) Why should Toronto pay? Because it is a duty and Toronto does not shirk from duty. She is a city of ideals as her record amply testifies. Her contributions, for instance, in men and money in the late War were magnificent"

"(5) It will be urged that the whole modern tendency is to amalgamate rather than sub-divide. However, what is true in business is not true in the church. It is well-known that the big corporations have no soul. The Church is built up on the personal factor and over twenty thousand persons scattered over more than six thousand square miles is quite a large enough territory to need a Bishop."

"(6) It will be urged that the Archdeaconry of Peterborough should be added to the Diocese of Toronto. The answer is that the nearest parish would be nearly one hundred miles from Kingston, the See City. Some parishes would be two hundred miles from the See City. Such a Diocese would be unwieldy from the start."

"What benefits would be derived from a new Peterborough Diocese?"

"(1) A new Diocese would result in a new burst of energy and advance would be soon observed."

"(2) An additional Bishop is worth the $5,000 a year, even from a financial standpoint only—But how much more in other ways! Not only every parish, but every congregation could be visited for one day at least every year by the Bishop."

"(3) A contented clergy would result and one not looking to foreign lands. The country church is the real backbone of the church. A church which is not indigenous in the country districts is doomed. No candid observer will admit that the Church of England has ever really set herself to tackle the problem of the country church. In order to continue to live a church must be rooted to the soil."

"(4) Anything that will check the drift from the country to the cities is to be encouraged. A gloomy, down-and-out, country church does not improve country conditions, where the church should be the real pulse of the community."

Procedure.

"The only way a new Diocese can come into being is for the Bishop and Synod to ask the Provincial Synod to make the necessary new boundary. A discussion in the Synod is necessary."

"The Provincial Synod meets next year and if the Diocese of Toronto has done nothing during the coming year the whole matter must sleep for some years."

"If we clergy cannot show enthusiasm how can the rank and file be expected to be enthused? Why not let us decide to make the Church of England in Canada a real living force?' Action' is the word."

"After making every allowance for all the splendid work that has been done and is being done, the present state of affairs is a disgrace."

"May we close with St. Paul's words to Timothy, "Nevertheless, I am not ashamed, for I know Whom I have believed, and am persuaded that He is able to keep that which I have committed unto Him against that day". "That good thing which was committed unto Thee keep by the Holy Ghost which dwelleth in us."

Headquarters of the Dioceses of Toronto, Niagara, Algoma and Huron kindly supplied me with figures to use by way of comparison. Mr. F. D. Kerr K.C., of Peterborough, gave me a copy of a motion he read before the Synod at Toronto in 1924. The Department of Survey of Ontario supplied maps. And I am grateful for the information from the Venerable J. C. Davidson, Archdeacon of Peterborough, and from Mr. Cuttle, Finance Commissioner of the Diocese of Toronto."

"The Diocese of Toronto was set apart as a Diocese in 1839. In 1857 the Diocese of Huron was cut off from the Mother Diocese. In 1861 the Diocese of Ontario was cut off; in 1873 the Diocese of Algoma was cut off; in 1896 the Diocese of Ottawa was formed out of part of the Diocese of Ontario. It was proposed in Archbishop Sweatman's time, in about 1905, to form the Archdeaconry of Peterborough into a Diocese, but the matter was left for the future." In 1924 Mr. F. D. Kerr, K.C., one of the Lay delegates from Peterborough, moved the following resolution in the Synod. 'That members of the Executive Committee of the Synod be appointed a special committee to report on the desirability, as well as the practicability of creating a new Diocese of Toronto, and that such report be presented at the next annual meeting of the Synod."

"It was ruled that the subject could not be brought up at that Synod,' on the ground that so important a matter affecting the whole of the Diocese should have been sent to the Executive Committee and be printed in the convening circular'. Mr. Kerr could not be present the following year, and the matter was allowed to drop."

Description of Diocese.

"A glance at the map will show the natural area of the proposed diocese. It would contain six counties, namely Northumberland, Durham Peterborough, Haliburton, Victoria and Ontario. It would be bounded on the south by Lake Ontario, on the west by Lake Simcoe and the County of York, on the north by the Diocese of Algoma and on the south by the Diocese of Ontario. The area would be about 6,500 square miles out of a total area of 10,000 square miles, composing the present area of the Diocese of Toronto. It contains two cities, Peterborough and Oshawa and three large towns Lindsay, Port Hope and Cobourg. The occupations of the people are agricultural and industrial in a well divided proportion and a good number are employed in summer resorts; the Trent Valley cutting right across the country. Is The Airship's Day Over?

The British Empire is eagerly awaiting the report of the R-101 Commission of Inquiry, which for almost two months has been listening to evidence produced by experts and survivors following the fatal crash of the world's largest airship. Upon this report rests the future British airship policy. Above are pictures of the R-100, sister ship of the ill-fated R-101, which successfully crossed the Atlantic ocean to Canada and returned to England; also the Graf Zeppelin, Germany's monarch of the skies which has also covered great distances with little or no difficulty. At the right, centre, is a picture of one of the pioneers in airship design, Wallie Dixon, who, in 1910, made his epochal flight standing on a frail trestle and guiding his ship with a clothes line connected with a tiny rudder. As one export puts it, "It seems a pity that airship aviation should be dropped, when one compares the marvel of airship progress in the difference between Wallie Dixon's crude airboat and that mastodon of the air, the R-100."

Promise Of Peace Inaicated Between Clubs

BALL VETERANS LOCATE BERTHS FOR NEXT YEAR

Wally Schang Goes to Tigers While John McGraw Joins Giants as Scouts.

PROMISE OF PEACE.

Jack Quinn Seeking Mound Duty With the Brooklyn Robins.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11. — Activity among players reached a new high yesterday in the major league meetings. A promise of peace appeared in the complicated draft controversy with the minors, and the era of prosperity, brought in by the lively ball and short fences, was guaranteed a future as rosy as its past.

For hours and hours, the magnates of the National and American Leagues sat in conclave, first in a committee meeting, with nine representatives of the International and Pacific Coast Leagues, and the American Association to discuss the draft, then in regular business sessions of the leagues. Down in the lobby of the hotel, fading stars and old-time heroes talked with managers here and managers there about jobs—and accomplished more in an hour than the magnates did all day.

"Wally" Schang and Cy Perkins, veteran catchers added to the unemployment situation by Connie Mack of the Athletics, talked themselves into jobs. "Wally" with the Detroit Tigers and Perkins with the New York Yankees, Joe Duggan, once the third base ace of baseball for the Yankees, came to a tentative agreement with the Tigers as a utility man.

McGraw Engages Bender.

John McGraw of the New York Giants reached back into the past and found old "Chief" Bender, once a pitching star on Connie Mack's great team of another era, and dickered with the Indian, offering him a job as a scout. At the same time McGraw reached an agreement with George Burns, once a Giant outfielder, to replace "Irish" Meusel as a coach here. Jack Quinn, one of the last of the spitballers, was around seeking pitching work with the Brooklyn Robins but accomplished little.

Two first basemen, George Sisler of the Boston Braves, and Lou Blue of the Browns, seem to have been given opportunities by their management to better themselves if possible. Sisler discussed a coaching job with the Tigers, but Blue wound up the day talking salary differences with his own club.

The trade winds failed to stir, but there were rumors aplenty. The Red Sox were reported to have offered First Baseman Phil Todt to Cleveland for Johnny Hodapp, and Billy Evans laughed and laughed. The Washington Senators would take Outfielder Reynolds from the White Sox and give them a choice of two of the following players: Joe Kuhel, rookie first baseman; Buddy Meyer, infielder, and Bump Hadley. Donie Bush would be more inclined to talk business if Hadley and an outfielder were joined in the offer. Cleveland offered the White Sox first baseman, Fonseca, for Third Baseman Willie Kamm, but no deals were closed.

No Action on Lively Ball.

The uproar over the lively ball and the prodigious home-run clouting died to a whisper in the league meetings. Both the National and American magnates discussed the ball and the zoning of parks, and the raising of screens before the stands but no action was taken.

Both leagues discussed the draft for hours, as well as "chain-store" baseball and other points close to the hearts of club-owners. Following the meeting, Sam Breadon, president of the Cardinals, and the largest owner of minor league clubs in the majors, said he expected no further differences with Commissioner K. M. Landis on the chain-store subject. Landis has been a severe critic of this system of developing major league talent.

In the draft conference yesterday morning, the major league committee listened to the proposition of the minors, and laid the situation before a joint league meeting last night. There seems to be little trouble over the price of drafted players, but the majors want to have fifteen men out on option for three years instead of the eight now allowed them for two years. The minors want the right to draft from leagues below them in standing.

Herd Meets Olympics At Detroit To-night

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 11. (CP)—The league leading Buffalo Bisons and Detroit Olympics meet in the only International Hockey League fixture scheduled to-night. The teams have met once before during the current schedule and the Bisons left little doubt as to their superiority on that occasion, winning three to one. To-night's tussle, however, takes place on Olympic ice and the Detroiters are bound to furnish much stouter opposition.

Victory for the Olympics will hoist them in the standing to third place, one point in the van of London Tecumsehs and one point behind the second place holders, Windsor Bulldogs. The Bisons already have a commanding lead at the head of the parade, so defeat will have little effect on their status.

PEP UP "LES CANADIENS"

Hockey fans who study the puck chasin' game seriously, claim that psychology played an important part in the championship finish that "Les Canadiens" made last season. Here are a few facts that back up their reasoning. The "Flying Frenchmen" travelled 1,800 and played 171 minutes of hockey to eliminate the Chi-hawks. Forty-eight hours later they took on the New York Rangers in the longest game on record of 128 minutes, then came a return game in Gotham and the Montreal team shut-out their opponents 2-0. Forty-eight hours later they played the Bostun Bruins, beating them once in Montreal 3-0 and again in Boston 4-3. One naturally wonders and marvels at the physical stamina that this team displayed. Leo Dandurand didn't rush his team at the opening of the season and saved their strength until the end. That same policy prevailed this year and "Les Canadiens" were the last team to take the ice. However, the management of the French club is wise enough to realize that this can't go on forever and so again they have added new blood to their forward line. The forward line of "Les Canadiens" didn't run along as smooth as most people imagine and this was the reason Art Gagne was traded to Chicago for Nick Wasnie. This year they added a new recruit with the same fiery complex as Joliet on the left wing, Johnny Gagnon of the championship French-Canadian team of Providence. He is 25 years old and is small, weighing only 139 lbs. His height is five feet five. He comes from the town of Chicoutimi and played his first organized amateur hockey with the local boys in 1921-22, then he went to the Quebec Bulldogs. In 1923-24 he was with Three Rivers for a season and finished up his amateur career playing in 1925 for the Sons of Ireland. In 1926 he turned pro. with the Quebec Beavers and signed for Providence in 1927. It was from there that he joined the ranks of "Les Canadiens." There is little doubt that he will prove to be a constant threat this season on the right wing of the Habitant team.

CANUCKS MEET SENATORS ON OTTAWA ICE

First Time This Season Two N. H. L. Teams Will Clash at Rideau City.

LEAFS SEEKING AID.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 11. (CP)—Two inter-sectional and one all-Canadian group tussle mark tonight's hockey feast on the National League program.

Montreal Canadiens, leaders of the Canadian group, make their first appearance of the season at Ottawa, in the headline attraction. Having just wrested the top position from Toronto Maple Leafs the Habitants will trip mightily to consolidate their position. They defeated the Senators in Montreal earlier in the season, but beating the Ottawans in their own arena is a different proposition.

Victory for the Senators, now coached by Dave Gill, will place them within a point of the Leafs and second place as the latter are idle.

Indications point to a typical Senator-Canadien battle with the result a toss-up even though the Habitants have the better record and also boasts the league's leading scorer, Howie Morenz, on their lineup.

Detroit Falcons, the only team in the American group to beat the leaders of that section, Chicago, clash with Maroons at Montreal for the first time during the current schedule. Fresh from their sparkling win over the Blackhawks and eager to secure a firm hold on their place in the group, the Motor City team, will no doubt prove to be a stumbling block to Maroons' efforts to get out of last place.

With three sets of fast, hard-checking forwards, supported by a stalwart rearguard, Jack Adams has welded together a dangerous aggregation, who threaten to usurp the play-off position so long occupied by New York Rangers. The latter and the Falcons are tied at present but as the New Yorkers are idle victory will place the Detroiters in sole possession of third rung.

Maroons have showed flashes of exceptional strength but seemed unable to extend a winning streak very far. Last Tuesday they lost a close game to the Bruins in Boston, while last Saturday they only beat Ottawa by a fluke goal, so their chances against the Falcons do not look any too bright.

May Tie Lead.

Boston's burly Bruins, trying desperately to overcome Chicago's lead, make their first invasion of New York where they encounter the Americans, last place holders in the Canadian division. Improving every game, the Bruins will tie the Blackhawks for the leadership of the American section by winning.

Eddie Gerard's team has not accomplished much in recent games outside of beating the lowly Philadelphia Quakers, and Boston are confident of perching on top with the Windy City team after the tussle with the Amerks.

Kansas City Cue Expert Loses To Ralph Greenleaf

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Forced to call upon all of his old-time skill, Ralph Greenleaf, the "boy wonder" of a decade ago, successfully hurdled another barrier last night in quest of his tenth world's pocket billiard championship in eleven years.

Meeting Bennie Allen of Kansas City, who was winning national titles when Greenleaf was first learning the feel of a cue, the 30-year-old champion played brilliant billiards to win 125 to 24 in 16 innings.

At times Allen threatened to break through Greenleaf's flashy game with a well-planned defensive work of the champion that won out.

Greenleaf's victory, his second one-sided triumph of the tournament at Dwyer's Billiard Academy, left him in a triple tie for first place, with Arthur Woods and Onofro Lauri of New York, who also won yesterday.

Lalonde Is Through Says Ottawa Paper

Journal OTTAWA, Dec. 11.—The Ottawa Journel yesterday said it has learned from a reliable source close to the centre of hockey control here, that "Newsy" Lalonde is no longer coach of the Ottawa team of the National Hockey League, and will not in future actively participate in the direction of the Senators.

William Foran, the Senator club president, announced last Monday that Lalonde had been granted leave of absence for an indefinite period owing to ill health. "It is understood he will not return unless unforeseen developments occur," The Journal says.

Mr. Foran yesterday refused to discuss The Journal's report. "My previous statement that Dave Gill has taken over Lalonde's duties owing to the ill health of the latter stands," was the only comment the Senator president would offer.

Lalonde was signed as Senator coach last season, and landed the team in a play-off berth. In his younger days he was a star player with hockey teams of both Eastern and Western Canada.

FIELDS IS VICTOR OVER PAUL PIRRONE

Former World's Welterweight Champion Scores Easy Win.

Fields, flashing superior speed and boxing skill, won nine of the ten rounds to receive Referee Matt Brock's verdict.

Johnny Farr, lightweight from Cleveland, outroughed and outfought Ray Miller, Chicago southpaw, to earn the referee's decision in their ten-rounder.

Ollie Bartlett, Detroit, weighing 116¾, won a referee's decision over Mickey Cohen, Cleveland, in six rounds. Martin Zuniga, Los Angeles featherweight, scored a technical knockout over Marshall Coquette, Cleveland, in one round.

Australian Sculler Marries Aussie Girl

HAMILTON, Ont., Dec. 11. (CP)—A romance which started in Australia over a year ago, culminated last night in Christ Church Cathedral here when Robert Pearce, Olympic sculling champion and Miss Relia Hendon, of Sydney, New South Wales, were married by Very Rev. L. W. S. Broughall, Dean of Niagara.

The groom, who was born in Australia, came to Hamilton last summer to compete in the British Empire games, and after making a clean sweep of the single sculling events decided to stay here. Miss Hendon arrived after completing her long journey from "down under" to join her fortunes with the famous sculler.

CANADIAN GOLFERS HELP WEST INDIES

Three Toronto Men Feature in Opening of Kingston Golf Course.

Canadians are now playing a conspicuous part in the golfing of British West Indians, whose land Viscount Willingdon has called "The Sunroom of the Empire."

George Cumming, generally called the dean of Canadian golfers, is to take complete charge of the 18-hole course which will be a part of the extensive premises of the new Constant Springs Hotle, near Kingston, Jamaica. The hotel, which has been built and designed by Canadians with Canadian materials, will open this winter.

Assisting Cumming will be Jack Littler, also a Canadian. Both are of Toronto as is also Stanley Thompson, designer of the Constant Spring Golf course and of the beautiful Jasper Park course in Canada. Other Canadians have made acquaintance with the several other golf courses of the British island colonies of the tropics, either as players, designers, instructors or advisors.

Bermuda has several 18-hole courses and lovely 9-hole links. Among other islands which offer warmth and sunshine to winter golf enthusiasts are the Bahamas, Trinidad, Grenada, St. Vincent, St. Lucia, Barbadoes, Dominica, Montserrat, Antigua, Nevis, St. Kitts, some of whose courses are especially small and others very spacious.

The West Indies are connected with Canada by luxurious steamers, and it is reported that there has been an increase of 50 percent of Canadian vocationalists bound for the islands.

PRINCE OF WALES A KEEN AIR PILOT

Seeks Explanation and Studies Mechanism of Holt Plane.

LONDON, Dec. 11.—The keen interest taken by the Prince of Wales in aircraft was well demonstrated a few days ago when he flew 160 miles in a twin-engined amphibious monoplane owned by Captain Robert Holt, wealthy Canadian. For a greater part of the flight the Prince was himself at the controls. He also took the controls of the giant German seaplane, the DO-X, for some minutes while the monster of the air was in England recently.

His flight in the Holt plane was from London to Southampton and back with his own private pilot and six other persons and on the return the Prince guided the plane to a landing at the Fairey aerodrome. The machine used has two 300-h.p. engines and it attains a speed of 120 miles an hour.

In addition to piloting the machine he insisted on an explanation of the amphibian gear and spent half an hour at the conclusion of the flight examining the mechanism. Incidentally, he got his hands covered with oil and grease and went without his lunch.

GOOD GAMES CITY LEAGUE

De Laval, Graftons and C. G. E. Put Up Tidy Battle in Basketball Loop.

C.G.E. EASY WINNERS.

In a City League basketball game on the Y floor last night Grafton's representatives in the newly formed league were downed by the De Laval entry by the margin of two points, the final count being 28-26.

Both outfits were sporting classy sweaters donated by their respective backers, and the fans were treated to the fastest and most exciting contest to date.

The first half was all in favor of the Clothiers, and together with nice combination and accurate shooting they ran up eight points before the Separator crowd got warmed to their task. At the half-way mark Grafton's were leading 16-5.

Opening the final session, however, the south-end forward line began to function and Sturgeon, Routley, and Levine worked nicely together to run up a dozen points in short order.

Grofton's fought back hard and with but three minutes to play were leading by one point. A free throw and a basket by "Bim" Sturgeon closed the scoring, and gave the Separator team the lead and the game 28-26.

For the winners, Sturgeon was the high scorer with 14 points and Routley and Levine followed with six each. Cooper and Stanger were a tower of strength on the defence when their forwards weren't 'clicking' and in the second half proved too much for the Chesler-Macdonald-Swartz combination.

The success attained by the Clothiers against the Cooper-led clan was largely due to the high-class performance of Armstrong and Ward on the defence, both being highly successful in pulling down rebound shots. Howie Macdonald, at centre, had little difficulty in giving the jump to his team and Swartz and chesler were high scorers with 12 and 9 points respectively.

The teams:

De Laval — Forwards, Palmer, Sturgeon, Graves, Routley; centre, Levine; defence, Stanger, Cooper.

Grafton's — Forwards, Chesler, Swartz; centre, Macdonald; defence, Armstrong, Ward, Kelley.

Easy C. G. E. Victory

In the second contest of the evening, C. G. E. met the Teco Store quintet and downed them easily 41-8.

The game lacked the speed and thrills of the opening contest but the Teco boys offered stubborn resistance to the speedy Electric outfit.

The store men were unable to cope with the shooting and passing of C. G. E. forward line and McLeish and Greenlaw ran up high scores for their team without much opposition.

From the start it was evident that the Electricians would overwhelm the Teco team and their defence of Dickson and Howe stopped practically everything their opponents could offer.

For the losers, French played a steady game at centre but his team lacked the punch necessary to carry through for baskets.

On the other hand McLeish, Greenlaw and Osterland played nice ball for the C. G. E. carrying the ball to their opponents defence and then working in close for baskets.

Frank Taberski Enters Cue Fray

NEW YORK, N.Y., Dec. 11 (C.P.)—With Ralph Greenleaf apparently safe on his way to his tenth world's pocket billiard title in 11 years, interest centered today in Frank Taberski's attempt to win his first game of the tournament at Dwyer's Billiard Academy.

The grey-haired cue artist from Schenestady, N.Y., has been among the topnotchers for so long, that old timers are at a loss to explain his defeat in his first two games. Only two years ago Taberski held the world's title and last year finished third to Greenleaf and Ervin Rudolph, but so far this year he has been unable to break into the victory column.

WOULD BAN CARS DURING ELECTION

Labor Member Urges Plan to Equalize Voting Facilities in Various Electorates.

TAKEN UP IN BILL.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 11. (C. P. Cable).—Elections should be decided not by motorcars but by the convictions of the electors, declared Ben Tillet, Labor Member and Trades Union leader, in the House of Commons last night. He was seconding a labor motion that motorcars should be prohibited for polling uses, except on special occasions, in order to equalize the voting facilities of the different classes of electors. The motion was introduced by J. Toole, Labor, Salford south, with a view to the early production of the Governments Electoral Reform Bill.

On the Government's undertaking that the question of motorcars would be dealt with in their bill, the motion was withdrawn.

Mr. Toole declared there were men in the country who owed more to the four wheels than their forebearers. The workers were poor but honest, he said, and they felt that if they used a candidate's car to bring them to the polls, they should vote for him.

Another speaker raised the question of ballot papers being spoilt by old ladies who voted for "Mr. A." because they liked his politics and also for "Mr. B." because they liked his motorcar.

ARMY AND NAVY DRILL FOR CLASH

Middies Tune Up Band and Groom Goat For Historic Classic.

ON SATURDAY NEXT.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., December 11.—Excitement was running at fever pitch here yesterday as Coach Bill Ingram stressed the fundamentals in a brisk Navy drill. Lou Kirn seemed to favor his injured foot slightly, but the rest of the middy squad appeared in excellent condition and spirits.

Enthusiasm and optimism predominate in the regiment. Over the door of every man on the squad has been placed the coveted golden "N" star, reward of the player who has been in a victory over the Army. Yesterday morning the band played Navy songs and "The Old Grey Mare" as the middies marched as class; and the Navy goat is being carefully groomed for his debut at the Yankee Stadium.

According to present indications, the Navy will start the same line-up on Saturday as they did against Penn, and an offensive drive, carefully kept under cover against Penn, will be unleashed in its full power against the Kaydets.

Burns In Hospital As Result Of Bout

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 11 (C.P.)—Tommy Burns, recent arrival from Scotland, who is fighting out of Buffalo in the welterweight ranks, is resting comfortably in St. Michael's Hospital here to-day.

Burns, a durable two-fisted slugger, was outpunched by an equally formidable slugger in the person of "Red" Bragan, Toronto, at last night's Poppy Day boxing and wrestling show here. A crushing blow over the heart followed by two jolting wallops to the head, knocked the Scotsman out cold in the fourth round and efforts of physicians at the ringside to revive him proved futile. He regained consciousness in the hospital early this morning. He will be x-rayed later in the day as a precautionary measure, hospital authorities said, but it is not thought he suffered any serious injury.

ANNUAL PRE-SEASON DISCUSSION OF O.H.A. RULES HELD AT TORONTO

Referee Will Be in Full Charge of Games as in Former Years.

NO RAGGING THE PUCK.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 11 (C.P.) — Uniform interpretation of rules was impressed on referees and other officials, who gathered here from many parts of the Province, for the annual pre-season discussion of playing regulations as set forth by the Ontario Hockey Association.

As in previous years the referee will be in full charge of games he is appointed to handle. Ragging the puck will not be allowed. The penalty for this offence is a face-off on the goal line 10 feet from the goal of the team guilty of this infraction of rules. If any player persists in the offence he will be ruled off.

The body-checking rule remains unchanged as far as the interpretation of it goes. There is to be no body-checking on the forward line, the referees being impressed with the fact that the game must be kept going at top speed and body checking allowed only in the defending team's 60-foot line.

A team desiring to change players during the game must report to the referee each substitution. When this rule is violated the offending player will be penalized.

Hockey Season Opens In Oshawa To-night

OSHAWA, Dec. 11.—The amateur hockey season will be officially opened to Oshawa fans to-night at the Oshawa arena when four junior teams will clash in a double-header in the first round of the Sheriff Paxton trophy series, the first game starting at 7.30 o'clock.

The Sheriff Paxton trophy is a trophy presented by Sheriff Paxton, treasurer of the O.H.A. and now a resident of Oshawa, for competition among all junior teams in the counties of Ontario and Durham. This is the second year the trophy has been competed for, Orono winning the trophy last Winter, the first year of competition. Sheriff Paxton has long been connected with hockey and has been a member of the O.H.A. for a great many years, the trophy is a tangible representation of the keen interest he takes in hockey, especially in these two counties.

"We invade a new field with vastly improved cars at the lowest prices in our history"

BY WILLIAM J. McANENEY
President, Hudson Motor Car Company

WE have built these models up to and beyond the 1931 standards of performance and quality in every way, and have never in our history offered so many improvements. Quality is greater down to the last detail. Every phase of performance has been greatly improved, and the luxury we have built into the cars is substantially greater than ever before. Motors are larger and more powerful. An efficient system of oil cooling is introduced. A marked improvement in carburetion increases flexibility and economy. Bodies are longer and wider. These cars possess the finest, easiest riding qualities. For the first time, such comfort is available at these low prices. Only great manufacturing economies and the fact that our large resources permit us to take the fullest possible advantage of reduced commodity prices have enabled us to offer the public the greatest combination of quality and low prices in our entire history.

Owner-Management Permits Exclusive Value Advantages

Owner-management enables Hudson-Essex to give you outstanding advantages in quality and price. The men who are now guiding its destinies have been with the company since its inception twenty-two years ago. Its department heads and principal distributors are its controlling owners. Their independence is backed by unusually large resources in capital and plant facilities. It enables Hudson-Essex to lead in design and engineering quality. It permits economies in manufacture and distribution that bring exceptional quality direct to the public at distinct price advantages.

FIRST CAMPBELLFORD TROOP

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 11.—(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)—The Fox Patrol are to be congratulated upon the excellent progress they have made in the various scout activities lately. It is expected that a group of four boys will be chosen from this patrol to enter a Junior First Aid contest in the near future. The boys are working to this end. What about the Moose and Owl patrols? We hope that the members of these two patrols will work hard to get a representation in this contest.

The work of the Toy Shop is still going forward, but unfortunately we have not received the response that was expected. The discarded toys that we thought would be forthcoming have not arrived, and we feel that thsi will be a great loss as the demand this year will be heavy. May I make one more appeal? If there is anyone who has toys broken or whole which are just taking up space, please get in touch with some of the scout officers, who will arrange the collection of them. And it does not matter to us how broken they are. They will be repaired and bring Christmas cheer to some little tot in our town this season. A survey of the town is being made to determine the most deserving cases, before we distribute. Let us take this opportunity of thanking all those who have already responded to this appeal.

Preparations will soon be under way to hold a father and son banquet on or about February 22. Every father should take this opportunity of spending a night with his boy and finding out just how the boy really respects his dad, and why every Roman Catholic, Protestant, Jew or Gentile should be given every encouragement to become a member of some scout troop.

The duty patrol until Friday of this week is the Fox Patrol under the command of Patrol Leader Victor Cubitt Next for duty is the Moose Patrol under Patrol Leader R. Morrison.

MEMBERS OF 25 YEARS STANDING IN OTONABEE LODGE GIVEN JEWELS

8 MEMBERS HONORED.

Otonabee Lodge No. 13 Independent Order of Oddfellows held veterans night at their last meeting which was attended by Grand Master N. J. Lockhart of St. Catherines.

Eight jewels were to be presented to members of 25 years standing, two of whom Bros. R. C. Gibbs and F. A. Tully, at present living in British Columbia were unable to be present.

Each year Otonabee Lodge honors those members who have completed their twenty-five years membership in the order. The event this year took place on the 48th Anniversary of the Resuscitation of the lodge which was instituted in the year 1846. Those present to receive the jewel from the Grand Master were Brothers Tom H. Sills, P.G., of Niagara Falls, Ont., Thos. Henderson of Toledo, Ohio; Geo. W. Might, of New Toronto and Harry Butler, N.G., A. Milliken and R. J. Murduff, P.G., of Peterborough.

60 Years an Oddfellow

Another outstanding and rare ceremony, was when Bro. W. G. Green P.G., the genial recording secretary of the lodge, better known as "Billy Green" introduced Bro. J. M. Brooks, of Corinthian Lodge No. 61, Oshawa, who was the recipient of a jewel marking over sixty years service in the ranks of Oddfellowship.

During the business session of the lodge Bro. Dixon Jewett, P.G., of Cannington, read the report and balance sheet of an excursion party. The record was thirty years old and referred to an excursion held in the year 1900, when Brother Jewett was secretary of the committee and Brother Tully was treasurer.

Following the transaction of regular lodge business, the members adjourned to the dining room to enjoy a banquet in charge of members of the Rebekah Golden Link Lodge. A program of speeches and music under the chairmanship of Brother Merc Mowry, P.G., charter member of the Lodge was also held.

After a toast to the King, Brother Frank Biddle, senior gave a vocal number to his own accompaniment at the piano, followed by a toast to the Grand Lodge proposed by Bro. R. Bartlett, P.D.G.D.M., and responded to by G. M. Lockhart.

Bro. C. H. Hotston, P.G., then rendered a comic song, accompanied by Bro. E. McLaren. A toast to visiting brethren was then proposed by Bro. R. R. Ford, P.D.D.G.M. and in a few well-chosen remarks Bro. E. A. Deader P.G., of Sydenham Valley Lodge No. 120, Wallaceburg, responded on behalf of the visitors.

A sextette under the direction of brother Martin Chenhall, A.R.C.O., at the piano, rendered two numbers which were received with much enthusiasm and applause.

Toast to the Veterans.

Brother Geo. Lacheur, P.D.D.G.M., proposed a toast to "the veterans" which was suitably acknowledged by Bro. W.F. Green, a veteran of over 47 years, after which Bro. L. T. Parker gave a humorous recitation and song. The last toast of the evening, to "the Rebekahs" was proposed by Bro. Colonel I. Miller, P.G., Sister Watts, Past President of the sister lodge, replied.

Much credit for the success of the evening was due to the efforts of the Rebekah's, and also to the orchestra under the direction of Bro. Reg. Dyer and composed of Brothers J. W. Boorman, Walter Hughes, C. Russaw and Elmer McLaren.

Brief remarks were made by Bro. Jas. Price, the present D.D.G.M., Brother Harry Morgan, James Tully, P.G.M., formerly of Otonabee Lodge, but now of Alberta Lodge No. 1, Calgary and Bro. W. Dixon Jewett, P.G., The singing of the National Anthem brought to a close an evening which will long be remembered as one of the most outstanding events in Otonabee Lodge, in recent years.

Fall Wheat Sample Is 22 Inches High

A sample of fall wheat twenty-two inches in height was brought into The Examiner yesterday by Herbert McKay of the Fourth Concession of Otonabee. Mr. McKay has a ten-acre field of this kind of wheat and is said to be the best topped wheat seen in Peterborough County in some years. It is of the reliable variety and was sown on September 6 in a field which had been in alfalfa for the past 15 years. Besides growing fine wheat Mr. McKay also raised 'Amardale' now owned by A. J. Johnston of Windsor hotel.

WHEAT AS CASH TAKEN IN WEST

TO TAKE 1,000,000 BUSHELS.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 11. — All money owed to it in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta will be used by the William Wrigley Jr. Company, Ltd., to buy wheat until May 1 next, J. Allan Ross, President of the Company, announced yesterday.

Until that date, all wholesalers' remittances from the Prairie Provinces will be put into a fund to be known as the Wrigley Wheat Investment Fund at Winnipeg.

Unless No. 1 Northern goes above 65 cents a bushel, the entire amount of this fund will be used to buy May futures in wheat until 1,000,000 bushels has been bought.

A circular thus outlining the plan has gone out to Western wholesalers handling Wrigley products. The plan covers amounts now owed the company and all account contracted between now and next May 1. Observers saw the scheme last night as a potent force for the restoration of grain prices, particularly if other firms adopt the same measures.

Every wholesaler will receive from the company a bonus of one cent per bushel for each bushel of wheat bought by his remittance, Mr. Ross' announcement stated. A certificate will be sent him, on the occasion of each wheat purchase, showing the amount bought by the sum remitted.

"We suggest," said the announcement, "that this certificate be displayed in your office, showing as it will, your confidence in our taking wheat instead of cash."

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. 16 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

On one occasion as they were dining upon the carcass of a boar that Sheeta had killed, Numa, the lion, grim and terrible, broke through the tangled grasses close beside them. With an angry, warning note, he sprang forward to chase them from their feast. Sheeta bounded into a nearby thicket, while Tarzan took to the branches of an overhanging tree.

Here the ape-man unloosed his grass rope from about his neck. And as Numa stood above the body of the boar, challenging head erect, he dropped the sinous noose about the lion's neck, drawing the stout strands taut with a sudden jerk. At the same time he called shrilly for Sheeta, as he drew the struggling lion upward until only its hind feet touched the ground.

Quickly Tarzan made the rope fast, and dropped to the earth beside the infuriated lion. The panther tore and rent Numa on one side while the ape-man struck home repeatedly upon the other. Before the mighty clawing of the king of beasts had succeeded in parting the rope, he hung quite harmless and dead in the noose. And then upon the jungle air there rose the victory cry.

In unison from the savage throats of Sheeta and Tarzan, came blended one frightful, uncanny scream of the bull-ape and a panther who had made a kill. As the last notes died away in a long-drawn, fearsome wail, a score of painted warriors, pulling their big warcanoe upon the beach, halted to stare in the direction of the jungle and to listen in petrified amazement.

By an unfortunate error the two packages which should have been inserted in the Agnew-Surpass advertisement were overlooked. These were not included in the 55, which number will still be found in the advertisements listed, but would have made two additional but for the unintentional omission.

The Examiner hopes the fine offering of this store will be carefully read for its genuine interest to Christmas shoppers and that results will be entirely satisfactory to this popular store.

CLEAN SLATE AT POLICE COURT

An infrequent but happy state of affairs existed, at Police Headquarters here this morning — a clean blotter! Nor did it come as a result of relaxed vigilance on the part of the guardians of the law, but rather as the consummation of that for which they are ever striving, not only the detection of crime, but the equally arduous task of crime prevention.

The Canadian Pacific Express Co. has a most unique window display at their Hunter Street office which is well worth a visit.

Samples of the various packages and articles usually shipped by express are shown therein together with a gaily decorated Christmas tree.

With their usual progressiveness the C. P. R. in this manner is keeping in line with the general feeling of good cheer prevailing at this season and are to be congratulated in putting on this bright touch.

Special rates are in force and the citizens are strongly advised to get their Christmas Packages away as early as possible.

MIDNIGHT SHOW AT CAPITOL

Don't forget the big Midnight Show at the Capitol Theatre a week from to-night, when Manager J. A. Stewart is handing over the entire proceeds for relief work in the city. In co-operation with The Examiner, who will contribute space in its advertising and news columns free for this Show, and with several other charitable organizations in the city assisting in selling tickets, the show promises to be a big success.

Manager Stewart has a fine picture scheduled and there will be the usual comedy and news reels. There is also anticipated a novelty numbers on the stage. Ferdie Mowry is contributing his band for a special number and other performers in the city are being lined up for a splendid entertainment. Watch our columns for news of this big event.

EXAMINER DANCE TUESDAY NIGHT

All Receipts Will Go For the Bringing of Christmas Cheer to Needy Families.

LEGION HALL GRATIS.

The Examiner's Social Club is having a busy time just now, getting ready for the big dance next Tuesday night. It is estimated by Fred Scates, the energetic secretary, that the Legion Hall will hardly be big enough for the record crowd that is expected to patronize this event.

The Legion has generously offered the hall gratis for the dance, a gesture that is greatly appreciated by The Examiner. The funds will be used entirely for relief work in the city and the paper is doing all the advertising. Expenses are going to be very small and it is hoped to realize a sizeable amount for the event.

Mowry-Steer and their Silver Collegians will play for the dance, and there will be four door prizes.

Another generous bit of co-operation on the part of the citizens is the running of slides advertising the affair, by the Capitol and Regent Theatres; while E. M. Austin, of Austin's Banquet Rooms, has called off his popular weekly dance, so that the regular patrons may transfer their attention to the Legion Hall for that night.

Altogether, it promises to be a big event. Those who patronize the dance at the Legion Hall next Tuesday night, December 16th, will be sure of a real good time and they can have the virtuous feeling besides of helping along something really worth while.

Come along and do your bit. You won't regret it.

After the ceremony dinner was served to about 30 guests at the home of the bride, 137 Stewart street.

Counties Council Honors Warden Nelson

WATCH AND CHAIN PRESENTED AT ANNUAL DINNER

Warden Nelson is Guest of Honor at Big Banquet in Cobourg.

EIGHT YEARS IN COUNCIL.

Many Speakers Pay Tribute to Retiring Warden of Durham and Northumberland.

(By Staff Correspondent)

COBOURG, Dec. 12.—The personal aspect of the Wardenship of W. H Nelson, Reeve of Percy township, reached its brightest glow last night with the customary accolade of the Council of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham and the presentation to him of a gold watch and chain at a farewell dinner in the British Hotel.

Mrs. Edith Kerr Macdonald, Deputy-Reeve of Cobourg, made the presentation, and the Council's appreciation of Warden Nelson's public service and fellowship was expressed in an address read by R. J. McKnight, Reputy-Reeve of Cavan township.

C. H. Curtis, Deputy-Reeve of Percy, was chairman.

The Counties Council is evidently establishing a new custom in this annual dinner. Prior to last December, the parting honors had been paid to the retiring Wardens as a final incident of the closing sessions. A year ago, when W. T. Wood was relinquishing the Wardenship, someone suggested that the presentation take place at a dinner, which brought the members more closely together socially than on any other occasion during the year. It was such an enjoyable affair and so spontaneously successful that it has probably become a fixed event in the Council's calendar.

Member for Eight Years

Warden Nelson has been a member of the Counties' Council continuously for eight years, and he has always been a front bencher in debate, although his seat was actually in the rear row against the wall. In that period of the Council's history he has had few superiors in his broad grasp of the Counties' business, in the energy and industry with which he applied himself to the responsibilities which came to him, and finally in his municipal ntelligence and understanding of legal and financial details of the heavier problems that developed from time to time. And he was a friend to all the members, attentive to the needs and opportunities of Percy township and solicitous for the good name and credit rating of Northumberland and Durham. His ability and popularity marked him as one of the outstanding members of the council.

The address read by Mr. McKnight follows:

"Dear Mr. Warden:

We, the members of the council of the united counties of Northumberland and Durham, are assembled here this evening to pay a well deserved tribute to you on the con-

Bar Silver Again Drops To New Low

NEW YORK, Dec. 12 (C.P.).—Bar silver established a new historical low for the second time this week to-day, dropping 1 3-8 cents to 32¼ cents an ounce.

On Tuesday the metal broke to 33 cents, which was the lowest until to-day. The market for silver oullion that day was so unsettled then that brokers failed to provide a definite quotation until late in the afternoon, but the market was more orderly to-day.

After breaking sharply in June, silver had maintained a better tone until early November. Since then it has been sagging almost steadily.

No Time is Lost In For Sale Ads.

The old adage, "It pays to advertise," has once again been forcibly demonstrated in a letter of appreciation which teaches The Examiner office from Alfred Day of 168 Deure street.

Advertising a heater for sale in the issue of Monday, Dec. 6, the advertiser disposed of it through the columns of this journal, within an hour and a half from the time the paper went to press. Such a fact, exemplifies the important place which newspaper advertising occupies, and the truth that it does pay.

"I thought you would like to know," states Mr. Day in his letter of thanks, "and at the same time I wish to express my appreciation for your service."

Schafer Mystery Believed Solved

WATFORD CITY, N.D., December 12 (C.P.). — The recovery of four bodies, three of them from a grave dug in a floor of a farm barn, to-day led county authorities to say they were close to a solution of the mysterious disappearance of a family of six near Schafer last February. The arrest of Charles Bannon, on charges of embezzlement, led to the recovery of the bodies of A. E. Haven, who had lived on the farm, his sons, Daniel 19, and Leland 16, and an infant three months old. Mrs. Haven and a three-year-old child still were missing. Bones of the latter child were also believed found, but identification was not certain. The victims apparently had been beaten to death with a hammer. The motive has not been learned

TRIO OF BANDITS GET $8,700 HAUL IN WINNIPEG BANK

JOB TAKES 5 MINUTES.

Residents Drawn to Scene in Time to See Powerful Machine Roar Away.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 12 (C.P.).—A bandit quartet was sought this morning after a trio of masked and heavily armed gunmen raided the Logan Avenue branch of the Bank of Montreal, escaping with a large sum of currency, variously estimated from $8,700 to $15,000.

Directed by a gunman who appeared to be a veteran in banditry, three of the bandits entered the little one-storey bank, in the north-west section of the city, while the fourth remained at the wheel of an automobile, parked at the door with the engine running.

"We'll shoot to kill," shouted the bandit-leader as he and his pals herded A. J. N. Willoughby, the manager, three members of his staff and two customers into the vault. The command was quickly obeyed. The door of the vault slammed shut. The bandits set to work and within five minutes had roared away in their speeding car, heading toward the northern section of the city.

CANADA PLANS NEW AIR MAIL ROUTES WITH U.S.

International Aerial Communication Schemes Involve Both Europe and Asia.

FLY ATLANTIC VIA BERMUDA.

First Step Will Be Link With St. Paul From Winnipeg—Join East Also.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 12 (C.P.)—Preliminary plans for aviation routes that will make Canada an effective factor in international aerial communications involving both Europe and Asia were announced here to-day at the conclusion of a conference between post office officials of Canada and the United States.

The first step in the program has been taken with the definite decision to put into effect an aerial link between Winnipeg and St. Paul, and Minneapolis. P. T. Collican, Assistant Deputy Postmaster General in Canada, and W. Irving Glover, Assistant Postmaster General of the United States, who have conducted the negotiations, announced to-day that, subject to approval by the heads of the departments, a service will shortly be instituted to carry passengers and mail from Calgary to Miami in 42 hours. This would effect a saving of 90 hours over present methods of communication.

Route To Russia.

While the details of the Winnipeg-St. Paul schedule were being worked out the officials were also discussing the more ambitious scheme to develop a route from Calgary through Fort McMurray into Alaska and thence into Asia. It was agreed that unless Canada and the United States joined in the development of the Asiatic route, a few years might see serious competition from Russia in that region. Russia is making considerable strides in aviation, Mr. Glover said, and 22,000 miles of flying is being done in that country daily.

Three years are regarded by the officials as sufficient time to bring the Asiatic service into being. In the meantime, definite progress is being made, Mr. Coolican said, to set up aerial communication routes from Calgary to Vancouver. The route through the Rockies was not, he said, regarded as particularly difficult. As soon as communication is established to the coast by air, new links between Canada and the United States would be made at Lethbridge, Alta., and Vancouver. The Lethbridge link

CHARGES FACE PAIR CAPTURED IN AUTO CRASH

One Menaces Crowd With Pistol After Being Saved From Blazing Wreck.

CAR WAS STOLEN.

Motorists Forced to Ditch During Flight—Captives Try Jail Break.

HAMILTON, Ont., December 12 (C.P.). — Following a series of accidents in which they were alleged to have been involved, Lawrence McGinnis, Hamilton, and another man who refused to give his name, were arrested by Constable Bert Howell near Grimsby last night and lodged in the jail there.

Police declare that the car which the pair were in travelled eastward along the Niagara Highway at a high rate of speed, and forced cars driven by Roy Calder, Grimsby, and A. Milson, Hamilton, to take to the ditch. Three miles further on, the speeding automobile crashed head on into a light delivery truck driven by Robert Norris, Hamilton. Mr. Norris, his wife and two children suffered minor injuries.

Saved From Flames

The car which caused all the trouble burst into flames and the two men who are under arrest were pulled out of the wreckage by witnesses. Bystanders declared that McGinnis drew a revolver and turned on his rescuers, but was too weak from the loss of blood to make a getaway. The other man fled across a field. McGinnis was taken to Grimsby by Dr. J. H. MacMillan and after receiving first aid, was turned over to the police.

His companion was arrested early this morning after a long search of the district roads.

After the men were jailed, they attempted to force the bars from their cell windows, and a special guard was placed over them. This morning, Provincial Officers arrived and conducted them to St. Catharines where they will be arraigned before Magistrate Campbell on charges of being drunk in charge of a car and of stealing an automobile.

Further confusion as to the identity of the youths arose later in the day when McGinnis declared that his name was Malcolm Young. Local fingerprint files show records of both McGinnis and Young.

Bandits Get $15,000 In Barcelona Coup

BARCELONA, Spain, Dec. 12 —Three bandits held up a man in front of the Palace of Justice to-day, robbed him of nearly $15,000 and escaped in one of the most sensational hold-ups in recent years in Spain.

Crowds who were passing watched as the bandits slugged Juan Puig, took a satchel which he carried and rushed away in an automobile. Puig was on his way to Sabadell, where he was to deposit the money.

Daylight hold-ups are virtually unknown in Spain because of the efficiency of the police and the historically famous rural guard system.

GIRL WITNESS IS GRILLED AT TRIAL

WAS PERFECT GENTLEMAN.

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Dec. 12 (C.P.) —Miss Grace Brandon, star witness for the Government in the trial of Major Charles A. Shepard, formerly of Belleville, Ont., for the alleged poison murder of his wife, to-day underwent a grilling by the defence as to her love affair with the elderly army medical officer.

Harry S. Class, Denver attorney, led off with a barrage of questions concerning Shepard's first meetings with the girl, a San Antonio, Tex., stenographer, for the love of whom the Major is charged with poisoning his wife at Fort Riley, Kas., in June, 1929.

Perfect Gentleman.

Asked if Shepard had not always conducted himself as a gentleman, the girl replied:

"Yes he was a perfect gentleman."

Referring to her relations with Shepard while he was stationed for several months at San Antonio prior to his wife's death, Class asked if the Major ever had attempted caresses.

"No," was the answer.

Miss Brandon was attired in a black dress and black hat, in contrast to the green ensemble she wore on the stand yesterday. She seemed composed, but was rather a hesitant witness, insisting that Class repeat various questions before an answer was given.

She said she first met Shepard in November 1928, when he came to live at the boarding house where she roomed.

About a week after becoming acquainted with Shepard, she testified, she accepted his invitation to go to dinner and a show.

Asked if he had mentioned his "troubles" with his wife, she answered in the affirmative.

"He didn't discuss it fully" she replied.

"After his return to Fort Riley, did he not write you that his wife was in frail health?"

"No."

The first letters from Shepard, she testified, related to his wife's wild parties and bills she had run up while he was away."

Flying time of the new air passenger service between La Paz Bolivia, and Arica, Chile, is one hour 25 minutes, as compared with 16 hours by railroad.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 12.—(CP)—With three Provinces unreported, the joint unemployment relief scheme of the Federal and Provincial Governments has provided work for 84,712 individuals, Senator G. D. Robertson, Minister of Labor, announced today. This total does not include returns for Quebec, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

$60,019,192 Expenditure

Senator Robertson said contracts had been entered into between the Federal and Provincial Governments, the municipalities and the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railway Companies calling for the expenditure of $60,019,192 to relieve distress conditions. Of the $20,000,000 appropriated by parliament at the special session as the Federal Government's share in the scheme, $11,055,192 has been designated for specific works. This left a balance in the fund of $8,944,808 to take care of the Federal Government's share in provincial and municipal undertakings.

Reports from Alberta show, that 80,488 man-day work has been provided, generally on a principle of

Bucharin Repents Sins and Promises to Support Gov't in Future.

MAY REGAIN FAVOR.

(BY VICTOR EUBANK)
Associated Press Staff Correspondent.

MOSCOW, Russia, Dec. 12.—The "Rights" or moderate wing of the all-powerful Communist Party in Russia, have finally succumbed to the majority headed by "Dictator" Stalin and the last of the big opposition leaders, Nikolai Bucharin, has published a lengthy statement repenting of his "sins" and declaring that he will support the Government completely and unreservedly in the future.

Bucharin has been a prominent figure in Communist Russia since the revolution. A man of considerable education and intelligence, he has been called the "greatest theoretician on social sciences in the Union. "He has always been a professional revolutionist. He toured the United States in 1916-17, lecturing in different cities at Socialist meetings. He formerly was executive editor of "Pravda" one of the largest Moscow newspapers, member of the political bureau of the Communist Party and actual head of the Communist International after the expulsion of Zinovieff.

So far as the Communist theory of Government is concerned Bucharin and his associates are one hundred percent "pure". Their swing to the "right", however, had to do with Mrs. Morris also spoke very highly of the good results obtained from the study of music by Miss K. Snider's classes in the schools.

An interesting program was presented by the children, including vocal solos by Betty McLeod, Gerald Perks and Donald Perks, piano numbers by Florence Trebilcock, violin numbers by Frank Frost and a recitation by George Ebbs. Accompanists were Mrs. Perks, Margaret McLeod and W. C. Thompson.

DIED INSTANTLY.

Suddenly stricken as he sat in Spencer's barber shop, East City, this afternoon, Walter Phelan, brother of Rev. Father Phelan of Campbellford, and uncle of Ald. Nagle Phelan, toppled to the floor and died instantly, heart failure being apparently the cause. Mr. Phelan will be well remembered by old-time sporting enthusiasts as a lacrosse and hockey star. He was a crack player on the famous Peterborough senior hockey team of early days, along with Lionel King, Roger Davidson and other stars.

Later he played for the Pittsburg team organized by Roy D. Scholey. He was born in Peterborough 55 years ago.

EXAMINER FUND WILL BRING AID TO MANY FAMILIES IN DIRE NEED

Ex-Soldier and Family Are Depending on Fund For Their Christmas.

DANCE TUESDAY NIGHT.

In a little house in a poor district in this city there is a man who is dying by slow degrees. He is an ex-soldier and nothing can be done for his lungs. They were coated with poison during the days when Canadian men went over the ocean to see that the Boche didn't have a chance to get any nearer the Dominion than the submarines could bring him.

This man has a good deal of fighting spirit. The other day, he got up to help his wife take down the stovepipes and clean them. And he collapsed before the job was finished. A neighbor went in and finished the work.

The woman tries to get work to do in the house, but hasn't very much success. Once in a while, she can do a bit of sewing or mending, and the township in which they live also does a certain amount to keep them alive. There are three little boys. Some day they will be men and can fend themselves. Now they need food and clothing and fire to keep them warm.

And there is just one more little item—the wife's lungs are affected with disease. The harsh finger of sickness lies heavy over this roof-tree.

It is just one case of many.

The Examiner is trying to raise a Christmas Fund for people like this and their many companions in need. If you would like to help a little, please send us anything you have—clothing, food, fuel, milk or bread tickets, or money. Old or new clothi-

Cheap Beggars!

A lady on Aylmer street, who has always given when requested to do so, was called on early this morning by two young men, asking for something to eat. Never has she turned anyone away, but she has not taken them into her home to feed them.

On this occasion she asked them to wait and filled two paper bags with good food, wrapped in waxed paper, just what her own family eats. But to her surprise she saw one of the young men who recieved a bag of food deliberately make light of what he had received and threw the bag at the other young man, the contents going all over the street.

The lady is now in a quandary, wondering if she has been too sympathetic in the past and her food not actually required and is at a loss to know just what to do in the future. It is possible, however, that this is an isolated case and that when an action of this kind is taken, the big majority of men are grateful for what they get.

Country Is Combed By 600 Constables For Second Slayer

Fifteen Hours After Roy McQuillan, Toronto Policeman, Was Slain, Harry Clarkson, Windsor, Appeared in Police Court Charged With Murder.

LED BY CHIEF DRAPER LARGE POLICE POSSE SEARCHED ALL NIGHT AND TO-DAY FOR OTHER MAN

One of Most Daring Murders in Toronto Police Force History Was Pulled Off Last Evening By Two Car Thieves From Windsor—Chase Followed.

TORONTO, Ont., December 12 (C.P.). — Fifteen hours after Roy McQuillin, a Toornto policeman, had been ruthlessly murdered by motor car thieves, Harry Clarkson, Windsor, Ont., appeared in Police Court charged with murder, while hundreds of police scoured the farmlands of York and Peel Counties to the north-west of Toronto in a search for Clarkson's companion, believed to be Jack Brockenshire, also of Windsor.

Throughout the night and this morning Toronto's suburbs have been the scene of the most systematic manhunt in the history of the city. Led by Brig.-General D. C. Draper, Chief of Police, 600 constables, have combed the countryside with Brockenshire as their quarry, but early this afternoon had failed to locate their man. Rumors that the hunted man bleeding from a wound suffered when he was shot by a fellow-constable, Roy Halliburton, had been seen in various places were investigated without result. At two o'clock posses converged on a house in Peel County where it was stated a man had hidden, but this also proved another false alarm.

Betrays No Sign of Emotion.

Clarkson, a small-sized young man, betrayed no sign of emotion when he appeared before Magistrate Browne and was charged with the major crime. His hands manacled and with burly police constables on either side, Clarkson uttered no sound throughout the brief proceedings. The Magistrate asked for no plea. "You will be remanded until December 19," he told the prisoner.

Meanwhile members of the Police Commission took steps to provide for the family of the victim of the cold-blooded slaying. Mrs. McQuillin will receive about $4,000 from the police benefit fund, but a proposal by Mayor Bert S. Wemp calls for the supplementing of this sum, possibly by a pension. Controller W. D. Robbins intends to move a resolution in the Board of Control requesting the Police Commission to consider the advisability of a pension for Mrs. McQuillin and her two young children.

No trace of the hunted man was found in the Pool County house, and the detachment of police were immediately rushed to Oakville, where Chief of Police Kerr reported a suspicious character had taken refuge in bush north of the Dundas Highway.

The Oakville Chief thought the man answered the description of Brockenshire, and ordered him to stop. He broke away, however, and Kerr fired two shots, one of which is believed to have wounded the suspect.

Suspect Arrested.

Harry Clarkson, Windsor, was arrested by the police seven and a half hours after the shooting which occurred on Scarlett Road, just outside the city limits, at seven o'clock on Thursday night. He was apprehended in a cemetery at Humber Heights. Questioned by police Clarkson is said to have admitted he was one of the wanted men, but that Jack Brackenshire, also of Windsor, had done the shooting. A small bore automatic was found on Clarkson. Police said it was of a .22 calibre and it was the same calibre bullets which fatally wounded McQuillin.

Too Old to Dance, But Buys Tickets

An old foot may get too stiff for dancing, but an old heart never gets too hard for kindness.

We asked an old gentleman to buy tickets for our Examiner dance and card party and he promptly took two—and tore them up. He won't be able to go, but he wanted to do his bit.

And then there was the pretty young thing who did the same. She won't be here for the dance night, but she bought a ticket, anyway.

And we are quite sure that the very busy Recording Angel entered up a nice-looking credit entry on the right side of both their ledge accounts.

The dance is next Tuesday night, in the Legion Hall. How about a credit entry in your spiritual ledger?

Don't forget the big Examiner party and dance at the Legion Hall next Tuesday night, December 16th. Come along and have a good time and provide a Christmas dinner for some needy family.

COBOURG, Dec. 12 (By Staff Correspondent).—A review of the work done by the county road department from December 1, 1929, to November 1, 1930, was given by George Greer, county road superintendent, at yesterday's session of the Council of Northumberland and Durham Counties.

"We graded and ditched twenty miles of road at a cost of $11,500," the report begins. "We surfaced fifty-one miles with crushed gravel and made the necessary storage piles along the road at a cost of $54,350, using 50,980 yards of crushed gravel; resurfaced nine miles at a cost of $10,200 using 8,000 yards of pit gravel.

We built eight bridges, four steel and four concrete.

The Nixon bridge on the Coldsprings road cost $8,309.50. This is a concrete bridge, 20-foot span and 57 feet long, built in culvert style to carry the heavy fill.

The Cain bridge on Road No. 1 Clarke Township, 30 foot span and 18 foot roadway, steel top and concrete abutments cost $2,423.46.

On this road we rebuilt and widened Dead Creek bridge at a cost of $3,765.55. These two bridges were built on the road we paved in Murray township and are to be included in the debentures.

On Road No. 18, Hamilton township, we built a concrete bridge on the culvert plan, 12 foot span and 26 feet long, at a cost of $1,066.19.

On the Roseneath road we build two concrete bridges, one 12 foot span and 26 feet long, at a cost of $710.69. We built the Keoghan bridge on the boundary between Percy and Alnwick townships, steel top and wood abutments. This steel was second-hand. Including a heavy fill on each approach this bridge cost $1,896.44.

We also paid for the steel on the Wilson Bridge, Road No. 9, Hope township, $806.80.

We overhauled a boundary bridge between Hastings and Northumberland counties, known as Wilson Island bridge, at a cost of $1,242.50 to each county.

We built a bridge on road No. 25, Cramahe township 24 foot span and 20 foot roadway, steel top and concrete abutments. This bridge has not yet been paid for.

We put in fifty-five corrugated iron culverts, forty-five side entrances and one concrete culvert, including headwalls on the culverts, at a cost of $9,000.

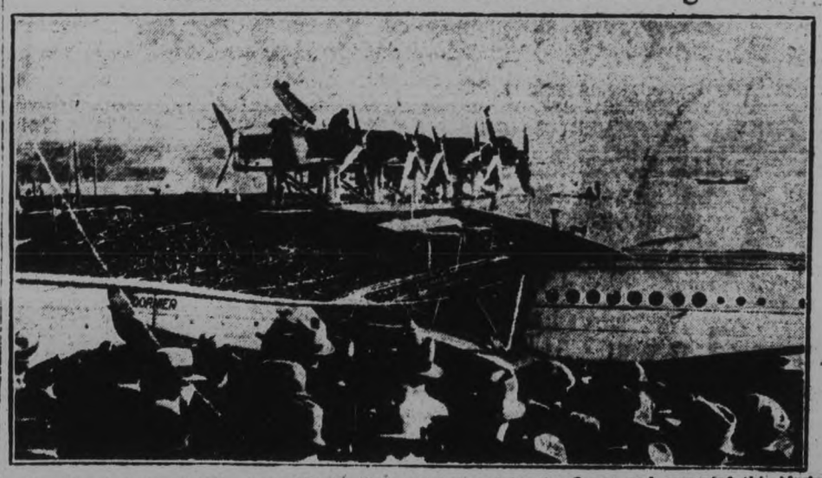
When Fire Climaxed Trans-Atlantic Flight



The fire that climaxed the trans-Atlantic flight of the giant Dornier DO-X left the huge ship in this condition at Lisbon, Portugal, one of the stops along its intended itinerary. The mammoth wing was partially destroyed by the flames and presented this blackened aspect. Plans are being made to continue the flight to America after Christmas.

CUBAN PRESIDENT MOVES QUICKLY TO QUELL RIOTS

Virtual Martial Law is Established Over Whole Island.

WILL LAST 60 DAYS.

Rumors That Machado to Resign, and U.S. Cruisers on Way, Are Denied.

HAVANA, Dec. 12. (AP)—Virtual martial law ruled Cuba to-day from one end of the island to the other as President Machado sought to put down rising disaffection and student disturbances which are threatening the life of his regime.

Persistent reports that he had resigned his office in a communication to the Supreme Court were denied by the President, and the United States Embassy branded as "utterly false" current stories that it had asked that two cruisers be sent here from Guatanamo to protest United States interests.

Police Hold Control

After a day replete with island-wide disturbances, and demonstrations which the police and troops curbed by firing into and above the crowds, the President availed himself of power recently granted by Congress and suspended constitutional guarantees throughout the republic for 60 days.

The suspension is similar to that effected in Havana and environs recently for a 20 day period, just ended, when student disturbances here threatened the Government. It is tantamount to martial law, and allows imprisonment without trial, suspends free speech and invokes other summary measures.

Dr. Ricardo Herrera, minister plenipotentiary and personal secretary to President Machado, explained the suspension: "It is merely a means to insure peace in Cuba during those weeks when trouble seems to have increased. The President is determined that order shall prevail."

TORONTO OFFICER IS SLAIN BY THUG

The arrest of Carkson followed one of the most intensive man hunts ever staged in the history of this city. Five minutes from the time word was cashed to headquarters that the men, wanted for theft of a car in London, had mortally wounded Constable McQuillin, Chief Draper and other high police officials were on their way to the scene of the crime, where they established headquarters and directed the search throughout the night.

More than 1,000 of McQuillin's fellow-citizens soon gathered on the banks of the Black Creek near where the shooting occurred. Many were anxious to help in the hunt, but the police were forced to prevent them from rushing needlessly into danger when news spread the wanted pair had been seen near Weston.

Police rushed several car loads of reserves to the suburban town, and following a search apprehended Clarkson in the cemetery. Brackenshire was with him, but Police Constable William Beatty, who spotted the pair, was only able to bring Clarkson to a halt. Brackenshire fled into the night when Beatty fired several shots at the murderers, and before other members of the party could arrive, had escaped, although his arrest is expected momentarily.

Stole Car in London

According to Clarkson the pair stole the car, license number M-9560 in London and motored to this city yesterday. They were seen at Scarboro, in the eastern part of the city and then reports drifted into police headquarters that the stolen machine was sighted on St. Clair Avenue.

At seven o'clock last night McQuillin and Haliburton reported for duty and were immediately informed that a stolen car had passed along St. Clair. The pair took the police "flier" a large speedy machine, and took the trail. They sighted their prey on the western section of St. Clair Avenue and gave chase. The hunted pair soon became aware they were being followed and drove west to Scarlett Road and then north to East Drive, where

CAR OCCUPANTS ESCAPE INJURY

C. Hubble of Havelock in Motor Accident on Hastings Road.

ON SYKE'S CORNER.

CAMPBELLFORD, December 12 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — Driving into Campbellford on Thursday on the Hastings Road, C. Hubble of Havelock had a narrow escape, when his car was swung completely round upon the application of the brakes and landed on the reverse side of the road, turning over.

The accident happened at what is known as Syke's Corner. Mr. Hubble applied the brakes to slacken his speed because of the icy pavement, with the result that the car swung round, crossed the road, and turned over on its side. Neither Mr. Hubble nor his mother, who was also an occupant of the car, were hurt. The car had two wheels broken and the side fenders smashed.

NEW C.N. STEAMER REACHES HALIFAX

Prince Robert Will Go Into Service on the Pacific Coast.

HALIFAX, N. S., Dec. 11.—Halifax greeted yesterday what is acclaimed as the newest liner afloat in the world and the latest triumph of British shipbuilding, the Canadian National steamer Prince Robert which docked yesterday morning at pier 27 after an eminently successful maiden voyage from Birkenhead, England, where she was built to take her place with two sister ships, the Prince Henry and Prince David, already running between Vancouver, Victoria and Seattle.

Captain S. F. Cameron experienced Canadian skipper, brought the new ship across the Atlantic via the Azores. He pronounced her an excellent craft to navigate and spoke enthusiastically of her several ultra modern navigating instruments such as the "fathometer", an electric radio like device which records soundings at the rate of 20 "castings" per minute.

HOME IS ENTERED WOMAN ROBBED

One Thug Battles With Victim While Companion Ransacks House.

DROP $50 IN ESCAPING.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 11 (C.P.).—Brutally attacked by two men who entered her home shortly before noon to-day, Mrs. Bertha Crow battled with one of her assailants while the other one succeeded in ransacking the premises. Mrs. Crow, who was sitting in the kitchen shortly before noon heard a knock on the front door, and as she was walking toward the door two men made their appearance. One man hit the woman over the head with his fists, but the woman fought with her assailant and screamed for help.

As the men were about to leave Mrs. Crow saw that one of the men had found some money that was hidden in the upstairs, and she made an effort to grab it. As the two men hurried from the house they dropped $50 of the roll which contained $85. Mrs. Crow was able to furnish the police with a good description of the men, both of whom she said were foreigners.

Noted Woman Aviator Is Visiting Pompeii

NAPLES, December 12 (C.P.). — Miss Winnifred Spooner, British woman aviator, and her flying partner Captain E. C. T. Edwards, arrived here to-day still showing wounds on their faces and bruises received when their plane made a forced landing last week in the Tyrhenian Sea off Bel Monte Calabri.

Aviation officials and representatives of the Aero Club, who greatly admire Miss Spooner for her two-mile swim to shore in the dark to procure help for Edwards, gave the two a warm welcome. They spent this morning visiting Pompeii and Vesuvius, and will go to Rome tomorrow to thank Italo Balbo, Minister of Aeronautics, for the aid he rendered them after their accident.

INDIANS STIRRED OVER ONSLAUGHT BY CHURCHILL

Delegates Dubious Whether He Speaks For Himself or Whole Party.

OPPOSES SELF-GOV'T.

Parley Likely to Have Speedy End Without Results if Views General.

LONDON, Dec. 12 (By George Hambleton, C.P. Staff Writer).—The outspoken declaration of Rt. Hon Winston Churchill against immediate self-government for India yesterday, set the Indian Round-Table Conference pot boiling. Indian delegates to-day were asking themselves whether the former Chancellor of the Exchequer was speaking only for himself or whether he reflected the views of the Conservative members of the British delegation at the Indian Conference.

Made Similar Attack.

Mr. Churchill is not a member of the conference. It was recalled that while the Naval Conference was in session last winter he made a similar frank pronouncement of his views, but it had little effect on the conference. In the Naval Conference, however, Britain was represented only by the Labor Government; in the Indian Conference the British delegation consists of members of the three major parties.

One Indian comment heard was that if Mr. Churchill's views were shared by the Conservative members of the conference, then the conference would likely have a speedy ending without any results. On the other hand, it is doubtful whether Mr. Churchill represents more than the views of a comparatively small "die-hard" section.

New C.P. Equipment Will Cost $17,000,000

MONTREAL, Dec. 12 (C.P.). — Equipment orders will be placed by the Canadian Pacific Railway within the near future, it was indicated in a prospectus issued in connection with the issue of $14,250,000 in 4½ per cent. equipment bonds sold to a Canadian-American group of bankers. Under the trust deed it is provided that the company will purchase new standard equipment costing more than the face value of the issue, roughly $17,000,000.

Inquiries are now out for tenders on new equipment. As far as can be learned it is not the intention of contracting for the full $17,000,000 of new standard equipment.

GRAHAM CASE IS DISMISSED

Arthur Dudney, Pioneer of Harvey Township, Gives Evidence at Trial.

WANTS ROADS CLEANED UP.

One of the pioneers of Harvey Township, Arthur Dudney, aged 85 walked into the witness stand yesterday afternoon to testify in the $1000 damage suit brought by Peter Graham against Wellington Tait for alleged loss of timber suffered when a fire lit by Tate in May last spread over onto Graham's property in Harvey Township. Mr. Dudney appeared brisk and had the cheerful outlook of a man of thirty. He proved one of the star witnesses for Tate and had his hand shaken by Judge Huycke, who complimented him on the bright way he carried his years. "Yes," replied the patriarch. "I'm still spry and some of us old fellows have more snap and get about us than lots of the young ones they are raising today. I used to come here and serve on the juries but now I'm denied that pleasure because of my deafness."

The jury dismissed the case and recommended that the township clean up the roads so that in future fires will not spread from one side to the other. Reeve Parker was called up close to the jury so that he would be sure to hear their recommendation and he promised "to see to it."

Many residents were called at witnesses in the case which began on Wednesday and did not finish until late yesterday afternoon.

J. A. O'Brien conducted the plaintiff's case and W. F. Huycke defended Tate.

Henry Parker, reeve of Harvey Township, said that the lot of Graham's burnt over was assessed at 50 cents an acre.

Arthur Dudney, a resident of Harvey, said he lived 3 miles from the spot where the fire occurred. He said that when he saw the fire Tate and his hired man were fighting the flames and had it under control. He said that Graham had cut most of merchantable timber off that lot and also Christmas trees. He said that from measuring the burnt-over land he estimated it at 19 acres.

Mr. Dudney said he was 85 years of age. His intellect appeared keen and his evidence was given with vigor and sharp preception. He had lived in Harvey 47 years he said.

Albert Restall, Tate's hired man, said that on the morning of May 11 there was no signs of fire visible on Graham's property. About noon smoke was noticeable and witness and Tate joined in fighting it.

Joseph Finley said that the timber on Graham's burnt over land was of no value.

Archie Beavis, of Burleigh, a realtor, said he had driven by Graham's property and it never appeared to him of being much value.

George Mitchell, another resident of Harvey, said that most of Graham's property was rock. Walton Robertson, a Harvey farmer, also described the rough nature of the property.

Wesley Finley, a farmer living two miles east of the place where the fire was, stated that on that Sunday he saw a man at the fire light a match and throw it into a brush pile. Under cross-examination he said he did not know whether the man, William Brown, was backfiring.

William Beatty said that he understood Graham's land was assessed at 50 cents.

clusion of your year in the warden ship.

You have given these united counties eight years of faithful and valuable service, and we are not unmindful of the fact that prior to that time you were a member of the council of Percy township for two years. We feel certain that your constituents fully appreciate your long and successful stewardship. Your re-election for so many years as reeve of your municipality is splendid testimony of your community's confidence in your deep sense of public duty and in your conspicuous ability in the discharge of it.

On this occasion, overshadowed by the approaching and inevitable end of our association with you, we wish to address you not only on behalf of the members of this council of 1930 but also for those members who sat with you in preceding councils and who, we feel certain, are with us in spirit to-night.

As the representatives of these united counties we wish to acknowledge not only the length of your service but also the juality of it. You have shown yourself to be possessed of special talent for public service. You have given generously of your time and energy in the many positions of responsibility which have been entrusted to you by these counties. You have always been one of the most active members and your advice has been marked by clear and keen thought.

This council will miss your experience and your prudent guidance and the members will particularly miss your genial and kindly personality. We shall remember you not only at an able colleague but also as an associate and friend of unfailing cheerfulness and loyalty.

In conclusion we congratulate you upon your successful administration as the warden of these counties, we acknowledge the warmth of your friendship and as a tangible expression of our appreciation of your service and all that you have meant to us we ask you to accept this watch and chain, hoping that it will always remind you of the council of 1930.

We also extended to you and your family our wishes for a Merry Christmas and many happy years."

Warden's Reply

Warden Nelson thanked the council for the honor they had paid him, and for their good wishes and appreciation.

"The friendship which I have had with the members during the last eight years is more than I can acknowledge" he said. "There are forty members here every year, and in all that time I don't think I have had one enemy. We have had differences, but anytning I had to say I said it on the floor of the house. I have tried to give the best service I could to my own municipality, and to the united counties. I am sorry that I am leaving this council, but I can now go back to the farm, and I think I can make a little more money than I have made in the last ten years."

Other speakers who joined in the tribute to Warden Nelson were George Van Walkenburg; N. Hartt; George Green, county road superintendent; W. H. Morrow, George Annis, Fred Hyland, Gordon Parker, W. A. Goodfellow, all chairman of committees; also ex-wardens Fred Bowen, M.P., and John McCubbin, former reeve of Percy and municipal mentor of Mr. Nelson and Mr. Curtis.

Splendid Program

Again the council disclosed a rich vein of concert talent among its members, and a delightful program enhanced the enjoyment of the large company. A quartette composed of Frank Rickard, Newcastle; J. M. Bygott, Campbellford; W. H. Carruthers, Bowmanville; and W. Davey, Hamilton township sang splendidly, "Hy" Curtis joined them in their hit of last year "Hear Dem Bells"; solos were sung by Major Bygott, Mr. Rickard and A. E. Morton, Clarke township. M. J. Holman, reeve of Clarke scored heavily in two comic songs in character; and George Hooton and Mr. Curtis contributed two recitations.

Compliment to Mr. Greer

Reeve Hartt and other members complimented George Greer upon the splendid condition of the county road system in Northumberland and Durham.

"We have one of the best county road systems in Ontario," said Mr. Hartt, "and the best superintendent."

WALSH APPEAL IS BEING HEARD

Found Guilty of Being Intoxicated While Driving Car, By Magistrate.

ENTERED AN APPEAL.

Whether or not Patrick Walsh of Hastings, was drunk when he drove his car off the Hastings-Norwood road at 5 o'clock in the morning of July 31 last is the whole question to be settled in a case now being heard before His Honor Judge Huycke at the General Sessions of the Peace.

Walsh was tried on a charge of being intoxicated on that day while driving a motor car by Police Magistrate Langley, and found guilty. He was sentenced to seven days in the county jail, but appealed the magistrate's decision. It is this appeal which is now taking up the attention of the court.

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., is prosecuting the case, and J. A. O'Brien is appearing on Walsh's behalf.

Two witnesses, John Marks, in front of whose home the crash occurred, and Charles MacBeth, a Scotch farmer, both stated that they were talking with Walsh early the morning of July 31 and that he showed signs of intoxication. Police produced his liquor permit and showed that in the two days before the accident Walsh had purchased 48 quarts of beer.

Dr. J. Macdonald of Hastings declared that Walsh was not drunk when he entered his office shortly after the accident for medical treatment for his injuries received in the crash.

John Marks, first witness for the prosecution, said he was a farmer living on the Hastings-Norwood road in the Township of Asphodel. On July 31 last he said there was an accident in front of his house about 4.00 o'clock in the morning. On getting out of bed and investigating the accident he found a car in the ditch. A hydro pole was broken in two places. The accused was not at the scene of the crash at that time. In the car witness found blood spots and a strong odor of liquor.

More than an hour later he met Walsh and Earl Buck at the scene of the accident. The accused's speech was thick, said witness. Walsh did not get out of the car in which he was seated. Witness said the accused was intoxicated.

The wheel marks of Walsh's car were traced on the pavement by witness. He said the marks crossed and re-crossed the travel part of the road.

Cross-examined, witness maintained that the tracks he followed were those of Walsh's car. Witness said he had never taken liquor to drink and could not distinguish beer from champagne from smell.

Provincial Sergeant H. E. Thompson, formerly of Peterborough and now of Cornwall, said he saw Walsh's car in a garage at Hastings and arrested the accused. Walsh gave the constable no explanation to explain how he came to run into the pole.

His liquor permit was produced in court, showing that 30 quarts of beer had been purchased on July 30 on the permit and the day previous 18 quarts of beer had been bought. Accused said he had taken the beer to Trent Bridge with him and had thrown the empties in the river.

Cross-examined witness said Walsh had told him that he had fallen asleep while driving.

Arthur Somerville, former provincial constable, said he was with Thompson in Hastings. Witness also noticed the smell of beer from the damaged car.

Charles MacBeth, employed on a farm near Norwood, was out on the road looking after the cows at 4.45 in the morning. He saw Walsh in a car coming down the road, going from side to side a little. Accused stopped the car and asked witness if he were anywhere near Hastings. Accused's eyes looked dull and his speech was thick and witness thought accused had been up late. He looked to be drunk, witness said. This closed the case for the Crown.

Dr. Macdonald, of Hastings, first witness for the defence, said the accused was not drunk when he entered his office early in the morning of July 31 to get medical attention.

Dr. Douglas Hay, dentist of Hastings, said he saw beer at Walsh's home the night previous to the accident. Under cross-examination he said he was a friend of the accused.

We paved three miles in Hamilton township, Cobourg to Baltimore, with five inch mixed macadam, 18 feet wide. The expenditure on this road including culverts, side entrances and widening of right of way, cost $67,477.69.

We paved in Percy township, from Norham to the Campbellford-Brighton provincial highway, a distance of two and one-half miles, with three inch mixed macadom on the old base 16 feet wide and one foot of crushed stone on each side, including side entrances and culverts at a cost of $30,550.87.

In Murray township we paved road No. 38 from the northern limits of Trenton to the village of Wooler including streets in the village of Wooler also over to the fair grounds on road No. 39, with five-inch mixed macadam 16 feet wide and one foot of crushed stone on each side, eight and one-half miles, at a cost of $162 293.94 of which the town of Trenton paid their grant of 10% of the total cost of the first four miles which amounted to $7,745.34.

We have paved all told up to this date, 18½ miles on the connecting links in the towns and villages and 23 miles on the county road system, making a total of 41½ miles."

STANWOOD PATRONS HEAR GOOD REPORT AT ANNUAL MEETING

Large Attendance of Cheese Factory Investors Discuss Year's Business.

W. ROWE PRESIDENT.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 12.— (By Examiner Staff Correspondent.)— A large and enthusiastic gathering was regisered at the annual meeting of the Stanwood Cheese and Butter Factory Company, Ltd., on Thursday afternoon, when, under the chairmanship of William Rowe the year's business was presented and discussed.

The election of officers for 1931 was also held, which resulted as follows: President, William Rowe; secretary-treasurer, Thomas H. Rowe; board of directors, W. Rowe, James McKeown, Robert Lisle, Harold Rutherford and Edward Anderson.

The report for the year was read by the secretary ,each item being explained by him, and on motion accepted as read. This showed that there were 1.025 boxes of cheese made during the year, 1.014 of which were first grades, and only 11 seconds cheese was made up at 19 mills, and the strength of the factory was twenty-four patrons. The remainder of the report was as follows:

Total amount of milk, 1,073,345 lbs.; total amount of cheese, 94,575 lbs.; total amount of butter, 2,133 pounds; total amountof meny, $14,-894.59; total paid patrons, $12,276.01; Expenses—Manufacturing cheese, $1,-796.93; manufacturing cream and butter, $170.64; president's salary, $50.00; secretary-treasurer's salary, $90.00; insurane, $56.87; repairs, etc., $231.29; books, postage, etc., $15.50; fees, $16.50; taxes, $22.72; well account, $149.50; drawing water, $35.00; drawing cheese, $73.73; telephone, $6.05; interest, $2.00. Total amount of expenses, $2,716.73. Average lbs. milk per lb. cheese, 11.3; average price per lb. cheese, 15.1; average price per lb. butter fat, 35.

Secretary's Report

In his address to the meeting the secretary referred to the dividends of the shareholders. There was collected in the patrons' fees $58.95, three shares having been sold for $15.00, making a total of $73.94. There were in all 369 shares at 20c. In remarking on the milk situation he stated that milk per standard was $7.00 below last year's price.

Mr. Rowe expressed his pleasure at being present and thanked the meeting for re-electing him to office. He stated that he had now held the post of secretary for twenty-eight years in succession, first taking office in 1903, and remarked that but few of the original members were now present. He brought to the attention of the patrons the fact that the company was without an auditor, a proceeding that was illegal, and asked them to consider the appointment of this officer.

S. H. Neale, manager of the Campbellford branch of the Royal Bank addressed the meeting. He pointed out that it was a necessity by-law that an auditor should be appointed and advised the stockholders to do so. This was not only a safeguard to the secretary and the patrons, but would also train a man to take over the books if the occasion arose for the election of another secretary.

Mr. Neale touched briefly on the annual report, pointing out that although the milk production had increased, the revenue from cheese was considerably less, making a spread of nearly $2,000 over the community. This was owing to business depression, but he congratulated the patrons on the way the officers had handled the business in the past year reducing the running expenses considerably from the previous year.

He saw no real reason why cheese should go up next year, but thought that if the price was to keep the same the makers could hold their own.

J. A. Murray also addressed the meeting, stating that although the financies were bad, cheese was still, comparatively speaking holding the best place in Ontario today. He touched briefly on the British market, declaring that Canadian cheese was the best on that market, and considered so by the authorities. This was because of the high quality of the product and he pointed out that this was due to the patron, as without good milk the maker could not produce first grade cheese.

Mr. Murray also spoke of the Herd Competition and the interest that it had caused in the test, and stated that it was his opinion that if a test was low but the cow was giving plenty of milk that it would take care of itself.

HUGE WAR EXPENDITURES.

The Ottawa Journal, studying the recent budget brought down in the United States, finds in its items a very powerful sermon against war—and a little thought on the points stressed by the Journal will convince most people that our contemporary is not far off the map.

The budget, which it will be remembered, announced a deficit for the current year and anticipated another for next year unless additional taxation is provided, contained some most illumining statistics, which the Ottawa paper has quoted to prove its contention that the figures are a most potent argument against war.

They may be listed as follows:

(1) About two-thirds of the total proposed appropriations of $3,932,842,411 go for paying out on past wars and getting ready for the next one.

(2) Veterans' administration takes the huge total of $946,000,000.

(3) $581,000,000 goes for interest on war debts.

(4) The war department will require $464,000,000 and the navy department another $349,000,000.

Their expenditures for past wars and for present military defence are indeed staggering.

"All this thousand years after the birth of christianity," says the Journal in conclusion.

CLOSING THE LIQUOR STORES.

The United Farmers of Ontario at their annual convention have passed a resolution calling upon the Ontario Government to close all liquor stores and beer warehouses in the Province "during the present economic crisis."

The request is not likely to be acted upon, nor does there seem to be any sound reason for believing that conditions would be materially improved by the action demanded.

Despite the depression, there are many people who are still in a position to buy liquor, and a memory of what went on in Ontario under the Ontario Temperance Act justifies the statement that if legitimate avenues of purchase were not available they would not hesitate to seek out illegal sources of supply.

In short, as Sir Henry Drayton, head of the Liquor Control Board, pointed out a short time ago, to close the liquor stores at this time would mean "playing into the hands of the bootleggers."

Sales of liquor are materially falling off, showing that economic conditions are forcing temperance upon those who would be most hurt by liquor purchases.

It is doubtless true that more money is being spent upon liquor even yet than is justified under the circumstances, but the remedy does not lie in the direction pointed out by the United Farmers.

Experience has shown that men with the desire and money to buy intoxicants will continue to buy them, even if legal channels of purchase are closed to them.

OLD AGE PENSIONS.

The Council of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham showed common sense in refusing to pass a resolution asking Premier Bennett to implement his pre-election promise of having the Federal Government assume the entire cost of old age pensions.

There will be plenty of time later on to remind the Premier of his pledge, and plenty of people ready to tell him if he allows the coming session of Parliament to pass without making the change he promised to bring about.

No one expected the matter of old age pensions to be taken up at the special session of Parliament held in September, which was called for the specific purpose of dealing with unemployment, and until there has been a regular session it is surely out of order to send resolutions to the Premier about a matter he has not yet had a chance to deal with.

Mr. Bennett is beyond a doubt committed to the establishment of old age pensions on a federal basis.

He made a clear, definite promise to that effect, not once, but half a dozen times, during the election campaign, and unless he chooses to treat the pledge as a scrap of paper—and his record so far shows that he proposes to implement his promises—there is no reason to doubt that the next session will see old age pensions made a federal responsibility.

County councils which are passing resolutions about the matter at the present time are hardly fair to the Premier.

SHOULD NOT BE RUSHED.

Municipal councils, which are being hustled into passing resolutions calling upon the Dominion Government to inaugurate a scheme of unemployment insurance cannot have given the matter the serious consideration it deserves.

If they had paused for a moment to reflect upon the conditions in Great Britain as a result of apparently flagrant abuses of the dole system, it is not likely they would have shown the same speed in passing resolutions urging action along somewhat similar lines in this country.

The situation in the Old Country has become so bad that the MacDonald Government has been constrained to appoint a royal commission, headed by Judge Holman Gregory, a former Liberal member of Parliament, to investigate the whole business.

The British plan of unemployment insurance, which was supposed to operate on the basis of contributions from both employers and employees, as well as from the state, has broadened out into something quite different, with the result that Miss Margaret Bondfield, Minister of Labor, has had to admit that the scheme is falling behind at the rate of $200,000,000 a year, a deficit which, of course, has to be made up by the Government.

And that is not the worst feature.

The dole system is being abused on every side to such an extent that a large number of employers are known to be conniving with their men by providing just enough work each week to qualify the employees for both wages and the dole.

In other words, thousands of men are working only part time and receiving full time financial benefits, at the expense of the state.

At the same time thousands of boys who have never done a day's work are being clapped on the dole as soon as they become old enough.

Unemployment insurance may become necessary in Canada, but there is no justification for rushing into some ill-considered scheme that will develop the evils that are apparent in the British plan.

NO ROOM FOR CONFLICT.

The people of Canada have noted with some misgiving a dispatch sent out from Ottawa, and emphasized in the newspapers, to the effect that there is likely to be conflict under the aegis of the new Government between the Canadian National and the Canadian Pacific Railways. The dispatch in question says: "There has been a great deal of quiet curiosity in thoughtful circles ever since the last Dominion election in regard to the effect which the victory of a party that is traditionally friendly to the Canadian Pacific Railway, would have on the relation of the new Government and the Canadian National Railway, and of the two great railway systems with each other."

It is to be hoped that this dispatch is mere fabrication. The people of Canada are friendly to both the great railways, and recognize that their prosperity is indispensible to the growth and development of the Dominion. There is plenty of room in this vast Dominion for both systems, leaving it to the judgment of the executives to adjust their differences in an amicable manner, thereby avoiding unnecessary duplication and expense. There is every desire on the part of the people of Canada to see both systems impartially treated, in order that they may prosper and contribute to the upbuilding of the country.

Individuals or groups of men who attempt to create jealousy or hostility between the two great railways are enemies of the country, and it is unthinkable that the new Government should tolerate any tendescy to promote the interests of one system at the expense of the other. Canada is justly proud of its great transportation lines, and the people of the Dominion will be quick to resent any political interference with the prosperity of either.—Brantford Expositor.

BONUSING LEAST NEEDY.

Fuller reports of the proposals put forward at Ottawa by the Prairie Premiers make it evident that they have used the phrase "stabilization of wheat prices" in a way likely to cause a good deal of misunderstanding. They did not, apparently, suggest an attempt to stabilize the market price of wheat, but rather what may properly be termed a method of subsidizing the wheat grower.

The plan they offer is that wheat should be sold for what it will bring on the world's markets, and that the Dominion Government should pay a bonus to the grower so that the price he will receive will be not less than 70 cents per bushel for No. 1 Northern at Fort William. If the market price should be 60 cents, the grower would get a bonus of 10 cents per bushel; if it should be 65 cents, he would get a bonus of 5 cents; if it should be 70 cents or more no bonus would be paid.

So far as relief to the farmer is concerned, it is not clear that the method proposed would give assistance where it is most needed.

This year, for instance, the average yield over a very extensive territory in Saskatchewan was less than ten bushels to the acre. In other areas it was more than twenty bushels to the acre.

Under the plan put forward by the Prairie Premiers, the better the crop yield obtained by the farmer, the more he would receive; and the lower the yield the less he would receive. Those who need financial support the most would be assisted the least.—Victoria Colonist.

CHAMBERLAIN SAID IT, TOO.

Judging by their comments on the recent verbal exchanges between Mr. Thomas and Mr. Bennett, certain Canadian and British editors are not overly conversant with the history of the controversy over Imperial preferences. Their idea, apparently, is that past discussion of preferences was carried on by Whitehall penning a bit of heart-throb prose, to which Ottawa replied with a sonnet. Under that impression, they are naturally horrified over Mr. Bennett's use of some plain, rugged Anglo-Saxon. Fearful because somebody has been honest enough to be bold.

If these editors will cast back into the record of preference discussions, they will be less scandalized. They might read, to begin with, the report of the Imperial Conference of 1902. Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, prophet of Empire trade, was a salient figure at that conference. At one stage of its proceedings, and with Canada's delegates sitting there before him, Mr. Chamberlain rose, deftly adjusted his famous monocle, in his iciest tones said:

"The net result which I desire to impress upon you, is that in spite of the preference which Canada has given us, their tariff has pressed, and still presses, with the greatest severity, upon its best customer, and has favored the foreigner who is constantly doing his best to shut out our goods."

That was Mr. Chamberlain's answer to Canada's preferential gesture. He did not, like Mr. Thomas, say that it was "humbug," but he certainly made it clear that, in his judgment, it wasn't worth a tinker's curse. And he didn't haggle over his words. Joe Chamberlain never did.

So, come to think of it, Mr. Thomas' "humbug" and Mr. Bennett's vigorous reply, are not so epoch-making or so terrible.

In any event, the notion that the members of the British family of nations can't afford to indulge an occasional bit of wholesome, plain speaking, is not a creditable one. After all, if the Government of Britain doesn't like something we propose, why shouldn't it say so? And, by the same token, if Mr. Bennett doesn't like the way the British Government expresses itself, why shouldn't he speak out about it? Isn't that better and more manly—and more British—than a silent, sulky grouch?

This idea that friendship can only be maintained by almost greasy platitudes and long-distance petting, is nonsense. As things are now, Mr. Bennett knows precisely where the British Labor Government stands, and the British Labor Government knows precisely where Mr. Bennett stands. That's more helpful to understanding and friendship than a thousand speeches of polite insincerities.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Examiner Christmas Fund reaches those most in need of help. Your donation for this splendid cause will be appreciated.

Static noticed on the radio yesterday morning may possibly have been due to the speech of Professor Albert Einstein.

R. H. Halbert, U.F.O. leader, blames liquor sales for the hard times in this country. But with the United States under prohibition that can't be the explanation for the much worse depression over the border.

JEAN'S SANTA CLAUS

By JULIE ANNE MOORE

CHAPTER TWENTY.

All night I've argued with myself, trying to decide. I simply can't bring myself to drop the Miniature Baby Plan at this stage. And yet the thought of having to face Sandy from now until Christmas is unbearable. I hate him, hate him! Taking that wretched woman's word and questioning mine! And he had the arrogance to tell me not to talk any more. Well, I told her and I told him and if he'd had the courage I've given him credit for he'd have fired me. How could he do it? How could he tear down the understanding that has grown up between us so recklessly? Yesterday he was everything. But now, I abhor the thought of him. Anyway, I gave him something to think about. Surely he must understand at last that Marcia has made a stupid fool of him. Little Ellen was lovely yesterday. Sandy and I promised to bring her in for a tour of the toy departments, but now . . I think I'll go for her this afternoon, alone.

Jean was determined not to go to the office again until she could no longer avoid it. Instead, this morning, she went direct to the factory where her girls were working feverishly to get a daily quota of miniature babies into the mails. The general manager of the plant, with whom she had been in almost constant communication since the big order was placed with his concern, received her.

"I am Mr. Albion," he told her. And then, grinning, "You're several years younger than I thought. And more attractive, if you'll forgive me."

"You're like the rest of the men," Jean observed, "and I'm like the rest of the women. You lay it on thick without regard to facts, and I eat it up in the same spirit. If you meant that for a compliment, I'm grateful."

"Oh, but I mean it," he laughed. "You see, I had pictured you as a, well a spinster, let's say; one of these flat-heeled efficiency experts. And you're nothing but a girl. Your force is working like a machine. I've never seen girls so set on getting a thing done."

"I'm not responsible for that," Jean assured him. "It's simply that they're as enthusiastic over the Miniature Baby Plan as I am. Do you make anything here besides dolls?"

Mr. Albion smiled. "We have one of the largest toy plants in the country. You can't think of anything we don't make here. And just now we're running at high speed, of course. Ordinarily we get most of our orders in during the summer. But this year the stores couldn't make up their minds. They said business was bad and there wouldn't be the usual demand for toys."

"And isn't there?"

"The stores have discovered at the last minute that business is never bad at Christmas. Already our sales are far above those of last year, and we are getting new orders every day. You know, Miss Melba, I think this depression we've been hearing about is almost wholly pychological. People are buying as they've always bought, and the Christmas trade could hardly be better."

Presently Albion led the way along a broad corridor and into a large office where Jean's girls were busy with typewriters and checking lists. Miss Trelling, Sandy's secretary, temporarily serving as a sort of walking supervisor, came up beaming.

"We're going to get them out on time, Miss Melba," she declared. "You see how the girls are going at it now? It's like that all day. They're as eager to get the job done on time as you are, and the men in the shipping room are doing all they can to help.

Jean's smile adequately expressed her admiration. "It's wonderful! You're invaluable, Miss Trelling. I only hope the Director doesn't call you back to the office too quickly."

"I don't think he will. One of the girls at the office is taking his letters, and I go in for an hour every afternoon just to see that everything is all right. Have you seen one of the miniature babies?"

"I saw one in the store," Jean told her. "Is there one around that isn't packed?"

Albion said quickly: "Will you wait here just a moment, Miss Melba? I have one in my office that I want you to see."

When he came back and put the big, life-like doll in her arms, Jean could only gaze at it in silence. She had never thought of dressing a doll in a strictly modern grown-up frock. This one wore a perfectly fitted gown of black silk velvet, snug about the body and falling away to the ankles, and looking for all the world like the Paris gowns of this design in the Fifth Avenue shops. A deep collar of Alencon lace was the only trimming. It was, as Jean declared, "simply unbelieveable."

"I'll never be satisfied," she said to Albion, "until I have a frock exactly like it, it's beautiful. Is this your model?"

"We had it dressed to use as a model," he admitted, "but the store buyers informed us quickly enough that little girls have their own ideas about dolls' apparel, and they prefer the fluffier, lighter materials. They don't want their babies to be grown-ups; they want them younger than they are themselves. Which is only natural, if we had thought beforehand. A four-year-old can't mother an adult woman."

Jean agreed. "But what are you going to do with her now?"

"Would you accept it with our compliments?" he asked, smiling. "You ought to have one to remind you of your Miniature Baby Plan."

"Do you mean it? If all you only knew how much I want her. I'll keep her always. After all, I'm just a grown up little girl, with as much love for miniature babies as any little girl you know."

From the factory Jean went to Times Square on the subway, and there took a taxi to East 34th Street, holding her miniature baby as tenderly as though it were alive.

Ellen was delighted. She was not only pleased to see Jean, but was moved to ecstasy by the "minatoo baby" she showed her. After a moment, however, her little face became grave, and she studied the doll critically.

"She's too old, Miss Melba," she declared soberly. "She's almost old as a mother doll. Do you think Santa will bring me as old a one as that?"

"One thing at a time, Ellen," Jean told her, dropping to her knees before the troubled child. "In the first place, you must not call me Miss Melba. Call me Jean, please. Miss Wood won't mind, and I like Jean so much better. In the second place, this is a 'minatoo baby' for grown-ups, not for little girls. The baby Santa brings you won't be a day over three. I'm sure of it."

Ellen smiled at once. A three-year-old baby would be just right.

Miss Wood said that Ellen might accompany Jean on a round of the stores. "She has her supper at five," she said. "If you could bring her back by then."

"I'll have her back by four-thirty," Jean assured her. "Do you mind if she has one small ice cream while we're gone?

Miss Wood smiled. "She's not a delicate child. Of course I don't let her have just anything, but ice cream won't hurt her."

That tour was one amazing revelation after another to Ellen. It was like a journey into the land of make-believe where everything of which one would possibly dream was there in reality.

In the toy departments of the big stores, she grew so excited that she quickly gathered an audience of clerks who were at first curious and then eager to contribute something to her entertainment. They took down every toy that attracted her attention and let her hold it. They vied for her favor, and followed her about, grinning broadly, as she scampered from one part of the floor to another, too thrilled by what she saw to appreciate her sudden popularity.

Nor was it the toys alone that enthralled her. Everywhere there were the unmistakable signs of Christmas and Ellen missed none of them. The shop windows offered a continuous series of delightful surprises; the curbstone hawkers, the crowds, the traffic bedlam in the streets were all parts of the big show.

She bubbled over with a multitude of questions. "Does Santa have to visit all these people? Is it really selfish to want things you can't have? Do you think my minatoo baby looks like any of these? If I'm good, will Santa bring me a bed for my baby next Christmas?" and countless others, all of which Jean attempted to answer, insofar as they could be answered.

They were back in East 34th Street, as Jean promised by four-thirty, and Jean left Ellen in a veritable frenzy of happiness, her words piling one upon the other in her eagerness to describe the afternoon's memorable adventure to Miss Wood.

But, strangely enough, when she was beyond the influence of Ellen's contagious enthusiasm, Jean felt suddenly let down. Something essential was missing from an otherwise agreeable day.

She knew in her heart that it was the loss of Sandy, but the thought of him brought the blood rushing to her face. She reviewed the entire stormy session in Sandy's office the day before and the more she reflected upon his apparent defense of Marcia, the more angry she became, the less reason she could see for his disappointing behavior.

Arrived at her room, she threw her hat and coat to one side and paced the floor. For the present she could have Miss Trelling bring her mail and files to the factory and do her work there. But sooner or later she must go back to his office and face him.

The impulse to write Phillip brought her to an abrupt halt. She had ordered him out of the house and sent him away. Had she lost him, too? Would he answer if she wrote to him?

Suddenly she went to the little table that supported the gas plate, took a pencil and paper from a box beneath it, and with a magazine for desk, sat on he edge of the bed, and wrote:

"Dear Phill:

"I am very, very sorry about what happened here. The more I think about it, the more I'm inclined to believ that Lionel was largely to blame. I slammed the door in his face immediately after you had gone, and have not spoken to him since.

"Are you angry with me?

"It is almost Christmas. Shall I look for you at the front door Christmas morning? Or have you thought better of your threat? It is for you to decide.

"Penitently,

Jean."

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

I have written to Phil. Pride or no, I have written him, and he must decide whether we will return to the old understanding. I was fearfully hungry for him all day yesterday. Hungry for his sympathy, as much as anything else, I suppose. But will he answer?

Jean's diary was interrupted by a gentle tapping on the door. It was Lionel and a more despondent Lionel Jean had never seen.

"Do you mind if I come in for a few minutes, Jean?"

There was no dodging him here. This was her home and she did not know how to be other than hospitable and polite in it.

"If your face indicates the state of mind, I'd say you've just lost at least six best friends. Sit down, Lionel and brace up. A national calamity wouldn't warrant that woeful countenance."

He tried to smile, with but little success. "You've refused to let me talk to you at the office," he told her with a touch of bitterness. "You know as well as I do that your boy friend from the sticks was responsible for that racket up here. Why are you treating me as if I had staged the whole show alone?"

Jean had expected more tragic news. "Is that what you're worried about? I thought something serious was wrong. I've forgotten the whole mess, if that's any relief to you."

But she knew by his eyes that he was not relieved. The there was something serious on his mind. "Apparently you aren't any better off now than we've disposed of that. Are you working up to something big, Lionel?"

"Nothing bigger than that," he declared unconvincingly. "But if you're honest in sayin: that you've forgiven me, why there's the other thing . . ."

She knew very well what he meant, but she asked: "What other thing, Lionel?"

He had been sitting on the edge of one of the two chairs, but now he got to his feet, walked to the nearest window and stood gazing down into the street. There was something about his posture, the slight droop of the shoulders, perhaps, that touched Jean. She wanted to go to him and hold his head against her breast, to stroke his soft hair and offer him what comfort she could.

He seemed to her now not so much a man as a well meaning but over pampered child. Life had tricked him, and he hadn't the character to adjust himself to the new conditions.

Lionel had not spoken when Jean said quietly: "Your mother and father are calling for a show-down about the wife?".

He turned pleading eyes to hers. "It's just as bad. Or worse. They kept me until at last I had to be specific. I told them she would come back from her alleged visit to Massachusetts to-morrow!"

"Oh!" He had reason to be worried, Jean told herself. Having committed himself, he had either to produce said wife or admit the truth. "And you still look to me for help, Lionel? Do you realize what it means to me? I'm not

Capacity Audience At Christmas Social

APSLEY, Dec. 12 (Examiner Correspondence).—The first of the school Christmas concerts drew a capacity audience at Tucker's Schoolhouse on Friday evening, when Rev. W. H. Taylor as chairman introduced a lenghty and pleasing program prepared by the teacher, Miss Dollridge. The proceeds are to be devoted to the providing of hot lunches for the pupils, a feature which is getting quite popular in the local school sections. The program was ably rendered and consisted of dialogues, recitations, and vocal numbers; Mrs. Hugh McColl accompanying the young vocalists.

The program was as follows: Welcome speech, Cliff McColl; duet, "Jolly Old St. Nicholas," Leslie McColl and Margaret Tucker; dialogue, "The Song of the Lazy Farmer"; duet, "Come, Sing to Me," Mrs. G. Kilborn and Miss Pickard; mouth organ, Leslie McColl; dialogue, "Courtship Under Difficulties"; solo, Cliff McColl; dialogue, "Getting Rid of Agents"; song, "Far Away," Mrs. Hugh McColl; tableau, "The School's Chorus"; "Hark, the Herald," by the audience; recitation, Janet Peters; Nigger Song, in character, School; recitation, Elgin Peters; dialogue, "The Minister's Mistake"; duet, "Cowboys," Chesel and Leslie McColl; monologue, "Ned's Letter," Leslie McColl; recitation, Miss Wagar; tableau, School; recitation, Chesel McColl; dialogue, "A Pain in the Side"; song, Janet Peters; pantomime, School; recitation, Margaret Tucket; dialogue, "Mother Goose," School.

Dancing is again in vogue in Berlin.

FARM SCHOOL SCHEME

Lakefield, R.R. No. 1,

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I, for one am in favor of this "New Farm School Scheme."

I have two boys growing up, their ages are 7 and 10 years. I often wonder if I shall be in a position to send them to college when they are older and deplore the fact that there are not better facilities for better education in the rural schools here.

I might also say I have a little girl growing up too. I remain,

Yours truly,

(Mrs.) May Holmes.

RE RELIEF

To The Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I was much interested in your editorial criticism of the report of the special meeting of the Council of the Township of North Monaghan.

I suppose that the presiding Reeve and Councillors have forgotten that Canadian sons fought for the maintenance of independence and liberty and not for abolishment of these.

I am rather inclined to believe the said Reeve and Councillors would like to take a whip in hand and be back in the days of slavery so they could tell the working classes what they should have and what they shouldn't have. Perhaps they are some of the farmers who wanted to pay Ten Dollars a month and board for summer work and expect them to save it all to keep themselves all winter and buy clothes through the summer and perhaps have to help to support somebody out of the small wages of Ten Dollars a month.

I wonder how they would like to live on that sum themselves?

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space and time,

Yours very truly,

UPHOLDER OF LIBERTY.

FREE LOAN FUND

Editor Examiner,

Dear Sir, — There are very few people in the city who know as much as do the merchants about present conditions. And they know that there are hundreds of families in Peterborough who are suffering, more or less, at present, on account of prevalent hard times. Many men have been out of employment for six months and more and had nothing to depend on but their work, with no reserve of any kind. And there are many of these who have led respectable lives and are now too embarassed to ask for help, even when their families are in need.

Would it not be a good idea to form here in Peterborough a committee for the emergency, to organize a Free Loan Fund to help these people for a certain length of time. They could be loaned sufficient to tide them over the hard winter months and could pay it back later in small sums, as they found employment.

Naturally, the men on such a committee should have the confidence of the people and should get together with the social welfare workers to know the deserving ones to decide on their plans.

I would be willing to give my share. Hoping to see this letter printed in your valuable paper, I am

Yours truly,

P. BLACK,

Corner King and George Sts.

A Thought

THRIFT OF TIME

Believe me when I tell you that thrift of time will repay you in after life with a usury of profit beyond your most sanguine dreams, and that waste of it will make you dwindle alike in intellectual and moral stature, beyond your darkest reckonings.—W. E. Gladstone.

What To-day Means To You

"SAGITT US"

If December 12th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and from 8 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. The danger periods are from 8 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. and from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m.

An improvement in conditions over the last few days is indicated for this date, although some unexpected disappointments may occur. Do not offend a superior, or ask for favors at this time. Lucky for family affairs.

The children born on this December 12th will have extremely sensitive natures, and will suffer from imaginary hurts. They will have refined and artistic tastes, and will strive for peace and harmony. They will be emotional, and will be ruled by their hearts.

You have a very unusual and in some ways an unfortunate character — you always manage to put your worst foot forward. People never know where they stand with you, as you often sacrifice sincerity for the sake of your own popularity. You are reserved, so much so that others call you secretive and cold. You quickly sense any animosity of people with whom you come in contact, and instead of thawing out, you only present a more frigid exterior.

You are extremely intelligent, and worship at the shrine of intellect, and you do not "suffer fools gladly." Your very warm affections are seldom revealed, even to those who have a right to expect some outward demonstrations. You are not in the least responsive, and seldom enter into the moods of "outsiders," nor is it easy for you to give sympathy.

If you be a man, you prefer the companionship of other men — women you do not understand. If you be a woman, you also prefer the friendship of the masculine sex, and have more of a man's type mind and attitude toward life. There is very little frivolity about you. You are fitted for creative work, such as art and writing, or some department of finances. You rather scoff at love and romance, but it is not probable that you will live a solo life. You will not be especially fond of children, until you have your own.

AGAIN TIE DECISIONS

LONDON, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Oxford and Cambridge have fought a drawn battle for university supremacy in both rugby and soccer football.

At Stamford Bridge today the dark and light blues played each other to a standstill in the annual soccer match, the score standing at 1-1. On Tuesday these ancient rivals engaged in their rugby classic at Twickenham and the match ended in a 3-3 deadlock.

Don't forget the big Examiner party and dance at the Legion Hall next Tuesday night, December 16th. Come along and have a good time and provide a Christmas dinner for some needy family.

Hudson Bay Shares Decline At London

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Dec. 12. — (Canadian Press Cable). — Messrs. Harland and Wolffe, famous shipbuilding firm, has decided to pass the dividend on six percent preference shares to the extent of $20,000 000, which is due on Jan. 1. The same dividend was also unpaid on July 1, last.

The decision came shortly after the announcement that the Hudson's Bay Company would pass the interim dividends. This announcement resulted in a drastic drop from 38 to 23 shillings in Hudson's Bay Company shares on the London Stock exchange to-day.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND BRIEFS

A SPECIAL SERVICE TO THE EXAMINER

Directors of numerous Canadian corporations will meet within the next week to take dividend action on the quarterly payment due about the first of the year. Naturally there is more interest at this time that for some years past earnings have been adversely affected by the business depression and along about the final month of the year directors can pretty well tell just what profit for the twelve months is going to be. To-day there are a few securities selling on the Toronto Stock Exchange to yield from 10 to 12 per cent and this in itself lends weight to the possibility of cuts in the rate to be paid or omission of payment altogether. In a year such as this, it is only to be expected that some corporations would find it necessary to revise the annual rate of dividend or to defer payment in order to conserve cash assets in the interests of stockholders. However, the record of payments for 1930 to date indicates that Canadian companies have been able to maintain their disbursements to stockholders fairly well. In December the total disbursements set a new high record for the Dominion Included in this total were numerous extras and bonuses and the first of January will again see additional payments in this form by the Canadian banks and industrial corporations that will raise the total for the year and more than likely bring the aggregate for the twelve months of 1930 above that paid in 1929.

Houses Merge.

The year has seen many changes in brokerage circles in Toronto. No Toronto Stock Echange house has failed but there are those which, finding business unprofitable under present market conditions, have merged with other concerns or have given up business some investment banking houses which have maintained both a bond and stock department have discontinued the latter, a few other houses are expected to follow the same procedure before the end of the year.

The majority of listed securities on the Toronto Stock Exchange are still holding above their lows for the year, although now and again an individual issues dips to a new bottom. In October last the market struck the bottom and the rebound from this level was not large and as a consequence it is only necessary from some issues to drop slightly to break into new low ground for the year Buying demand has been only sufficient in recent months to keep the market on an even keel. Every time the list went lower new buying was attracted and on each occasion prices advanced out of a range that tended to reduce the income return to be had buyers dropped out. The rapid up bidding of prices by speculative interests that marked the bull market of 1927, 1928 and 1929 has been notably absent and the forced liquidation that was responsible for the out pouring of securities in the fall of 1929 appears to have spent itself. To-day buying and selling is fairly evenly balanced with greatest proportion of purchases for cash and the supply coming from tired holders who are selling out or selling on security to buy another, hoping to improve their position. Speculative ardor has been cooled by several false starts in 1930 and the huge army of speculators, the outcome of three or four years of advancing prices has dropped from the picture as yet, showing no sign of returning.

1930 IS MARKED IN U.S. AS YEAR OF REVOLUTIONARY EXPERIMENTS

Outcome of Farm Board's Campaign to Reduce Wheat Acreage Yet To Be Seen.

BAD AGRICULTURAL SEASON.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12. (By Ken Clark, CP Staff Correspondent.—Toward the close of a bad year for agriculture, economic experts here, see 1930 earmarked in history as one of revolutionary experiment in the United States

This was the first year in which the Federal Farm Board, established to put agriculture on a footing with other industry, functioned. The board attempted to do four important things:

First: To promote the co-operative idea in agriculture.

Second: To bring about pool selling with elimination of the middle man.

Third: To reduce acreage.

Fourth: To control the price of wheat.

The board's agents went through the country encouraging the formation of co-operatives of which there are now in existence about 12,000

Has Government Backing.

Under the act which brought it into being the board assisted in the formation of the Farmer's National Grain Corporation a super co-operative not unlike the Canadian Wheat Pool, supported, however, by Government funds.

The formation and activities of this organization caused a furor among grain traders who with the support of the United States Chamber of Commerce violently attacked it as being socialistic in base and interfering with private business. Chairman Alexander Legge of the Board, former head of the International Harvester Company, made a vigorous defense.

But the year being an unfortunate one for wheat growers particularly, the board went even farther in its efforts to assist the producer and established a stabilization corporation to which it lent funds to buy wheat and hold up the price. The stabilization Corporation spent about $90,000,000 and together with the National Grain Corporation found itself at the end of the year controlling about 120,000,000 bushels of wheat. Meantime through the buying activities of the stabilization organization the price of wheat in the United States was maintained at several cents above the world price. This prevented export.

Outcome Tendered.

In dealing with this situation in a year when over-production was the world cry, the board assisted by the Department of Agriculture and the administration inaugurated an energetic campaign for reduction in acreage. How successful this campaign will be remains to be seen inasmuch as strong opposition has already been manifest.

The surplus of wheat together with a small corn crop induced the board to suggest feeding wheat to cattle and latest reports on this campaign contained the encouraging information prospects were for the feeding of 230,000,000 bushels as compared with 90,000,000 bushels last year.

PRESSURE FELT IN EARLY TORONTO MARKET TRADING

Leaders Continue Decline Although Recessions Confined to Small Fractions.

NEW LOWS FOR YEAR.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 12. (CP)—The market was still under pressure at the opening this morning and continued to sell slowly lower throughout the morning. Recessions were confined to very small fractions but sufficient on top of the continual decline this week to carry many of the leading traders down to within from a couple of points to less than one point of their low mark for the year. The index of prices last night was down to 65, only one point above the low of 64 registered October 22, and the market followers were to-day interested in the market's ability to hold at that former low.

International Nickel slipped under 17 and was less than a point above its minimum price. Noranda eased and Brazilian dropped ½ point to 22, where it was about 1¼ points above its low. C.P.R. sold at 40¾, off ¼. Ford of Canada fluctuated narrowly about 21 while the oils were mostly unchanged in very quiet trading.

Service Stations was slightly higher on the day.

POOR ONLY JOIN NEW FARM BODY

Would Establish Socialism Through Workers and Farmers' Gov't.

SASKATOON, Dec. 12. (CP) — Farm delegates attending the Canadian Farmers Education League Conference, now in session here, unanimously agreed yesterday to the merging of all Left-Wing farmer groups into a national farm body, wherein a necessary requisite for membership will be "poverty."

Formation of this national organization, to be known as the "Farmers' Unity League of Canada" proposed at previous Winnipeg and Regina conferences, and has now been endorsed by the Saskatoon delegates.

Establishment of socialism through a Workers' and Farmers' Government, will be the sole object of the new association, which has no written constitution, no set rules of procedure, and which will be built up from present membership in other radical organizations into local commitees of action.

TAKEN BLOCK OF TICKETS

Just as a gesture of friendly co-operation, the members of the Belmont Club have taken a block of tickets for the Midnite Show at the Capitol Theatre, next Thursday.

The Belmont Club won't benefit in any way by this fund. They do a certain amount of good work at Christmas time, but not in just the same way as the organizations who will handle the Relief funds. But they wanted to do something to help along a good cause, so they will sell the tickets.

TABLES FOR BRIDGE AND EUCHRE

Tables for bridge and euchre games in the upper hall will be provided at the Canadian Legion hall next Tuesday night, in connection with the dance under the auspices of The Examiner Social Club, to provide Christmas dinners for the needy of the city. Prizes will be given for cards and anyone desiring to make reservations for tables is asked to telephone 1600 and leave their names.

IN POLICE COURT

Seeking respite from the sombre task of grave-digging a country resident came into this city yesterday, and celebrated "not wisely, but too well." The sequel to his escapades were heard in City Police Court this morning before Magistrate O. A. Langley, and defendent was ordered to pay $13 including costs into the city treasury.

Asked to plead to a charge of being in an intoxicated condition in a public place, he said, "I had taken a couple of drinks, but was not intoxicated."

Police Chief Newhall said that under the circumstances he was not ready to go on with the proceedings Defendant later changed his plea to one of guilty, and left the court a sadder and wiser man.

KIRKLAND LAKE BUSINESS MEN FINANCING ROAD CONSTRUCTION

Will Derive Profit From Renewed Activity in Matachewan District.

LONDON COPPER LOWER.

TORONTO, Dec. 12 (Special to The Examiner).—Copper stocks on the mining market again were reflecting lack of constructive developments in the red metal situation to-day, Noranda, Nickel, Hudson Bay and the Lindsleys continuing the easier trend in evidence most of the week. Copper month-end statistics published to-day showed the first decline in total surplus stocks of metal above ground in North and South America since July, but refined stocks, the important indicator as far as sales are concerned, were up several thousand tons to 269,832 tons, just under the peak reached in 1921. Copper quotations in London are still on the downgrade, to-day's price for electrolytic spot of 49 being equivalent to approximately 10.63 cents a pound against a New York domestic price of 11 cents and an export price of 11.30 cents. According to a flash received from Cobalt by a local brokerage office to-day it is learned on good authority that Gem Lake mines has arranged its financing and that the forthcoming meeting of shareholders, to be held on Dec. 20 in Toronto, should be productive of some interesting information. This might serve to explain recent demand and strength of the stock on the mining board.

Visitors from the north report business men of Kirkland Lake and Swastika, in an effort to direct their way some of the business which will undoubtedly accrue from renewed activity in the Matachewan district, have subscribed funds to put a road through from Swastika to the field. Though this will probably take the form of a winter road for the time being it is anticipated government assistance in making a motor road may be forthcoming next year.

Our correspondent at Sesekinika Lake in Northern Ontario states development work has started a day or so ago in Lee township on the claims on which a promising gold discovery was made last summer. Roads into the property are ready for use and a crew of men is engaged in building camps and teaming supplies for the winter. Since discovery the vein in the shear zone has been opened across one claim and good gold planning have been obtained right across the showing which has a width of approximately 12 feet. Martin Shunsby, discoverer, is in charge, and J. J. Byrnes of Haileybury and his associates are financing the development. Work under the direction of Oscar Knutson will be commenced about Jan. 1 on the Lake lands property, formerly Murray Mow Bridge at Wolf Lake in the adjoining Maisonville township. Supplies already have been teamed in.

It is reported that approximately 2,400 shareholders of West Dome Lake Gold Mines, Consolidated West Dome Lake Mines, United Mineral Lands Corporation and Premier Paymaster Mines Co. have exchanged their certificates for Paymaster Consolidated Mines Ltd. stock. All details in connection with the merger have been completed and an audit of the entire transactions is being made. The trust company state it will require a total of 3,496,989 shares of Paymaster Consolidated to provide for the exchange of all the outstanding stock of the above companies, amounting to approximately 14,400,000 shares.

CANADA PLANS

will be to Great Falls, Montana, while the western extremity of the United States system will be contacted at Seattle from Vancouver.

Mail For Toronto.

The flights arranged between Winnipeg and St. Paul will complete the aerial chain between the prairies and the east. Mail for Eastern Canada will be carried over United States air lines to Detroit and will there reenter Canadian territory. While the schedule has not been definitely settled, Mr. Coolligan said that mail from Calgary would reach Montreal in 40 hours, a saving of 38 hours. A saving of 40 hours would be effected in mail for Toronto.

Turning towards the Atlantic, Canadian officials see in ship-to-shore flights at Belle Isle the answer to the problem of speeding up the movement of mail to the British Isles and Europe. Inbound and outbound liners can be met at Belle Isle, it was explained, and a saving of 48 hours can be effected between Montreal and British ports. A trial flight was successfully accomplished when Premier R. B. Bennett was on his way overseas. Letters and newspapers were carried by plane into the Atlantic and were delivered to him on board the Empress of Australia.

Fly Atlantic via Bermuda

In the United States a program is now on foot for flying the Atlantic with mail via Bermuda and the Azores. Depending on weather conditions, Mr. Glover said that flights to Bermuda would be made from either New York, Baltimore or Charleston, West Virginia. Thence a hop would be made to the Azores and from there to Lisbon Portugal. Mail would be carried from Lisbon, through France into England. Tenders for the Atlantic service have already been asked for by the United States Government. A well-developed service is now moving from the east coast of United States through the West Indies into South America, Mr. Glover said. He regarded the Bermuda-Azores route as the desirable method of linking Europe with Central and South America by air.

KIWANIANS VIEW TWO FINE REELS

Alex Darling Entertains Club at Its Regular Weekly Luncheon.

PLAN FOR CHRISTMAS TREE.

Alex. Darling of the Roy Studio was the guest of honor at the weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis Club, held at noon to-day. Mr. Darling entertained the members by showing them two fine reels of pictures. One was of his trip to Florida and the other was the Jackson Park Camp.

H. J. Boyle introduced Mr. Darling, whose first picture showed his and J. Gillespie's motor trip to Florida. The following scenes were shown in rapid succession: Cumberland Gap; the river between Georgia and Florida; St. Petersburg—U. S. Marine ships; the "Million Dollar Pier" showing first a pelican and then numerous wild ducks; the broadcasting station; a porpoise; a scene on Central Avenue; a view looking towards the Gulf of Mexico; the Goodyear blimp; a miniature golf course; the "sea flea" races with 10,000 spectators on the pier; the world's longest bridge—7 miles from tollgate to tollgate; Small Island golf clubhouse in Arabesque style; beautiful palm-gown Williams Park; a celery patch of several acres; the winter headquarters of the Barnum and Bailey Circus Company, showing also the numerous elephants, over 500 horses, and many camels; Daytona Beach with the tide coming in; St. Augustine, Florida; old Fort St. Augustine and its courtyard; Swanie River; and across the river into Kentucky and home.

The second film pictured the Kiwanis Camp at Jackson Park; first the arrival of the busses laden with children was shown; then the rush to the club house, the swings, the result of the ringing of the dinner gong, and finally the "toothbrush brigade." The second half of the film portrayed scenes from the local Exhibition—racing, steeplechasing, tandem racing, and stock parades were well pictured.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Darling, and the luncheon dismissed with the singing of "O Canada."

J. D. Fitzpatrick of the Peterborough Bowling Club announced a dance at the Legion Hall on December 17. No charge is being made for the hall, orchestra or prizes, and so all proceeds will go to the Legion Charity Committee, the Salvation Army, and the Catholic Women's League. Tickets are to be $1.00 per couple. Next Friday the Kiwanis will hold their annual Christmas tree. Every member is requested to bring gifts of wearing apparel and toys and to place them on the tree.

Question of Rights of Minorities Holds Stage at Indian Parley.

BURMA DECISION LOOMS.

LONDON, December 12 (By George Hambleton, C.P. Staff Correspondent). — The question of rights of minorities still hold the stage behind the scenes of the Indian Round-Table Conference.

To-day the Sikhs, who are anxious about the measure of representation they will receive in India's new constitution, interviewed Prime Minister MacDonald, conference chairman, at No. 10 Downing Street.

At Chequers, the Prime Minister's country home. Premier MacDonald to-morrow will entertain 30 representatives of the Hindu and Moslem communities, and another effort will be made to heal the existing breach between the two great Indian communities.

A plenary session of the conference in committee is planned early during the coming week. Its agenda will be largely devoted to the proposed separation of Burma from India. Then the difficult question of responsibility of the executive to the Federal Legislature will be taken up

An interesting piano recital by pupils of Miss E. Isobel McKee was held last evening in the studio at the Conservatory of Music Many of the pupils were unable to be present, owing to bad weather conditions and will be heard in recital with Miss Margaret Widdess' pupils before Christmas.

The pupils played with clear technique and in good style, reflecting great credit on their teacher and themselves. Special mention was made of the playing of Margaret and Olga Westbye, Muriel Baxter, Agnes O'Toole, Marion Foster, June Pidgeon, Margaret Jackson, and Allan Park.

AUSTRALIA SEEKS TO RAISE LOAN

Holds Campaign to Meet $140,000,000 Obligation Due This Month.

HALF WAY MARK PASSED.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Dec. 12. (C. P. Cable, via Reuters)—The Australian Government having decided to follow orthodox methods in meeting the financial obligations of about $140 000,000 falling due this month, is vigorously campaigning on behalf of its $140,000,000 conversion loan.

A great rally was held at the Melbourne town hall to-day while 34 aeroplanes circled the city. Hon. J. A. Lyons, acting treasurer, delivered a stirring address to a packed meeting.

Afterwards it was announced that about $960,000 had been subscribed at this meeting alone, and that the total subscriptions to the loan had mounted to about $81,000,000.

The Labor Party caucus wanted the Government to ask bondholders to wait another year for payment but Prime Minister Scullin took a firm stand against this policy, declaring he would carry out the financial reconstruction policies adopted at the Conference of State and Federal Governments some months ago.

In Manitoba, with a rotation system of one week at work and a similar period unemployed, 78,082 man-days work has been provided Practically no single men have been employed in Manitoba, special camp arrangements having been placed in effect.

34,000 Employed in Ontario

WELCOME READY FOR R. B. BENNETT

Prominent Saint John Citizens Prepare to Meet Premier at Dock.

TYPICAL WINTER SETTING.

SAINT JOHN, N.B., Dec. 12 (C.P.)—Prime Minister the Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett will return to the Dominion this afternoon in a setting typical of Canada's winter. Early this morning snow began to blanket the City of Saint John, where Hon. Mr. Bennett will first set foot in Canada after more than two months at the Imperial Conference, and well before noon this "grey port of the grey sea" was white. While one of the heaviest snowfalls of the season was in prospect, the weather generally was mild and conditions for the welcoming of the Prime Minister and his party back home were auspicious.

The Duchess of Atholl, on which Premier Bennett is returning, was expected to dock at West Saint John sometime in mid-afternoon, when a delegation of prominent citizens, including Premier J. B. M. Baxter, will convey the citys' welcome. With the Prime Minister are his sister, Miss Mildred Bennett; Hon Maurice Dupre, Solicitor General, and Mrs. Dupre, and W. D. Herridge, K.C. The party will board a private car attached to the special boat train shortly after disembarking, and early this evening will leave for Ottawa, reaching the Capital at noon to-morrow. Hon. Mr. Bennett's stay in Saint John will probably not exceed two hours.

DR. R. F. CONVOY GIVES ADDRESS

Normal Students Hear Talk on Dental Inspection in Schools.

FLUENT SPEAKER.

Dr. R. F. Conboy, Director of Dental Service for Ontario, addressed the Normal school students yesterday morning, the members of the Home and School Associations, in the Green Room of Y.W.C.A. yesterday afternoon and the Board of Education last evening on Dental Inspection in Schools.

Dr. Conboy is a fluent speaker and at the afternoon meeting gave a splendid address telling the members of the home and school associations of the city how so many diseases might be prevented. He said he was very pleased to address the students of the Normal on this subject as they would go out to all parts of Ontario, teaching the people, how necessary it was to have dental inspection.

He spoke of the progress that had been made during the last decades, in physics and science, but none so important as the progress made in pain prevention. Good health is essential to a sound mind and both so necessary to meet conditions of present strenuous life.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the speaker for his brilliant address and extended to him by Mrs. C. H. Edwards, president of the Home and School Association.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Dec. 12.—Receipts at the Union Stock Yards yesterday were: 5 cattle, 12 calves, 136 hogs, 127 sheep and lambs.

Trade in cattle of all classes is very slow with only a few common butcher cows over the scales up to 11 o'clock. The holdover from Tuesday was 600 head and it is not likely that a cleanup will be effected. Stale supply included some fairly good butcher steers and baby beef, and bids on these are a stronger quarter lower than the opening of the week.

Calves in a light offering are selling at $1.50 lower than on Monday, at $10 to $11 a cwt., for choice vealers and downward to $4 for plain grassers.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, December 12. — Lack of export demand and weakness on foreign markets had a bearish effect on the Winnipeg wheat market yesterday. Weakness at the opening continued, until final quotations were 1¼c to 1⅝c lower than Wednesday's figures. Selling of the distant months by Chicago interests contributed to the weakness. Local buying power, appearing from time to time, was not broad enough to stem the slide. When reports of the Liverpool drop in wheat values and the weakness at Buenos Aires arrived, prices were dropped sharply.

Disappointing export sales were reported overnight, and demand for cash wheat yesterday was lacking. Prices closed practically unchanged. With the exception of a fair demand for barley, coarse grains passed another dull session, with prices slightly lower.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, Dec. 12.—Egg prices took another material drop on the local market yesterday, prices to shippers and retailers being considerably lower. Dealers stated that receipts of fresh supplies had increased substantially, while the demand had not shown any signs of turning for the better. Storage eggs were moving well, retailers finding a better sale for these offerings, which cost them 35c for extras and 33c for firsts, candled out of storage.

Prices

For fresh eggs, country shippers were quoted 45c to 47c for extras, 40c to 42c for firsts, and 28c to 29c for seconds, ungraded, delivered, cases returned. The larger dealers were not bidding on pullet extras. Retailers were offered supplies at 55c for extras in cartons, 53c for extras loose, and 32c for seconds loose.

Market Weak

Brokers reported the egg market as weak, with sales of fresh extras at 48c, firsts 42c, seconds 29c and pullet extras 38c, graded, in free cases. Firsts were more difficult to dispose of than the other grades, but there was not too much business in any of them.

Butter

The butter market enjoyed another day of quietness, but prices were lower, brokers asking 29¼c for No. 1 and 28¼c for No. 2, and making most sales at 29c for No. 1 and 28c for No. 2. Sales were small, however, and were on a par with trading of previous days.

Turkeys

New poultry lists were received and prices to shippers for fatted hens, chickens, ducklings, etc., were noticed as being about the same as last week. But the new lists contained turkey prices which previously had been withheld due to uncertain conditions prevailing on the local market. Young turkeys, over 15 pounds, dressed, were quoted at 26c per pound; over 12 to 15 pounds 24c; over 10 to 12 pounds, 22c; over 8 to 10 pounds, 20c; and over 6 to 8 pounds, 17c per pound.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 12. — Record low prices for this season in July wheat resulted yesterday from dearth of demand and from sympathy with weakness in securities. Grain values were depressed also by downturns in cotton and hogs, the latter being the lowest in several years. Traders sold corn and oats on account of mild weather, which tended to curtail season use of feed.

Selling of wheat other than for July delivery was checked by purchase orders from Government-sponsored sources. Price downturns of July wheat, which is not subjected to stabilization measures, were in the face of 1,000,000 bushels decrease of Russian wheat shipments this week, as compared with the week previous. However, crop reports from the Southern Hemisphere were favorable, with word also of substantial offerings of new wheat at Rosario, Argentina, and of increased wheat offerings in France.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Dec. 12.—Prices were unchanged on the produce and dairy market here yesterday.

On the cheese market, only one price was quoted Ontario and Quebec cheese no longer being separate. The price quoted was 11c to 11½c a pound.

British Coumbia fresh eggs, per carlot, were quoted at 57c for extras, 51c for firsts and 46c for pullets.

Eastern townships No. 1 pasteurized creamery butter regraded, gross make was quoted at 29c to 29¼c a pound. To retailers, solids were 32c, and prints 33c a pound.

New Brunswick Green Mountains, in carlots, were quoted at 75c to 80c per 90 lbs., bulk. Dealers were selling Mountains, ex track, at 90c to 95c per 80-pound bag.

REV. DR. MERCER GIVES ADDRESS

INTERESTING TALK

COBOURG, Dec. 12 (Special to The Examiner). — Abysinnia is the third richest gold producing country in the world and the Emperor's throne is solid gold. Rev. Dr. Mercer, noted archaeologist and Trinity College professor told the Ministerial Association of Northumberland at its regular meeting here. Dr. Mercer's lecture was illustrated by lantern slide views which he had made in Abysinnia during his explorations there early this year when he found many valuable records relating to early Christian endeavour.

Dr. Mercer did not refer to his important work in the ancient African kingdom which was strong enough to conquer and to rule Egypt in the Eighth Century, B.C. Among the professor's discoveries are scarabs which give the historical date on the first Ethiopic king of Egypt, a historical find of priceless archaeological value.

While in Abysinnia Dr. Mercer examined 2,000 manuscripts dealing with early Christian literature. His great find was a manuscript dating back to the fourteenth century, and which is now world famous.

Christianity in Abysinnia at present is formal in character, Dr. Mercer learned. He had taken letters of introduction from the Archbishop of Canterbury, but doubt was cast on their authenticity because the Trinity College archaeologist did not carry an umbrella or follow the hat custom demanded for Ethiopic priests. Dr. Mercer remedied these oversights, and was then received in full favor.

Many churches in Abysinnia are cut out of solid rock, the association was told. Dr. Mercer explained that the churches were excavated both interiorly and exteriorly, preserving the proper form, even great dignity, but at the same time are sculptures rather than architecture.

An interesting feature of the address was the statement that the Ethiopian Church claims to possess the true Ark of the Covenant which disappeared from the History of Judah during the exile. The Ark is sacredly preserved in the interior of Abysinnia, and every Abysinnia Church has a replica of the reputed Ark for the communion altar. Over the replicas of the ark are now surmounted the Christian Cross.

JAMIE REID COMING ON SATURDAY NIGHT

"The Canadian Scot" Will Be Heard in the Legion Hall.

Jamie Reid, "The Canadian Scot", and Jean Simpson, contralto, have been secured by the Peterborough and District Football Association, on the occasion of their first annual concert to be held in the Canadian Legion Hall on Saturday of this week.

Nothing has been left undone by the energetic executive of the association to make this concert one of the premier attractions in this city. Certainly they could not have secured a better attraction than Jamie Reid, whose style is reminiscent of Harry Lauder. He is well-known to a large number of radio fans in this country and has won fame for his voice which is really exceptional in range and quality, and whether in comic song or patter, or sentimental ballad, he is outstanding.

He has just returned from a very successful tour of the leading cities in England and Scotland. No less an attraction is Jean Simpson, a very versatile artist, and possessor of a striking contralto voice.

[illegible] to be some[illegible]
[illegible] the darkest thing [illegible]

'I know, Jean. If I had an ounce of [illegible] I'd never [illegible] to me then and [illegible] what happened. But I can't. It's impossible. You know how me there [illegible] Why, [illegible]

[illegible] Lionel, I'm [illegible] stand. I don't remember much about my own [illegible] but she isn't here [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] enough.'

[illegible] me back from the wind w[illegible] and really are [illegible] for the [illegible] Jean. But a month or two [illegible] would be married.'

'But if we weren't, Lionel? Your parents would discover the deception sooner or later.'

'But we will be,' Lionel insisted.

'I think not, Lionel. I am very fond of you and there are several things I recommend you for a husband among them being what I took to be the evidence of wealth on the part of your father when I saw him at the office. Money does matter, you know, and I've never had much of it. Still, Lionel, I somehow can't imagine you and me as husband and wife. I'm afraid it wouldn't last any longer than your first venture.'

'You mean that you would leave me for no reason at all? I don't believe it.'

Jean laughed nervously. 'We've gotten way off the course. Just now you're in trouble and you're asking me to help you. You told your mother she, your wife, would come back to-morrow?' And then, so suddenly that Lionel flinched: 'All right. I'll do it. I'll make a fool of myself, but if I make a mess of it, the consequences are yours.'

Lionel dropped on his knees before her chair and caught her arms eagerly. 'You're wonderful. You're too wonderful, Jean! And if we make a go of it . . .'

Because he expected it, she kissed him, gently, and made him get to his feet. 'There's no time for it, now, Lionel. We've too much to do. For one thing, we ought to rehearse if I'm to be able to say, Yes, Lionel dear,' as if I meant it. Can you run up for an hour tonight?'

'Yes, of course.' But, abruptly, 'Your roomate? Will she be in?'

'I don't know. Perhaps we'd better go somewhere.'

Obviously this suggestion was more to his liking. 'I'll be in front of the house at seven-thirty. When you hear the horn . . .'

'Never mind the horn. I'll be at the door waiting.' She pulled his watch from his vest pocket. It was eight-forty-five. 'Look at the time, and we standing here as if we had all day. I've got to go to the factory.'

'I'll take you. The car's outside.'

But she shook her head. 'You go to the office. I've some work to do here first.' She pushed him toward the door, and then went to the window to wait until he had driven off.

Presently she returned to her diary, and wrote hastily

'I've done it. Lionel just dropped up full of trouble. I'm an idiot for doing it, but I promised to pose as his wife while his mother and father are in New York. We're going somewhere to-night to get used to the idea. I must be mad. Going to the factory now.'

Miss Trelling had come by the office and brought Jean's mail.

Among the letters was a broad envelop distinctly male, and in it a small slip of note paper on which was written:

'Dear Jean:

Why . . . . ?

'Sandy'

She tore it into small pieces, and flung the bits into a wastebasket.

Why indeed! There were a thousand whys she could put to him, and for better reason. Did his note mean that he still believed Marcia the innocent and charming young woman he had taken her to be? Hadn't he even bothered to investigate the charges she, Jean, had made against Marcia in their last stormy session?

But then she refused to think any more about it. 'I despise him!' she told herself grimly, and hoped fervently that she would never see him again.

The race with time continued. Jean had never seen a group so intent upon anything as were these young women. There was not much show of industry, only the staccato soug of typewriters and the regular movement of hands; but the amount of work they did was astounding.

Back in her room at the end of the day, Jean was almost overcome with weariness. More of spirit than of body. But Mollie's arrival shortly after six cheered her. Mollie was almost her old self, talking incessantly, and occasionally laughing at her own exuberance.

Jean watched her get out of one frock and into another and thought she saw the evidence of another of Mollie's 'weighty dates". But she was due for a shock.

'Well honey," said Mollie presently, 'I've found where the brute lives and very soon he'll be hearing the saddest little story of his career."

'You mean . . ." Her husband, of course. Then: "I'm glad, Mollie. But try to be fair to him. Why don't you suggest a new start? However you felt about marriage before, there's a good reason for it now. And you might . . ." she thought of what Lionel had said to her that morning, "and you might make a go of it."

Mollie smiled, tolerantly. 'I won't laugh at you, darling. You mean well. But I'm like Shakespeare: I never repeat. One attempt was enough. Just between us, too much! Is that clock right?"

Jean turned and looked at the clock. It was six-thirty. She jumped to her feet and caught up her hat and coat. Mollie was just about to go out the door. Now she stopped and stared at Jean curiously.

"What's the excitement? You got a date, too?"

"Yes," Jean smiled; "he's waiting outside in his car. Why not let us take you to where you're going?"

Mollie snapped off the light, and locked the door.

"Every little lift appreciated," she replied. "Think your boy friend won't mind?"

'Of course not." The color rose in Jean's cheeks. "Only he isn't my boy friend," she added. "He's one of my two bosses, and an awfully nice young man."

They walked down the stairs arm in arm and out to the sidewalk.

A machine was standing by the curb. Jean recognized Lionel just getting out on the opposite side. He came around the machine and bowed, a little stiffly, Jean thought.

She held out a hand to him, smiling. "I want you to know my roommate, Lionel, Miss Wilder."

Lionel said quietly: "I . . . I've had the pleasure before, I believe."

Jean turned quickly and saw Mollie smiling sardonically. 'Oh," she said, surprised, "I didn't realize you two knew each other."

Mollie's smile increased. "We don't" she said slowly; 'not very well, that is. This Jean, is my husband."

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO.

Of the three, only Mollie appeared to be at ease. She seemed, in fact, to enjoy the situation.

Not so, Lionel. He stood first on one foot, then on the other, his eyes shifting nervously, the corners of his mouth twitching as if undecided whether to turn up or down.

Jean gazed from Mollie to Lionel, from Lionel to Mollie, in a stupor. Over and over her brain said: "Lionel is Mollie's husband. Mollie is Lionel's wife." And still she was not convinced. It was too absurd.

It was Mollie's light, uncertain laughter that brought them to life. "Well," said Mollie, "we're a nice little party. Did anybody bring refreshments?"

Jean murmured, "Please, Mollie. Let's go somewhere. Out of the street."

"That's an idea," Mollie agreed. "Up in our room o.k., Lionel?"

Lionel said uneasily. 'Perhaps you too had rather be alone."

Mollie smiled sweetly. "Don't be a wet blanket. We've both set the evening aside for your exclusive entertainment."

But when they were walking up the stairs, Jean suddenly stopped, and leaned against the railing. "There's no sense in my going along," she told Mollie quietly. "I need a walk anyway."

Mollie grinned. "Well, look here, I don't want to monopolize this man. You had a date with him and I didn't. If . . ." But then she had put an arm about Jean and exclaimed. 'Don't be so terribly serious about it, honey. I'm just kidding."

Jean understood. Mollie was pretending an ease she didn't feel. Jean said 'I much prefer your kidding to your bitterness. Try to realize that Lionel is entitled to fair play, Mollie. I was going out with him to-night to try to help him out of a peck of trouble. It's another case of divided responsibility, too."

Lionel stood on the step below her and as she passed him, she saw the gratitude in his sober eyes.

'What an infant he is," she thought as she walked away from the house. 'Married to Mollie, flirting with Miss Trelling, proposing marriage to me. He needs a conservator for his emotions'"

She glanced back and saw that the light had been snapped on in their room. The conference had convened.

'hat a world! Yesterday morning this time I had two problems on my heart besides my own, Lionel's and Mollie's. That they could have been one and the same problem would never have occurred to me. There, surely, is a truth stranger than fiction. Mollie and Lionel, wife and husband. And I had even thought once that I might be in love with Lionel. How strange that in a city as large as New York, I could have been an unsuspecting shuttle between these two, ultimately bringing them together. I do not know what came of their talk here last night. I went uptown and roamed the streets until after midnight to give them plenty of time. Mollie was asleep when I came in and I did not disturb her. She must have gone out very early this morning, for when I woke at seven I found a note pinned to the counterpane saying that she and Lionel wanted me to come to lunch with them at the store. I should like to run out and see Ellen this afternoon, but I may not have time. I must have gazed into thousands of shop windows last night. They are beautiful. So Christmassy.

Another note from Sandy was waiting for her at the factory. With lowered brows, Jean read:

"My Dear Jean:

'If possible, please come to the office some time to-morrow. Strictly business.

'Sandy."

She questioned the honesty of his 'strictly business."

She would go, of course, though he promised herself that she would discourage any attempt to return to a discussion of their last meeting. It was possible, of course that he wanted to tell her that he had found Marcia out. But what possible difference, Jean asked herself, could it mean to her now? Sandy, she declared, was as much out of her life as was Marcia. She would go to his office to-morrow because she worked for him and he had sent for her. She would be performing a duty, and not a particularly pleasant duty at that.

Arriving at the Simmons' Department store almost on the dot of twelve, Jean went directly to the restaurant and selected a table against a wall. Almost immediately she heard Mollie's voice behind her.

Hello, darlin'. Where's the villain?" Mollie plopped down in the chair opposite Jean and reached up a menu.

"Lionel?' Jean asked. "I haven't seen him.

'The Big Swede told me he'd be here before noon. Sorry I didn't see you before I got out this morning. Knew you'd want to know what happened last night."

'Yes, of course." Jean detected the note of suppressed excitement in Mollie's voice. "Did you patch things up?"

Mollie's smile suggested the superiority expressed in a mother's attitude to her child. "My dear! You didn't really think we would agree to make a bad mistake worse? Oh, no; he understands as well as I that we could never live together again. If you could say that we ever did. We simply discussed the practical problem of providing against the inevitable."

'That," said Jean, 'doesn't explain much to me."

Mollie went into greater detail. Lionel had recognized his obligation and was prepared to do his part.

'You didn't need a conference to learn that." Jean told her. If I had known Lionel was your husband, I would have told you weeks ago that you would find him ready to shoulder most of the burden."

"Oh!" from Mollie, a strange light in her eyes. "You know Lionel pretty well, Jean?"

Jean's hurt silence was her rebuke.

Mollie laughed quickly and reached across the table to squeeze Jean's hand affectionately. "You know I didn't mean that, honey. And I wouldn't care if you knew him so well, you could blackmail him. If we ever knew romance, we've forgotten it now and . . ." She was looking over Jean's shoulder when Lionel's radiant countenance loomed up before her. 'Speak of the devil, you know . . .'

Lionel dropped into his chair with a merry 'Heigh-ho, gals," and produced a package of cigarets.

He was a new Lionel. Rather he was the old Lionel of days before his father and mother arrived unexpectedly to complicate his complacent life. Jean felt the change at once.

'Has Mollie told you the news?" he asked, smiling at Jean.

'No news." Jean assured him. 'She told me something I could have told her before last night. Is there something really worth hearing?"

There was. Mollie had agreed to perform in public the social responsibilities of Lionel's wife. Until his parents departed for Missouri again, at least.

Jean was delighted. Her eyes, turned to Mollie, said much.

Mollie shrugged her shoulders indifferently. "Oh, I gave him a break honey. I had to after that lecture you gave us on the stairs. I'm going to play the part as long as Lionel keeps his head. That is, while his mother and father are here. When they leave, he agrees to a divorce."

Lionel suddenly asked: 'Did you manage it about this afternoon, Mollie?"

Mollie nodded, casually. "You brought the car? You'll have to run me by the room for a few minutes."

Jean looked from one to the other curiously. "What's the mystery?" she asked.

Lionel explained, grinning happily. 'Mollie's to be introduced to the family at one thirty, just in time for the four of us to attend a matinee at the Civic Repertory. Mother's choice, by the way. Dad would prefer a good hot musical comedy."

Jean still marveled at Lionel's exuberance. He was as happy as a boy with a new bicycle.

She went with them in the car to their room, intending to go on immediately for a little visit with Ellen. But barely had she sent Mollie hurrying into the hall, dressed in the best their combined wardrobes had to offer, when a boy arrived with a special delivery letter.

It bore a Kelsey postmark, and Jean, tearing the envelope open with nervous fingers, knew that it was from Phillip. A dozen pertinent questions piled one upon the other in her anxious brain.

And then, a warm, pleasnt glow passed over her as she read, photographically, the first paragraph:

'Jean Darling!

'I love you. Can anything else matter? Short of the end of the world, nothing can prevent my perching on your doorsteps Christmas morning. And in addition to a heart pounding with love of you, I will bring such of the essential red-tape of the great event as can be acquired without your presence and signature."

And suddenly, with most of the letter unread, Jean was crying softly and feeling tremendously grateful.

LADIES' GUILD BANQUET.

Ladies of Knox Church, Lakefield, Hold Most Enjoyable Evening.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 12. (Examiner Correspondence).—The Ladies' Guild of Knox Church closed their contest between the east and west side groups last week. The contest, which was begun early in 1930 was to see which side could make the most money and in the final analysis it was found that while both had done well that the east side had excelled and according to original agreement the winners were guests at a banquet provided by the losers. The banquet was held on Friday evening last at 6.30 in the school room of the church with about fifty persons present, including a number of the gentlemen.

The tables were artistic with a color scheme of white and gold with candles and streamers and the viands were superlatively good as the west side ladies felt their culinary reputation was at stake.

Rev. T. M. Wesley was in the chair and a toast list was run off with short speeches from the chairman, Mrs. W. J. Charlton, president of the Guild, Dr. G. E. Renwick and Messrs. J. A. Porter and T. Braden.

The losers were unanimously voted "good sports" by the winners and the banquet goes down in the annals of the Guild as one of the bright spots in its history.

ACTION PROMISED ON LOCAL BRIDGE

Favor Construction of New High Level Bridge Over Otonabee at Lock St.

Further promises for immediate action in the construction of a new high level bridge over the Otonabee river at Lock street have been made in a letter received to-day by the Chamber of Commerce from R. M. Smith, C.E., Deputy Minister of the Department of Railways and Canals. The letter reads as follows:

Dear Sir,—Your letter of December 6 addressed to Honorable Mr. Henry, with reference to a bridge over the Otonabee river on what will be Highway No. 7 has been forwarded to this office for consideration.

The bridge mentioned comes on the boundary line between the city and the county, while the central span part is the property of the Department of Railways and Canals.

And action so far as replacement of this bridge is concerned would be a matter of joint agreement with all concerned and we are not at the present time sufficiently informed as to the possibilities of raising the structure to the high level proposed. In speaking to the bridge engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals this morning he advised me it would require to be about 25 feet above the water.

In any case the matter is having our consideration and no doubt some action will likely be taken next year.

Yours very truly,
R. M. Smith.

A study of the plan of the city will reveal the strange division of city from county. This presents an unforeseen difficulty, especially as the above Department has control of the river bed. However, the officials are confident that all irregularities may be overcome, and the citizens are promised every attention and consideration.

NORHAM CHURCH ANNIVERSARY WEEK BROUGHT TO CONCLUSION

Interesting Services Carried on During Diamond Jubilee of United Church.

SEVERAL SPEAKERS

NORHAM, Dec. 12 (Examiner Correspondence). — The concluding service of the Diamond Jubilee of Norham United Church was held on Sunday evening, December 7. The services had commenced on Sunday, November 30 and were followed on Monday night with a fowl supper and on Tuesday night with a Young People's Rally and supper.

On Sunday, December 7 Mr. Clare told some of the early history of the church, the first of which was a frame building built on the site of the present church. This was the first church built in this locality, as Norham was one of the first settlements of pioneer days and was settled by U. E. Loyalists.

Some of the names of the early settlers were Stone, Blair, Vanblaricom, Cryderman, Townsend and Curtis, and their descendants are still residents of the vicinity.

Bishop Richardson of the Methodist Episcopal Church laid the corner stone of the church and Rev. Mr. Sills was the pastor.

On that occasion a mammoth picnic was held in Mr. Curtis's woods where a whole ox was roasted and a six foot birthday cake was made.

The ministers who have been the pastor of the Norham Church and the date as far as can be ascertained is as follows:—

Rev. Mr. Finn was pastor previous to Mr. Sills who was the minister at the building of the church, about 1865-68; Rev. Mr. Sills 1868-1871; Rev. Mr. Meyers 1871-1873; Rev. Mr. Amos Campbell 1873-1876; Rev. Mr. R. B. Denike 1876-1879; Rev. Mr. Richards and Rev. J. J. Rae 1879-1882; Rev. A. Martin 1882-1885; Rev. J. A. McCamus 1885-1888; Rev. R. J. Fallis 1888-1890; Rev. M. E. Wilson 1890-1893; Rev. G. W. Marvin 1893-1896; Rev. W. H. Peake 1896-1899; Rev. John R. Peake 1899-1901; Rev. W. S. Smart, supply at Mr. Peake's death; Rev. J. W. Shier 1902-1905; Rev. W. A. Bunner 1905-1906; Rev. S. Cruikshanks 1906-1908; Rev. J. E. Robison 1908-1910; Rev. H. B. Rowe 1910-1913; Rev. H. C. Garbutt 1913-1917; Rev. E. F. Swayne 1917-1920; Rev. F. J. Horwood 1920-1922; Rev. E. W. Cafley 1922-1924; Rev. J. F. Everson 1924-1927; Rev. D. R. Clare 1927.

The music for the service was provided by a male choir of twenty voices with Douglas Knight at the organ.

Rev. D. R. Clare, B.A., B.D., preached the Jubilee sermon taking his text from John 1. 46: "Can any good thing come out of Nazareth," and Rev. 21:10-12 "He showed me that great city, the Holy Jerusalem and it had 12 gates—on the east 3 gates on the north, 3 gates on the south, 3 gates and on the west 3 gates.

Mr. Clare's subject was "God uses the small and contemptable things for the great things of life.

He told the conditions of Nazareth in Jesus' time. A military camp with all the unsavory conditions surrounding such until the question was asked, "Can any good things come out of Nazareth?" But the man Jesus came out of Nazareth.

There are many modern Nazareths in the social, political, religious and home life of this time but many good people and good things can come from these conditions."

His second text illustrates the new Jerusalem, with its 12 gates open to all the nations of the world and using the best each one brings for the building of the city.

"From the east—wisdam, reverence and religion; from the south—music, passion and submission; from the west—hope, opportunity and promise; and from the north—law, power and art. So God re-created from the small contributions of the people—something better and greater than before.

"So in the church of to-day, God can use the contributions of the rural church for the building of His cause."

The pastor, here, drew attention to the many church workers in the city, who had come from rural churches.

In closing attention was brought to the fact that God can use the people of the Norham church in his building of the greater things of life.

Havelock Nominations Will Be Held Monday

HAVELOCK, Dec. 12 (Examiner Correspondence) — Nominations for village of Havelock and township of Belmont and Methuen will be held on Monday, December 29th, for Reeves, councillors, members of the School Board and Hydro Commission. Elections if any, will be held on Monday, January 5th.

A Knotty Problem Solved.

The harrassed business man looking for a new idea in Christmas presents will surely find something novel in the suggestion of an extension telephone enclosed in a pretty box, the instrument to be connected at the convenience of the recipient. This is the new suggestion offered by the Bell Telephone Company, and it certainly appears to merit investigation.

Delightful after the game —

PLAYERS find that after badminton, hockey, curling, bowling and other athletic sports, Ovaltine helps them to relax, quickly re-builds their depleted strength and enables them to obtain the utmost benefit from their exercise.

Prepared by an exclusive process, from fresh eggs, creamy milk and ripe barley malt, one cup of Ovaltine contains the equivalent food value of three eggs or twelve cups of beef tea.

Spectators also find that a cup of Ovaltine at home after the game works wonders in restoring spent nervous energy. Everybody enjoys the natural delicious flavour of Ovaltine.

LAPOINTE SUGGESTS COMMISSION HANDLE CANADIAN-U.S. DISPUTES

Claims Inter-relations Are Probably Our Most Important Business.

AT INSURANCE MEET.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12. (CP)—The suggestion that a commission be appointed to which all matters of dispute or conflict between Canada and the United States might be referred was contained in an address delivered to-day by Hon. Ernest LaPointe former Canadian Minister of Justice, before the annual convention of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents.

Mr. Lapointe offered the suggestion after a reference to the work of the International Joint Commission in connection with differences between the two countries relating to boundary waters and other questions arising along the boundary.

"This body has functioned with conspicuous success. Could not a similar commission be agreed upon, to which all causes of conflict, all kinds of disputes might be referred?" he asked.

Best of Relations

"Canada and the United States, I am happy to say, have relations based on good feeling, mutual respect and friendly understanding," Mr. Lapointe said.

"We, Canadians, feel that our opportunity for service as a people is in the maintenance and development of a national individuality. We have a personality of our own, based on Canadian consciousness and a Canadian spirit; we are building a self respecting nation, but we intend to build it on terms of everlasting good will with our neighbor. Speaking last year, in this city, at a dinner of the Pilgrims Society, I made the remark that the United States and Canada have shown to the world the possibility of contiguous frontiers and continuous friendship:

"Our interrelations are probably our most important business, and we must see to it that nothing, at any time, may affect them adversely."

B. C. Residents Demand Probe Into Flyer's Death

FLIER TO SEEK BURKE'S GRAVE AT WOLF LAKE

Inquest Be Held if Missing Airman's Body is Found.

COMPANIONS RECOVERING.

Atlin, B.C. Residents Demand Probe Into Delay of Starting Search.

WHITE HORSE, Yukon, Dec. 12. (CP)—The rescuer of the two companions of Capt. E. J. A. Burke from foothills of the far-northwest, Everett L. Wasson, 24-year-old pilot, to-day prepared for the grave mission of flying into the interior to bring the body of Burke back to civilization. Wednesday he brought Emil Kading and Bob Marten from the snowy region where they had wandered for seven weeks—and where Burke died from exposure.

Near Wolf Lake is the grave of Capt. Burke, who succumbed on Nov. 20 to cold and lack of food, while the trio of fliers were pushing through deep snow 40 miles from where their plane was forced down on Oct. 11. Wasson is not sure he can find it, but he is going to try. An inquest will be held if the body is recovered.

Meagre Fare for 23 Days

Kading and Marten, near exhaustion when the Yukon-Treadwell Exploration Company pilot discovered them in their camp, were gaining strength here after their long ordeal. They had existed for 23 days on four squirrels and one duck, Kading said. "That duck made us feel like a million dollars" he reminisced yesterday.

While plans to carry Burke's remains out of the northland are underway, citizens of Atlin, B.C., from where Mrs. Burke anxiously watched the two-months' search for her husband develop, are demanding an investigation into alleged delay in starting the air search. Early in November, Mrs. Burke complained that aerial officials were not taking an interest in the search.

H. A. McAllister, Manager of Airland Manufacturing Company which employed Burke, contended yesterday that every effort was made to send search planes into the north.

FRIGIDAIRE AS CHRISTMAS GIFT

New Design This Season Combines Usefulness and Beauty.

The spirit of Christmas has descended upon the household Frigidaire transforming it from a smart and useful domestic appliance to a Christmas gift that carries with it all the traditions of the season, all the sentiment of the day, according to the local Frigidaire representatives.

"A sterling silver inscription medal, of special design, will be affixed to the porcelain front of every cabinet sold as a Christmas present this year. This step was made to meet the public demand for a Frigidaire that would be distinctive as a Christmas gift," they said.

"Frigidaire, with this Medal of Honor, thus becomes more than just an electric refrigerator. It becomes an ideal Christmas present, combining usefulness and beauty with a tangible bit of sentiment that marks it for all times as something apart from the other items of kitchen equipment." The local representatives explained that this special Christmas Frigidaire contains all the major advantages that have combined to keep this product always in the front rank of electric refrigerators. The famous cold control, all porcelain-on-steel cabinets inside and out, large, silent compressor, and other features are just as much a part of the Frigidaires bearing the Medal of Honor as they are on the others now giving permanent satisfaction in homes all over the world.

Farmers Are Plowing In Ops Township

LINDSAY, Dec. 12 (Examiner Correspondence)—The spectacle of farmers engaged in plowing in mid-December was witnessed to-day in South Ops. On the farm of B. McGeough, about two miles south of Lindsay two teams were engaged in plowing, and the soil responded to the plows as satisfactorily as would be the case in early fall. On several other farms in the district farmers were able to plow sections which had been left unfinished owing to the hardened condition of the soil.

THE TALKING PICTURE MACHINE SUBJECT OF ADDRESS TO KINSMEN

Officers Are Nominated in Local Service Club For Ensuing Year.

100 PER CENT ATTENDANCE.

Members of the Peterborough Kinsmen Club were last evening privileged to hear a highly interesting and instructive address concerning one of the latest scientific wonders, "The Talking Picture Machine." The guest speaker, R. Lundy, wire chief for the Bell Telephone Company, Peterborough district, speaking with an apparent thorough knowledge of a somewhat intricate and technical subject, gave a wonderful exposition, and succeeded with the aid of diagrams prepared by Dick Lush, to elucidate some of the mysteries which lurk behind the minds of all laymen.

The meeting, held in the drawing-room of the Empress Hotel, under the chairmanship of Dr. Herbert Young, followed dinner. There was a 100 per cent. attendance of members, and numerous guests, including many of the Bell Telephone Company's technologists of the local staff.

Newt Staples, chairman of the Sunshine Committee, in presenting his report, explained that a play is to be presented by the Kinsmen at an early date. Arrangements are now well in hand, and the proceeds will be devoted to service work in and around the city. The tentative date suggested was in the middle of February.

Emmet Sheehy, treasurer, presented a report which showed a satisfactory state of the club's finances, while Rod Davies, secretary, in submitting his report of the Nominating Committee, drew the attention of the members to the fact that the elections will be held at the next regular meeting of the club.

The provisional list of candidates nominated for office for the year 1931 is as follows: President Dr. Ralph Honey, Alexander Elliott, Wilson Craw, Edward Riley, Herbert Wilson, Vice-president, Wilson Craw, Herbert Mason, Dr. S. Y. Walsh, Dr. Herbert Young. Secretary, Rod Davies, Henry Toole, Jack Fanning, Murray Smye. Treasurer, Emmett Sheehy, Murray Smye, Alexander Sollitt. Registrar, Alexander Sollitt, Fred Hooper, Wilson Craw. Directors, Newton Staples, Dr. R. Honey, Dr. Herbert Young, Dr. M. Crough, Alexander Donnelly, Edward Riley, Pat Whyte, Jack Fanning, and Cliff Carruthers.

The speaker was introduced by one of his colleagues in the person of Herbert Wilson, who stated that although not actually within the province of the Bell Telephone Company's local staff, nevertheless the theoretical study of the talking picture machines was being undertaken to an elaborate extent by the employees of the company.

Mr. Lundy delved very extensively into the three systems of making talking pictures in general use today, namely, the variable density method, the variable area method, and the disc recording method. By the latter method, sound reproduction is produced very much on the same principle as the electric victrola machine, the utmost care being taken of course, to ensure that the record synchronizes with the film. Such a feat is made possible by having the projection and recording apparatus geared in unison.

The other two systems much more involved in their complexities, were dealt with in a very able manner, and proved of extreme interest to the large audience.

A vote of thanks was tendered to the speaker on the motion of Jack Fanning.

Lindsay Presbytery Hears Dr. Armstrong

LINDSAY, Dec. 12 (Examiner Correspondence)—Dr. Armstrong, General Secretary of Foreign Missions, of the United Church, made a strong appeal before the Lindsay Presbytery yesterday for financial support to meet the crisis before the church in its missionary enterprises.

The General Secretary pointed out that the central area of the Dominion must be more liberal than ever owing to the depression existing in the West. While Ontario was suffering owing to business stagnation, Dr. Armstrong pointed out that conditions here were luxurious compared to the West and the world at large.

RADIO INSPECTOR MAKING PROGRESS

Great Deal of Interference Has Been Eliminated in Peterborough.

Scattered complaints may still be heard from local radio 'fans,' concerning interference of radio reception in certain parts of the city. It will be recalled that several radio dealers and owners recently requested the Department of Marine and Fisheries (Radio Interference Branch Toronto district), to engage the services of a radio inspector for Peterborough district, to replace a former inspector, who gave very satisfactory service, but who terminated his engagement as a result of moving from Peterborough.

Presumably as a result of this request, an inspector has been paying periodical visits to this city, during the past few weeks and a great deal of annoyance has been eliminated.

The Examiner in conversation with one of the local radio dealers, a party to the complaint which was sent to Toronto, states that he is unaware as to the Department's intentions concerning the employment of a radio inspector for this district, but he is of the opinion that there is still considerable work to be accomplished to rid the city of the radio interference nuisance.

VICTORIA MAY AID WHEAT GROWERS

Bill Introduced Authorizing Gov't to Acquire Crop and Fix Price.

MAJOR AUSTRALIAN TOPIC.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Dec. 12. (C. P. Cable via Reuters).—State aid to the wheat growers of the State of Victoria was proposed in the Legislative Assembly to-day. The Minister of Agriculture gave notice of introduction of a bill to enable the state to acquire the current wheat crop of Victoria, and to authorize the government to fix a price for local consumption which would permit the farmers to obtain a higher rate than the world price.

Government aid for Australian wheat growers is a major topic at the moment. The Federal Government proposes to guarantee an initial payment of 60 cents a bushel while the Labor Party caucus wants authorization of an initial payment of 72 cents a bushel. This payment will not be agreed to by the Commonwealth Bank, it is expected, the bank having formerly approved the payment of only 48 cents a bushel.

Coal production in Germany is increasing.

IRVINE URGES TRADING AGENCY

Would Use Pool's Credit to Conduct Mass Purchasing.

PRAISED BY MISS MacPHAIL.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 12 (C.P.)—A great "trading agency" through which the Canadian farmer would sell all his products and purchase all his requirements, was urged last night by William Irvine, M.P. for Wetaskiwin, Alta., in an address at the annual banquet of United Farmers of Ontario. The full economic power was to be found in the buying as well as selling, and it was for the preservation of this power, he pleaded. This should be preserved, he said, for the purpose of raising the agricultural status in Canada to a level of that of any other class in the community.

Mass Purchasing

As a means of utilizing this power they would form this "trading agency," which would be composed of the various agricultural pools in operation throughout the country. Through the massed purchasing they would be able to secure their requirements at a much lower price and he thought Canadian manufacturers would be able to underbid their foreign competitors, eliminating much of the foreign trade. Then they would also be able to secure standard rates for their products.

Mr. Irvine suggested that the attitude of the farmer should be one of hopefulness; true to the co-operative principal — economically, politically and socially. The co-operative attitude should be taken especially in the political matters. The Government, while not paying tribute to it, had been faced by the greatest problems that had ever confronted any such body in Canada, and the farmers should lend all their co-operation.

While perhaps not practical just at the present time, Mr. Irvine suggested, while briefly surveying the wheat situation, that a universal pool was the only means by which the grain prices could be regulated. He was not criticizing the action of the Canadian pool, he said, for they had done great work and must continue to do so.

Miss Agnes MacPhail, M.P. (South-east Grey) in thanking Mr. Irvine on behalf of the organization, paid tribute to him as a thinker and a valuable representative in the House of Commons.

Proves No Fool.

"Bill Irvine is one of those people who is so far beyond most people and particularly the ordinary politician that he was thought a fool by the politicians," Miss MacPhail said. "He more than any other member of the United Farmers of Alberta has had to bear the brunt of criticism. Now that a period of severe depression has come and everyone is hunting for solution to the great problems which we face it is being recognized that this man is not a fool, but the men who thought he was are the fools."

Miss MacPhail in commenting on the western members' suggestion, said currency was not functioning properly unless it facilitated its exchange of good between producer and consumer, a factor upon which the great exchange would be founded.

Did you ever go "Crazy That Way?" Come and see it at the Midnite Show (all proceeds for relief) at the Capitol Theatre, next Thursday night, December 18th.

KEENE Y.P.S. AT BAILIEBORO

Interesting Program is Presented in United Church, Bailieboro.

FRASERVILLE Y. P. PRESENT.

BAILIEBORO, Dec. 12 (Examiner Correspondence)—The young people with their pastor, Rev. J. V. McNeely of Keene United Church motored to the village on Tuesday evening and put on a very interesting program in the United Church.

The young people from Fraserville were present and with the local young people's Society enjoyed one of the finest missionary programs that has ever been staged in the church.

Mr. Fletcher of Keene opened the program by conducting a real hearty sing-song, after which Fred Barnard, president of the local Y.P.S. welcomed the visitors to Bailieboro.

The missionary convenor of the Keene Y.P.S. then took charge of the meeting conducting the devotional service in a very capable manner. The Keene United Church orchestra was present and beside leading the music for the hymns, rendered several selections which were immensely enjoyed. A solo by one of the members and a mixed quartette also added greatly to the program.

Rev. Mr. McNeely who is convenor of the missionary work in the Peterborough Presbytery Young People's Union, then spoke on the chance the young people have to do their bit in the mission fields. The speaker earnestly pleaded with the young people to do their part in helping sustain the missionaries in their respective fields of labor.

The topic of the evening was taken by Miss Mable McIntyre who spoke on Capital and Labor in Japan.

At the conclusion of the program the young people were entertained at a supper and social hour in the church hall, where the local young folks had the repast laid out.

The usual vote of thanksgiving as tendered by Miss Jean McIntyre of Keene and seconded by Mr. Fletcher. The missionary convenor of the local Society, Mrs. N. Thompson, moved a vote of thanks to the Keene Y.P. for coming such a long distance to bring such a worth while message to the young people of Bailieboro. Archie Deyell seconded the motion and the young people as a whole voted it one of the most enjoyable yet held.

ROADS VERY SLIPPERY.

Travelling Bad at Campbellford Through Ice on Roads and Sidewalks.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 12.—(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)—With a light rain falling and freezing as it reached the ground, conditions under foot are bad in Campford these days. Many a good citizen realized his foundation was not so firm as he thought on Thursday morning when he started out for his morning toil.

One man, Myles Lynch of Percy, experienced difficulty the same day trying to draw a load of feed from the mill to his farm. He had one of his horses down, and it took time and many hands to get the animal on his feet. This was only done after sacks had been placed for a footing. If this weather keeps up we predict that skates will be the vogue.

Did you ever go "Crazy That Way?" Come and see it at the Midnite Show (all proceeds for relief) at the Capitol Theatre, next Thursday night, December 18th.

HASTINGS WOMAN BREAKS HER LEG

Mrs. Howard Fife Slips on Pavement While Doing Her Christmas Shopping.

Mrs. Fife had come from Hastings to do some shopping, accompanied by her husband, his sister-in-law, and two young children. Mr. Fife was waiting in his car which was parked in the market place, for his wife who was walking past the Dominion Bank when the accident occurred. A messenger brought Mr. Fife the news, and he hastened to take the lady to the clinic on Charlotte street. An X-ray revealed a complete break in the leg, and the necessity of a plaster cast.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

There is a subject that we do not discuss very much in the column and that is about make-up.

• • • • • • •

I wonder if it would be out of place to discuss it here? Would you readers mind? In beginning, let me state that a visit to the beauty parlor is only half the secret of being really beautiful.

• • • • • • •

Cosmetics, whether applied at home or in a place given to such a profession are, perhaps, only three-quarters successful. Yet it seems the part they cannot do is really the most important of all.

• • • • • • •

Would you agree with me when I say that it is the inner application of other sorts of "cosmetics" that is required for the genuine beauty for which many women in the home long?

• • • • • • •

Eyes are an important factor in the beauty so much coveted. The kind of make-up that many eyes need, is not the plucking of the eye brows and curling of the lashes, but the sparkle that comes from pleasant thoughts.

• • • • • • •

And besides pleasant thoughts, a gentle outlook on life and above all, an interested expression are essential.

• • • • • • •

Those who would make the most of this feature must be as rigorous in their attempt to reveal only such beautiful expressions as they are in seeing that the other details of appearance are well looked after.

• • • • • • •

Perhaps some of you have had what is known as a "facial." The object of a facial massage is largely to relax the muscles of the face and neck.

• • • • • • •

These muscles have grown tense from fatigue or anxiety, or perhaps both. To court and to maintain a sense of inner relaxation whenever possible is to aid in the processes of a masseuse without the expense of one

• • • • • • •

For the sake of one's beauty there are some damaging thoughts in which one cannot afford to indulge and beautifying ones that will actually improve the muscular condition of the face and its tissues.

• • • • • • •

So, if you cannot afford a facial, of the usual sort, why not try this method and I am sure you will be pleased at the results.

• • • • • • •

Close your eyes and get the back into a restful position, if circumstances permit, and actually let go of the things that are worrisome

• • • • • • •

Let your mind be flooded with the most restful thoughts you can command, a mental picture perhaps of some favorite country spot where trees overhand the brook and the water is flowing calmly with pretty reflections in the water.

• • • • • • •

There is a sense of repose and assurance about the well groomed woman that is quite apart from the application of powders and othe. cosmetics.

• • • • • • •

To cultivate this sense of repose is, in itself gaining an attribute to beauty, within the power and purse of every woman in the home, or even out of it.

• • • • • • •

Many woman not really beautiful, when their features are studied, give the impression of beauty through the cultivation of a well poised presence.

• • • • • • •

To practice the use of inner cosmetics is to add to one's beauty a character as well as of face.

Choirs Exchange For Last Sunday Services

HAVELOCK, Dec. 12 (Examiner Correspondence) — On Sunday last, the pastors and choirs of Havelock and Stirling United Churches exchanged for the evening service. Large numbers greeted the visitor here, and a very edifying and beneficial service was much appreciated. An excellent musical program was given by the choir under the able direction of Gerald Clute. Two solos, two anthems and a quintette were among the musical numbers. The solos by Miss Bessie Conley, a soprano of unusual range, and marked ability were particularly beautiful. It was also the baritone solos by Gerald Clute, who possesses a rare baritone voice, of unusual purity. The quintette and anthems were also greatly enjoyed. The sermon by Rev. Mr. Rowland was very fine.

BOSTON, Dec. 12. — Frank W. Clark, 54, an auctioneer, was found murdered in his top floor room at a Roxbury lodging house early today. His head was battered in by a hatchet and an iron bar, which lay near his body. Police believed the murder resulted from an argument.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D

INFECTED FOOD

You do not hear so much about ptomaine poisoning these days, because it has now been learned that what has long been called ptomaine poisoning—due to decomposed proteins, —meats, eggs and grains—is really due to tiny organisms growing in foodstuffs under widely different conditions. In other words just as you can have an infection in different tissues of the body so there can be infection in the various foodstuffs you eat. Thus there is not only the organisms themselves to contend with, but the material these organisms manufacture.

During an attack of food poisoning some of the suspected food was found to contain a tremendous amount of small yellow orgamisma. In order to test it, a broth was made using these suspected organisms and a reasearch worker swallowed some of the broth. He was stricken with the same nausea, diarrhoea, and prostration that was observed in the original outbreak.

Dr E. O. Jordon, University of Chicago, has been able to show that various strains of these organisms are capable of producing in broth a substance which, when taken by the mouth, produces nausea, vomiting, diarrhoea, and other intestinal disturbances.

Now how are you to know when you are eating food thay may contain these organisms and cause this intestinal distress?

As a matter of fact you can't always tell. Food that is stale, food that is kept on ice, remains off ice for a considerable time, is put on ice, and then off again, may also be a source of danger. Overripe food is always suspicious.

However it has been shown that the poisonous substances, manufactured by these organisms, is destroyed by boiling, and their power is destroyed or greatly weakened by being heated to a temperature of 140 to 150 degrees Fahrenheit, or about the temperature that is used to make milk safe for babies to drink.

It would seem therefore that if you are a raw food enthusiast it would be well to watch this point carefully as some raw foods that may be causing trouble, and this troughie thought to be due to there raw or rough state may in fact be infected by organisms.

However if in doubt about any food, remember that heating or cooking it, usually makes it safe to use.

A BEDTIME STORY

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY AND LITTLE CHUCKIE.

Once upon a time there was a little rabbit girl named Chuckie. She was one of Uncle Wiggily's bunnies and lived with him, Baby Bunty, Nurse Jane and the others in the hollow stump bungalow. Chuckie wasn't really this little bunny girl's name. She had been called Lala, which is a very pretty name if you say it right. But all Lala's brothers and sisters called her "Chuckie."

It came about in this way. When Lala was able to sit up in her high chair, Baby Bunty, the little orphan rabbit, and many of Lala's brothers and sisters would give her toys with which to play.

"Here is a lovely brown cone from the pine tree, Lala!" Baby Bunty would say. "It isn't an ice cream cone, my dear, so don't try to eat it; will you, Lala?"

"Da!" Lala would say, and that might mean anything according to what day of the week it was. But, anyhow, Lala would take that nice, brown pine tree cone which Baby Bunty had given her, and she would throw it hard on the floor, at the same time saying! "Dare!" I suppose she meant "There! See what I can do!"

"Oh!" cried Baby Bunty in surprise the first time Lala threw the pine cone on the floor and said "Dare!" And Buster, a little boy rabbit, cried:

"Oh, Ma! You ought to see! Lala chucked the cone on the floor!"

Of course "chuck" isn't so nice a word as some others Buster might have said, but I must tell the truth about him no matter what happens.

The next day Custer, who was Buster's brother, gave Lala a red maple leaf to play with in her high chair. Down on the floor Lala threw the leaf.

"Dare!" cried the funny little throwing rabbit and Custer, seeing her,

Lala threw the pine cone on the floor

shouted: "Oh, Ma! Lala chucked the leaf down!"

And then Lala began throwing down all the toys on the tray of her high chair, until Buster and Custer both shouted:

"Oh, she's chucking everything!"

So it had come about, partly because of Uncle Wiggily himself, that Lala's name was changed to "Chuckie," because she "chucked," or threw, everything from her high chair down on the floor.

At first it wasn't so bad, for she only had little things to play with and throwing them down didn't do much harm, except that her mother or Nurse Jane had to pick up all of Chuckie's things. But, after a while, when she grew older, and began to reach over on the table and get hold of the milk pitcher or sugar bowl, and "chuck" them down on the floor, well, that was just too bad!

"Something must be done about Chuckie!" said Mrs. Longears to her husband one night after the little rabbit was in bed.

"What do you mean?" asked Mr. Longears.

"I mean about her bad habit of throwing things on the floor," said Mrs. Longears. "She is getting too big for that now."

"I think I know a way to cure her," said Uncle Wiggily with a smile that made his pink nose all wrinkled and twinkled. "Just watch!"

The next day Uncle Wiggily came in from having hopped over the fields and through the woods, and he saw Chuckie sitting in her high chair. Mr. Longears gave her a snowball he had just made.

"Ice!" said Chuckie, meaning it was "nice," but she was nearer right than she knew when she called a snowball "ice." She looked at it a moment and then, suddenly, she threw it on the floor. But to her surprise, and the surprise of Mrs. Longears, the snowball came bouncing right back and perchaed on the shelf on Chuckie's high chair.

"Dare!" said Chuckie out loud as, once more, she threw the snowball down. But it bounced back to her chair again, and now Chuckie shrank back and just put one finger on the ball.

"Try this!" said Uncle Wiggily, handing Chuckie a pine cone.

"Dare!" cried the little rabbit, and down the cone went. But back it came again as fast as it had gone down. And the second time the same way. Chuckie didn't say "Dare!" quite so loudly this time.

Then her father gave her a toy wooden doll that Chuckie had tossed down more than dozen times. But this time when she pushed it over the edge of her chair shelf, back the wooden doll came bouncing. And now Chuckie began to cry.

"Oh! Oh! Oh!" she sobbed. "Wassa matter?"

"It's all right, my dear," said Uncle Wiggily, putting his paws lovingly about her. "You won't throw things down any more; will you?"

"No! No!" sobbed Lala, for her name was now changed back to that. And she never did. What's that? How did Mr. Longears make Lala's things bounce back when she threw them down? Why it's a secret, but I'll tell you. He put a piece of soft rubber in everything he gave Lala, and of course that made it bounce right back at her. Ha! Ha!

COPPER OF GREAT VALUE IN ELECTRICAL INDUSTRY

Mining, Smelting, Refining and Alloying of Metal Shown By Film.

TEMPERING AND HARDENING.

"Copper in the Electrical Industry" was the subject of the address given to the Peterborough members of the Engineering Institute of Canada by H. C. Jennison, Assistant Technical Superintendent and Assistant Metallurgist of the Anaconda American Brass Company, at the Paragon Hall last evening.

The Chairman, W. E. Ross, A.M.E.I.C., introduced the speaker of the evening. Two reels of film were first shown of buildings, equipment and processes of the Anaconda Company.

Films Shown.

Slides were shown of the long underground passages a mile below the surface of the earth. The advance work was accomplished by horizontal drilling, filling the holes with dynamite, and blasting in batteries. The rock was then pried off, stored in cars and drawn to the surface. After entering the mill, the rock was crushed, screened, rock and earth taken off with the metal retained sop the "oil floating" process whereby bya bubbles held the mineral.

Following this the smelting processes took place, and further purification attained by the electrolytic method—the passing of the copper from the anode to the cathode.

When the metal reached the standard of 99.99 per cent purity, it was pushed into a furnace in ingot form to be rolled to a required thickness. The strips of copper were then cold rolled for smoothness of surface and temper. This was inspected and finally slit to width.

Copper and zinc were weighed off in correct proportions to produce brass. The elements were placed in an electric furnace, and after a short time charcoal and another substance were put in for oxidizing and other purposes. The molten metal was cast into ingots. These were scalped with special lubricants for better work, and went through annealings.

Methods of tube and wire drawing were pictured. The latter was done with a succession of hot drawings, and afterwards cold through dies.

With the effect of the animated cartoon, the different uses of copper were shown for the roof, shingles, leaders and gutters; plumbing-brass pipe; electrical equipment; bronze screens. The films ended with the slogan of the Anaconda Company, "From Mine to Consumer."

Value of Copper to Electricity.

Following the pictures, Mr. Jennison read a very interesting paper. It was pointed out that copper alloys are particularly useful in the electrical field, as the highest conductivity is required. In 1929 1,160,000 short tons, or 2 1-3 billion pounds of copper were produced in Canada and the United States. Of this one half was employed in the electrical business.

Many tons of rock and earth, said Mr. Jennison, are required to obtain a few pounds of copper. This metal may be worked hot or cold, and exhibits great ductility. For example, a piece of copper one inch in diameter may be drawn out to two thousandths of an inch without annealing or making it brittle. And this is invaluable to the electrical sphere. Again its thermo conductive powers are high.

Alloys of Copper.

Of the alloys of copper, manganon has some of the most useful properties. It does not change in volume or weight with increase of temperature. More conductivity and resistance is gained by its content-copper, manganese and iron.

Another resistance alloy is evidors which is composed of 96 per cent copper, three per cent silicon, and one per cent manganese—the resisting agent. It is useful in variable speed motors such as those employed in elevators.

Tempering and hardening of copper were well understood by the Ancients who employed the slag of some other metal along with perhaps an 80 per cent copper. Many are studying the Ancient's methods, and for this reason men are getting permission from museums to analyze specimens. The two processes may be accomplished in three ways, by coal working, by alloy, and by a combination of the two. Many inventors are producing different hardened copper, but few are practicable.

At this point, Mr. Jennison again referred to the compound, evidore. It is used in transformer housing, etc. It may be worked by the oxy-aceteline torch or by the arc light. It resists corrosion. Its color is that of statuary bronze.

Value of Electricity to Copper.

Inversely, the copper and brass industries were coming to rely upon the electrical. The old pit furnaces using coal and coke being replaced by electric ones. Furnaces may be of three types, the electric arc, the induction, and the high frequency models. Electric drives, too, are a recent innovation.

At the close of this address, members were allows to ask questions to which Mr. Jennison was always ready with a reply. Such questions as the using of fluxine solders, the soldering of brass and copper and the sulphur infinity for copper were brought up. Among the most interesting replies was that pertaining to the tinning of wire, owing to the corrosive action of the sulphur in the rubber insulation on the copper wires. The tinning process eliminates this evil, and the thickness of the tin is only one ten thousandth of an inch.

Next Meeting January 8.

The president thanked the speaker on behalf of the members of the institution. The secretary announced that the next meeting would be held on January 8, in the Collegiate hall owing to the large crowd which is expected to attend. At this meeting the address will be given by Major Burwash, concerning his exploits in the north country as one of the search party for the Franklin explorers, and slides and films will add color and interest to the lecture.

Don't forget the big Examiner party and dance at the Legion Hall next Tuesday night, December 16th. Come along and have a good time and provide a Christmas dinner for some needy family.

Did you ever go "Crazy That Way?" Come and see it at the Midnite Show (all proceeds for relief) at the Capitol Theatre, next Thursday night, December 18th.

ing can be used and is always in demand. There are also many homes where furniture would help to make a more respectable living place.

The Examiner's Social Club dance is next Tuesday night in the hall of the Canadian Legion. The Legion, which has so many demands on its funds, is donating the hall free and The Examiner is giving tickets and publicity to the event, gratis. The fund will be used for our own special list of cases, all of which are bona fide, and for distribution among various charitable organizations of the city.

Then there is the Midnite Show which Manager Stewart is putting on at the Capitol Theatre next Thursday night for the same fund; all proceeds to be used for relief work.

Anyone patronizing either of these events, the dance on Tuesday night and the theatre on Thursday, is sure of plenty of entertainment and can contribute at the same time to a very worthy cause.

Montreal Teams Are National League Winners

EDDIE GERARD'S AMERICANS SURPRISE NATIING BRUINS 2 TO 1 BY DEFEATONAL LOOP FANS

Flying Frenchmen Strengthen First Place Hold By Outlasting Senators 5-4.

FALCONS LOSE OUT.

Victories By Maroons and Americans Drop Ottawa to the Cellar.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 12 — (By the Canadian Press)— The two Montreal teams, Les Canadiens and Maroons, more or less dominated the spotlight in last night's National Hockey League schedule of three games. Strengthening their hold on first place in the Canadian group, the Flying Frenchmen outlasted Ottawa Senators, to win an overtime fixture, 5 to 4. The Maroons improved their standing to a tie for third place with New York Americans by squeezing through to a lucky victory over Detroit Falcons. Eddie Gerard's Amerks amazed once again by trouncing Boston 2 to 1.

Tie in First.

The defeat of the Senators came after they had secured a two goal lead early in the third frame. The first period ended with the teams on even terms, Hec Kilrea and Art Gagne having scored for the home club, while Wasnie and Howie Morenz, the League's leading marksmen, tallied for the Canucks.

Len Grosvenor, recalled recently from London of the International League, put the Senators one up in the middle frame, following a three man thrust.

Frankie Finnigan put the losers well in the van soon after the third frame had started when he slipped past the Montreal defence to hammer a rebund past George Hainsworth, cool Canadien goalkeeper.

The league leaders rallied strongly near the finish. Gagne's second counter put his team back in the running and Morenz knotted the score with a bullet like shot in the last minute of play.

Morenz' great pinch hitting ability was demonstrated in the overtime when he raced through the tiring Senators to blaze a wicked shot into the Ottawa cage for the winning goal early in the extra session.

As a result of the victories of both Maroons and Americans, Ottawa dropped to last place in the Canadian division.

Detroit provided the Dunc Munro coached outfit with strong opposition and for the second time in recent games the Goddess of Fortune turned the tide for the Maroons.

Goals by Jimmy Ward and Nels Stewart, sandwiched by Sorrell's marker, enabled the winners to start the second period one goal in the lead. Babe Seibert put his team further in the van when he shot from centre ice and the puck bounced in front of Goalkeeper Dolson and then into the net for a "soft" point.

A rousing rally by the Falcons fell just one goal short. Ebbie Goodfellow, flashy forward, put them back into contention with a pretty score half-way through the last period, but though the Detroiters literally rained the rubber at Flat Walsh, they could not register the tieing point.

Win By Hair

An unassisted goal by Billy Burch gave the Americans their well-earned victory over the Bruins second place holders in the American group. The two teams finished the first period with one counter apiece as Johnny Sheppard had scored for the A's and Eddie Shore for the Bostonians. Burch's goal in the second session was more or less of a lucky one as the puck caromed into the Boston cage off one of their own men.

Tight defensive tactics in the last frame on the part of the Amerks proved successful in holding the hard hitting Bruins at bay.

Arsenal Faces Severe Test At Liverpool

LONDON, Dec. 12.—(Canadian Press Cable)— Arsenal who are holding a slim advantage at the top of the championship table in the First Division of the English Soccer League, will get a severe testing on Saturday. They must play at Liverpool, where the odds will be in favor of the local club. Sheffield Wednesday, edging nearer the first position, has been luckier in the draw as they play at home against Birmingham. Derby County, another contender for top honors, have an easy mark in Manchester United.

Leaders in Scottish First Division soccer have an easy time. Rangers play East Fife at Ibrox Park, and Celtic will be at home to Leith Athletic. Partick Thistle, third club, have a better fight on their hands at Firhill as their opponents are Hearts. Motherwell clash with St. Mirren at Paisley.

"Bad Breaks" Follows Fortunes Of Leafs; Harold Cotton Is Injured In Workout

TORONTO, Ont., December 12 (C.P.). — Hard luck has more than taken its toll among members of the Toronto Maple Leafs this season, for yesterday the Toronto club lost the services of their star left winger, Harold Cotton. Cotton, who is one of the hardest workers on the team, received a deep gash above the instep, and the injury is likely to keep him out of action for some time. The injury to Cotton occurred during the first play of yesterday's practice

Last week two members of the Leafs' "kid" forward line, Joe Primeau, centre, and Charlie Conacher, right wing, both received fractured wrists, and neither is expected to be back in the line-up until the first of the year. Manager Connie Smythe is making every effort to secure some new players for the game with Boston here on Saturday night, as at present the Leafs have only ten men who are able to play, two of this number being goal-tenders.

Maple Leafs had been setting the pace in the Canadian section of the National Hockey League until Tuesday night when they lost a close game to the Canadiens in Montreal. Last week two recruits of the International Hockey League joined the local club, and so far only one of these has been used.

BIG MINOR LEAGUES DEFINITELY SEVER RELATIONS WITH MAJORS

Fail to Reach Agreement Over Draft—New "Big" League Possible.

CAN DEVELOP LOOPS.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12. (CP)—Definitely alienated from the majors, the three big minor leagues, American Association, International and Pacific coast circuits, hoped to-day to build their organizations to the point where they can challenge the baseball supremacy of the National and American leagues.

Charles H. Strub, president of the San Francisco club of the Pacific coast league, thinks the minors, in three or four years, can so develop their circuits as to compete on equal terms with the two major leagues.

The program that the minors must follow to achieve this is fourfold as Strub sees it.

First, the minors must have some sort of court of final arbitration such as is represented now in the person of Kenesaw M. Landis, high commissioner of baseball.

Secondly, the big minors must adopt toward the small minors the some attitude the majors have in the past in the way of leadership and help.

Thirdly the big minors must see that in order to protect their own investments, they must offer financial and material assistance to leagues of smaller classifications.

Fourth, the minors, particularly the class "AA" circuits, must build themselves up in the next three or four years to the point where they can offer themselves to the public as new major league circuits.

Wider Distribution

Strub pointed out that the three class "AA" organizations have a far wider distribution than the majors covering as they do the country from the east coast to the west. He believes that the big minors, by keeping their stars instead of selling them to the majors, can develop within a few years to leagues of major classification, in fact if not in name.

He added further that it was his belief that the majors, with their stars growing older and no longer replaced by youngsers who used to come in steadily from the class "AA" minors, will have dropped so in standard of play that they will not be able to compete with the class "AA" teams who will, in the meantime have hung onto their stars and developed them.

Most cities represented in the three big minors, he went on, are plenty large enough to support major league baseball. He hopes eventually to secure world's series recognition for the three class "AA" organizations, believing the public will come to demand it.

Greenleaf Chalks Up Third Victory

NEW YORK, Dec. 12 (C.P.)— Ralph Greenleaf, defending champion, is setting a hot pace for the rest of the field in the world's pocket billiards championship tournament being held here.

Greenleaf chalked up his third victory in as many starts last night, defeating Pasqualle Natalle of Chicago, 125 to 41 in six innings. Greenleaf not only set a new high run mark for the current tourney with a cluster of 104 but also ran out in the fewest number of innings of any match so far played.

Trailing Greenleaf are Arthur Woods and Onofrio Lauri, of New York, and Erwin Rudolph of Chicago, each with two victories and no defeats.

Second Cup Round On Saturday Next

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 12.—(Canadian Press Cable).—The English Football Association cup competition advances to another stage on Saturday when the second round of the series is played. The winners will go into the third round when the first and second division teams come into the competition. A fair sprinkling of non-league clubs have survived to the second round though it is expected they will follow tradition and disappear on Saturday. The best match of the seventeen ties is that at Doncaster between the local Rovers and Notts County. The latter team has yet to be defeated this season.

OLYMPICS BEAT BUFFALO SQUAD BY 3-2 SCORE

Victory of Detroit Catapults Them Into Third Place in Standing.

PENALTIES COSTLY.

Bisons Maintain Six Point Lead at Head of International Pack.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 12 (C.P.) — A scoring splurge in the second period enabled Detroit Olympics to defeat Buffalo Bisons, three to one, in the only International League contest played last night.

The victory of the Olympics catapulted them into third place in the standing, one point in the van of the London Tecumsehs and one point behind the Windsor Bulldogs. As both Canadian teams swing into action tonight, however, the Olympics' hold on the third rung appears rather precarious, especially as they have to don the skates again and cross the river into the Bulldog's domain.

The league leaders' defeat was only the third they have suffered this season. The Bisons still maintain a commanding lead of six points at the head of the pack.

Harry Newman, centre ice playmaker, started the home club to victory early in the middle frame after the first 20 minutes had proved devoid of tallies. He swooped in to pick up Gillie's pass and beat the Buffalo goalkeeper with a rocket-like shot. Gillie then came right back less than two minutes later to put the home team two up by scoring on Steel's pass and Jimmy Herberts clinched the result by entering the summary via L. Murray's pass. Daly of Detroit, and Carey Lederman of the Bisons, were given major penalties during this hectic session, for mixing fisticuffs and hockey. Martin notched the line Bison counter after the half-way mark following an individual rush.

The Olympics have a chance to take second place from Windsor in the Border city to-night, but the chances of this occurring do not seem very bright. It is not expected the Detroiters will be fresh after last night's gruelling struggle and in the Bulldogs they are meeting one of the strongest teams in the King circuit. The Windsorites will be further strengthened for the game by the arrival of Bill Phillips, clever utility player of Montreal Maroons of the National League, who has been farmed out to the Bulldogs.

London At Pittsburgh.

London Tecumsehs entertain Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets in the other scheduled fixture and hope to regain third place by winning, while Windsor, they hope, beats Detroit.

The Yellow Jackets have been displaying much improved form in recent games, however, and the Tecumsehs have no easy task ahead of them. The Smoky City team are only one behind Cleveland for fourth place and two points from the Londoners would place them right in the thick of the race of play-off berth.

Bisons Get Sanction To Loan Rolly Huard

TORONTO, December 12. — Although not officially appraised of the fact as yet, it is believed that the Buffalo International League Club will send Rolly Huard to the Maple Leafs on loan for a week or two until some of the injured members of the Toronto team are ready to perform again. At a meeting of the International League in Windsor last night the Buffalo club secured the sanction of the league to send Huard. Huard will probably arrive in Toronto to-day and be available for the game against Boston to-morrow night.

Eleven To Administer English Traffic Act

LONDON, December 12 (C.P.).—Eleven traffic commissioners have been appointed to administer the Road Traffic Act, which makes drastic changes in the highway regulations of Great Britain, and which comes into force on January 1 next. The total estimated cost of their salaries is $80,000.

The commissioners appointed includs: H. Riches, Chief Constable, of Middlesbrough; W. Chamberlain, manager of the Belfast Tramways; Col. A. S. Redmond, Assistant Adjutant-General; A. F. Nicholson, Chief Constable of Exeter; Major-General Sir Reginald Ford, former Deputy Quartermaster-General; A. T. James, K.C., and Rowland Harker, K.C.

OARSMEN BEAT VARSITY 5-4

J. Housley, Brilliant Stickhandling Defense Star, Leads T.C.C. to Victory.

EXTENDED AT TIMES.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 12 (C.P.)—Led by J. Housely, brilliant stickhandling defence star, Toronto Canoe Club last night won the Sportsmen's Patriotic Association Junior Hockey Trophy, by defeating University of Toronto, five goals to four, in the final played at Arena Gardens before some 4,000 fans.

The Canoeists richly deserved their victory, but were hard pressed at the finish to maintain their slim lead in the face of frantic Varsity four and five men thrusts.

The game marked the conclusion of a successful pre-season series of games among the Junior teams of the Province, and indicated Toronto will not dominate the Ontario Hockey Association Junior playdowns this season unless teams from other sections are also of a lower standard, for neither Varsity nor Canoe Club measure up to the standard of last year's finalists, or semi-finalists for that matter. Altogether 26 teams entered the S.P.A. this year, with the strong Niagara Falls, Stratford, Brantford and Windsor sextette being among those failing to live up to expectations.

THE NICEST PRESENT HE COULD GIVE HER

It was wonderful to be engaged but it was miserable too because Dick was out on the road all week and letters were difficult when he moved around so much.

Then one night, when he was specially lonely, he telephoned her from his room in the hotel. It was the nicest present he could have given her and it cost less than the price of a movie.

It was so easy and it made them both so much happier that they arranged regular visits by telephone every Tuesday and Thursday evening — moments of affection to remember and look forward to. The weeks seemed only half as long.

Telephoning is the next best thing to being together. Out-of-town calls are simple, dependable, inexpensive — and quicker now than ever before.

Evening rates on "Anyone" (station-to-station) calls now begin at 7 p.m. Night rates begin at 8.30 p.m. Just give "Long Distance" the number you want — it speeds up the service. If you don't know the distant number, "Information" will look it up for you.

TORONTO LEAFS GET MOREHART

Fred Bedore Traded to Columbus Club For Second Baseman.

CLASSY INFIELDER.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—In a straight deal, Toronto Maple Leafs obtained Second Baseman Johnny Morehart from Columbus Club of the American Association for Infielder Fred Bedore. The deal was completed here yesterday and announced last night by Vice-President James Dunn of the Leafs just before boarding a train for home.

For several days Dunn has been dickering with Columbus, but it was not until to-day the straight deal transaction was consummated. Morehard is a classy infielder, a great base runner and pretty fair with the stick. He at one time played football with Notre Dame.

Jack Lelivelt, manager of the Los Angeles Club of the Pacific Coast League, was loud in his praise of Morehart when informed of the deal. "Morehart is a great base runner, a heady player, and his speed on the paths will win many games for the Leafs. I think Toronto has made a nice trade and feel sure he will make good." Lelivelt also had his eyes on Morehart, but Dunn beat him to it.

ORONO ELIMINATES PORT PERRY 2-1

Paxton Cup Series Gets Under Way in Oshawa City Arena.

OSHAWA, Dec. 12.—The first two games of the Sheriff Paxton Trophy series were played at the Oshawa Arena last night and resulted in the elimination of only one team, the first game between Bowmanville and Whitby junior teams ending in a one-all tie. In the second game, Orme Gamsby's "Oronites" eliminated Port Perry in a close game by a score of 2-1.

The Sheriff Paxton series was started last year, and is open to all junior teams in the Counties of Durham and Ontario. Oshawa juniors drew a bye.

In the first game Oke, star defense man of Bowmanville, scored in the first period with a long shot from centre ice through a melee of players. Whitby came to life in the last stanza, and for the first time took an edge on the play and were successful in tying the score when Mayne banged in the puck from a scramble in front of the net. The game ended a tie, and will be played off on Monday night.

Port Colborne Coach

PORT COLBORNE, Dec. 12.—Cecil "Babe" Dye, new coach of the Port Colborne senior hockey team arrived in Port Colborone Wednesday night and lost no time in taking over the coaching duties. He was in charge of the team during their work-out, and in addition to getting on the ice with them and showing them several new plays, he gave them a half hour talk on just what his plans were and what he would expect of them. The team evidenced the most enthusiasm of the year in their work-out.

Springfield Wins Again Beating New Haven 6-2

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Dec. 12.—In spite of the fact that Obs Heximer, leading point-getter for the league, was held without a mark, the high-powered Springfield Indians won their ninth consecutive Canadian-American Hockey League game here last night, beating New Haven 6 to 2, in a conflict of sustained speed.

The Indians gathered three goals in slightly more than a minute in the third period, as many as they had earned in 56 minutes previously. Forbes in the net for the visitors made any number of sensational stops.

PHILLIPS TO AID WINDSOR BULLDOGS

MONTREAL, Dec. 12.—Bill Phillips, utility man of the Montreal Maroons of the National Hockey League, who plays centre or defense with equal ability, left last night for Windsor to aid the Bulldogs on their International League schedule.

Bout With Schmeling Is Promised Winner

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—Just how much business Gerald Ambrose Griffiths, the tough youth from Sioux City, Iowa, has in the heavyweight championship scheme will be determined to-night, when he meets W. L. (Young) Stribling of Macon, Ga., in the Chicago Stadium.

Stribling by his quick triumphs over Otto Von Porat and Phil Scott, has built himself a position among the heavies that only a good, sound defeat can destroy. Griffiths, however, has been an in-and-outer, going well against some good boxers and going into reverse against some not so good.

The National Boxing Association has hinted that the winner will be its choice for a heavywright championship bout with Max Schmeling, and both Stribling and Griffiths are eager to be first in line in case it goes through.

Y'S MEN CLINCH FIRST HALF HONORS

Blank Belleville Collegiate 2-0 in Quinte City Hockey League.

BELLEVILLE, Dec. 12.—Y's men practically clinched the honors in the first half of the City Hockey League by disposing of Collegiate in a fast game last night, 2-0. They have but to win another game. Mulvihill and Smith figured in the scoring. Canning, Morgan, Hughes and Sherry played good games for the school and, with Colling in goal, turned aside a rain of pucks. Weir, Leachman and Young were effective for the Y's men.

In the second game of the evening, Eaton's took the measure of the Ontario Business College by 5-2 and Hull, Ethier, and Green were largely instrumental in the victory. Pointer and Baker played strong games for the losers. The city league will wind up the first half next week. Stan Burgoyne referred the games.

Attractive Sign Over The Elite Restaurant

A large tri-color sign has recently been added to the already large number of attractive signs on George street, by Louis Yeotes, proprietor of the Elite Restaurant and Tea Rooms, formerly the Elite Sweets Cafe.

The sign, installed by the Neon Company, under Sam Ray of Toronto, carries the name of the restaurant in large red letters illuminated with Neon gas, while there is also a large tea pot, which conveys the illusion of tea being poured into a tea cup.

This popular cafe and restaurant recently enlarged, will stage a big opening on Wednesday night, and on subsequent days, and a lively program of dance music will be supplied during the luncheon and dinner hours.

HOWIE MORENZ HOLDS 5 POINT SCORING LEAD

Canadien Forward Registers Two Goals and One Assist Last Night.

FOR TOTAL OF 15.

Leadership in American Section Unchanged With Cook Brothers on Top.

TORONTO, Ont., December 12 (C.P.). — Howard Morenz, of Canadiens, ran wild last night, and as a result is perched even further than ever out on the "high scoring" limb of the Canadian section, National Hockey League. Howie had a great night from a scoring standpoint, registering two goals and one assist, and is now five full points ahead of his rivals in the Canadian group with a total of 15. Leadership in the American loop is unchanged, with Bun Cook in the driver's seat with 11 points, and Brother Bill Cook next with 10. The Cooks were not in action last night, but Goodfellow of Detroit scored one goal and one assist to bring him within two points of Bun's mark.

The leading assister in the Canadian group is Joe Primeau of Toronto who has helped team mates to score eleven times. In the American loop, however, Bun Cook is leading this branch with seven assists. Aurel Joliat has the doubtful honor of leading the penalty list with 32 minutes registered against him, while Shields, of Philadelphia, has been on the bench 33 minutes and is ahead in the opposition group.

No Standing Change.

In the team standing, there was no change. Canadiens consolidated their position at the head of the Canadian group, and are now two full games ahead of Toronto, while Chicago is still one and a half games ahead of Boston.

The leaders:

Canadian Section.

Team—Canadiens, played 11, won eight, lost three, 16 points.

the matter of policy in the reconstruction of the Union. They believed that the pace set by the famous five-year-plan was too great and would mean an uncalled for amount of suffering for the people. They advocated a slower tempo and the development of the light industries along with the heavy.

Stalin Opposed "Rights"

The "rights" were opposed by the imperturable Stalin and other members of the great central committee and at last spring's session of the National Party Congress most of the opposition leaders announced their "repentance" and agreed to support the policies of the majority. Bucharin, however, failed to come forward or even send in a written statement that he had experience a "changed heart". He was supposed to be "sick" and unable to attend.

Previous to the meetings of the Congress, Bucharin had been expelled from the Communist International, the political bureau, and dropped as the editor of Pravda. He still retained his membership of the central committee of the party however, and was able to make a living by being a member of the academy of sciences and head of the scientific research department of the Supreme Economic Council. He was retained in these posts, it was said, because of the belief he would ultimately be brought around to support the Stalin program.

Maintained Silence

But Bucharin maintained an extremely loud silence. His associates, Alexei Rykov, Michael Tomsky and Nikolai Uglanov, all counted among the intellectuals of the "Rights", experienced an apparent conversion, confessed their shortcomings and begged the Confress for absolution. Rykov managed to retain his various jobs, but Tomsky was ousted as head of the Trade Unions and Uglanov lost his post as Commissionar of Labor. Both Tomsky and Uglanov are now on a sort of "probation" and are working to get back in the good graces of the party.

Bucharin alone refused to commit himself and recently there were rumors that he was to finally be ousted from the party. There were also newspaper editorials denouncing him, together with numerous resolutions of local party meetings demanding that he either "fish or cut bait." At the last moment Bucharin "repented" and the newspapers broadcast his statement throughout the country. Now it is expected that if he proves his sincerity, he will soon regain his seat as one of the "elder statesmen."

Did you ever go "Crazy That Way?" Come and see it at the Midnite Show (all proceeds for relief) at the Capitol Theatre, next Thursday night, December 18th.

LAVAL IS UNABLE TO FORM GOVT.

Senator is Unable to Swing Radicals Into Line Despite Offers.

POINCARE NEXT HOPE

PARIS, Dec. 12 (C.P. Cable via Havas). — Pierre Laval yesterday abandoned his attempt to form a Cabinet.

Laval spent two days in an attempt to form a Government to succeed that headed by Andre Tardieu. The Tardieu Government resigned following defeat in the Senate.

Unable to swing the Radicals to his side despite an offer of several cabinet portfolios, Laval was forced to give up and inform the President he was unable to form a Cabinet.

The announcement came after Laval had conferred with former President Poincare and group of the country's elder statesmen. It was preceded by rumors in chamber circles that he would abandon his attempt in the face of persistent antagonism toward Andre Tardieu.

Laval had insisted that he would not form any cabinet that did not include his "old friend" Tardieu.

Observers were confident that this second failure to replace the resigned Tardieu Government would result in a call upon Poincare to take over the helm.

DAILY ROUGHAGE IS AN ESSENTIAL IN ANY DIET

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Is Effective Relief for Constipation. Also Adds Iron to the Blood

Do you suffer from constipation? Are you one of those who have tried one "vest pocket cure" after another and still have no sense of permanent relief? If so, this is big news to you! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is natural, effective relief for both temporary and recurring constipation. It is the original—and today is included in the diets of millions of people who formerly suffered from constipation.

When roughage is missing from food, constipation is the consequence. The soft foods we eat today seldom include enough roughage. The simple necessity, then, is to see to it that sufficient roughage is included in our food.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is the bulk that your system requires.

In addition, it is rich in iron. Scientific research proves that nearly all this iron is absorbed by the system, building red blood and bringing the glorious color of health to the complexion.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is positively guaranteed. Your money will be returned if you are not satisfied. Be sure to include it in reducing diets as a preventive for both constipation and anemia.

There are so many ways you can eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN and enjoy it. In any form, it is appetizing. It is delicious with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over cereals and soups and notice the added flavor. Many people soak it in fruit juices. Excellent in cooked foods. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in the red-and-green package. It is served in hotels, restaurants and dining-cars. Ask for it! Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

A BEDTIME STORY

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S TRAP.

When Uncle Wiggily awakened in his hollow stump bungalow one morning he heard Baby Bunty and some of the other little rabbit children singing from their rooms:

"Goodie, goie, lowie!
Isn't it nice and snowy!"

That was what the bunnies sang that cold November morning and Uncle Wiggily, hopping out of bed, skipped to his window and saw that the children were quite right.

"It's snowing and snowing hard!" said Mr. Longears looking down in his yard. "No more garden golf for me this season, I guess," he went on as he looked at the Tom Thumb course he had laid down with old toys the children had tossed aside as obstacles. One obstacle was an old Noah's Ark and another was a Jumping Jack that tried to stop the balls as they rolled between his legs.

Well, it was quite a storm, and by the time Uncle Wiggily had slid down the banister railing, instead of hopping down stairs, and was eating hot clover pancakes with carrot maple sugar sprinkled on the middle, the ground outside was quite white.

"La! La! La!" sang the bunny rabbit children. "What fun we'll have going to school!"

"Don't throw any snowballs at the Lady Mouse Teacher!" said Uncle Wiggily as Baby Bunty, Buster, Custer, Jingle, Jangle and all the others started away through the storm, warm in their snug, fur coats.

"No, we wouldn't do that; would we?" asked Custer of Buster.

"Why no, of course we wouldn't?" said Buster to Custer.

"Oh, no!" echoed Baby Bunty and she laughed.

Well, the bunny rabbit children hurried away to the Hollow Stump School, and so did the pussy dogs and the puppy cats—Oh, I've got that wrong, haven't I? Anyhow all the other animal children went on to school and I'm not allowed to tell you whether or not they threw snowballs at the Lady Mouse Teacher. You must guess.

He hopped home on one paw.

But after Baby Bunty and all the others were out of the way Uncle Wiggily, humming a little tune, put on his extra warm fur coat, took his hat down off the rack and, with his best red, white and blue striped rheumatism crutch, started for the front hall.

"Where are you going?" asked his wife, sort of anxious like.

"Oh, where I go every day—just to look for an adventure," replied Mr. Longears, "Could 'I bring you back one?" I mean do you want anything from the store?" he asked. And he laughed and so did his wife, at the idea of him bringing back an adventure. For an adventure is something that happens to you. 'I can't be brought home. Of course with a jolly adventure you can bring yourself home and tell about it.

And if you have a bad adventure, say if a rabbit gets caught by a Fox, why he can't even take himself home to tell about it. So you see there is no taking home of adventures. And Mrs. Longears said she didn't need anything from the store, so Uncle Wiggily told her good-bye and hopped away.

Over the fields and through the woods he hopped, this way and that through the snow storm, looking for an adventure, but none could he find. But this time the snow was getting quite drifty and deep and it was hard for Uncle Wiggily to hop along.

"I think I must go home without an adventure," he said a little sadly, as he turned toward his hollow stump bungalow. "The storm is too bad." Soon he reached his yard where he had made the Tom Thumb golf game that was now snow under. Uncle Wiggily hopped along, and, all of a sudden, he had a funny feeling in his left hind paw. It seemed to poke itself into something and then the rabbit gentleman felt a tightness about it and he could hardly lift that one leg.

"Oh, I'm caught in a trap? I'm caught in a trap!" cried Mr. Longears. "There was a trap under the snow! I didn't see it and I stepped right in it! It's caught on my paw and maybe I'll never get it off! Oh, oh!"

With all his might Uncle Wiggily lifted up the paw which had gone into something that felt much like a trap. What kind it was Uncle Wiggily couldn't see very well, because his paw and the trap was hidden in a lump of snow.

"I must hop to my bungalow and get my wife and Nurse Jane to help me out of the trap on my paw!" cried the poor rabbit. With the help of his crutch he hopped home on one paw, holding the other up high with the snowy lump and trap on it. His wife and Nurse Jane were so surprised!

"Oh, what a trap I'm in!" cried Mr. Longears. Nurse Jane got the broom and brushed the snow off the lump on the bunny's paw. Then she laughed, and so did Mrs. Longears and so did Uncle Wiggily. For he had only stepped into the old Noah's Ark that he used in his baby golf game. His paw had gone right through the roof and stuck there. He had not seen the ark because it was under the snow. So it wasn't a trap at all. And soon the bunny's paw was loose from the little wooden house boat and all was well.

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. 17 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

One day Tarzan and Sheeta came upon the tribe of Akut. It occurred to the ape-man that it would be an interesting experiment to attempt to reconcile these hereditary enemies. It was hardest to impress his purpose upon the panther. But by fastening his rope about Sheeta's neck, by using his stout cudgel on the sensitive nose and by compelling force of his man-mind, he succeeded.

Now the man, the panther, and the great apes roamed their savage haunts side by side, making their kills together and sharing them with one another. And of all the savage band none was more terrible than the smooth-skinned powerful beast that had been cut a few short months before a familiar figure in many a London drawing room and exclusive clubs.

Sometimes the beasts separated to follow their own inclinations. It was one of these times that the ape-man lay stretched on the beach, basking in the sun. Down-wind, so that the scent was not carried to him, a savage peered at him from the forest's edge. For a moment he looked in astonishment at the dozing white man; then turned and made a sign to someone behind.

Cautiously through the rank grass a score of hideously decked, big black warriors advanced silently upon the sleeping white man, their heavy war-clubs swinging menacingly in their hands. They were almost upon him before he sprang startled to his feet. With savage yells and raised clubs the warriors leaped for him—only to retreat in sudden panic.

IN MEMORIAM

SABATINO. — In fond and loving memory of my dear Father, Mr. D. Sabatino, of Lakefield, who died three years ago to-day.

He is gone, but not forgotten,
And, as dawns another year,
In my lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of him are always near.
Days of sadness will come o'er me,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they litlet know the sorrow,
That lies within the heart concealed.

—Inserted by his daughter, Mrs. Frank Asta.

IN MEMORIAM

COONEY—In sad but loving memory of our dear daughter, Viola Coney, who passed away just four years ago to-day, Dec. 12, 1926.

Friends may think we have forgotten you
When at times they see us smile
But they little know the sorrow
Which that smile hides all the while.
You are not forgotten, Viola dear,
Nor will you ever be;
As long as life and memory lasts
We will remember you.

—Sadly missed by father and mother, sisters and brothers.

IN MEMORIAM

COONEY—In sad but loving memory of my dear sister, Viola Cooney, who passed away, Dec. 12, 1926.

Beside your grave I often stand
With heart both crushed and sore,
But in the gloom the sweet words come—
Not lost, just gone before.
God knows how much I miss you.
He counts the tears I shed,
And only whispers: She only sleeps,
your loved one is not dead.
So I'll be brave, dear sister,
And pray to God each day,
And when He calls me home to you,

STUDENTS GIVEN THEIR DIPLOMAS PRIZES AWARDED

Annual Commencement Exercises of Collegiate Institute Held in Auditorium.

SCHOLARSHIPS PRESENTED.

Members of Board of Education and City Educational Leaders Are Present.

Successful students of the year 1930 at Peterborough Collegiate Institute and Vocational Training School, were yesterday afternoon accorded the well-merited plaudits of fellow students, parents, friends and teachers, who gathered in the handsome auditorium of the school on the occasion of the time-honored annual commencement exercises.

On the platform were seated members of the Board of Education, ex-Inspector Lees, and the beloved School Principal, H. R. H. Kenner. Dr. J. J. Craig, chairman of the Board of Education presided, and in his opening remarks spoke in eulogistic terms of the marked progress which the P.C.I. is continually making and of the large contribution which it is offering in the character moulding of the youth of this city and district, and of the sound educational facilities which it affords.

Melville Robinson holds the honors this year, as the best all-round boy in the school, while Evelyn Armstrong was likewise declared by the principal to be the best all-round girl. The former was the recipient of the Principal's Prize, while Miss Armstrong stepped forward for the prize donated by Mrs. R. F. Downey, B.A., amid the thunderous applause of the entire assembly.

Each of the addresses preceding the presentation of prizes, diplomas and scholarships were of a very inspirational nature, and contained in addition to hearty congratulations to the prize winners, a meed of praise and and recognition of the debt of gratitude which the pupils owe to their teachers and instructors.

SIX PRISONERS TRY JAIL BREAK

Outbreak Occurs in Renfrew County Prison After Exercise Period.

CAUSE A MYSTERY.

PEMBROKE, Dec. 13. — Wielding chairs and benches, a group of prisoners in the Renfrew county jail yesterday smashed nearly all the windows in the building in an attempt to escape. They were finally overpowered by guards, and charged with attempted jail breaking, appeared in police court and were remanded for trial.

Of the eleven inmates in the jail, six took part in the disturbance. The outbreak occurred just after the men had come inside from exercising in the jail yard. The turnkey had just left them in the ward outside their cells when they seized chairs and benches and began smashing the windows. Officials are at a loss to account for the outbreak.

Ship Blocking Road Burned In Chicago

CHICAGO, Dec. 13 (CP)—The unrelenting march of progress claimed another victim yesterday—the U.S.S. Commodore, survivor of the early days of Great Lakes freighters. She was burned at the waters' edge of Lake Michigan to make way for an extension of a motor highway.

The old ship, of wooden construction, was beached at the foot of Randolph street in 1917. The ground she occupied was in the highway's path. Until 1912 the vessel had plied between Chicago and Buffalo, and was the last ship of her kind to be used on the lakes. She was 285 feet long, had a beam of 40 feet and was built in Cleveland in 1874.

Before the torch was applied all timber was taken off and distributed to the city's poor for fuel.

THE WEDNESDAY TIES LEADERS IN POINT SCORING

Heavy Scoring Features Game in First Division of English League.

BRADFORD VICTORS.

Rangers Crush East Fife to Hold Lead in Scottish League.

LONDON, England, December 13 (Canadian Press Cable). — Scoring extraordinary marked several games in the First Division of the English Soccer League to-day. Hudderspeld Town piled up ten goals against Blakpool, while the league champions, The Wednesday, accumulated nine against Birmingham. Aston Villa and Leeds United and Newcastle United and Leicester City split seven goals between them, the first named teams winning. Arsenal did well to get a draw at Liverpool. The Wednesday have come up to even terms as far as points are concerned with Arsenal for the leading position in the championship table, though Arsenal have a better goal average and have played one less game than the Sheffield sid.

Again Down Rivals.

Bradford once again proved a giant killer, following up their defeat of the league-leading Everton recently by licing West Bromwich Albion, the runners-up until to-day's matches. Wolverhampton Wanderers came up into second place when they beat Swansea Town. The feature match of the group, that between Burnley and Everton, went in favor of the former team by five goals to two. Preston north-End went on a goal-getting rampage, collecting seven markers from Cardiff City, who failed to reply.

In the Scottsh League, Rangers crushed East Fife as was expected, to hold their lead in the standing, while Celtic beat Lith Athltic. In each case the big clubs got four goals while their opponents failed to score. The surprise of the series was St. Mirren's defeat of Motherwell at Paisley by two goals to one. Hearts and Airdrieonians figured in a heavy scoring match, the Edinburgh team winning by six goals to three.

Companionate Marriage Controversy May Cause Split

Former Judge Ben. B. Lindsey (right) pleaded not guilty in a New York City court to disturbing the peace in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine (centre), from which he was tossed with considerable violence when he interrupted the service to protest against Bishop William T. Manning's (left) attack on his theory of companionate marrage. The controversy has advanced to such serious proportions that it is feared the clergy in Bishop Manning's diocese may take sides.

HON. MRS. BRUCE DARING AVIATRIX LANDS IN CANADA

Claims She is Only Woman or Man Either For Whom Chinese Stopped Their War.

CROSSED EUROPE, ASIA.

Weeks Overdue in Schedule Flier Forced to Abandon Cross-Canada Trip.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Dec. 13.—An ambassadoress of the air—a dainty figure whose femininity cloaks the rare courage and dogged determination required by a woman who essays a flight around the world—arrived in Vancouver yesterday aboard S. S. Empress of Japan with 17,000 miles of her 30,000 mile jaunt behind her.

She is the Hon. Mrs. Victor Bruce, a trim alert Englishwoman who in a tiny Blackburn Bluebird plane has triumphed over the perils which yawn for aerial adventurers over the mountains of Europe and the deserts, jungles and vast unpeopled spaces of Asia.

"I'm the only woman," Mrs. Bruce continued, laughingly, and then added, "or man, either for whom they stopped the war in China.

General a Sport

"I wired ahead to inquire if I could land at a Chinese city which was then in the throes of war. I was told that I couldn't go there, it was dangerous", they didn't want to be bothered. But I wired back that they could stop their war for ten minutes; long enough for me to get my petrol and continue my flight. And the sporting Chinese General took me at my word. I went there, got my ten minutes armistice, and pushed on across China."

Speaking of her immediate plans, Mrs. Bruce said.

"Originally, I had intended to fly right across Canada, stopping at all the princpal cities. But I'm weeks overdue here now, and so I'm compelled to take the southern route.

"I shall have my plane rigged the first of the week. Then I'm going to Victoria as the guest of the Lieutenant-Governor, and shall probably be here for four or five days. I shall go south by easy stages, as far as Los Angeles, and then cross the continent by the southern route."

Quite casually, Mrs. Bruce announced that she had decided to include South America in her list of continents visited. "I want to attend the British Empire fair at Buenos Aires, and, if I go, I shall arrive there some time next spring."

16 SASKATCHEWAN SCHOOLS CLOSE

REGINA, Dec. 13.—Rural schools in Saskatchewan that will be obliged to close at the end of the Christmas term do not number more than in previous years, Premier J. T. M. Anderson stated. For financial or other reasons, 16 schools have definitely reported that they will close. Premier Anderson anticipates a more serious situation next Fall.

Don't forget the big Examiner party and dance at the Legion Hall next Tuesday night, December 16th. Come along and have a good time and provide a Christmas dinner for some needy family.

London Girl's Suit Amuses Daily Mail

LONDON, December 13 (C.P.)—Miss Millie Orpen, who as a common informer may obtain from the Government a large sum for informing on Sunday operation of movies, has cast her net wider and obtain writs against The Daily Mail and Express, claiming £10,000 from each as a penalty for advertising Sunday movies.

The Daily Mail, treating the matter humorously, thanks Miss Orpen for her Christian forbearance in claiming such a small sum, since the paper figures it has already incurred possible penalties of £249,600,000,000 under the Act.

The paper suggests that when she has collected this sum from The Mail she pay off the national debt.

MAN CONFESSES TO FIRING SHOT

John Brockenshire is Lying at Death's Door in Toronto Hospital.

WOUNDED IN BATTLE.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 13 (C.P.)—Little change is noted to-day by hospital authorities in the condition of John Brockenshire, Windsor, who was perhaps fatally wounded by police yesterday prior to capturing him after he had fled Thursday night following the ruthless slaying of Constable Roy A. McQuillin.

Two bullets from police revolvers bored through Brockenshire's body as he made one last desperate effort to evade the clutches of the law near Oakville, 25 miles from the spot where he shot down McQuillin. One of the bullets brought the hunted man down and he was immediately rushed to a west-end hospital here where Constable Cecil R. Franklin voluntarily offered a blood transfusion in order that surgeons might operate on the self-confessed slayer. Hospital authorities say he has an even chance to recover.

Brockenshire Responsible

Harry Clarkson, 21, Windsor, the previously arrested man, was brought into the hospital to see Brockenshire. Police say the latter took the responsibility for firing the fatal shots, absolving Clarkson. Clarkson appeared in Police Court yesterday and was remanded until Dec. 19. Asked now he felt, Brockenshire definitely declared: "I don't think I am going to die, but I would rather die than get the rope."

Assistant Crown Attorney J. W. McFadden asked him how he felt. "Who in hell wants to know? I don't like the look of your face. Get away from me," Brockenshire said.

This is not the first time the Windsor youth has been in the toils of the police. Three years ago he surrendered at the point of a revolver in the hands of Sergeant John Bowie, who arrested him on 32 charges of housebreaking. He was convicted and sentenced to four years in penitentiary. Recently he was paroled.

The capture of the gunman ended the greatest man hunt in Ontario police annals. Toronto City, Township and other police officials were on his trail, while wide-awake citizens in all parts of the surrounding territory kept their eyes open for suspicious characters and kept the police "fliers" speeding about the countryside checking the numerous reports of the wanted man having been seen.

While police must await the out-

Nine alleged ring leaders were arrested including a woman Communist organizer from Winnipeg and a local man who at the last civic elections ran for Alderman. One man was slightly injured when he fought with police who sought to arrest him. Batons had to be brought into play.

Wife Furnishes Part of $100,000 Demanded as Bail

Former Partner of Defunct Mining Brokerage Firm of Solloway, Mills and Company Remanded to March 2 When He Appeared in Police Court.

BROUGHT FROM VANCOUVER BY INSPECTOR STRINGER AFTER BEING RELEASED IN B.C. COURT ON $350,000 BAIL

Broker Expresses Surprise at Action of Ontario Authorities After Conviction and Fine of $ 0,000—Denies That a Party Was Given Them Prior to Their Departure For Prison.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 13.—Facing another charge of conspiracy Harvey Mills, former partner of the defunct mining brokerage firm of Solloway, Mills and Company, was remanded to March 2 when he appeared in Police court today. He was released on bail of 100,000, part of which was furnished by his wife who accompanied him from Vancouver.

Mills was brought from Vancouver by Inspector William Stringer of the Ontario Provincial Police, who arrested the broker when he was released six days ago from the Lethbridge prison where he had been serving a term of one month on a conspiracy count in Alberta. He was also fined $50,000 in this connection. His former partner Isaac W. Solloway is still in the Lethbridge Institution.

When released from the Lethbridge prison, Mills was taken by Vancouver officers, accompanied by Stringer, to the British Columbia Capital where further charges awaited him. He was arraigned on these counts but was released on bail of $350,000. He was then re-arrested by the Ontario officer and brought on to Toronto.

Expresses Surprise

The broker expressed surprise at the action of the Ontario authorities. "I cannot understand what it is all about," he said. "I thought when I was convicted in Ontario on one count of bucketing and acquitted on two charges of conspiracy and I paid a fine of $50,000, I was through with the courts of this Province. It came as a tremendous shock to Solloway and myself that new charges had been laid against us in Ontario and British Columbia.

Mills expressed "grave concern" over the condition of his imprisoned former partner. "He appeared to be on the verge of a nervous breakdown when I left him."

Queried by newspapermen, Mills declined to comment on questions regarding his reputed wealth. Reports that the brokers had made arrangements with the Crown in connection with punishment for their convictions in Ontario, Mills said the Judge's decision of a fine came as a surprise to him and his partner. ONTARIO MARBLE CO. HAS FELT NO BUSINESS DEPRESSION IN 1930

Steady Progress Has Been Made By Company in Last Seventeen Years.

BIG MONTREAL CONTRACT.

"With a decided increase in Canada's building program, in the last two years in particular, we have not felt anything of the so called business depression and considering the number of companies who are speaking of, and are in fact experiencing slack periods, I think we have been very fortunate", exclaimed F. R. Stevenson, superintendent of the Ontario Marble Company, in the course of an interview with an Examiner representative.

Tracing the business of his company in this city, since they first located here in the year 1913 as the Vermont Marble Company of which it is now a subsidiary, Mr. Stevenson unfolded a story of steady progression and the realization of the hopes, which were a big factor in their decision to locate here.

The Vermont Marble Company is one of the oldest manufacturing concerns in the United States, and with its head office at Proctor, Vermont, the industry represents the largest of its kind in the world.

Established Here 17 Years Ago

Anticipating the demands of the Canadian market, the company established a branch in this city seventeen years ago. It was a striking example of keen business foresight, as the results of the succeeding years have testified.

In 1923 the Ontario Marble Company was incorporated under the laws of Ontario, and thus became a subsidiary company of the Vermont Marble Company. This was but one of the early signs of the firm's need for expansion, and was ample proof that it had established for itself a permanent place in the Canadian

Einstein "Bearded" By Young Reporter

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Said the editor of the Newton High School X-Ray to William "Blimp" Friedman, his star reporter: "Dash over and get an exclusive interview with Doc Einstein." And Blimp did. The German scientist autographed his notes.

Friedman, who has bearded nine celebrities at 18, suddenly appeared before the savant on the liner Belgenland and began to fire questions.

Q.—How much mathematics is necessary to the high school student?

A.—Mathematics itself is not as essential as getting the spirit of the relative bigness of the world of mathematics in which we live.

Q.—What message has the Professor to send to us as the future citizens of the world?

A.—Although practical mathematics builds the world its usefulness is bounded by the extent to which the spirit of mathematics may let it travel. In conclusion, I wish to convey my best wishes to these students of a life of usefulness in this world of mathematics.

Then he smiled, shook the boy's hand and the interview was history.

MRS CLINTON ATWOOD CELEBRATES HER 92ND BIRTHDAY ON SUNDAY

Only Surviving Daughter of Catherine Parr Traill Lives in Lakefield.

LADY OF THE OLD SCHOOL.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 13.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Just outside the village linuts in a picturesque old house, surrounded by trees and shrubbery, lives the only surviving daughter of the late Catherine Parr Traill, who was a famous writer and naturalist. This daughter Mrs. Clinton Atwood (nee Annie Fotheringhame Traill) a picturesque lady of the old school, celebrates her ninety-second birthday at her home "Ashleworth", tomorrow.

Married In Old Stone Church

She was born quite near her present residence on the farm now owned by E. R. Tate, where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Traill lived for some years. She was the second of their three daughters and in 1858 she was married in the little old stone church to Clinton Atwood, the son of a clergyman in England. This was the second marriage in the little church, the first built in Lakefield.

Mr. and Mrs. Atwood lived for years near Rice Lake, moving to Lakefield more than forty years ago. They purchased "Ashleworth" a home with considerable historic interest as it was built my Major Boulton, the first reeve of the village, who afterward moved to Manitoba and distinguished himself in the Riel rebellion.

Miss Arctic Circle Awarded a Mirror

PITTSBUGH, Dec. 13 (CP)—The news that Encosiak—"Shining Star" of the northland—had been selected as "Miss Arctic Circle" will be broaicast to-night to the folks at the top of the world by a local station.

Difficult methods of communication in the land of snow and ice makes it necessary that radio be utilized if the news of the honor given Encosiak be given wide dissemination.

The selections was made from pictures of young women gathered by a trading ship's crew for a Winnipeg newspaper and the award was a mirror, the first ever owned by Encosiak, whose name in English means "Shining Star."

RIOTERS JAILED BY HAVANA GOV'T

Many Prominent Nationalists Escape By Fleeing to United States.

NEWSPAPERMEN HELD.

HAVANA, Dec. 13. — Proceeding quietly, the government is making numerous arrestsof agitators whom it believes responsible for the disturbances of the past few days which have provoked the island-wide suspension of constitutional guarantees.

Dozens of warrants have been secured against leading Nationalist figures and others prominent in the anti-administration movement here. A hurried exodus to the United States on the part of many whose names are on the list for arrest and trial has been noted during the last two days, but there are many who have been unable to escape.

Numerous arrests, including those of some newspapermen accused of exaggerating and falsifying reports of disorders have been made.

With the exception of brief rioting yesterday at Cienfuegos, in Santa Clara Province, the Island remained quiet. The military was called upon to quel' riots there naw now is in control of the city.

Three Die in Belleville Level Crossing Crash

SPEEDING TRAIN CARRIES WRECK FOR HALF MILE

Two Others, Badly Injured, Hurled Clear—One Not Expected to Live.

CLAIM SIGNAL WORKING.

Spectator Shouts Warning in Vain as Car Nears Tracks.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Dec. 13.—Frank Johnson a passenger in the car, which was struck at a level crossing in this city late yesterday afternoon and in which Walter Watson and Mrs. James Ramsay were instantly killed, died in the Belleville hospital early today from the injuries received. His brother Duncan Johnson is confined to the hospital, he sustaining compound fractures of both legs and deep lacerations on the face and neck.

An inquest was opened today before Dr. R. W. Tennent, coroner and after preliminary evidence was taken. The hearing was adjourned for two weeks.

Frank Johnston was still unconscious early last night, but physicians state that he has a fractured skull and other head injuries and they fear he will not survive. His brother may live.

The car was demolished, having been dragged half a mile down the tracks. The bodies of Mrs. Ramsay and Mr. Watson were both mangled.

Body in Wreckage.

The train, No. 672, a local Canadian National Railways passenger, in charge of Conductor A. F. White and Engineer W. K. Kerr, both of this city, struck the car broadside at the Geddes Street crossing, and although the brakes were applied it was some time before the locomotive was stopped. The car was still tangled in the cow-catcher, with the body of Watson, who is believed to have been the driver, in the wreckage.

Neither of the Johnstons could give coherent statements to the police last night, and the cause of the accident is undetermined. They were approaching the crossing from the north, slowly, and Bruce Smith, who was halted at the spot, shouted a warning, but in a moment they were on the tracks and the crash occurred. The two Johnstons were hurled out. The signal at the point was working, it is declared, and although the train was approaching the station it was proceeding at a fairly fast rate of speed.

Rushed To Hospital.

The Johnstons were rushed to the hospital, while the bodies of the two victims were taken to the funeral home of Tickell and Browne. An inquest, ordered by the Coroner, Dr. Tennent, was opened this morning. The Johnstons are sons of Mr. and Mrs. William Johnston at Actinolite, and Mrs. Ramsay is their aunt. Watson was a friend of the trio. Mr. Ramsay reached the city last night to take charge of his wife's body, while William Johnston came here on notification of the police. Dr. J. A. Faulkner is in charge of the injured men, and is assisted by Dr. Walter Morgan and Dr. F. W. Hill.

The party had been visiting north of Tweed and were taking a short cut home, when the accident occurred. The crossing at the point of the accident is in a deep hollow of the road and although there is a wigwag on the crossing there is a possibility they did not hear the bell as they were riding in a closed car.

COUNTIES REJECT RENT INCREASE PROPOSED BY COBOURG COUNCIL LEASE WILL LAPSE ON DEC. 31

Cobourg Demands $3,500 a Year, an Increase of $1,500.

SESSIONS CONCLUDED.

Counties Do Not Expect Eviction For January Meeting.

COBOURG, December 13. — The Counties Council concluded the year's business yesterday with a motion by J. M. Bygott (Campbellford), seconded by F. Annis (Darlington), "that the Warden be a committee of one to ask permission of Cobourg Council to meet in this building for the January sessions."

This request was actuated more by courtesy than by apprehension of eviction as over-holding tenants, in other words, of finding themselves homeless and their desks and furniture piled up on the street.

For the Council decided to let their lease lapse on December 31. Their Property Committee had first suggested the renewal of it for five years at the annual rental of $2,000. This had been the agreement in the ten-year lease that is now on its last legs.

This proposal was submitted to Cobourg Council, and they responded with a demand for 3,500 a year. Then the Property Committee changed its mind with a decision to rescind their first motion and let the lease run out. The report was approved by the Counties Council, and as a consequence their tenancy of various quarters in the Town Hall expires.

Earlier in the week it was thought that the counties could remove their entire household from the Town Hall with complete freedom to locate elsewhere in Cobourg or transfer the lares and penates to Port Hope, as Reeve G. T. Hancock had urged. Col. F. D. Boggs, counties solicitor, however, discovered a clause in the statutes of the "Province of Canada," dated May, 1859, which requires the County and Assize Courts to be held in Cobourg's Town Hall.

The counties may transfer their municipal departments and Council chamber to some other building. W. H. Carruthers (Bowmanville), but the judicial headquarters are fixed.

"At the present time," said Reeve Hancock (Port Hope), "we are over a million dollars in debt, and Cobourg is trying to nearly double our rent. I believe in a few years there will be fewer members in County Councils and we may not require a room this size for our meetings."

PROHIBITIONISTS HAVE NO PLANS FOR DRY PARTY

President Irwin Claims Move Be Taken Only as Last Alternative.

MANIFESTO ISSUED.

No Intention of Asking For Referendum on Liquor Question in Near Future.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 13.—Ontario prohibitionists have no intention of forming a Dry party unless pending developments leave no other alternative, declares a manifesto issued here over the signature of Dr. A. J. Irwin, President of the Ontario Prohibition Union.

Stating a former manifesto issued by the Union had been misconstrued Dr. Irwin says individual prohibitionists have stressed the fact there is no intention of asking for a referendum on the liquor question within the near future and that they are agreeable to the advocates of beer-and-wine sale having the same privileges which they demand for themselves. It is recognized, he continues, that a referendum on the question of wine and beer may conceivably become a pressing question before the pendulum again swings toward prohibition.

The statement suggests there is no reason to believe that a Provincial Government headed by the successor to Premier G. H. Ferguson might not be so firm in its stand that there will be no referendum on the question.

Attitudes Differ

After commenting on the various interpretations placed by newspapers on the last statement issued by the Union, Dr. Irwin says the former manifesto, in its reference to a third party "simply recited facts that emerged in an informal but representative meeting in which men of all political leanings took part, and which disclosed on the part of earnest and high-minded citizens a widespread feeling of dissatisfaction with the spirit and attitude manifest in our political life."

Proceedings, the statement declares: "The Prohibition Union has not expressed itself on the matter of a third party. Some of its supporters would favor such a move. Others would much prefer that the way be opened to elect to the Legislature in all political parties men who would honestly represent the temperance sentiment of this country, and faithfully promote legislation to restrict and eliminate the liquor traffic."

BENNETT TO TELL HIS POLICY LATER

Trade Developments and Conference Dealt With in Promised Statement.

LANDS AT SAINT JOHN.

SAINT JOHN, N.B., Dec. 13.—The general situation in Canada, and further plans of the Dominion Government to ensure its betterment, will be the subject of a statement to be issued by Right Hon. R. B. Bennett at an early date.

Reaching Canadian shores after an absence of two months, during which he attended the Imperial Economic Conference, Premier Bennett late yesterday made this announcement.

Work of the conference at its recent sittings in London, the proposed action to be taken by the adjourned economic conference to meet in Ottawa in 1931, and steps taken by the Prime Minister in France and elsewhere to secure for the Dominion maximum benefits from her trade relationships — all these will find place in the coming statement, Premier Bennett declared.

The Prime Minister had no comment to make at the moment on the Imperial Conference. He believed, Premier Bennett remarked, that Canadians had been informed of the proceedings and of the part representatives of the Dominion had taken in the deliberations.

Correct Answer Unknown

To prevent the Contest Department, the artist or anyone else from knowing the correct answer to this puzzle, certain figures were erased by the Contest Judges: Messrs. E. A. Williams, Toronto Star Weekly and H. M. Sandison, Regina Leader-Post.

Neither of these gentlemen know what figures the other erased, but after the Contest closes, they will announce what these figures were and when these figures are subtracted from the total of the figures used by the artist, this will give the correct answer to the figures in the puzzle.

There are no tricks to this Contest. It is merely a matter of skill in finding all the numbers shown and then adding correctly. We wish it clearly understood that there are no hidden figures. Every number can be plainly seen. The degree of your care and skill will determine the prize which you will win.

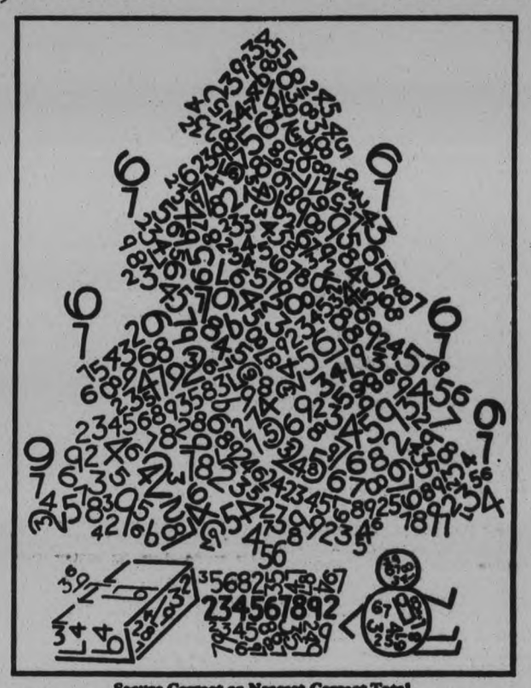
The ONLY requirements for entry to contest are those listed here. You will note their extreme simplicity and a careful reading now will avoid any possible confusion later.

ENTERTAINMENT FOR EVERYBODY.

Both young and old will enjoy solving the Christmas Tree Puzzle. Its educational value will readily be seen; the children will find it interesting and helpful in improving their addition. The older folks, too, will enjoy the hours spent in trying to solve the puzzle.

Everybody will, of course, have their own way of working the problem, but as a suggestion we would suggest cutting the tree in dozens of small pieces. You will find it easier to check the figures if you number each clipping.

NOTE
At an early date Goblin Magazine will be changed to a weekly publication which will appear under the name The Montreal Record. Present Goblin subscribers who enter this Contest are requested to write "Renewal" on their entry forms which will prevent two issues of the same date being mailed. New subscribers will kindly write "New" in the margin on coupon.



Secure Correct or Nearest Correct Total

The problem is to add together all of the numbers shown above. Each figure is clearly indicated, and they run from two to nine; the ones have a curved comma; the nines a straight stem; all are single numbers, there are no combinations; add them as they stand, one above the other in a single column. Every figure in the picture is complete. If in doubt about any of the figures, send in the chart with a figure marked, to the contest department, which will gladly tell you what it is.

MUSINGS AT A MANSE WINDOW

MANY an interesting, profitable hour have I spent in the company of my friend, Hames Mann. And from him I have heard strange tales of ministers and their ways: one of which I propose to set down here in the hope that it may be as helpful to others as it has been to me. It has given me much food for reflection. May it do even more for those whose eyes and minds will take it all in.

When Edmund Mills went to college to prepare for the ministry, it was not long before he had a rebound from the severe, puritanic teaching of his father. During his college days he led rather a fast sort of life, and nothing save his father's great influence kept him from being permanently rusticated. It was a great surprise to many of his college friends when he became a preacher. Indeed, one of his class-mates, not being aware of the flop he had taken, and meeting him unexpectedly on the platform at a religious gathering, exclaimed, "Is Saul among the prophets? I would as soon have expected to see the devil himself here as to see the whilom scapegrace, Edmund Mills."

His Proper Place.

Mann told me that the natural place for Mills would be in a broad-gauged church; but for reasons which seem to him substantial he prefers to be the pastor of an orthodox church. He will tell you that orthodox people are responsive to every good cause; and if you can only get them to tolerate you, they will readily obey the whip ecclesiastic, and pull strong and steady in the gospel chariot.

The ethics of creed subscription never troubles him. Once when he had given his assent to an ancient iron-bound creed, which all the incumbents of a certain church have to adopt as their own before they can be installed as minister, he was asked how he managed to satisfy his conscience when he said that he really believed in that absolete document in any sense whatever. He answered:

"I signed it, but who said that I believed it? I tell you what it is, this church with its antiquated creed is like a bottle, very narrow at the neck, but there's plenty of room when you squeeze in."

Of course, if one should just happen to have such a troublesome thing as a sensitive conscience, the squeezing process must hurt. However, I suppose there are those whose consciences are so callous and elastic that they seem to be able to squeeze through the eye of a needle with the greatest possible ease and grace!

His Contempt For Moss-Backs.

Mills has a great deal to say about being up-to-date with the century in which we are living, and he does not try to hide his contempt for the old theological moss-backs who persist in living in the dark ages. He can be very severe in his judgment of any man who does not see eye to eye with himself.

An intelligent hearer, who sat for a time under his preaching, was led to say:

"I find that so-called liberals can be the most illiberal of men; they often degenerate into religious critics and censors; they indulge in flings at the orthodox, and have little to say that is positive and constructive."

All of us have need to guard against a critical spirit. Such a spirit will kill devotion, engender doubt, loosen the foundation stones of truth, cast a shadow upon faith, and weaken our hold upon spiritual realities. The soul cannot be fed upon negations. You cannot persuade it to take a stone when it is hungering for bread.

"I will listen to any one's convictions," said Goethe, "but pray keep your doubts to yourself."

A Rope of Sand.

Once in a while Mills will preach the Gospel of Christ! But such occasions seem more the result of chance than of Divine guidance! His range of subjects is so wide! He has so much to say about the gospels of science, of poetry, of literature and of art, that the Gospel of Christ has to get into line and wait its turn, often, alas! to be jostled out of place and sent to the rear. His pulpit is transformed into a lecture platform; the sermons he preaches are built up from material which is brought from afar; they are pictorial in style; they abound in anecdote; they are lighted up with flashes of humor. They hold the people spellbound, but when they are over, the people ask, "What has all this talk been about? What does it amount to?" One summed it up in words like these: "We feel that we have been trying to take hold of a rope of sand. When the effervescence is over, there is nothing but a stale reminder."

Please Drop a Potato.

Brother Mills is ministering to a church which is situated in a fashionable quarter of the city, and it is always crowded:

Think of it, brother preachers! What could we not do if our churches were always crowded? The value of our preaching would jump one hundred per cent! And we wouldn't exchange places with either King or Prime Minister!

His church has been likened to a railroad-depot—people are constantly passing through it, coming and going. Those who are attracted by his fine literary style, his sallies of wit, and his rhetorical pyrotechnics soon get wearied of such things. Busy men, burdened with secular things all week, when Sunday comes round want some one to open up heaven to them.

Two of his adherents were discussing his merits as a preacher. One said:

"He never preaches a sermon without dropping pearls." "I would be better satisfied," replied the other, "if he occasionally dropped a potato."

In Solid With Some.

It is a well-known fact that Mills keeps solid with the monied men of his congregation. He attends their sumptuous dinners, goes with them hunting and fishing, and, as a matter of course, he does not bear down very heavily upon their frailities. Discarding puritanic doctrines, he also discards puritanic customs. As an emancipated man he claims the right to a good cigar or a glass of wine. Some of the unpuritanic members of his worldly congregation are loud in praise of his broad-mindedness.

This is what they say: "We admire him, he is such a large-souled man. He does not keep walloping us on account of our sins; he is charitable enough to think well even of the devil."

And yet one of this very class, in a moment of confidence, was heard to say: "I like Mills; I enjoy being with him, and listening to his fascinating stories. I also enjoy hearing him preach, but he is not exactly the sort of person I would like to have near me if I were in deep trouble, or if I were upon my deathbed."

A Good Send-Off.

The Rev. Edmund Mills is much in request for the funerals of the unchurched. He can always be depended upon to give the "deceased" a good send-off. Any man, however black his character, is sure to be liberally whitewashed; and he has to be a very hard case indeed if he is not sent sweeping through the gates. Being a prominent member of a number of clubs and secret societies, he has more than his share of large and spectacular funerals. But his funeral panegyrics, while perhaps adding to his popularity with an outside class, unquestionably detract from his influence as a spiritual leader.

One of the strings on which he loves to harp is that of the divine fatherhood. The criticism was once made:

"Mills makes God appear not so much a loving father, as a doting grandfather."

This kind of preaching stirs up a sentimental charity, and spasmodic efforts are made to supply the wants of the poor; but very little is done in the way of coming into personal touch with them and giving them the sympathy and cheer which they need as much as they need old clothes and provisions.

One Dead Fly.

The dead fly which spoils this liberal preacher's pot of ointment is his very evident determination to make religion a way of pleasantness to himself and to others. He cushions the hard duties of life and pads the cross. If he happens to evoke a spirit of self-denial he discreetly advises the penitent to imitate the pilgrim who having the penance imposed upon him of walking a mile with peas in his shoes took the precaution, before setting out, to boil the peas.

The Test Question.

Some church committees when inquiring into the merits of possible candidates for a vacant pulpit, often narrow their investigation down to one point, "Will he draw?" Perhaps it would show far better sense, and be more safe, if the question were asked, "Has he experienced the saving grace of God in his own soul? Is he religious?"

There is a story told of a church that had been favored with a succession of drawing ministers. They made this request of the bishop: "Send us next time a religious man, and if you cannot do that, send us at least one who is religiously inclined."

The church is not something out of which the minister is meant to get a living so much as something into which he is to put his life. It is not a cluster which he is supposed to carefully squeeze to fill the cup of his own pleasure. The truth which he preaches to others he should always be careful to apply to himself. "Take heed unto thyself and to thy doctrine" has never been improved upon as good advice for the minister.

I shall wind up this story which Hames Mann has told me with another which will probably round it off and bring its own point home to every thoughtful reader.

A Spanish curate preached with great eloquence against the sin of gluttony; and his housekeeper was so deeply impressed with his discourse that she slipped out of church and threw the sumptuous meal which she had prepared to the pigs, and spread the table with the simplest fare. The priest complained of the meagre repast set before him; when the housekeeper recalled his morning's discourse. "Juanita," said the good priest, "you have gone to the plaza on a Sunday afternoon to see the dance, haven't you?" "Certainly your reverence." "Did you ever see the fiddler dance?" "Never, your reverence." "Well, Juanita, I am the fiddler."

Yours till preaching days are done, Allan Fairbairn.

Valiancy and boastfulness never buckle on the same sword.

The Hour Of Prayer

FORGIVE us, Good Lord, that we have so few kind thoughts of Thee. The dregs of ignorant and superstitious ages are still with us, the unseen and unexplored oppress us, and Jesus is but little known. Grant us the grace to turn to Him, for we would fain walk with One who banishes dread, learn from One who knows "the Heart of the Eternal," be delivered from that fear of Thee that is but fright, and see Thee as Thou art, our Father and our Friend, whose heart is ever tender and whose ways are wondrous kind. Amen.

Only a Man Can Smile

NOTHING on earth can smile but man. Gems may flash reflected light, but what is a diamond flash compared to an eye flash and a mirth flash? Flowers cannot smile; this is a charm that even they cannot claim. It is the prerogative of man; it is the color which love wears and cheerfulness and joy—these three. It is a light in the windows of the face by which the heart signifies that it is at home and waiting. A face that cannot smile is like a bud that cannot blossom, and dries upon the stock. Laughter is day, and sobriety is night, and a smile is the twilight that hovers gently between both—more bewitching than either.

The chief end of man is victory over recurrent evil through intelligent energy inspired by love.

Arabian Proverbs

The Proverbs of a nation are not only an epitome of its wisdom, but crystallise for us much of its national temperament and popular habits of thought.

Give dinner to the drunken, but not supper to the tipsy.

HANDFULS OF PURPOSE

They took knowledge of them, that they had been with Jesus. —Acts 4:13.

• • •

HOW do the doctors of the Sanhedrin come to that conclusion? They marvel at the boldness and the intellectual resource of those unlearned fishermen; they are silenced by the incontrovertible evidence that these unskilled have power to heal. But this is more. There is about the companion prisoners the atmosphere of a greater presence. Not only do they show strength and wisdom where weakness and foolishness had justly been looked for but they betray an attitude which, even at so early a day, men have learned to trace to Christ. So that intangible, invisible, but insistently evident thing that is the breath of life, spirit, tells the story of a holy companionship.

GEMS FROM SPURGEON

I would not give much for your religion unless it can be seen. Lamps do not talk, but they do shine; a lighthouse sounds no drum, it beats no gong, and yet far over the waters its friendly spark is visible to the mariner. So let your actions shine out your religion. Let the main sermon of your life be illustrated by all your conduct, and it shall not fail to be illustrious.

• • •

THERE is not an ingot of silver in heaven's treasury which has not been in the furnace on earth and been purified seven times; there is not a gem which the Divine Jeweller has not exposed to very sort of test; there is not an atom of gold in the Redeemer's crown which has not been molten among the hottest coals, so as to rid it of its alloy. It is universal to every child of God. If you are a servant of the Lord you must be tried "as gold is tried."

What To Pray For

OH, do not pray for easy lives. Pray to be stronger men! Do not pray for tasks equal to your powers. Pray for powers equal to your tasks! Then the doing of your work shall be no miracle. But you shall be a miracle. Every day you shall wonder at yourself, at the richness of life which has come to you by the grace of God.

A Sad State

IN Matthew's Gospel, chapter five, the soul-justifying Saviour condemns the self-justifying scribes and pharisees. Never did men make more boast in the law, but never had men less cause. They knew but little as to the letter, and less of its spirit. They were better acquainted with the customs of nature than the canons of Scripure. Alas, how shall the blind see when the Seers are blind? They who should have put the eyes of others in had put their own out.

Think of These Things

IT is impossible to have true thoughts of ourselves while we entertain high thoughts of ourselves. "Though all men forsake thee, yet will not I." Poor Peter, he was the most impotent, when he was the most arrogant. He had no doubt of standing while others were falling; but it proved at last that he fell while others stood.

THREE PARTIES ASSURED.

From one [illegible] that should be in a position to know, the announcement comes that the Ontario Liberal party at its convention in Toronto next week will toss overboard the prohibition plank that has been in its platform for a decade or more.

At the same time J. W. Widdifield, former Whip of the Progressive group in the Legislature, declares that there will be a dry party in the field in the next provincial election although he declines to say by whom it will be led or what progress has been made in its formation.

The new party however, according to Mr. Widdifield, is assured of a great measure of support from the electors of Ontario.

Read together these two announcements confirm the prediction made some time ago by The Examiner that a change of front on the part of the Liberal party in regard to prohibition would mean the advent of a third political organization made up of those who refuse to support the sale of liquor in any form or under any system.

Next week's convention will help to clear the air to some extent but the most reliable prediction that can be made now is that the next provincial election will find three parties in the field and that the dry forces, with the vote of those in favor of Government control split between the two old parties, will be a prominent factor in the next campaign.

THE UNITY LEAGUE.

A new organization, to foster Socialism as its policy and to embrace all left-wing sections of agrarian and labor forces in Canada, is being promoted by the Canadian Farmers' Educational League.

It will be known as the Farmers' Unity League of Canada, and will seek to make possible the formation of a workers' and farmers' government to operate on Socialistic principles.

The chief qualification of membership will be poverty, as the organization has decided that only the poorer farmers and workers will be admitted, the feeling being that the interests of the more prosperous farmers are antagonistic to those of unsuccessful agrarians.

According to that viewpoint, the farmer with the most debts should be the most desirable members of the Unity League, and it is difficult to see how an organization composed of men who have failed to accomplish anything on their own account can have any real ground for hoping that it will be able to do something for the whole country.

An aggregation of failures, as the new body admits itself to be, would be most doubtful material out of which to fashion a national government.

The Unity League, it is presumed, will have its brief day on the public stage and then disappear as so many other organizations of the same kind have done.

It cannot get far along the road it has laid out for itself, for it starts wrong by eliminating from its ranks all who have shown they have brains and energy enough to achieve a measure of success.

MR. BENNETT WILL BE BUSY.

Premier R. B. Bennett has declined an invitation to be tendered a civic banquet at Ottawa on the ground that pressure of business will keep him constantly occupied.

There does not seem to be any doubt of that fact.

Although the Premier has been working at top pressure ever since the federal campaign began last June, he comes home to find a series of problems that might well dismay even such an apparently tireless statesman as himself.

One of the most disturbing of these problems is the fact that while federal revenues are rapidly falling, expenditures continue to show an increase.

With two-thirds of the current fiscal year completed, the ordinary revenues of the Dominion show a decrease of some fifty-seven and a half million dollars in revenue as compared with the same period of last year.

The figures are $261,710,309 in ordinary revenue in the first eight months of this year, as against revenue of $319,218,828 in the same portion of the preceding fiscal year.

And while revenues are thus shrinking there has been during the period under review an increase of $12,572,630 in ordinary expenditures.

As many of the projects promised by the Premier still remain untouched, the financial outlook will give Mr. Bennett a great deal over which to worry.

A deficit and increased taxation would seem to be certain developments in the budget of the coming session.

THE INVISIBLE DEATH.

The official bulletin of the Quebec Roads Department, which is always a most interesting document, contains in its latest issue a most important warning as to the nature and danger from carbon monoxide, pointing out that the gas is a menace even in an automobile in motion on the road.

The information given below should be read carefully by all motorists.

Carbon monoxide is a colorless, tasteless, practically odorless gas, and is without any irritant action on the mucosa of the respiratory tract. Because of these properties, it is impossible to detect it by any of the five senses. It is, therefore, a most treacherous gas, since it can be present in dangerous quantities without giving any warning whatever.

Symptoms.—The symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning vary greatly, depending upon whether the poisoning is acute or chronic. In the acute cases there may be no symptoms other than drowsiness, the patient falling asleep never to waken. At other times there may be a throbbing in the head, a caving in of the knees, a blurring of the vision; the patient falling to the ground before he is able to escape to a place of safety.

In the chronic cases there is a wide variation of symptoms. The patient may complain of headache, dizziness, nausea or vomiting—common symptoms among garage workers. In addition there may be general weakness, numbness and tingling of the hands and feet. These symptoms, which are most marked after exposure for some hours to small amounts of the gas, may disappear after the patient has passed some time in the fresh air, but will return again during further exposure to the gas.

Don't flirt with death.—The average automobile while "warming up" discharges from its exhaust about one cubic foot of deadly carbon monoxide per minute. In an average sized garage of 10' x 10' x 20' it requires less than two minutes to produce sufficient carbon monoxide to reach a concentration injurious to health. In 5 minutes the atmosphere will contain sufficient to produce asphyxia, and in a very few minutes more the concentration will reach a fatal amount.

First aid and treatment.—Persons overcome by gas should be removed at once to the fresh air, and, if breathing has stopped, should be given artificial respiration.

How to prevent carbon monoxide poisoning:

1—Have carburators adjusted for most complete combustion rather than for pick up and power.

2—Do not race motors when cars are standing still.

3—Shut off the motor for stops.

4—Never run a motor indoors without leading the exhaust through a pipe to the outdoors.

5—Never get under a car with the motor running.

6—Keep radiator fan type heaters closed when travelling slowly and closely behind other cars.

7—Beware of a feeling of tiredness, headache, nausea, palpitation of the heart, and mental dullness. These symptoms may be due to chronic carbon monoxide poisoning, resulting from long exposure to low concentrations of the poison.

COMBINES AND COMMONSENSE.

(Canadian Labor Press)

At the present time there seems to be an epidemic of combine investigations, as, for example, the electrical trade in Toronto, the plumbing industry throughout Ontario, the investigation into the control by the Famous Players Canadian Corporation of the film industry in Canada, and the proposed enquiries into bread and milk.

Whilst there is a good deal of justification for some of the investigations, especially in view of the evidence disclosed in the report of the Toronto electrical trade yet so far there does not seem to be the same justification in the case of others.

A great outcry has been made within recent months by certain of the motion picture exhibitors in Canada regarding the alleged control of the film industry by the Famous Players Canadian Corporation, a great deal of which we believe is based on very inaccurate and unsound grounds. Even in the press, the Famous Players Company is being accused of ostracizing and penalizing British plays and British-made films. There is no proof to justify such a charge. It is stated that British plays are prohibited from coming to Canada through control by the Famous Players of the theatres necessary for their production, and through Hollywood and Wall street control of the company, British-made films are shut out. Even a Toronto newspaper recently hinted at this control in articles by its dramatic and screen critic, yet in the same issue it was pointed out that during the past three years the theatres under Famous Players control have been bringing in a number of good British-made films, and announcements are made that others are on their way. The truth is that conditions are responsible for British plays not being shown here as largely as they used to be, due to the fact that the public have turned to the talkie and both British and United States actors and vaudeville players have suffered as a consequence.

The situation is not any worse here than it is in the United States where there are only 17 cities in which plays can be presented, and everyone knows by common experience that the vaudeville stage has lost immensely during the past two years. Circumstances are also responsible for the small number comparatively of British-made films coming to Canada now. Films requiring an outdoor location are made under the very best conditions in the United States, conditions impossible to get in Great Britain, and as a consequence, due to this natural monopoly, it is altogether probable that Hollywood will always control the production of these films. Films requiring indoor locations made in Great Britain are coming here in increasing numbers, and the Famous Players Canadian Corporation have shown no desire to exclude them, but, on the contrary, wherever a high quality British-made film can be secured they have endeavored to produce them here and thus meet public demand.

It would be folly for a Canadian company to pursue a policy of exclusion towards everything not produced in the United States, and the record of the Famous Players Canadian Corporation shows that it is a wonderfully efficient organization who have never shown any tendency towards such a foolish move. The Famous Players Canadian Corporation have suffered a good deal of calumny in this matter, and has been the target of attacks in the public press which were untrue and unjustified, and we think are deserving of a good deal of sympathy from the public in this matter.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Great Britain is revenged. London "Truth" refers to Mr. Ferguson as Premier Forbes of Ontario.

Poverty is a qualification for membership in the new Agrarian-Labor organization which opens the door wide to most people.

A Montreal scientist says there is too much noise in the world, but fails to point out that the loudest sound of all is that made by the ticking of the clock in a store that does not advertise.

And now Russia is trying to put an end to the celebration of Christmas. It will take more than a five-year plan to bring about that result.

Golfers cannot compete for cash prizes on miniature golf courses without losing their amateur status, a decision that puts runt golf in the major class.

Ontario's new road marks are to show the chief historic spots in the Province. It is presumed the places where bottles were picked out of the ditches during the 1929 election will be included.

The little republic of San Marino with a smaller population than that of Peterborough is defying Mussolini.

Vancouver evidently appreciates good service. L. D. Taylor, who prior to 1928 was seven times mayor, was re-elected to the position on Wednesday with a majority of over 5,000.

News of Our Own Village

Rolly Denne, our worthy mayor these last 3 years, has tossed his hat into the municipal ring and a lotta villagers is hoping they won't be no other headgear there when election day arrives.

The village curlers has decided they won't hold no bonspiel this season, which looks like Hero Martin and Jack Mayneord won't have much to do during the cold spell.

Mrs. Park and her girls put on a concert in Ed. Beatty's hotel, Front St., Toronto, west of here, last Sun. nite and made a hit with all and sundry.

What with this paper's dance Tues. and Jack Stewart's midnite performance at the Main St. picture house Thurs., looks like the villagers is going to lose a lotta beauty sleep next week. But they'll sleep better the rest of the winter knowing they've helped take care of some of the needy, say we.

Ross Dobbin's trained help strung colored lites on Main St. this week, giving a festive appearance, so to speak, to the trading section of this fair village.

Judge Huycke held court here this week, celebrating his 21st year on the bench in this flourishing county. Congratulation, Judge, say we.

A bunch of village Grits is going to Toronto, west of here, next Tues. to attend the convention in that place and mebbe pick a new leader in place of Billy Sinclair of Oshawa, just along the provincial highway from Bowmanville, to the west of us.

R. Hall's general store on Main St. is all decked out with Christmas treas and other furbelows, Loule Yeotes' eating house has a new sign, indicating the business depression, if any, is taking to the woods.

Hockey teams from Lakefield and Norwood has formed a league with 2 village clubs, which makes it look like the doctor's hereabouts oughta get a fair run of business this winter.

If Sandy MacTavish is looking for campaign cigars your scribe hastens to inform him that Nag. Phelan, Mal McIntyre, Dan Holland, Jack McNabb and Harry Huffman is the councillors what will hafta run again this year.

They won't be no poultry show here this winter and Geo. Paxman, Harry Lush and other village experts, feel like they just discovered there aint no Sandy Claws.

Mayor Denne threw a party for the councillors and village officials at Graham's Hotel Monday night, with limelight views by Fred Roy and a couple short speeches. Other banquet promoters please note, say we.

A Thought

BOOKS

A good book is a lasting companion. Truths, which have taken years to glean, are therein at once freely, carefully communicated. We enjoy communion with the mind though not with the person of the writer. Thus the humblest man may surround himself by the wisest and best spirits of past and present ages. No one can be solitary who possesses a book; he owns a friend that will instruct him in moments of leisure, or of necessity. It is only necessary to turn open the leaves, and the fountain at once gives forth its streams. You may seek most costly furniture for your homes, fanciful ornaments for your mantel-pieces and rich carpets for your floors; but, after the absolute necessaries for a home, give me the books as at once the cheapest, and certainly the most useful and abiding embellishment.

Don't forget the big Examiner party and dance at the Legion Hall next Tuesday night, December 16th. Come along and have a good time and provide a Christmas dinner for some needy family.

JEAN'S SANTA CLAUS

By JULIE ANNE MOORE

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE.

December 12th.

Dear darling, faithful Phil. I'm almost happy this morning. I ought to be completely happy, but there's something inside that I can't quite analyze. Maybe it's just old human discontent without which we wouldn't be humans at all, but gods. Even now I can't be absolutely sure that I love Phil. But it must be love. His letter was wonderful. "I love you. Can any thing else matter?" That's the way it began. That's his answer to my effort to explain why I sent him away after he and Lionel had fought in the hall. Surely nothing else does matter. And Christmas morning he'll be waiting. Yesterday was a good day all round. I took lunch with Mollie and Lionel at Simmons' and they told me what they had decided. Mollie went with him to meet his parents and to go to a show with them. They must have given her a good time, for she was all aflutter about it when she came back last night. Fell in love with Lionel's mother. And yet this morning before she left for the store she repeated what she said yesterday about getting a divorce from Lionel after Christmas. Funny girl! I don't understand her. Lionel's like a reed in the wind, emotionally. He's likely to fall in love with every pretty girl he sees. But at the same time, he's mad about Mollie, and if she would treat him half decently, she could wrap him around her finger. Sandy sent me a note yesterday asking me to come to the office some time today. Strictly business, he said. I wonder. I must write Phil at once.

Sandy was engaged with a visitor when Jean reached the office. Lionel, humming softly, looked up as she entered and quickly went to her, both hands extended.

"Jean, if you only knew how much I appreciate what you've done. Did Mollie tell you?"

Jean gave him her coat and dropped into a chair by his desk. "About the show yesterday?" she asked innocently. "Very little."

"The show was incidental," he told her. "Meeting mother and dad, I mean. She was a hit, Jean. I mean it." He leaned against his desk, and gazed off thoughtfully. "Do you know, she's marvelous when she wants to be. I hardly knew her. And was mother pleased? You could see that she was relieved. I suppose she thought. Well, mothers are funny that way."

"About in-laws? You can't blame them. The trouble is, they don't trust their own children. Not in the matter of picking mates, anyway. And I don't know that I blame them there, either."

Lionel grinned guiltily. "You're not getting personal, are you?"

"I wasn't, Lionel; but I will. Your mother's daughter-in-law is all right. If she can just get over one or two silly ideas she has about marriage, she'll make . . . some man a fine wife."

Lionel's smile had flown. Soberly, silently, he met her quiet gaze, knowing well what was in her mind.

"And you're not without your points, Lionel," Jean continued after a moment. "Never mind the bow. I'm talking straight from the shoulder because you're both friends of mine and . . . I'd like to see you gather up the wreckage and make something fine out of it. Your trouble is that you're too eager for affection. If one girl won't give it to you, you try another."

"Wait a moment," Lionel protested. "You're not suggesting that I . . . that I made love to you simply because . . ."

"Because I happened to be the first girl who came along after Mollie had left you? No, I'm not. Frankly, I'm a little flattered to think that you chose me in preference to . . . well, say, Miss Trelling."

Lionel's face colored. "You don't think I'd put you two in the same class?"

"No? I don't know why not. She's a nice, intelligent girl. And after all, you did find her attractive enough to kiss, you know. I shouldn't have seen it, I know, but it was accidental, I assure you. But don't let that fuss you. It is simply a case in point. You wanted to kiss a girl and Miss Trelling happened to be handy. There's you weakness, Lionel, and if you have any hopes of winning Mollie back, you've got to guard against it."

Lionel said nothing, but stared at the shiny toes of his shoes, knowing quite well that she had spoken the truth.

"Kissing Mis Trelling didn't amount to anything, Lionel," Jean added gently. "The little things never amount to much in themselves. But they're dangerous risks. Mollie's a liberal thinker, when she thinks at all; but she won't do much thinking if she ever discovers that you're not devoting your entire attention to her. She's that kind. By the way," Jean asked suddenly, "you didn't do something foolish like that the day you were married that caused Mollie to leave you?"

Lionel turned on her quickly. "Good lord! You don't think I'm that much of a rotter, I hope." And then, lowering his voice: "I've never known why she left me, though I've suspected it was because I lied to her. Little things again," he smiled sadly. "Little lies. I met Mollie at a dance one night. She thought I was a student at Columbia and I let her think it. And when she asked me my name, I gave her the name of a friend of mine in Moberly, Cyril Thatcher. I don't know why I did it, except that it didn't matter then. Later . . . I had to admit the lie about my name the night we were married, of course."

"But you still let her think you were a Columbia student?"

Lionel nodded gravely. "Until next day. She came across a track medal I won at the University of Missouri, and I told her the truth."

A shark click warned them that Sandy's visitor was about to leave his office.

Lionel said quickly: "She didn't seem to mind, then. She didn't even ask what I did for a living. But . . . I left the room a little later, and when I went back . . ." He shrugged meaningly, and made a little movement with his head that caused her to turn and look behind her.

A short, corpulent man of forty or forty-five was crossing to the hall door. Behind him, in the doorway of his office, stood Sandy, tall and still, his eyes fixed on Jean.

Presently he bowed, slowly, and waited for Jean to pass into his office. When she was seated, he pulled the door to quietly, and stood gazing down at her curiously.

Jean was irritated by the silence. "You wanted to see me . . . on business?"

And still he gazed at her fixedly, in silence, as if he were reading her thoughts. But at last, with an abrupt movement, he left the door and went to his desk.

"Yes," he said then, his eyes on a pad before him. "There are several minor matters I wanted to discuss with you." And after a brief silence: "The Miniature Baby Plan seems to be going along according to schedule."

"So much so," Jean told him, "that my conscience hurts me. There doesn't seem to be much that I can do but look wise."

He gave her a gentle smile. "Because you've done the preliminary work so well," he told her. "Your job now is to do just that, look wise. That's every executive's job, by the way. It's your looking wise that keeps the wheels turning, Jean."

Jean nodded, soberly, because she could think of nothing to say, nothing that she could trust herself to say.

"However," Sandy resumed, "I want you to take an afternoon off in the next day or two for another job. Do you think you would enjoy buying some Christmas things for little Ellen?"

"Of course," Jean said quickly, too quickly for she realized that she had let the first bar down by her eagerness.

"I'll have Lionel give you a check," he told her. "If you find it isn't enough, let me know. Use your own judgment, of course. You know what little girls like besides miniature babies. I'd suggest a nice little wardrobe in addition to toys, by the way."

"She needs it," Jean agreed. And: "You might include a little something for Miss Wood."

"Yes, of course. By all means. I don't know why I didn't think of it."

A silence fell upon them. Sandy fingered a paper-cutter nervously. Jean watched him with growing concern. She thought she saw the signs of an abrupt turn in the conversation.

Presently Sandy said: "This may not sound like business, but I can assure you that it is . . . strictly business. Do you still plan to leave New York after Christmas?"

The last time he had asked that question, Jean reflected, she had told him she wasn't sure. There was no doubt in her reply now.

"I'm leaving New York Christmas morning." Very positive.

"Would you consider an offer from the I.P.P. at an increase in salary?"

She shook her head firmly. "No, for two reasons. I'm not worth what I'm getting now, and . . . I'm going to be married Christmas morning."

Sandy stared at her, his face pale, two little lumps moving high on his cheeks. His hard, hurt expression told Jean more than he could have said with any number of words. She was immediately sorry she had put it so bluntly.

When, after a time, he was still staring, silently, she got up and moved toward the door.

"I appreciate the opportunity to stay with the I.P.P.," she said softly; "but . . . as you know, I came for adventure, and I've had it. You've been more than nice to me, but when the job's done . . . I'm through with New York . . . for good."

Sandy was not looking at her now, but sat staring, blindly, toward the window, his hands opening and closing slowly on his desk.

Softly Jean opened the door and went out.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR.

Some day, perhaps, I will feel that the experience was worth while. Just now I am sick of it. Just a few weeks ago I was in Kelsey, the office force of the Red Diamond Novelty Company. I can hardly believe I am the same person. Certainly I have had enough adventure to satisfy what craving I had. And adventure of a sort I shouldn't have chosen if I had had my way about it in some ways it seems like a dream. Sandy, Marcia, Fargeson, Diggers, Lionel, Ellen imaginary characters in my little play. And yet as real and as vital in my life as was Phil and the crowd back home. Only Mollie and Phil hold my old world to the new. They are the only characters common to both. But it's almost over now. In less than two weeks, there will be only Phil and the substantial, if unexciting, life of Kelsey. I had my session with Sandy yesterday. He was awfully sober and business like. I thought, too, he was a little sad. He asked me if I would stay on after Christmas with an increse in salary There was a moment when I was leaving that almost got me. I forgot all about his defense of Marcia; I forgot everything but his haggard look and the hurt in his eyes and wanted to go to him and tell him it didn't matter. But I couldn't somehow. I don't hate him any more, but I can't pretend I've forgotten.

It was typical of Jean's placid existence before she went to New York that she should assume each day that the exciting portion of her adventure was over. Day after day she wrote in her diary as if there were nothing more to think about save the uneventful interim until Christmas and her return to Kelsey. And though the next day brought fresh problems and further complications, she told herself once more the adventure was over, that it was now only a question of waiting.

When, therefore, she received a telephone call from Lionel shortly after she had gone back to the factory in the afternoon she anticipated nothing beyond the mildly interesting conversation, a report, perhaps, of his progress with Mollie.

Recognizing his voice, he said casually: "So you're working Saturday afternoon, too?"

"Listen Jean." There was an odd note in his voice that caused her to suddenly lean toward the mouthpiece, expectantly. "I'm not at the office; I'm using a public phone. Can you come to the office at once?"

"Why . . . of course. But why?"

"Sandy. I can't talk about it over the phone. Something" happened. I'm not sure what it is, but he's like a mad man. Will you come right up?"

"You know I can, but I don't understand. Does Sandy want me to come to the office?"

"No, but you might help. Listen," his voice was suddenly hoarse a whisper, "Marcia was with him most of the morning. You never heard such storming. What about I don't know, but she left him in a fine state, I tried to talk with him, but he ordered me out of the office. But someone must see him, or I tell you, he's fit for murder now. Won't you come up, Jean?"

Jean stared at the wall before her, trying to piece his nervous sentences into something tangible. What did Lionel want her to do?She understood enough, however, to realize that something was seriously wrong.

"I'll come, of course," she told him presently. "But what am I expected to do when I get there? If Sandy refused to talk with you, he'll probably throw me out the window."

"No, he won't. He'll listen to you, Jean. You know he will. Please."

She left the factory at once, walking to

GIVE FARMER SQUARE DEAL

Marmora, Ont.

To The Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir:

My attention has been drawn to the article in a recent edition of your valuable paper, regarding the reported difficulty experienced by those in charge of the construction of sections of Highway No. 7 in coming to a financial agreement with owners of land traversed by the proposed route of this Highway; also to the letter written by "A Farmer" in reply to that article.

I wish to make it clear that personally, I am not acquainted with any of the farmers or farms involved, and have not the slightest idea of the offers, if any, made to the land-owners. Neither am I a farmer with land near this highway, but write this merely as an interested observer.

In discussing the construction of this and other highways with different farmers. I cannot help being impressed with the feeling which seems more or less general, that the farmer does not get a fair deal. When surveying and settling upon the route of these highways, no consideration is apparently taken of the farmer's right on his own land. The route is chosen by the government engineers to facilitate ease of construction and upkeep, without regard to the practically useless corners cut off valuable fields, the ruining of the shape of otherwise ajuare farms and the numerous points which help to increase the value of a good farm.

Of course we are well aware that the roads must, of necessity, cross some possibly valuable acreages, with the resulting inconvenience to the residents, but why such utter carelessness in this respect? The old road beds in many case, from the farmer's viewpoint at least, would be just as convenient.

Even this objection might be overlooked however, if the farmer could be led to believe that he was being paid for his land in relation to its value. But when he is paid merely for his acreage, frontage, etc., without regard to the difference in value between a piece of rough unworkable land and a section from a fertile and highly productive field which is quite possibly depreciated in value by being cut into uneven and shapeless sections, the average farmer cannot believe that those in authority are really seeking his interests.

The excuse usually given, of course, is that the proximity of the King's Highway and the farm's frontage hereon will result in increased values for the land. That as a theory may be fine, but in actual fact seems to be a beautiful illusion. How many farms in Ontario to-day with all its highways could be sold for even a fraction of their real value?

The highways are not built for the farmer, but for the purpose mainly of speeding up the business and pleasure trips of the urban ratepayers. The average rural dweller would be quite satisfied if his township or county expended even a portion of the money which now goes to the Provincial coffers, for the construction of highways, upon improving and keeping up the roads which have served him for years past.

And he would feel that at least he had a voice in his own government and a chance to defend his own interests.

Trusting, Sir, that you will not consider this too lengthy for publication, and thanking you,

I am,

Yours truly,

R.B.C.

TICKER BRIEFS

Operations of Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company next week will be at 35 per cent against 40 per cent in the corresponding week of 1929. Curtailment of production at the Campbell Works where company has its large lapbutt and seamless pipe capacity, accounts for the drop in operations in the coming week. December demands for tubular products are showing the usual season decline, while automobile requirements for sheets have not improved sufficiently to permit any substantial increase in output of that product.

INTERLISTED ISSUES IN VAN OF DOWN TREND ON STANDARD

International Nickel and Noranda Break Through Under Steady Selling.

GOLDS UNCHANGED.

TORONTO, Ont., December 13 (C.P.). — Reflecting general softness in securities and falling metal prices, practically all movements on the mining market to-day took the downward direction, with interisted issues in the van of decline.

International Nickel and Noranda under steady selling pressure, broke through former resistance points into new loan territory for the past two or three years, former closing off a point and a half from last night at $15.25 and latter down 40 at $13. Lindsley's were firm with Sherritt-Gordon apparently trying to improve its position.

Majority of the golds held unchanged in light turnover.

The active oils were under fire. Nordon declined 10 to 50, Acme Gas was off a couple to 25, and Ajax Oil lost 5 to $1.35. East Crest sold up a few cents at 60.

DISEASE BLAMED IN QUEBEC DEATH

Son Stood Vigil Over Mother's Dead Body Five Days.

POLICE FORCE DOOR.

QUEBEC, Que., Dec. 13. — Mrs. Charles Petit, whose son stood vigil over her dead body for five days before she was found in her home here early this week, died from a lung disease, it was revealed by doctors at a coroners inquest here. It had been believed the woman had succumbed to starvation and exposure.

The son, a seventeen year old feeble-minded youth, who barricaded the front door of the Petit home, a miserable downtown dwelling, while he stood guard over his mother's body, was still in hospital to-day receiving treatment for cold and exposure.

The discoverey was made by a charitable worker who had called to bring help to the Petits, and a policeman who had to make a forced entry after finding the door had been barricaded.

FRESH BREAKS AT NEW YORK

MANY MINOR LOSSES.

(By Claude A. Jagger, Associated Press Financial Editor).

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Unnerved by fresh breaks in some of the commodities, the stock market, which has lately been undermining its bottom levels of the year, took a decisive plunge to-day.

U.S. Steel, American Telephone and other prominent issues broke through recent resistance points. Numerous losses ranged from 1 to 4 points, with a few wider and the list as a whole reached a new low since 1927.

Shares losing 2 to 3 points included Dupont, General Electric, Union Carbide, Woolworth, Sears, Consolidated Gas, American Waterworks, American and Foreign Power and Eastman. Allied Chemical lost 4.

TORONTO LIST SETS NEW MARK

Noranda Equals Lowest Record and Oils Suffer Fractional Losses.

FORD OF CANADA OFF.

TORONTO, Dec. 13 (C.P.) — The average for stocks on Toronto exchange broke through all previous resistance levels to new low ground for the year and longer under selling pressure this morning.

International Nickel plumbed new depths at 15. Brazilian broke to 21, still above its record low, however; C.P.R. pushed 55, a new low; Massey Harris did the same; Noranda equalled its old record, and the oils sank fractionally to near their minimum prices, some below such figures.

Ford of Canada sold off fractionally, still at 20 or better, however. Steel of Canada lost less than a point, while Page-Hersey Tubes broke between one and two points. Atlantic Sugar, recently prominent on the upward swing, declined abruptly to 12. Service Stations lost more than a point; Canada Wirebouund eased and Walkers declined to 6.

Following the failure of the recent Paris automobile show to stimulate sales, some auto manufaturers of France favor discontinuance of the annual exhibition.

GREETING CARDS.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 13.—New greeting cards have recently been distributed by the Travel Association of Great Britain and Ireland to their members for inclusion in foreign and overseas correspondence. Considerable supplies have also been sent to the Travel Association's representatives in New York and Buenos Aires and to British Government representatives abroad, who will assist in giving them useful distribution.

These new greeting cards, like hundreds of thousands distributed overseas earlier in the year, are printed in English, French, German, and Spanish. Of the two cards in English, one is a greeting from the British Isles illustrated with pen drawings emblematic of England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales and the other is an illustrated greeting from London.

Evidence has been received by the Travel Association from many parts of the world that the inclusion of these little cards in business correspondence and in parcels of goods has given pleaure to the recipients and has stimulated in many a determination to visit Great Britain and Ireland.

WILLINGDON POST NOT FOR BORDEN

Neither Expects Nor Desires Honor Sir Robert States Regarding Rumors.

OFFICE VACANT IN AUGUST.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 13 (C.P.)—In a statement issued to the press this morning, Sir Robert Borden asserts that if he should be offered the appointment of Governor General of Canada he "would without hesitation decline it."

"I neither expect nor desire that the honor of appointment as Governor General shall be offered to he," he says.

Sir Robert remarked that his name has been mentioned on a number of occasions in connection with the post of Governor General of Canada which will become vacant next August. In view of this fact he considered it necessary to state his position in the matter.

The New York market closed on a decidedly weak note today noon, most of the leading industrials crashing down from yesterday's closing prices and in the case of U. S. Steel, which opened at 138 5-8, establishing a new low at close of 136 3-8 to 5-8. Intnl. Nickel closed at 15 1-8 to 1-4. General Motors was one of the strongest leaders on the market, closing at 33 3-8½.

N. Y. Daily Investment News says, "The market looks definately lower with renewal liquidation during Friday rally, and expect down trend probable until the first two weeks of January, interrupted by minor rallies.

We have information from well informed circles, that Nickel earnings for this quarter will be considerably lower than last. People whose opinion is usually correct, expect stock to sell below 15

The Mirror states, "The market cannot seem to draw far enough away from its low points on any rally, to show anything to the man who wants to buy stock. So many people are bearish on the market that there is a disposition in some quarters to believe that a sizeable rally cannot be long delayed.

REDS MENACING CITY OF CANTON

Martial Law Declared to Prevent Recurrence of 1927 Outbreak.

TELEGRAPH WIRES CUT.

CANTON, China, Dec. 13 (C.P.).—Alarmed by Communist disorders in Northern Kwangtung Province, as 10,000 Reds moved southward toward this city, the Government declared martial law in Canton, as a precaution against a Communist uprising.

Troops patrolled the streets, guarding against a recurrence of the Red terror three years ago, which caused the deaths of thousands in street fighting and the burning of a large portion of Canton.

With telegraph wires cut, no word came from Shiuchow, whither four regiments were hurried to stem the Red horde. Anxiety was heightened by reports of defections of Government troops, bought by Communist chieftains.

July Wheat Drops To New Low Mark

CHICAGO, Dec. 13 (C.P.)—Influenced by an unsettled stock market July wheat dropped to-day to a low price record for the season. Corn also was without support, and gave way under scattered selling pressure. Starting unchanged to ⅝ off, wheat later continued to sag. Old crop deliveries held about steady under the the power of Farm Board allies. Corn opened ⅝ to 1¼ down, and subsequently rallied somewhat.

CHURCHILL FACES MANY ATTACKS

Speech Mischievous From Beginning to End Says Ramsay MacDonald.

BLIND TO MOVES IN INDIA.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 13. (CP)—If Right Hon. Winston Churchill, former Chancellor of the Exchequer, and a vivid and irrepressible figure in British politics for the past quarter of a century, expected his attack on the Indian Conference to develop plenty of reaction, he has not been disappointed.

Confronted with Mr. Churchill's blunt declaration that British rule was essential to India, that a Hindu despotism or ferocious internal wars would be bound to succeed its removal, and that India should be told that Britain intended to stay, in India's own interests, the press and politicians were not slow in voicing comment.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, speaking at Reading last night, called the Churchill speech "mischievous from beginning to end, with not a constructive item or proposal in it."

"Mr. Churchill's speech," said the Prime Minister, reveals a mind "blind to recent political movement in India, and stiff-necked regarding the handling of the people whom we have invited to discuss with us their views and desires."

CHRISTMAS FARE IS PLENTIFUL

Plump Poultry, Meats and Vegetables Load Stalls on Local Market.

FRESH APPLE CIDER.

Christmas fare, in the form of plump birds, ready dressed for the cook to handle, and prime quarters of meat along with all varieties of choice fruits and vegetables, loaded the stalls in the local market this morning and found brisk demands among the discerning housewives.

Scenes of unusual activity were apparent both on the square and in the covered market, where a goodly crowd monopolized a large area of space around the stove—much to the mild chagrin of several of the stallholders, who stood and shivered, out of the friendly warmth radiated by the big box stove.

Fresh apple cider was being offered this morning at 50 cents per gallon, and it is reported that it is in great demand, both wholesale and retail.

Live fowl were being offered in crates at $1.50 each bird, while their lifeless counterparts, minus feathers, were demanding 22-25 cents a pound. Geese were anywhere from 30 cents to 35 cents a pound, with turkeys at 30 cents (wholesale) and 33-35 cents retail. Ducks were around 30 cents.

For prime beef 11 cents per pound was being asked for fronts and 13 cents for hindquarters, with little demand.

Pork was finding favor at 16-17-18 cents, and lamb at 18-20 cents.

Dairy produce was plentiful and fresh farm butter was selling for 35 cents a pound. Eggs were priced at 45-50 and 60 cents a dozen.

Potatoes are still bringing the prevailing price of $1.00 per bag. Apples in large quantities were being offered at the following prices: Spies, 50 cents peck; small sweets, 35 cents; Baldwins, 40 cents. Christmas trees were in brisker demand this morning and were being snapped up at prices ranging from 25 cents up, according to size.

Well-cut hickory axe handles were being sold on the market this morning by an Indian, who asked the nominal sum of 25 cents each. The handles are hand carved, and the salesman guaranteed them not to warp.

CANADIAN INDUSTRIAL EARNINGS SHOW DECLINE OF 17 PER CENT

Loss Amounts to Aggregate of $96,469,889—Fifteen Show Higher Profits.

MARKET STEADY.

(Special to Examiner, Copyright 1930.)

TORONTO, Dec. 13.—Downward trend on the Canadian stock exchanges has as yet failed to break the indexes below the low for the year and at the end of this week the averages were still a couple of points above bottom for 1930. Prices were off in the week's trading but losses in most issues were small and only a few went much beyond a point. Volume showed signs of increasing at times, but there was nothing to indicate liquidation and the lists simply sold off in sympathy with Wall Street where security prices were affected by selling to establish income tax closses and the difficulties a fairly large New York bank found itself in.

Of vital interest to the Canadian stock markets will the financial statements of corporations and institutions to make their appearance in the early months of 1931. Present quotations are very conservative in relation to earnings per share for 1929 and well within the old yardstick of ten times There is no doubt, however, that 1930 earnings per share will not be as good as those for the previous period and current prices for a number of equity securities are selling at levels to discount this. Lack of quarterly profit and loss figures for most Canadian industrials makes it impossible to guage the earning power behind securities in 1930 and the only indication is the results already reported by a number of companies to-date. Approximately 60 corporations and institutions have published either annual financial statements or interim reports covering at least 6 months of 1930 and a compilation of these may be a guide as to what is to be expected from the balance. As the business depression set in about August 1929, these exhibits more than likely cover the months in which the comparisons will be the worst as profits dropped in the final months of last year and the figures for the late months of 1930 should not present as unfavorable contrast.

Aggregate gross earnings and operating profits of a Canadian group, comprising industrials, public utilities, banks, etc., indicate a new decline of $96,469,889 or 17.35 per cent from the 1929 figures. Of the group 44 experienced a gross decrease of $100,615,872 and included in this were 6 deficits amounting in all to $4,162,992. On the other hand, there were 15 companies with higher profits amounting to $4,145,983 in the aggregate. The group of earnings of $555,882,366 in 1929 against only $459,412,477 in 1930. The reduction was more or less general in all branches although companies dealing in wheat and its products suffered the most, the railroads as well being affected through reduced freight haulage.

Five Canadian milling concerned experienced a decrease in 1930 earnings of 127.4 per cent. The reduction was general with all and one had a deficit. In the case of company to report a deficit there were extraordinary losses, as well as operating, and for the basis of comparison as much of these extraordinary losses as possible were eliminated from the tabulation. Grain marketing and elevators suffered almost as badly, with a reduction of 106.8 per cent for a group of 8. Not one in the group was able to report an increase and of the 8 no less than 4 were in red figures. The companies in both groups had to contend with trying conditions in the grain markets.

Other concerns affected more or less by the situation in wheat were the railways and to a lesser extent the bakeries. Combined gross earnings of the Canadian National Railways and the Canadian Pacific Railway were down over $69,000,000 in the first eleven months of 1930. As a whole the food and merchandising concerns did better than most groups but it is noticeable all three bakeries to report so far met with decreased profit. Merchandising organizations, however, did much better with three out of five showing increased earnings and the other two declines of no consequence. The reduction in this group amounted to 21.4 per cent.

The two leading base metals producers of the Dominion had to bow to lessened demand and lower prices for metals and, as a result, a group of 5 mines indicated a drop in earnings of over $9,000,000 or 27.2 per cent. It is worth noting here that the gold producers in this group all showed increased profit over the previous year. Two out of three of the leading distilleries report lower earnings and the group met with a decline over $1,750,000 or 21.1 per cent. Ban on liquor exports to the United States in mid year and the shifting of export operations from the Ontario border to the St. Lawrence was a determining factor in the drop. A miscellaneous group of 14 industrials reported a decrease of over $3,000,000 or 32.9 per cent. Of this entire group only two were in a position to report increased profit and one met with a deficit The company in red operates in Western Canada and was affected by the same conditions as the milling concerns, etc.

The best showing of all was made by the utilities, a group of 6 reporting an increase of a fraction of 1 per cent. In this group where was an equal number of increases and decreases. Next came the steels and equipments with a net decline of less than 1 per cent. Two of the 6 reported substantial increases and the balance reductions of from 5 to 20 per cent.

TIDY BALANCE IS SHOWN IN RECEIPTS

King's Own Bible Class of St. James' Church Elects Officers.

A splendid representation of the King's Own Bible Class of St. James' United Church was present last evening when their annual election of officers was held at the home of Mrs. W. K. Sloan.

Reports from the various departments were given, showing very practical results of the class activities. The treasurer reported total receipts for the year of over $230.00 with a balance on hand of over $50.00.

During the year fifty calls were made at the hospitals and a great number in the homes. Rev. A. E. Moorhouse presided at the election of officers and the class has the following efficient executive for 1931.

Teacher, Mrs. A. E. Moorhouse; president, Mrs. Alvin Davis; vice president, Mrs. J. Freeman; recording secretary, Mrs. W. K. Sloan; treasurer, Mrs. M. Drysdale; social committee convenor, Mrs. Spurway, Mrs. Bannon and Mrs. Meeks; program committee, Mrs. Frank Stevens and Mrs. Alex Rosborough; telephone committee, Mrs. Earl Eakins; press secretary, Mrs. Wagar.

A pleasant social home was enjoyed at the conclusion of the business session when refreshments were served by the hosteases.

Congratulations are due last year's executive for the success of the class, to the lay members who worked with the officers so harmoniously and especially to the teacher for her untiring efforts.

ARTICLES OF INTEREST TO THE FARMER

GOVT. OFFERS AID SELECTING SOWS OF PROPER TYPE

Cost to Farmer be Current Select Bacon Hog Prices on the Stockyards.

HALF FREIGHT ADDED

Object is to Enable Pork Producers to be Compete With Best in World.

Present prices for grain and pork seem to make it almost certain that there will be a very rapid increase in pork production in Canada. This being true, the Canadian farmer will soon find that his bacon products, having increased beyond the requirements of the home market, he will have to seek foreign outlets. This means one thing—if he wishes to get at least world prices he will have to produce that quality of goods that will at least equal, if not surpass, similar products on the world market.

In view of the above, the Honourable Mr. Weir, Federal Minister of Agriculture, has decided to try to help in assuring that when the Canadian farmer has to export pork products they will be of such quality and type as will enable them to compete successfully in that open market of the world, Great Britain.

Selected From Best

For any farmer feeling that his brood sow or sows are not just what they ought to be or for any farmer deciding to get into swine breeding and feeding the Minister offers, through the Live Stock Branch of his Department, to select young sows or gilts of good type at the various stockyards both East and West. These gilts will be of best select bacon type, pure breds (not registered) or good grades. If not already safe in young they will be held at the yards free of cost to the buyer until served by a first class pure bred boar of select bacon type, this also free of cost.

These gilts will be bought and so handled at the request of the farmer and when bred will be shipped to him by freight to his nearest railway station, he being expected to pay half the freight charges, the other half being paid by the Live Stock Branch. These sows will be bought for the breeder at current, select bacon hog prices on the stockyards, and he will be expected to pay that price either by direct remittance to the stockyards' agents or the sow or sows can be sent C.O.D. to the nearest railway station provided a deposit of at least $5 per sow has been sent to the Stockyards' agents.

Any farmer desirous of taking advantage of this offer should communicate with the Live Stock Commissioner, Ottawa, or with the Stockyard Agent at any stockyard in Canada.

Farmers Paying Bills With Flour

Pioneer days are recalled by conditions now existing on the Prairies. Field Staff of the Federal Department of Agriculture report having no money with which to purchase flour farmers are hauling their grain in some instances as far as seventy-five miles to the country mill. Mills are finding it difficult to cope with demands. About ninety per cent of the flour milled is put through on a gristing basis of around twenty-five cents per bushel, which is usually paid for with wheat. The farmer is paying his store bills with the flour and taking the bran and shorts home to feed. In many cases small farmers are helping their more prosperous neighbors and taking their pay in wheat.

DEMAND FOR HAY GOOD AT PRESENT

Some Shipments Being Made to U. S. From Toronto Markets.

HAY PRESSING GENERAL

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 13.—The hay market in Quebec is quiet at present. Domestic demand is small but increasing as winter approaches. A few shipments have been made to Newfoundland. There is a considerable quantity of mixed clover hay throughout the province which is expected to find demand later in the season. Hay pressing has been general in recent weeks. Large quantities are now available for shipment. The lumber industry being less active this year, has required less hay.

Current quotations to farmers, per ton, are: Timothy No. 2, $10; Timothy No. 3, $8 to $9; Clover No. 2, $10 to $10.50; Clover No. 3, $8 to $9; Oat Straw No. 1, $4 to $5; Oat Straw No. 2, $3.50 to $4.

Wholesale prices, per ton, f.o.b. Montreal are: Timothy No. 2, $13.50; to $14; Timothy No. 3, $12; Clover No. 2, $13.50 to $14; Clover No. 3, $12.

Western Ontario

Sufficient supplies of hay are being received in the Toronto market, principally from the district of Stratford to Goderich, also from Lucknow, Owen Sound, Meaford and Chatham. The export demand from the United States for alfalfa hay is particularly good, and some shipments are being made.

Growers are receiving at country points: Timothy No. 2, $11; Timothy No. 3, $9; Timothy and cover mixtures, $9; Alfalfa, 1st cut, $10 to $11; Alfalfa, 2nd cut, $16.50 to $17; Oat Straw, $4; Wheat Straw, $5.

Wholesale prices per ton, f.o.b. track Toronto, are: Timothy No. 2, $14.50 to $15; Timothy No. 3, $13.50 to $14; Oat Straw, $8 to $9; Wheat Straw, $10 to $10.50.

NEW BULL LOANING PLAN TO PROVE OF IMMENSE BENEFIT TO FARMERS

Action Result of Position Many Small Owners Find Themselves in Breeding Operations.

CONDITIONS OUTLINED

For centuries now the keenest minds of the men identified with cattle breeding work have been interested in and working toward the development of types of cattle especially adapted to the purpose they had in mind, were it the production of beef or of milk, or of a happy combination of the two. As a result of these long continued efforts breeds have been created wonderfully well suited to the end in view, as for instance, the Shorthorn, the Hereford, the Angus and others for beef production, or the Ayrshire, the Holstein, the Jersey, the Canadian, the Guernsey, and a few others for milk production, while certain other breeds developed or strains thereof have seemed to unite in themselves the happy facilities of producing milk in generous quantities at low costs, and of producing good beef at a profit, as in the case of the dual purpose Shorthorn, the Lincolnshire Red, the Red Poll, and several others.

Costs Much Lower

Costs of producing the product in mind with the breeds adapted to such particular purpose are uniformly lower than where unsuitable cattle are used, hence the importance of using the right breeds and the right types if we are to hope to make a success of the business in hand.

Fortunately, well bred grade females of the right breeds have been found to be nearly as satisfactory the farmer desirous of making a profit from his cattle may ordinarily hope to succeed if he is able to continuously use pure bred bulls of the right type on his she stock. A pure bred bull, however, of good breeding and always of the same breed is an absolute condition of success. Unfortunately many small operators find it beyond their resources to buy such animals.

The Hon. Mr. Weir, Minister of Agriculture, keenly alive to the importance of improving our Canadian herds, whether for beef or milk production, and aware of the unfortunate position in which many of our farmers with small herds find themselves in their breeding operations, has decided to put into effect a bull loaning policy in those parts of the Dominion where it would seem likely to do the most good.

The Stipulations

The conditions under which these pure bred bulls will be loaned may be stated briefly as follows:—

Loans may be made only in cases—

(a)—Where three or more owners of small herds fairly close to each other find themselves without a pure bred bull.

(b)—Where the type of bull asked for seems to be suited to the district.

(c)—Where a club is properly organized, as per simple regulations clearly set forth and obtainable from the Live Stock Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

(d)—Where the club makes provision to accept delivery of the bull at the nearest railway station, and to put the bull into the hands of a caretaker acceptable to the Live Stock Branch, and to maintain the said bull in good condition at their own expense and free of all cost of the Department.

(e)—Where the club agrees to be considered one of a group of at least three clubs to be provided with bulls of the same breed and to exchange bulls with these clubs not less frequently than three years and not more frequently than every two years, always of course only with the approval of the Department.

(f)—Where the club members agree to do away with any grade bulls that may be in their herds at the present time, and to neither keep nor use any grade bulls so long as they remain members of the club.

In all breeds the very best bulls available will be secured and in the case of the Dairy Breeds A or AA bulls or bulls of equal merit, only will be supplied.

REGISTERED SEED RESULTS PROVE BEST IN LONG RUN

Federal Legislation Narrows Down Problem of Choosing Varieties.

CHOOSE TO SUIT FARM

Department Always Willing to Help and Advise in Choice.

The problem of choosing varieties of seed grain has been somewhat narrowed down, owing to Federal Legislation that any new variety not on the official lists previous to 1923, requires to receive a license before being offered for sale. While this still leaves a wide range for selection, there are better facilities now presented for obtaining accurate and up-to-date information on the value of the different varieties and kinds of grain on the market.

The Provincial Colleges, the Federal Experimental Farms, and the various Departments of Agriculture, are all in readiness to assist and advise in the choice of varieties to use.

Ask Yourself These

There are a few questions a grower can ask himself when choosing a variety:—

1—Does the variety grow on a wide range of soils, or does it require a special type of soil? If so, how does it fit in with local conditions?

2—Does the variety possess strong straw, high yield and good quality?

3—Is the variety early, medium or late maturing, and which kind does the locality require?

4—Where can the best varieties be obtained?

The first question is one that when carefully applied helps enormously in choosing the varieties that will best suit the local conditions. Some varieties of oats for instance which nomally possess strong straw, if grown on heavy clay often grow too long and rank with the result that in a storm they invariably lodge. On lighter or gravelly soils however, the straw remains at an average length and stands up strong and straight.

Marquis and Ruby on clay soils generally do better than on lighter soils. The grower knowing the nature of his own land can prevent disappointment by choosing a variety which has been tried and recommended for his particular type of soil.

With the increasing use of combines and power machinery for harvesting purposes, it is increasingly important to have crops which possess strong straight straw, in order that the grain may be easily harvested.

As the preparation of the land for a given crop costs the same whether a low or high yielding variety is sown, it goes without saying that the higher yielding crop is always to be preferred, provided quality and high yield are closely associated. As quality is the factor which placed Canadian grain and particularly wheat on the world's market, it is essential that this quality be maintained.

Source Important

The source and quality of seed supply is a very important point to consider and without doubt, it is advisable to use seed of registered varieties if at all possible. The fact that the variety is registered at once stamps it as being of superior value, and that it has been very carefully tried and has successfully passed very critical tests in order to receive this status. The different seed growers' associations and the better seed houses all handle this grade of seed.

If any doubt exists in the growers mind as to the best variety to grow, consult either the Dominion Cerealist at Ottawa, or the Superintendent of the nearest Experimental Farm in the Province on the matter, when reliable advice will be gladly given.

Packing Expert Enthusiastic Over Animals at Royal Fair.

TOPMOST QUALITY

Doubting if anywhere on the Continent there could be found such a uniform bunch of lambs as were shown in the market classes at the recent Royal Winter Fair at Toronto, R. Matheson, a market expert from one of the big packing houses in Chicago and a judge at Canada's big Winter Fair was enthusiastic over the quality of stock in this country. Mr. Matheson considered that at least 126 of the animals that were shown in 14 entries in the pens of ten market lambs were practically perfect. They were the very top most quality, he said. First in this went to Col. Robert McEwen of London, second and third to C. J. Brodie, Stouffville, 4th to A. Ayre, Hampton, 5th to Cecil Stobbs, Wheatley, 6th to C. A. Springstead, Caistor Centre and 7th to the Manitoba Sheep Breeders' Association.

Mr. Matheson was also high in his praise of the prime quality of the grand champion lamb of the show and the reserve, both of which wins went to R. B. Hunter, Winnipeg.

CO-OPERATION IS BIG ADVANTAGE IN HONEY SALES

Organization Reaches Distant Markets That Individual Cannot Touch.

SPLENDID 1930 CROP

Prevalent Marketing Methods Blamed for Present Low Prices.

Canada has again been blessed with a good crop of honey but in keeping with many other agricultural products the prices it is being sold for are ridiculously low. This, however, is largely due to the prevalent methods of marketing.

A few years ago there was no marketing problem, individual producers were able to sell their honey at fair prices without grading or advertising as there was little or no competition. Increased production, however, has increased competition in marketing to such an extent that producers are now finding it quite difficult to dispose of their crop without resorting to the unbusinesslike method of selling at any price in order to make the sale.

Have Own Association

Beekeepers as a rule are great advocates of co-operation, they have formed their associations, hold annual conventions and have in many cases purchased their supplies in a co-operating way, it is, therefore, rather surprising how they seem to avoid the idea of co-operative marketing. Many speciality producers have found that marketing conditions have been greatly improved by pooling their product and selling it through one selling organization and quite recently certain groups of honey producers have adopted this method and are finding it quite satisfactory.

There is no doubt that co-operative marketing is a great advantage over the present method of individual selling. Distant markets, that cannot be reached by the individual can be catered to through organization. Advertising can be carried on more economically through co-operation than individually. Honey can be moved from centres of high production to points of low production more profitably, and co-operation will tend to insure a more uniform product being placed upon the market.

Partitions in Cars Big Shipping Saving

The use of moveable partitions in stock-cars will not only permit the shipment of mixed carlots of live stock but by reducing the possibilities of injury and bruising to a minimum, will save the live stock industry literally millions of dollars annually. As a result of the findings of a national committee, of which Dr. J. H. Grisdale, Federal Deputy Minister of Agriculture, was chairman, the Live Stock Associations of Eastern and Western Canada joined forces in presenting a petition to the Railway Board seeking to compel railways to install and use at least two moveable partitions of suitable type in all cars used for the transportation of live stock. The suggested specific toll for cars so equipped is one dollar ($1) per car per trip. The annual loss through bruising alone under present conditions is placed at over $2,500,000.

TRANSOCEAN FLIERS HELD UP BY CUSTOMS

Captain Boyd Had to Open His Trunk at Montreal While Crowd Roared for His Appearance

CANADIAN customs officers are no respecters of persons, and even transatlantic fliers are not immune from the diligent baggage inspection that all travellers entering the Dominion must undergo.

Capt. Boyd

This was clearly illustrated recently when Capt. Errol Boyd of Toronto, Canada's first airman to fly across the Atlantic, and his navigator, Lieut. Harry P. Connor, disembarked from the Duchess of Bedford at the port of Montreal.

Thousands of people crowded the docks to greet the ocean fliers, while overhead dozens of aeroplanes circled and dipped in honor of the first Canadian to make the crossing. In that entire vast throng the only ones who seemed unaffected were the two customs inspectors who insisted on doing their duty.

"Must I open my trunk?" Boyd asked plaintively as he struggled through the crowd to reach his baggage. The inspector replied in the affirmative, and as thousands pushed closer to get a look at the airman's wardrobe Boyd had to call for assistance from his personal bodyguard of Montreal police to hold back the throng and throw a flashlight on the lock.

The duty of the customs officials was in one respect comparatively simple. When they left Montreal on their start to Croyden, England, the two fliers had a single suit of clothes each. Neither had an overcoat or even a sweater. The customs inspectors knew, therefore, that everything now before them had been purchased in England and there was no way of avoiding their hawk-like eyes.

The wardrobe trunk, also purchased in England, was swung open and the inspector peered inside. "You have a new trunk, what else have you to declare?" he asked. "All purchases made abroad must be declared," he added in a forceful tone.

"I have a few blue suits and other things," Boyd replied.

"What value do you place on your new things?"

"I don't know, I am sure; about $200, I suppose."

"Well, I think I ought to get an appraiser. Wait here and I shall try to find one," the inspector declared.

Meanwhile thousands of Montreal citizens were eagerly awaiting to get a sight of the returning airmen and at this sign of delay there were loud shouts of disapproval. Finally, after many minutes, which seemed like hours, the superintendent of customs examiners was reached and since he was as anxious as any others to clear the docks of the crowds, an arrangement was made whereby the fliers left their baggage at the dock and returned the next day to have it appraised.

"The hardest part of the whole trip was getting off the boat at Montreal on the way back," Boyd afterwards declared.

SMART LAD

A CONJURER was producing eggs from a top-hat. He addressed a boy in the front row.

"Your mother can't get eggs without hens, can she?"

"Oh, yes," said the boy.

"How's that," asked the conjurer.

"She keeps ducks," was the reply.

PICK—"So your brother tried to get a government job. What is he doing now?"
Nick—"Nothing. He got the job."

Mr. Leacock

Professor Stephen Leacock

STEPHEN LEACOCK often wonders what he is and wishes he were something else.

Every time he becomes fed-up with being a humorous writer he realizes that it is still worse to be a professor, especially of economics and especially at McGill.

He is nearly sixty-one years old and is afraid that he is good for some years yet.

Regardless of general market conditions he is always a bull on distillery stocks, his opinion in this respect being based on a misconception of per capita consumption.

He came out to this country from England when he was seven years old because he and his father thought it might be nice to be a farmer. They settled in Ontario near Lake Simcoe and soon discovered that it was not.

He was head boy at Upper Canada in 1887 and this inspired him to go on to University of Toronto, where he studied classics for sixteen hours a day and graduated with first-class honors. He has since endeavored, with some success, to live this down.

He was twenty-two when he graduated and went back to Upper Canada as a teacher, which he said was the only job he could find requiring neither intellect nor experience.

While he was at Varsity he lived in seventeen different boarding-houses and has since made a good deal of money writing about them.

He was a teacher at Upper Canada for eight years and then went back to school for another four years at Chicago University.

He was a great friend of Teddy Roosevelt, but has not courted any of the subsequent presidents, which indicates something in his favor.

When he finished at Chicago University he got the doctor of philosophy degree and said this meant he was now so full of education that he could receive no new ideas on anything.

He dislikes chiefs of police, bottles that need corkscrews, giggling, typewriters, Toronto, the W. C. T. U., sloe gin, salesmen and censors.

He also dislikes barbers and rarely visits one, the hirsute result being something like an O-Cedar mop.

He went to McGill in 1901 because he had to do something and the late J. Mavor at Toronto would not have him. He got five hundred dollars a year at McGill as sessional lecturer, which drove him to writing.

He gets about six thousand a year from McGill now and about sixty thousand a year from his writing, which proves the economy of economics.

A great part of his lectures at McGill consists of telling the young people what to read, but he occasionally teaches them something.

He once offered to write articles against prohibition for any paper at any time for nothing, which means about the same as Harry Lauder offering to give away his kilt.

He has never learned to dictate anything and will not use a typewriter, which means that he must write everything by hand. This is terrible for the secretaries he has had, each of whom spends the first two years learning new letters of the alphabet.

He has worn the same hat for a number of years. When he adds to this his coonskin coat the effect is such that many people have mistaken him for one of the cab drivers at McGill University gates on Sherbrooke St.

He once had a suit pressed, but this was a great many years ago and it was an accident as he really intended the tailor to mend a rip in his trousers.

He likes soda with it, but will take it with plain water rather than not at all.

He carries a stick which resembles a shepherd's staff. He wears this in the crook of his arm and never uses it, but always believes, and even hopes, that he will need it some time.

He is usually up by seven o'clock in the morning and when he works at writing he does it between then and eleven o'clock. All his lectures at McGill are in the afternoon and he prepares for them at lunch time.

He takes very little at lunch, so far as food is concerned, and does not care a great deal what he eats for dinner either.

He hardly classes his syndicated newspaper articles as writing and often does these late in the afternoon when his conscience is less troublesome.

He cannot tie a tie of any kind and hardly ever bothers trying. When he puts on a dress tie he just makes a granny knot and lets the ends dangle.

His views regarding shirt studs are equally convenient and he frequently appears with different kinds of studs in his shirt front and cuff links which do not match each other.

He finds serious writing much easier to do than the other kind and wrote his Makers of Canada volume on Lafontaine, Baldwin and Hincks in two months' spare time between lectures and other annoyances.

Several people have read this volume and claim that it is a model of fine historical style.

He was once a Liberal, but turned Conservative over reciprocity in 1911 and made a number of campaign speeches. Every riding in which he spoke elected a Liberal.

He claims he has never really been in politics because he has never been given a contract to build a bridge or a post-office and has not even been taken to an Imperial Conference as an adviser.

He believes that evenings are useless for anything except conversation and its accompaniments.

He is extremely kind to young men of ability and ambition and never tells them that he thinks neither of these attributes is particularly important.

He is rather sorry for people like Sir Herbert Holt. He believes that one of the most desirable things in life is leisure and he has more of this in one year than other men have altogether.

He is glad he is not a leading citizen and this is one reason why he is one of the country's few great personalities.

He is one of the few writers who have never made use of any sorrows he has had in his life.

Wheat Pool Manager Has Been Through Mill

THE news dispatches which enumerated for us the personnel of Premier Bennett's entourage journeying to the Imperial Conference last October contained the name John I. McFarland. Mr. McFarland was referred to as a grain market expert. He is. And that is why the prime minister availed himself of his services.

Born in Hamilton, Ont., about the time of the Pacific Railway scandal Mr. McFarland got a job for himself in a grain dealer's office in those stressful years just after the C. P. R. was completed to the Pacific coast and the militia department had put down the Riel rebellion. Later he got another job of the same kind in Toronto, then graduated to a bigger and better one in Winnipeg when grain merchandising was fast becoming a business of first importance.

After becoming thoroughly familiar with the grain trade Mr. McFarland journeyed to Strathcona, now South Edmonton, Alberta, where he built and operated a country elevator. Shortly afterwards he built another. These were the nucleus of a company he organized called the Alberta Grain Co. which developed a nice trade in northern Alberta.

Then a few years before the war the Alberta Grain Co. was merged with the Alberta Pacific Elevator Co., an institution largely owned by a group of enterprising traders who had come from the American northwest and whose activities were confined largely to southern Alberta.

After the amalgamation some fresh capital was added and John I. McFarland was made the directing head of operations, with headquarters at Calgary. For the next fifteen years of its existence the Alberta Pacific Elevator Co. was one of the most phenomenal successes in Canada. It gave first rate service to the grain-growers and disbursed dividends almost lavishly to the shareholders. Then in 1926 the control of the company was sold to the James Stewart group of financiers and grain dealers, since which time Mr. McFarland has been giving most of his time to his personal affairs with a penetrating eye upon the policies and practices of the wheat pool.

At present the wheat pool is in some difficulty and seems to have involved the banks, the three prairie provincial governments and is appealing to the federal government for assistance either of a financial or moral kind. In the discussions which have taken place the name of John I. McFarland has always been mentioned, for the reason that he has the confidence of the great mass of wheat growers, of the government, especially the premier, and of the bank managers. Also Mr. McFarland is available in the widest sense of the word. He is intensely loyal to his country, particularly the western section, and is generous of his services when they are needed to restore confidence and continuity in the marketing of Canadian wheat.

IMMIGRATION MINISTER ONCE RAN FOUL OF LAW

But It Was the Result of a Boyish Prank and Didn't Brand Him Very Deeply

CANADA'S MINISTER OF IMMIGRATION and Mines, Hon. W. A. Gordon, appeared on a recent visit to Edmonton, Alta., in a new light.

He stood revealed after an encounter in the foyer of the city's leading hotel as a "man with a past"—"known to the police."

Hon. W. A. Gordon

However, the revelation will be followed by no scandal large enough to justify the minister's resignation. Nor will Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Mr. Gordon's chieftain, be embarrassed.

In fact, the minister of immigration got a good laugh out of the incident that led to the denouement and an opportunity to swop boyhood reminiscences with an old friend.

"Well, do you remember the day I arrested you?" was how Hon. Mr. Gordon was greeted by Chief A. G. Shute of the Edmonton city police.

Bystanders in the hotel lobby were shocked for a moment, but recovered their equanimity when both Chief Shute and the minister he accosted were seen to be shaking hands heartily and laughing as at a good joke.

Then it came out.

Years ago, more than either of them like to recall, Mr. Gordon was a small boy, a he-boy, too, from all accounts, in Owen Sound, Ont., when the present head of Edmonton's police force was a young and zealous constable. And that was in the days when Hallowe'en was Hallowe'en and young boys were imps of mischief. The youthful Gordon, apparently a leader, then as now, led the apple brigade on a certain Hallowe'en night and finally tackled just one citizen too many. Annoyed, the latter sent in a rush call to the police station, which was answered by ambitious Constable Shute. He followed the apple-looting, window-soaping and caught up with them.

"Who's the boss of you boys?" he demanded.

"I am," proudly admitted one diminutive offender.

"Then come with me," and so the boy who was to become a Dominion cabinet minister was led to the police station, incarcerated therein, given a good talking to and sent home chastened.

JOKE WAS ON MAYOR

COL. RALPH H. WEBB, Winnipeg's loquacious mayor who threatens to stump Canada from Halifax to Victoria if Mr. Bennett's government doesn't rid the Dominion of its Communist agitators, got himself more or less "told off" by newspapermen of his home city recently. As a result the mayor is addressing meetings and banquet gatherings so that he can be heard.

In the almost whispery voice that he employed on platforms, the chief magistrate finished speaking to a press club meeting at Winnipeg. He had been warm in commendation of the city's newspapers generally and its reporters and news-chiefs particularly.

The soft-spoken mayor seated, the next speaker stood up. He was a young editorial writer.

"You have," he commenced slowly, "just listened to the most misquoted mayor in Canada . . ."

The news-collectors cheered and laughed, smiling broadly up at the much-interviewed magistrate. He smiled back just as broadly, then stood up and bowed.

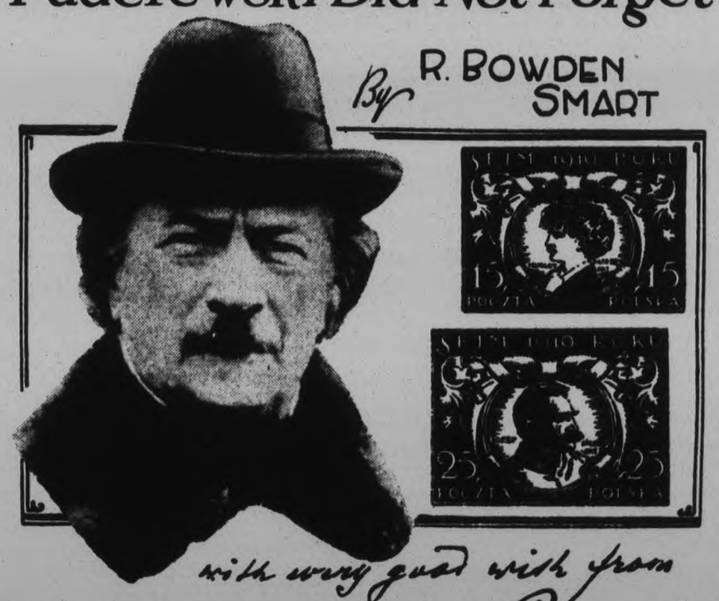
Paderewski Did Not Forget

By R. BOWDEN SMART



ON the afternoon of Paderewski's recent visit to Toronto I was invited to the car "Superb" to renew an acquaintance with the great patriot pianist first made eleven years ago during a visit to Warsaw when Ignace Jan Paderewski was prime minister of Poland. I found the great musician looking very much older—his head, so lion-like, graying with the advancing years. His hand, however, seemed as strong as ever, with a grip like an athlete.

He told me that his next visit would probably be his last to Toronto. "I find these long journeys very tiring even with all the comforts of my car," he said. His country is ever uppermost in his thoughts, even though, as he stated, he is now out of politics. He expressed the opinion that Poland was secure even between the surging seas of Slavonic power on the east and German enterprise on the west. Paderewski said that Poland owed a deep debt of gratitude to Canada for many reasons, among them the fact that in 1917 twenty-two thousand Polish volunteers trained under Canadian officers at Niagara-on-the-Lake. "It is always a great pleasure for me to play to Canadian audiences," he said. "They are always so appreciative. I have often thought that this may be because of the number of my audience who are of Scots descent. I noticed the same strong music-loving element in Edinburgh and other Scottish cities."

After the seven encores that completed Paderewski's concert I was called to his room to say good-by. There were only some ten or twelve people admitted. He shook hands with a girl friend and myself and then, turning to the others present, he said, "I cannot sign my autograph for anyone—my hands are too tired—and I cannot shake hands with any others to-night." Turning to me he said, "It has been a happy occasion to meet you, and I hope one day to have a longer talk." Just recently I received a letter from him from the United States, containing a set of the stamps of Poland issued when he was prime minister, and signed by him on his 70th birthday. Certainly a kindly thought from so great, busy a man. I thought he had forgotten all about me.

James Maxton and His Noisy Brawlers Keep Ramsay MacDonald on the Jump

THAT inimitable artist, Max Beerbohm, once caricatured George Bernard Shaw in a sketch that showed the great man standing on his head! This is the mental attitude that many people attribute to James Maxton, the Socialist member of the British House of Commons and leader of the left wing extremists. Though he will probably never be "Lord Clydeside," yet he is an aristocrat in obstruction, destruction and kindred tactics, that make him a perpetual and painful thorn in the side of Premier Ramsay MacDonald and his orthodox Socialist ministers.

James Maxton

There is no resemblance between James Maxton and Jack Jones and other rowdies in parliament. James is the essence of mental refinement, although his long hair and general unkempt looks are apt to belie this and to lead one to regard him as a "crank." His upbringing was of the best. Born in 1885 he became a schoolmaster after taking his B.A. degree at Glasgow university. From 1921 until 1922 he was a member of the Glasgow education authority, and at the same time he acted as official organizer in Scotland for the Glasgow federation of the independent Labor party. Since 1922 he has represented the Bridgeton division of Glasgow at Westminster, where his most spectacular performances have been given!

Certainly, James Maxton knows how to talk, and he knows how to keep himself before his constituents and the public. He has never yet realized that he cannot be the only one who is right while all the rest are wrong; and in this respect he resembles his old leader, George Lansbury, before Premier MacDonald made him a cabinet minister and left the permanent departmental officials to do their worst with him. If there were unlimited cabinet jobs Ramsay MacDonald might bring off another conversion and make one more useful citizen.

Once upon a time James Maxton was a member of the Territorials, or Volunteers, as they were in those days, but he never speaks of his connection with the armed forces of the crown. His fighting is now done as a civilian by word of mouth; he believes in giving orders to the government rather than in listening to their apologies. Ramsay MacDonald asked Maxton recently whether he considered him to be the goalkeeper, halfback or captain of the team? "Referee," promptly replied James. He twitted the premier with his "timidity and vacillation in refusing to apply Socialist remedies for unemployment," and the premier told him bluntly to get out of the party if he was unable to submit to the ordinary decencies of party discipline.

Although James Maxton is usually decorous and civil himself, yet he has around him faithful henchmen whom he can use as brawlers should occasion arise. One of these is John Beckett, who earlier in the year removed the mace from the table of the House of Commons in the manner of Oliver Cromwell. Another is James McGovern, who specializes in the unparliamentary proceeding of interrupting during debate. Lady Astor was speaking recently on the subject of wage earning when McGovern shouted at her, "You never earned a penny in your life." Farther on in the same debate a Conservative member made reference to a question about the age at which children leave school. "That's a lie," shouted McGovern. For this he was suspended, and he left the House hurling after him epithets such as "dirty dogs" and "baby starvers." This kind of conduct is considered to be good publicity for the policy of the Maxton group.

Men of the type James Maxton has gathered round him are useful as obstructionists, but it is doubtful whether they will ever get him very far. They are of no use to Ramsay MacDonald as they are merely painful reminders of the internal tumult that exists within the Labor party as a whole. As it is, the thankless task of the government at the present time is depressing the whole party; and, in spite of appeals to the left wing section to preserve peace, they are such incisive critics that harmony is impossible. A humorous politician said some time ago: "The Conservatives and Liberals are afraid of a general election because they might be beaten, but the Socialist party are afraid of one because they might be returned to power!"

FORTUNATELY for British aeronautics, Air Chief Marshal Sir John Salmond was not aboard the ill-fated R-101 on her maiden voyage to India. The loss of the airship was a national calamity, not only on account of the number of lives sacrificed, but also because those who perished were possessed of the finest aeronautical brains in Great Britain. If the old country ever put all its eggs in one basket it was on the occasion of this experimental flight to India! In England it has been likened to the Titanic disaster, which brought catastrophe on a maiden voyage to the then latest and greatest machine of man's devising.

Sir John Salmond

A soldier before he took up flying, Sir John Salmond has deservedly won a great reputation. Born in 1881 he is the son of a soldier, Major-General Sir W. Salmond, and like many another great fighting man, he passed through Wellington college and Sandhurst before entering the army in 1901. He was one of the first of an intrepid band of young Englishmen to realise the value of flying as an arm of Great Britain's fighting forces. He learned to fly at his own expense, and in 1912 joined the Royal Flying Corps.

After devoting a great deal of time to the study of all questions relating to the science of aeronautics, Sir John Salmond came to the conclusion that the system then in force for training British airmen left much to be desired. So he set to work and devised entirely new methods which were eventually adopted and put into operation. Much of the success of Great Britain's airmen during the early part of the war is due to Sir John Salmond, and his rising reputation as an organizer and director of flying operations led in 1917 to his being made director-general of military aeronautics. In 1918 he succeeded Sir H. M. Trenchard as head of the fighting air force in France, and in this post his greatest effort in aircraft direction was achieved.

With the end of the war, in which he was mentioned five times in dispatches, Sir John Salmond was free to return to the study of aircraft and aeronautics generally, and from 1922 until 1924 he was air officer commanding the British forces in Iraq. In 1925 he was appointed principal air A.D.C. to the King; in 1929 he became air member for personnel on the air council, and during the present year chief of the air staff. When the R-101 was destroyed at Beauvais Sir John immediately flew over from London, and with Colonel Bone, the British air attache in Paris, he was among the first to visit the room in the Mairie at the village of Allonne to pay homage to the dead.

Sir Sefton Brancker, Sir John Salmond's close friend and colleague, who perished in the giant dirigible, left a message that may well form the text of Sir John's future work in the cause of aeronautics. In a foreword to "The Romance of a Modern Airway," by Harry Harper, Sir Sefton wrote: "We, as a nation, have the reputation of being slow and sure; in the sphere of commercial aviation we have certainly borne out this reputation. On the one hand, we have not yet made use of its full possibilities as a means of imperial communication, whilst on the other we have been supreme in the measure of regularity and safety attained by our regular air services. We cannot deny, however, that we are behind the other great nations of the world in the magnitude of our operations, and this is a factor of very serious import to the industry of this country."

After pointing out that air transportation is progressing towards a state of commercial independence and that eventually there will be a market for commercial aircraft that will rival those existing for merchant shipping or motor-driven vehicles, Sir Sefton Brancker says: "It does not need much imagination to realise that of all nations the British Commonwealth stands to lose or gain most in this great development. It is, therefore, essential that every British government . . . shall strive towards attaining a position in commercial aviation at least equal to that we have held in the past in the commerce of the seas."

JEAN'S SANTA CLAUS

By JULIE ANNE MOORE

the subway with quick, nervous strides. Lionel had appealed to her, she decided on the theory that they were still good friends. Lionel knew nothing of their break. But why had he thought it necessary for someone to talk to Sandy? If Marcia had left him in a temper, there was nothing she, Jean, could do about it. But one thing Lionel had said rang in her ears. "I'll tell you, he's fit for murder."

Surely Lionel did not think that Sandy was likely to grow violent, quiet, good-natured Sandy who was rarely angry. Perhaps he had said something in Lionel's presence, threatened.

Entering the building, she was conscious of a sense of impending trouble Sandy would resent her presence. Certainly he would not permit her to interfere in his affairs. Nor was there any reason why she should. She was, she told herself, a fool for letting Lionel persuade her to come.

Lionel was standing by his desk swinging the little knife on his watch chain nervously. When he saw her, he made a little gesture with his hands and shook his head slowly.

'You're too late," he said despairingly. 'He went off five minutes ago."

'But what is it, Lionel? Where has he gone?" She searched his grave countenance for a hint of what was in his mind. 'Why are you so concerned? Sandy's sane. Surely there's nothing I could have done."

'You don't know," he declared. 'And I'm not so sure that he's sane. I've never seen him behave so before. You should have seen him when Marcia left his office. He stood in that door there with his fists clenched and his face blood-red."

Jean said irritably: 'You've been talking like a child since you called me at the factory, Lionel. Can't you tell me what happened? You've impressed me sufficiently with the fact that Sandy was angry. But is that all?"

'You don't understand," Lionel cried helplessly. 'You couldn't understand unless you had seen him. Angry? I tell you, Jean, he was out of his mind. I don't know what Marcia said to him. She talked at the top of her voice, but you can't distinguish words out here. She was in there all of two hours. They'd talk fairly quietly for awhile. Then Marcia's voice would rise again. And once there was a noise as if Sandy was moving his desk."

'Moving his desk? Why should he do that?"

'Oh, I don't know. But it sounded like that."

How long ago did Marcia leave?" Jean asked.

Lionel looked at his watch mechanically. "A little before twelve. It's almost two now. If only you . . ."

The telephone on Lionel's desk rang. He lifted the receiver and answered. Then: 'Oh hello, Dad, I'm sorry, but I've been detained at the office. If . . ."

Jean waved a hand to attract his attention. 'Tell him you're on your way. You can't do any good hanging around here."

Lionel stared at her for a moment, then nodded, reluctantly. 'Listen, Dad, tell Mother I'm leaving the office at once. But Mollie won't be able to come with me. She—she's attending a bridge party. I'll go back for her at six."

He put the instrument down and turned to Jean again. "I don't dare suggest it," he told her, 'but I wish Mollie would give up her job. I'm having the devil's own time explaining to the folks why she's never available until after six inn the evening."

Jean smiled sympathetically. 'You are having a struggle of it, aren't you? But keep your courage up, big fellow. Mollie was as radiant as a spring bride this morning. There must be some reason for it."

'Do you suppose she really cares for me at all, Jean?"

'Of course she does," Jean declared convincingly. 'To tell you the truth, Lionel, I think Mollie's experiencing a sort of rebirth. Women are all alike at heart, and the maternal instinct is the greatest thing in a woman's life. It mellows her, smooths out the little eccentric kinks, and she sees things differently. Be patient if you can manage it."

'Lord! Don't I know it!' She's wonderful." He suddenly sobered. 'Are you going to stay here?"

Jean nodded. 'For an hour anyway. You run on. I think you've let your nerves get the best of you, Sandy's all right."

But when Lionel had gone and she was alone in the office, the force of the fear he had felt but had not been able to explain dawned upon her. It may have been the silence, or the conspicuous emptiness of the big room in which she sat. For the first time she seemed to understand that what Lionel had seen in Sandy's face had, in combination with the circumstances immediately preceding, given Lionel ample cause for alarm.

What had occurred between Sandy and Marcia? What could Marcia have said or done to affect Sandy so? Had he finally investigated the charges Jean had made in Marcia's presence and found them to be true? But nothing could explain such a violent mood as Lionel had observed.

The telephone bell broke upon her thoughts rudely, causing her to start nervously.

'Hello."

'Is Mr. Clause in?" It was a man's voice.

"No. May I take the message?"

'Are you his secretary?"

Jean hesitated. Then, "Yes."

'Can you get him right away?"

'I . . I'll do my best, yes."

'Well, this is police headqua. Tell him a Miss Marcia White wa just shot to death in her apartment on 11th Street, and we found his card and telephone number in her purse. Get it?"

'Why, wait, you say she was shot to death?"

'That's right. And we want him to come to headquarters the minute you find him."

Jean pushed the telephone away from her slowly. "Oh Sandy!" The words were like a sob. 'Sandy, you, you could not." And suddenly she buried her face in her hands.

WALSH HEARING IS COMPLETED

Appeal of Hastings Man Against Magistrate's Decision.

JUDGMENT RESERVED.

All evidence in the hearing of the appeal of Harry Walsh, of Hastings, against the decision of Magistrate Langley was completed yesterday before His Honor Judge Huycke, who reserved judgment. Walsh was found guilty of being drunk in charge of a car by the Magistrate.

Evidence in the defence was taken yesterday.

The accused stated that his name was Harry Walsh and he lived at Hastings. He said that on July 30, the day previous to the accident, he had drunk only one bottle of beer. In the evening he went to Trent River with Stanley Stevenson and danced. About 1 o'clock he returned to Hastings and then he drove friends back to Trent River about 3.30 in the morning.

Returning to Hastings from Trent River by way of Norwood, witness said he dozed off in the car and struck the post. He said that he always used the Norwood road since it was the shortest route between Hastings and Trent River.

Witness said all beer he had purchased on July 30 was still at his home at the time of the accident.

Cross-examined, accused said he did not see MacBeth the morning of the accident and that MacBeth was wrong when he said in his evidence that he had seen accused. He said MacBeth was telling what was untrue when he said the marks showed he had not came around the turn from Norwood.

Errol Buck, to whose home Walsh came right after the accident, said that Walsh was not drunk. Witness described accused as being nervous and weak.

Witness said under cross-examination that the accident had never been reported to police.

Stanley Stevenon said Walsh did not act drunk or show any signs of liquor while witness was with him to and from Trent River.

Cecil Scriver, who drove the wrecking car to the scene of the accident said he observed nothing in Walsh's condition to indicate intoxication.

Howard Firman, resident of Hastings, said he saw beer in Walsh's house on the evening of July 31.

In reply, Mr. McElderry called Sergeant Thompson who said that Scriver told him in the garage on the afternoon of July 31 that he had smelled beer on Walsh's breath. Also Scriver had smelled beer from the inside of the car but had said he did not want to get mixed up with the case.

STUDENTS GIVEN

lection of music was rendered by the school orchestra under the baton of A. M. Moon, B.A.Sc., and several choruses were sung by the entire school, directed by Carl S. Browne, M.A.

Harold Wilson, a scholar—and a successful one, too—also contributed in no small measure to the musical program, with several cornet solos.

The first presentation on the list was that of the Otonabee Chapter I.O.D.E. Scholarships, by Mrs. C. A. White, Regent of the Chapter.

Mrs. White stated that last year the Chapter, one of the many I.O.D.E. Chapters in this city, presented a scholarship to the Vocational School. This year when approached for a scholarship for the Commercial Department, they had considered it quite an honor to be able to comply with the request. It gave her, she stated, very great pleasure to make the scholarship awards to the following pupils:

First Form Commercial

1st—Jean Barringer $12
2nd—Harry Hamley 8

Second Form Commercial

1st—Hilda Phillips $12
2nd—Muriel Donaldson 8

The French Prose prizes were awarded in the Upper School to Miss Margaret McCulloch. The prize was accepted on her behalf by Alice Donley, as Miss McCulloch is at present attending University of Toronto. Her scholarly ability and attainments may be judged from the fact that she has won a Nicholl's Scholarship, including this year, for five years in succession.

Frank Sukloff was the French Prose prize winner in the Middle School. The prizes were both presented by Mr. Kenner, on behalf of Miss Pearl Faint, M.A., the donor.

Mary K. Whyte and Ruth Millyard tied for second place in the Upper School, and K. Whiteman and T. Nasimok tied for second place in the Middle School.

James Dutton, chairman of the Advisory Vocational Committee called upon to present graduation diplomas and certificates, said it was an extremely gratifying moment for him as a member of the Board of Education. He had been particularly pleased to hear the inspectors recently speak in high terms, not only of the school, but of the teachers throughout the school.

These same sentiments were also expressed by the Vocational Inspectors earlier in the year. This means that we have not only a splendid school here, but that the P.C.I. ranks among the best schools in the Province. Peterborough citizens should be gratified, he thought, to know that there is such a school in this city.

Early this year, Mr. Dutton stated, the Board of Education faced a problem, namely the question of considering the remuneration of teachers. It was not an easy matter to decide, in view of certain criticism which was levelled at the Board. So far as that criticism, the Board did not worry a great deal, as they had acted as their consciences dictated, guided in the knowledge that, "We have men and women of a very high calibre to carry out the duties assigned to them in the schools."

His only concern, he stated, was to face the ratepayers, and to convince them that they were getting dollar for dollar value in this great work.

The policy of the Board of Education has been to provide the best possible equipment and teachers in order that the work in the schools may be carried on successfully. It only remains for the students to erect a superstructure on the foundations laid down in this great institute of learning, and I hope as you pass from this school into the larger place of life which lies before you, that you will not become mechanical, but will discover the vocations for which you are best fitted. Education to be effective must be progressive. It does not end at such functions as these. Mr. Dutton's presentations were as follows:

Commercial Diplomas, 1930.—Margaret Allen, Alice Bradshaw (hons.), Nellie Butler, Phyllis Coleman, Margaret Coursey, Pearl Graham, Marjorie McCormack, Pearl Mills, Frances Simmons, Pearl Thomas, Isabel Thomson, Marion Worboy, Grace Irwin, Alberta Hall (hons.), Helen Donaldson.

Diplomas Are Presented

In presenting the Academic Graduation prizes I. P. McNabb, M.A., chairman of the Finance Committee Board of Education gave a lengthy address on the choice of a vocation. He told his youthful listeners, that their success at school while due in a large measure to their own initiative and industry, was also due to the guidance of their principal and his staff.

He likened the finish of their studies at P. C I. to an ocean liner which has dropped the pilot, they were now to face their own struggles on the ocean of life. Pause well at this time, he said to chart your course. He summed success up by saying, it was the accomplishment of any worthwhile task which is undertaken.

Graduation Diplomas were awarded by Mr. McNabb to Academic students, as follows:

Academic Graduation Diplomas

Jeanette Allin, Evelyn Armstrong, George Barns, Douglas Blagrave, Edward Borbridge, Grant Breckenridge, Grace Caddy, Reginald Chandler, Helen Clark, Arleigh Comstock, Walter Curtis, Mildred Dobbin, Rodney Ecobichon, Jean Fairweather, Hilda Hall, Marjorie Huston, Sybil Jackson, Doris Kelly, Margaret Lacheur, Albion Lord, Gwendolyne Lucas, Alma Mark, Irene Mark, Lawrence McBain, Donald McHoull, Catherine Millard, Ruth Millyard, Kenneth Moyer, Arnold Noftall, Maxwell Parnall, Clarafee Patterson, Melville Robinson, Olga Sanderson, Eric Shiner, Jennie Steele, Dorothy Stuart, Frank Sukloff, Max Swartz, Harry Tewsley, Harold Totton, Roy Tranter, James Turner, Warren Turner, Edwin Wand, Arthur Ward, Wilbert Ward, Margaret Whittaker, Dorothy Whittington, Gordon Young, Jean Cameron (Campbellford High School), Bessie Patton (Havelock Continuation School), Arthur Westbrooke, Miram Purdy, and Mary K. Whyte.

Dr. F. C. Neal, as is his usual custom, was also present. He was for some years a member of the Board of Education, and has always taken the most active interest in rugby football at P.C.I., for which he donated the Neal Trophy. In asking Vern Armstrong, captain of the first team, to accept the trophy, the donor paid tribute to the coach of the team, Ernest Legon, to Carl S. Browne, who had led them against the Hamilton and Toronto squads. The trophy was accepted, emblematic of the championship of Central Ontario, amid the loud applause of the entire school.

Vern Armstrong, in a suitable speech, thanked Dr. Neal for his kindly interest in their teams, and also made reference to Mr. Kenner and to Mr. Legon.

He called Mr. Legon forward and presented him with a token of the team's esteem. Presentations were also made by Jack Kirkwood, captain of the second team to Coach H. H. Graham, and by Stuart Mackay, captain of the third team to Coach Cummings, also by Billy McPherson, captain of the fourth team to Coach Pettit.

A prize was awarded to Gordon Wainwright, by Mr. Kenner, in recognition of the fact that he is the best rifle shot in the school. The medal was recently received from the military authorites at M.D. 3.

Special Prize.

Mr. Kenner also presented a special prize to Jack Bradshaw, previous to which he made a short address, setting forth as his reasons for this award, that he had always been impressed by the perseverance and industry of this young man, and by his devoted loyalty to his school and teachers.

The valedictory address prepared by Miss McCulloch, was ably read to the large gathering by Howard Macdonald.

In the address, Miss McCulloch says that "one of the aspects of collegiate life which is absent from the university, is the ever-present friendships and kindly criticisms of the teacher . . . P.C.I. is very fortunate in having a staff of comoetent teachers, who take a genuine interest in all the students, and we feel sure that the graduates of P.C.I., no matter what branch of work they enter, will always feel grateful for the learning which was instilled into them whether they were willing or not."

"Congratulations to our rugby team! We are all proud of the way P.C.I. teams fight — cleanly and cleverly, never backing up, no matter how big their opponents. And it is our sincere wish that P.C.I. may keep its fame as a rugby team."

COUPLE ENJOYING GOOD HEALTH

(Examiner Correspondence)

WARSAW, Dec. 13.—William Harding who celebrates his eighty-ninth birthday today is quite well, taking an interest in everything and tending his hens.

For some weeks following a fire at his home he was not very well but recently has been as well as for some years. He delights in having people talk with him of old times especially any of the few he knew when a young man or any of their families. His tales of bygone times are very interesting and amusing as he is quite witty.

Mrs. Harding also suffered from shock during the time of the fire but is quite well now and her hands are never idle for she knits and crochets. She too loves company and likes to hear what is going on and to tell of old times.

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, December 13.—Fractional gains caused by firmness on foreign markets were wiped out on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange here yesterday by heavy selling near the close. Wheat prices broke as much as 1½c, but climbed slightly from this plunge to finish 1⅛c to 1c lower than the previous close.

A fairly good export business overnight and fractional advances at Liverpool and Buenos Aires failed to lend any bullish feeling to the market. At the low mark of 56c the December future was 1¼c away from the all-time low touched on November 18. At the end of trading it was selling at 56¼c.

Cash wheat values slipped ¼c in a very dull session. Coarse grains also dropped fractionally in sympathy with falling wheat figures.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Dec. 13.—The arrival of a car of Prince Edward Island Green Mountain potatoes, extra selects, and the decline of egg prices to retailers featured the produce and dairy markets here yesterday.

The potato shipments containing 4,000 15 pound bags were sold quickly by wholesalers at 35 cents, ex-track. New Brunswick Green Mountains were quoted at 90c to 95c per 80-pound bag and carlots in bulk were 75c to 80c per 90 pounds.

With the exception of storage extras, all prices of egg grades to retailers were one cent lower. CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.— Active trade in corn yesterday accompanied rapid price shifts that contrasted sharply with an almost deserted wheat market here. Dealings in corn were governed largely by changes of quotations on securities, with holders of corn rather free sellers at times. Chicago wheat reflected the influence of Government-sponsored agencies and was unaffected by word that Winnipeg July delivery had dropped to a fresh seasonal low price.

Corn Drops ½c to 1½c.

Corn closed nervous ½c to 1½c a bushel lower than Thursday; wheat irregular, ½c off to ¼c up; oats, ¼c to ¾c down, and provisions at 2c to 25c setback.

ALGONQUIN ROAD IS BEING OPPOSED

Henry Promises to Improve Train Service to Park Jn 1931.

RECEIVES DEPUTATION.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 13.— Every effort will be made to have present train service through Algonquin Park improved for the 1931 season, Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Highways and Acting Premier, assured a delegation interested in the park, at a conference here.

The chief aim of the delegation, it was said, was to protest against the Ontario government's suggestion of building a road through the preserve, leading from Huntsville or Scotia to the southwest end of the park, thence along the southern boundary, terminating at Whitney.

Mr. Henry assured the delegation that irrespective of the Government's decision regarding the highway the train service would be improved.

The Miister smilingly commented it was the first time he had had a delegation approach him in opposition to a road being constructed. Generally they come asking for a road, Mr. Henry said.

A memorandum was from Hon. William Finlayson, Minister of Lands and Forests, was read to the conference. Mr. Finlayson, who is confined to a hospital here following an operation, stated in the memo if opposition developed to the highway there was no necessity of going on with the construction as there were many thousands of miles of roadway to build in Northern Ontario and the Algonquin road could stand over while these were being built.

MRS. C. ATWOOD CELEBRATES

a picturesque figure, a lady of the old school, one who is not afraid to grow old gracefully. In her soft black gown, with fishu and cap of snowy white, she sits in her living room, a veritable queen, her daughter doing everything to insure her complete comfort.

Her life has been in many respects an uneventful one, as she did not have the hardships of pioneer life which fell to her mother's lot, and she has also missed the feverish activity which seems to make up the day of the modern woman. She grew to womanhood, married while still young, the man she loved and the romance lasted through more than fifty years of wedded life. Her children grew up and have been a great joy and comfort to her and now in her declining years she lives in the surroundings dear through association and filled with cherished memories of the past. Her sitting room is a veritable treasure house, with books, pictures and old china, which in themselves are a fitting background for the pretty lady who is still a gracious hostess who enjoys so much the visits of her friends and retains her great love for little children.

Has Her Mother's Talents.

Her mother was an outstanding naturalist and her daughter has much of her mother's talent and also her love for the great outdoors. She loves animals and lucky indeed, in the horse, dog or cat which finds a home at "Ashleworth" as the Atwood family is known all over the community for its love of animals.

Mrs. Atwood has her four daughters about her, the two younger, the Misses Annie and Florence are at home, while Mrs. F. H. Lingwood and Mrs. J. W. Todd live within five minutes' walk. Her elder son, Clinton Atwood, lives in Grand Forks, B.C., and the youngest, G. Evans Atwood, lives in Toronto. One brother, Walter Traill, resides in Western Canada.

Mrs. Atwood's birthday which falls on Dec. 14, is the occasion for a delightful informal reception to which old friends from Peterborough, Lakefield and Toronto come and offer felicitations on her passing another milestone and learning so well the art of growing old gracefully.

Mrs. Atwood is a member of St. John's church and until the infirmities of age made it impossible she was faithful and regular in church attendance. She has always taken a deep interest in the W.A. and is the oldest surviving member of the Lakefield branch, until recent years being an active member.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 13. — (By Examiner Staff Correspondent.)—At the Baptist church on Sunday, the Rev. L. M. Smith will take as his sermon theme at morning service, "Foregleams of Christmas," and in the evening "A Prince and a Saviour." Sunday school will be at 10.30 a.m. At St. John's United church the Rev. R. C. Tait will be the preacher for the day, and will also lead the men's Bible class in the afternoon.

At Christ's Church (Anglican) the rector, the Rev. N. WOMEN'S INSTITUTE WEEKLY COLUMN

A goodly thing it is to meet
In Friendship's circle bright,
Where nothing stains the pleasure sweet
Or dims the radiant light.
No unkind word our lips shall pass,
No envy sour the mind,
But each shall seek the common weal,
The good of all mankind.

CAVAN

There is much need for assisting the financially distressed in our Northland, and not forgetting those in want or sickness near at hand. One has to but listen to the reports on relief to form an idea of all the Institutes do to help the less fortunate.

Through our reports on immigration and legislation we are kept in touch with those coming to us from other lands, and with new or revised laws, especially those relating to women.

Having a chairman on historical research is saving for generations to come many bits of real Canadian history which otherwise would be lost.

In some places museums are being established for the preservation of the relics of the district.

Every year we hear of more being done for the girls in the country. The newest thing is the government giving 200 selected girls from the province a real outing in Toronto during the Royal Winter Fair. They are entertained at a hotel, have sight-seeing tours, banquets, etc. Five hundred boys had this treat for several seasons and it was thought our girls were equally deserving of such an opportunity.

A love for sewing is being developed by the course in sewing. One of our Institute ladies had a garment-making class in her home each Saturday afternoon for young girls. Another had a similar class with a half hour concert included. The sewing was judged by a government demonstrator and diplomas awarded.

The junior farmers and girls of Elgin county have one yearly Sunday Service conducted by themselves. In another county the Agricultural representative takes the girls, who have taken the household science course on a home visitation tour to see homes where improvements have been installed and the surroundings beautified.

It is interesting to note 5,000 girls have already taken judging courses in Ontario.

Miss M. V. Powell is making a scientific and practical investigation of the Canadian textile industry. She is attending the Institute convention and giving talks on the excellent quality and variety of Canadian manufactured goods, and explains the large an varied exhibit of textile she has on display.

Mrs. A. E. Walker, president, thinks we are favored in having such generous and splendid government helps. In England, the Institutes are an independent organization and all assistance and literature is paid for by the seperate Institutes or the individual members.

The Institutes of Europe are still mainly stressing the problems of the home. They are urging that more modern conveniences be installed and especially do they desire that the women be freed from doing so much labor in the fields, that they might have more time to care for the duties of their homes and the welfare of their children.

In England the Institutes run more along the line of domestic handicraft and always they aim to have an amusement hour at their regular monthly meetings."

Christmas is drawing near and the question ever arises, "What shall I give my family and friends this year?" I think everybody realizes that money is scarce. Knowing this, we should not give nor expect expensive gifts. Why not try this season to utilize a lot of stuff we have in the house, and make up pretty useful gifts. A patchwork quilt, a hooked or crocheted or knitted bath or bedroom rug, wash cushion covers for the sitting room or kitchen lounge. I'm sure you can think of many little useful presents which will bring to the giver not only pleasure but an added assurance of your loving thought and thrift.

MOUNT PLEASANT

At the December meeting of our local Branch of Women's Institute lively discussions were held regarding Christmas gifts, Christmas shopping, etc.

Shopping is so wearying so sordid if you hurry at the work. But if you drift, dreaming as you go, of far countries from which some of the loveliness had come; of the enterprise that has led our own Canadians to wrest the secret of craftmanship from older lands and reveal them in beautiful creation in the new, shopping is a door that opens into the realms of romance.

Christmas shopping heightens all the thrills, too for there is beyond the seeing and the dreaming and the buying, the giving yet to come! There's the little red jampot with the two black cherries on the top. A friend said once she loved that shade of red and thought it a miracle they had caught just the tone in China. So the jampot goes into the yawning mouth of the Boston bag!

Then there's the sister with the five children who really needs warm stockings for them or for herself. But are we going to give them to her? No, not we, we creep near and never nearer to the counter where the scarfs are gay fine and fluttering which will brighten her and the business-burdened father and all the five of their young brood and they'll contrive the necessary stockings somehow themselves, because of the joyousness the scarf will bring.

The cool radiance of silver, solid silver that carries with it a sense of familiar pride, is in tempting prominence in the stores. Silver is a wonderful Christmas gift because it is something that is perfect no matter how small the form it takes and it is something that can be added to as anniversaries roll around.

It is curious though that with Christmas shopping and spending we are never entirely spent so long as there is love behind it. We can always manage something and so to us the stores with all they offer are a dear delight.

MILLBROOK

Salads are so important a part of the family health during the winter months when we must have green stuff, and uncooked vegetables, in some form, that many Institute branches devote say five or ten minutes at each meeting to hearing recipes, certain members being designated beforehand to bring their choicest recipe of this nature and pass it on to the others during he time set apart for this hearing every month.

In one branch the use of gelatine as a base was stressed at the Nov. meeting, fruits or vegetables being added as the dissolved gelatine is beginning to thicken. For instance, a good tomato salad is made by heating two cups of canned tomato, with two tablespoons of vinegar, adding this to the gelatine. When turned out of the moulds, cut with a knife previously dipped in hot water in order to ensure smooth slices, lay the latter on a lettuce leaf, and serve with or without salad dressing.

The ease by which lovely head lettuce may be obtained, in recent years, throughout the whole winter beginning in early fall, and even in quite small villages, is a boon to the housewife, since it adds so much to her 'diet calendar' when preparing the family meals. If preferred the tomato salad already mentioned may be varied by mixing diced celery, green beans cut fine, (canned beans are very good), or a little cucumber with the jelly as it begins to thicken, and of course if salad dressing is not used a good seasoning with salt and pepper is necessary.

WARSAW

The unemployment situation was spoken of at the recent Convention held in Toronto. There are many women in the city who will be only glad to go to a farm or anywhere else where they could work for bed and board, as they are facing the Winter without any prospect of work or home or food. Women willing to take one may get in touch with them by writing to Mrs McFarlane Hygea House, College street, Toronto.

Sir Joseph Flavelle's interesting address on Research Foundations showed how anyone who forges ahead and does his work single-mindedly is apt to come out ahead, also how very much good is done by research in making things better. Canada must produce the best if a good market is to be gotten and held. Slip-shod methods will not produce the best. There must be no waste. Research brings to light methods by which waste, by rot, rust, smut, disease among animals may be much reduced.

Most losses could be avoided, and that by people themselves, if they only take the trouble to find out the trouble and then to remedy it.

The whole spirit of the convention seemed to be a life of service, to bring brightness and goodness into lives to follow the footsteps of the Great Master who went about doing good, and so do the greatest good we can for home and country.

OPERA BY WIRELESS FOR GREAT BRITAIN

Scheme of British Broadcasting Corporation Receives General Praise.

MANCHESTER, Eng., Dec. 13.—(By the Canadian Press)—The British Broadcasting Corporation's scheme to establish opera on a new and permanent basis in Great Britain with the guarantee of $150,000 a year, has the hearty approval of The Manchester Guardian. The undertaking is to be administered by the Covent Garden Opera Syndicate, Limited, under the chairmanship of F. A. Szarvasy, originator of the proposal and the directors are not to receive any remuneration, but are to be allowed "reasonable" travelling and other expenses in connection with the performances of their duties.

The Manchester Guardian says editorially:

"It was inevitable that sooner or later the British Broadcasting Corporation would extend their interests in music to the most popular of all forms of music, which, of course, is opera. The Corporation has entered into a scheme whereby some 200 performances of opera will be given in various parts of the country every year, the bulk of them at prices of admission convenient to slender purses. In brief, the B.B.C. will in its own way help opera as on the Continent the State helps opera, while at the same time they will attend to their main job of entertaining the radio public. The scheme is likely to be applauded by the majority, for it has been proved that opera on a big sale cannot be made to pay its way in the ordinary course of the economics of the theatre.

PICTURES MAKE RECORD PROFIT

Industry's Net For 1930 Estimated at $55,000,000 For Six Companies.

PARAMOUNT LEADS.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13—Despite general depression the film industry's leaders will pass the fiscal period of 1930 to their biggest net profit in history, amounting in all to nearly $55,000,000. This is for the six principal companies, and exceeds the 1929 figure by nearly 500,000.

These figures are after interest and taxes have been paid.

Bankers downtown concede that third quarter earnings showed a sharp falling off, probably attributable largely to inferior quality of product, and are frankly willing to venture the opinion that 1931 may show no definite improvement, although the belief is expressed that next year's profits probably will equal those of 1930 or nearly so.

Production is likely to proceed at a reduced pace for the near future, with activity on an ascending scale from early summer on in anticipation of a new era of progress, starting with January of 1932.

Paramount with its $18,000,000 estimate tops the 1930 list.

FANNIE BRICE'S SHOW.

Company Takes Cut of 25% to Help Producer.

A salary cut of 25 per cent was agreed to by the Fannie Brice "Sweet and Low" company last week. The show is said to stand its producer, Billy Rose, Miss Brice's husband, about $150,000. It is three-starred, with the other two, George Jessel and Jim Barton. It is claimed the show must do a gross of $30,000 weekly to break.

The only holdout over the proposition cut was Borah Minnevitch, in the show at $2,000 weekly on a run of the play contract. This was finally adjusted when Abe Lastfogel for the Morris office, acting for Minnevitch, agreed to the 25 per cent cut until January 1, at the same time securing the engagement for Minnevitch to double at the R-K-O Palace at $2,500.

BID FOR MARX BROTHERS

$6,200 A Week For London Engagement

Charles B. Cochran cabled the William Morris agency in New York an offer of $6,200 weekly for four weeks for the Marx Brothers at the Palace, London. If the engagement goes through Cochran will play four weeks of vaudeville at the Palace with the bill holding the American headliner.

It is an abnormally large salary for a single attraction in London. The date set for the start is Dec. 26.

The Marxes are finishing a tour for R-K-O. Dec. 4 they opened for Publix at the Metropolitan, Boston, with the following week at the Michigan, Detroit, also Publix, at $10,000 at each of the two houses. Sailing immediately after the Detroit week the boys can just make London by December 26.

BAD DAYS FOR SAX BOYS

With the jazz band craze dying standing up in the U.S., it looks like those wavy haired band boys with the big bottomed trousers, now lounging around the street corners waiting for a break, will be waiting for a long time. Most of this type of musician got into music business by leaving school and grabbing a sax when the jazz habit was on. They are not, with few exceptions, schooled musicians. Few can read at sight and are no good for standard musical compositions. They cannot play in a theatre pit and seem only fit for snake tonguing a sax or caressing a drum with a wire brush.

The taste in the United States, according to signs, is returning to good music. Old fashioned ballads are shelling again. Standard overtures are once more welcome. Folks are renewing their acquaintances with their old friends, the strings, and are passing up the brasses. Looks like the boys will have to go back to school or work.

SCREEN AND STAGE NOTES

Splitting matrimonially, Ricardo Cortez and Alma Rubens are arranging a property settlement.

"Street Scene" cost Joseph M. Schneck $157,000, including broker's commission. William A. Brady, producer, and Elmer Harris, author, weer asking $200,000. Schenck has no one in view for the proposed picture.

Walter Huston, now enjoying a short vacation in France, plans to attend the London premiere of his picture, "The Bad Man." He is to return to Hollywood in February to begin work on "The Honor of the Family", an adaptation of the drama in which Otis Skinner appeared several years ago.

Dual roles may be an achievement to some film players, but they are not great shakes to Benny Rubin, who has just completed a triple role in a two-reel comedy called "Talking Turkey." Nor is that all. Now he is preparing to step into fourteen different characterizations in the latest short novelty of the "Humanette" series. He is the only member of the cast!

"Mister Lemon From Orange" is the title of El Brendel's first feature picture. Fifi Dorsay, Frank Albertson, Marguerite Churchill, Ruth Warren, William Collier Sr., Louise Huntington and the comedy blackface team of Black and Blue have been assigned parts. Originally titled "Poor John," the story deals with the activities of an eccentric janitor in an apartment house.

"Kiki," Mary Pickford's new talker, is finished so far as camera work and recording. This particular "Kiki" is and American variety of the Parisian gutter gamin who won fame on the stage. Miss Pickford appears as a chorus girl in a Broadway revue. In the cast are Margaret Livingston, Joseph Cawthorn, Phil Tead, Fred Walton and Fred Warren.

"Sex in Business" has been selected as the title for the picture formerly titled "Strictly Business," in which Claudette Colbert, Frederic March and Charles Ruggles will soon start work at Paramount's New York studio.

Janet Gaynor will enact the title role in "Merely Mary Ann," adapted from Israel Zangwil's stage play. Miss Gaynor recently completed the leadnig part opposite Charles Farrell in "The Man Who Came Back," directed by Raoul Walsh. In "Merely Mary Ann" she will play the part of a London boarding house slavey to whom a turn of fortune brings sorrow and joy at the same time, transforming her into a lady but taking away love.

Helen Lind is now in pictures; she's the voice of "Mickey Mouse."

Lloyd Hamilton goes to U for one short which may lead into a series. Hamilton is getting $5,000 apiece on any he makes.

Edgar Wallace has started a newspaper, "The Bucks Mail", circulating in a provincial spot where he is shortly to stand for Parliament.

Lou Tellegen announces his retirement from the stage. Tellegen, former husband of Geraldine Farrar, has taken a studio where he will teach dramatics.

Margaret Ekdale, "Miss America" at the Galveston beauty contest, is on her way to the coast for picture work, according to a wire to the studios from her manager. Hollywood is yawning.

When her contract with Universal expired last January, Laura La Plante announced her decision to retire and content herself with being Mrs. William Seiter. However, when an opportunity was offered her to play one of the leads in "Lonely Wives" for Pathe, she returned to the screen fold with alacrity. Edward Everett Horton will have the masculine lead in the new picture, an adaptation of a play.

Jobyna Ralston, who has just been assigned a part in a Big 4 melodrama, "Sheer Luck", is marking her re-entry into pictures. Miss Ralston retired when she married Richard Arlen, but changed her mind after a record of her voice, made for the family album, brought persistent offers from producers.

Offering a program of popular songs in his first appearance since he made his talking screen debut four years ago, Giovanni Martinelli, Metropolitan Opera tenor, has just finished the latest of his Vitaphone Varieties series. Included among his numbers are "Song of Songs" and "Homing," both of which are sung in English.

With work completed on his new picture, "Scandal Sheet," George Bancroft is coming to New York, where he will make personal appearances at the Paramount for one week, starting Friday.

Two-bit Tax Discourages Demand For Pictures of Stars.

MOSTLY SMALL TOWNS.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 13.—Requests for fan photographs from the studios have fallen off 50 per cent since the studios started charging for the pictures. Each studio is now sending out a printed form telling the fans that their request for a photo must be ignored unless they enclose two-bits for an 8 x 10 or a dime for a 5 x 7.

Among the male players, Lew Ayres has jumped to a commanding spot in the estimation of the fans. Requests for his picture equal that of Jack Oakie and Gary Cooper. Standing of the male stars, according to Hollywood's biggest fan picture outfit, is Buddy Rogers, Richard Arlen, Gary Cooper, Lew Ayers, Jack Oakie and Ramon Navarro.

Reason For Arlen.

While Arlen is not rated the draw that the others are, reason for his popularity is that he sticks to westerns and the kids are the biggest collectors of fan pictures. Most requests for Navarro's pictures come from the Latin countries, where he is pretty much an idol.

Topping the femme list is Clara Bow, who has been the ace request for the past three years. Following her are Greta Garbo, Janet Gaynor, Nancy Carroll, Norma Shearer and Colleen Moore. The inclusion of Miss Moore in the first six is interesting because she has not worked in a picture for almost two years.

To a great extent, the requests for fan pictures of individual stars depends entirely on where the pictures are shown. In a check up of the leetrs, few come from people who patronize the de luxe houses. Great percentage of requests comes from small towns.

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough or chest cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a 16 oz. bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make 16 ounces. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It is also absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. At the same time, it promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even in severe bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Are you still thinking of what you should purchase for Christmas? I noticed some delightful small rugs the other day which I think would be a most acceptable gift for some hostess.

• • • • • • •

These small rugs are popular for two reasons. They are easy to handle, less expensive to buy than carpet-sized rugs, and they can be readily adapted to different sized rooms.

• • • • • • •

This latter reason suits modern apartment-living for the people living in apartments change their residences frequently. The identical rugs of a former dwelling can be suited to a later one without added expense, while carpet-size rugs do not so readily conform to such changes.

• • • • • • •

Many of these rugs can be home cleaned too. Oriental rugs are among those as also are Colonial woven rugs, and those in which the colors are known to be fast.

• • • • • • •

Homecraft rugs made by women from strips of wash materials can be laundered in the wash tub, provided, of course, they are small enough to be put in the tubs.

• • • • • • •

Use a plunger and soap water with a mild powder or soap to which is added a very little household amonia.

• • • • • • •

Put the rugs on the scrubbing board and scrub with a circular motion using a scrubbing brush with rather soft bristles. Do not scrub hard, but douse up and down in the water.

• • • • • • •

Do not hang on a line to dry but place on an old clean cloth or brown wrapping paper laid flat on the ground, or in the cellar or verendah. Hanging on the line is disastrous to the fabric and to the shape of the rug.

• • • • •

The larger rugs can be washed on the floor.

• • • • • • •

Put oilcloth beneath the rug, and dip the scrubbing brush in the solution and scrub as described.

• • • • • • •

Rinse portions as they are finished being scrubbed. Keep wiping the oil cloth off as some of the water will be sure to percolate through.

• • • • • • •

When finished be sure to lay rugs absolutely straight on the flat surface to dry or they will get crooked. If they incline to be naturally crooked as is the case with many Orienta rugs, tack down the edges to hold them straight.

• • • • • • •

Rugs of woven carpeting can have the surface cleansed by the same process, if colors are fast, but do not let the rugs get wet through. The surface only can be home-cleaned satisfactorily.

Millbrook

MILLBROOK, Dec. 13. (Examiner Correspondence.)—A pleasant surprise was prepared for Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hall, Fourth Line Cavan, on Tuesday evening, when forty of Mr. Hall's Masonic brethren, with their wives, or lady friends, arrived at their cosy new home and presented them with a handson six-piece silver tea service, the gift of the members of J. B. Hall Lodge, A.F. and A.M. No. 145, Millbrook, of which Mr. Hall is a Past Master.

Charles Thorndyke acted as chairman for the happy occasion. George Berry making the presentation, and J. S. McGill reading the following address:

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hall:

Dear Friends and Brother:

We your brother Masons of J. B. Hall Lodge, Millbrook, have come to your new home this evening to offer you both our sincere congratulations on your recent happy marriage.

The Divine Architect in His wisdom has brought you together for mutual comfort and support, and we believe He will give you strength commensurate with the tasks assigned to you, as you journey through life together, so that the beauty of a well-ordered life of love and devotion may shine forth for others to emulate.

In order to express to you our joy and pleasure in a more tangible form, on this happy occasion, we ask you to accept this silver tea service as a token of the love and esteem in which we hold you, Clifford, as a Past Master of our Ancient and Honorable Order, and to you, Beatrice, as his wife, and may the joys of life, health, honor, and happiness, coupled with love, loyalty, and length of days, be yours in abundance.

Signed on behalf of the brethren of J. B. Hall Lodge, A.F. and A.M.,
J. S. McGill,
George Berry,
Chas. Thorndyke.

Mr. Hall made suitable reply on behalf of his wife and himself, and addresses were made by Brothers (Rev.)John Riddell, G. H. Hooten, Jas. H. Paul, Fred Waterman, and others, after which a social hour was enjoyed during which dainty refreshments were served by the ladies.

All Saints' Church Christmas Gift Night

A pleasant custom is observed each year before Christmas at All Saints' Church when the children of the Sunday School bring in gifts to be sent to other Sunday Schools where the children are less blessed with Christmas cheer than those at home. The bale will be sent to the Rev. Horace Ashmore for his work in Northern Saskatchewan. The gifts will be brought in to-night, as they must be shipped on their long journey to-morrow. There will be a service of carols at 7.15 p.m., and as usual the rector will tell the story of The Christmas Carol, with Old Scrooge, Bob Cratchet, and the other friends, illustrated by lantern slides. Gifts should not be too large or easily breakable, but the Sunday School expects to have about 300 individual presents to send. Gifts of money will be gladly welcomed to pay freight charges.

Association Plans Future Activities

Plans for future activities had a large place on the program at the monthly meeting of King Edward Home and School Association on Friday afternoon when a large number of representative women were in attendance.

The president, Mrs. J. J. Pollock, presided and the usual devotional period prefaced the program. Satisfactory and encouraging reports were presented and the minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted.

Among the coming events to be held is a joint meeting of the members and the teachers of the school on January 9th. At this meeting the election of officers for 1931 will also take place.

A splendid spirit prevailed in the discussion concerning giving gifts to the needy during the winter and a generous sum was unanimously voted for Christmas cheer. A tea to raise funds for this worthy object is being planned for the near future.

EDICT IS DEFIED

Hudson, Communistic organizer, Winnipeg; Edward McGinty, George Ford, Jack Hudson, Walter Tipper, all of Moose Jaw, and Harry Andrews, Pete Siminoek and Fred Boyd.

Climax to Series

Last night's affair was the climax to a series of unemployed demonstrations in the city which started following the arrival of Jack Hudson, self-avowed Communistic organizer of Winnipeg. Following a previous demonstration, a delegation was sent to the council demanding $25 a week for cash relief for married men, with $2 a week for every child, and $16 for every single man.

At a meeting Thursday the City Council, on the grounds that everything possible was being done for unemployed, decided to take a firm stand against the demonstrations and demands. They issued an edict against the staging of demonstrations or blocking streets, and refused to receive any further delegations from the organized unemployed.

Police had the ring leaders under surveillance for the past two weeks and reinforcements of mounted police from headquarters at Regina were brought into the city to cope with any emergency that might arise. In defiance to the order issued by the council the organized unemployed sent a delegation to the council and held their demonstration. The delegation was sent back by the police, who afterwards swooped down on the meeting and arrested the ring leaders.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D

DIABETES, THE PENALTY FOR OVEREATING.

One of the unfortunate things about diabetes is the quiet manner in which it comes as a man or woman approaches middle age.

And the only thing these patients have noticed, or their friends have noticed, is that these patients have noticed, is that they have been gradually increasing in weight.

Because statistics now show that diabetes rarely develops in people over twenty years of age who are underweight.

Another point is that the overweight condition is practically always due to eating too much food and taking too little exercise. This overweight condition due to overeating, occurs so frequently before the diabetes appears that research men are now of the opinion that it is a big factor in causing diabetes.

Now, how does overweight cause diabetes?

Because the extra fat tissue, deposited in all the tissues in the body, gets deposited in the pancreas. After a certain length of time, as the fat continues to accumulate, it squeezes the regular cells of the pancreas so much that these cells grow gradually smaller and do not provide the juice necessary to handle the starches or sugars in the blood properly. The result is that these rich foods are thrown out of the body in the urine instead of being made use of by the blood for the work of the body.

As Dr. E. P. Joslin puts it, "Diabetes is the penalty for allowing oneself to grow too fat, and the greater the amount of overweight the more likely is Nature to enforce the penalty. The sooner this is recognized the sooner will the increase in diabetes be checked. The penalty of taking too much alcohol is well known and a drunkard is looked on with pity. Sometimes persons who become fat deserve pity because due to glandular conditions they cannot help it as they really do not overeat. Usually, however, most cases should be put in the same class as the alcoholic. In the next generation one may be almost ashamed to have diabetes."

These seem like strong, harsh words, but if they make our middle-aged folk refrain from eating too much they will prevent many cases of diabetes. Remember, insulin cures diabetes in young people, and saves or lengthens the lives of older diabetics, but diabetes is increasing because older people eat more and work less than they should.

If our young people would eat more and our older people less, then we would have the ideal conditions for health.

SYDNEY AIDS STREET CARS.

To protect the street car lines from competition of taxi-bus service, Sydney, N. S. W., has given notice that the busses cannot continue in direct rivalry with car lines in the city or with those running into the suburbs. By a new Act of New South Wales all motor bus services are required to obtain licenses and pay the required fees. Where the proposed bus services are competitive for street car revenue the maximum fees are demanded, but those for feeder routes and routes through undeveloped areas will be only nominal. In Sydney, however, city officials will not even consider an application to conduct a service competitive with the car lines.

MRS. P. STINSON W.M.S. HOSTESS

REPORTS LEFT OVER.

MILLBROOK, Dec. 13. (Examiner Correspondent)—Mrs. P. Stinson was hostess for the annual meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of Saint Andrew's United Church, the gathering which was attended by over forty members, being held at her home, Centre Street, on Wednesday afternoon, the president, Mrs. (Rev.) W. W. Jones, presiding for the opening devotions, and the business session.

Reports were left over until the January meeting, when all group leaders,and other officers, will be asked for the twelve months' record covering 1930, and the newly-elected officers will be formally installed by the pastor Rev. W. W. Jones, B.A., B.D.

Mrs. Stinson took charge of the program, the group of which she is convenor being responsible for the December meeting, the devotional leaflet, "Give us this day our daily bread", being read by the leader. The hymns for the meeting were all chosen in keeping with the Christmas season, as was also the duet, "Silent Night", which was beautifully sung by Mrs. H. W. Johnston and her sister, Miss L. Hansman, of Port Hope.

Mrs. (Dr.) Rae took up the chapter from the study book, much interesting information being given on the social life and problems of Japan, and Mrs. Jones led in the prayer of consecration which followed.

Officers Elected.

The election of officers was in charge of the pastor, the list for 1931 being:

President, Mrs. (Rev.) W. W. Jones; Vice-Pres., Mrs. (Dr). Rae; 2nd Vice-Pres., Mrs. H. E. Smith; Recording Sec'y., Mrs. J. H. George; Corresponding Sec'y., Miss Pearl Burnham; Treasurer, Miss M. E. Hetherington; Strangers' Sec'y., Mrs. Weston Fallis; Associate Helpers' Sec'y., Mrs. A. J. Henderson; Christina Stewarship Sec'y., Miss Estelle Hetherington; Superintendents of the Mission Band, Mrs. M McDowell, Mrs John Ridge and Miss Phyllis Kidd.

Temperance Sec'y., Mrs. Hilliard Lang; Mite Box Sec'y., Mrs. T. H. Aiken; Literature Sec'y., Mrs. R. H. Edmunds.

In resuming the chair and expressing her appreciation of the honor bestowed on her personally, through being again elected to the presidency of so large and important an organization as the Woman's Auxiliary is, Mrs. Jones also made special reference to the faithful and capable service rendered for the past eleven years by the retiring recording secretary, Mrs. C. W. Richards, who had voluntarily resigned at the year's close owing to press of other responsibilities at home.

The president made particular mention of Mrs. Richard's regular attendance, and the capable manner in which the minutes were written up, and presented each month, and also of the personal interest the secretary had invariably taken in the work of the Auxiliary, and the painstaking way in which she responded to requests for information that might come from either officers, or members, though frequently both time and labor were involved in securing the knowledge required. Prolonged applause, following Mrs. Jones' remarks, testified to the hearty manner in which the members endorsed the sentiments she had so well expressed.

The hostess, assisted by her daughter, Miss Jean, and the group in charge, served delicious refreshments at the close of the meeting, and a pleasant social hour was enjoyed.

The fall thankoffering, received at both the November and the December meetings, totalled eighty-four dollars and more is likely to come in. The Easter thankoffering was over ninety dollars, and the Auxiliary expects to reach its allocation when all fees, and other outstanding dues are gathered in. The usual votes of thanks were extended to Mrs. Stinson, and her helpers, before the gathering dispersed.

MILLBROOK

Mr. J.Todd, a former resident of Millbrook, was in town on Tuesday for the funeral of the late Rev. Canon W. C. Allen; Mr. Todd is now residing at Lakefield.

Miss L. Hansman, of Port Hope, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. H. W. Johnston, Centre Street.

Mrs. M. Weatherup has returned home after three weeks spent with her sister, who is seriously ill at her home in Stratford.

The many friends of Mr. John Allen, Senior, will regret to learn that he is in the hospital at Peterborough, having undergone an operation on his eyes.

Mrs. Howard Lunn, and two children, Phyllis and Ross, are in Orillia, owing to the serious illness of the former's mother.

Messrs W. Fred Fallis, Leonard Henderson, and W. Belch were in Bowmanville, on Wednesday attending the annual meeting of the Holstein-Fresian Breeders' Club, of Durham County.

Mrs. Stinson, Senior, of Janetville, is visiting her son and daughter-in-law, Reeve P. and Mrs. Stinson.

The public school pupils intend putting on their annual concert on Friday, December 19, in the Town Hall, a play, and other items, making up a most entertaining program.

Mrs. Walter Allen, who with her husband came from their home at Springfield, Ill., on account of the death of his brother, Rev. Canon Allen, is remaining for a ten days' visit with Mrs. (Rev) W. C. Allen at "Shenley". Mr. Allen returned home shortly after the funeral on Tuesday.

Don't forget the big Examiner party and dance at the Legion Hall next Tuesday night, December 16th. Come along and have a good time and provide a Christmas dinner for some needy family.

Battalino Defends Title Against Chocolate

VICTOR OVER CUBAN AFTER HARD BATTLE

"Kid" Chocolate Suffers Third Straight Defeat—Body Punching Effective.

BOUT GOES DISTANCE.

Champion, Down For Nine Count in First Round Aggressor Throughout.

By Edward J. Neil, Associated Press Sports Writer.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Christopher "Bat" Battalino, the none too highly rated champion of the featherweights, came into the big town for the first time last night, and proved himself before a crowd of 17,000 by whipping the fading Kid Chocolate in a furious 15-round defence of his title. It was the third straight defeat for the slim Cuba negro who a year ago was considered invincible in the 126 pound class.

An under-dog in the betting hardly rated the equal of the flashy 'Keed, no matter how far the Cuban had gone back, Battalino got up off the floor after a count of nine in the first round to chase Chocolate the rest of the way, pound eternally at his body, and in the end gain the unanimous decision of two judges and Referee Arthur Donovans. The big Christmas fund crowd who had made Chocolate a 2 to 1 favorite booed the decision lustily, though there seemed little doubt among the ring-siders that the courageous little champion had won himself a hard victory

FIGHT FANS BOO STRIBLING WIN

Georgian Awarded Decision Over Griffiths in Slow Ten Round Bout.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—W. L. (Young) Stribling defeated Gerald Ambrose (Tuffy) Griffiths of Sioux City, Iowa, last night in a slow ten-round fight before 20,000 fans who repeatedly had booed the eGorgian for his ring tactics. The decision was given by two judges and a referee.

Stribling made one of the poorest showings he ever has given in Chicago and was a disappointment to the crowd which had installed him as a 2 to 1 betting favorite. The Georgian weighed 184¾ to 186 for Griffith. He was content to let Griffiths do all the forcing and did practically all of his fighting in the clinches.

ROLLY HUARD ON TORONTO'S SECOND STRING

Crippled Leafs Make Home Stand Against Bruins in To-night's Bill.

QUAKERS AT DETROIT.

Canadiens Expected to Come Away With Easy Victory From Americans.

TORONTO, Ont., December 13 (C. P.). — Three of the four Canadian teams in the National Hockey League swing into action in this week-end's schedule of five games. To-night the Canadian division leaders, Montreal Canadiens, entertain New York Americans, while the crippled second place holders, Toronto Maple Leafs, make a home stand against Boston's hard hitting Bruins. In the other section the last place Philadelphia Quakers encounter Detroit.

Starting the season with a surprising display of strength the star splashed Americans dropped into a slump after the first five games, but have apparently hit their stride again as they trounced Boston on Thursday night. A repetition of that performance should enable th meto give the fast skating and accurate shooting Habitants plenty to worry about before the tussle is over.

However, with Howie Morenz, the league leading sniper, and the rest of the Flying Frenchmen apparently at the top of their form, Montreal's colorful Red Shirts are expected to keep up their winning ways.

If Maple Leafs were at full strength the encounter at Toronto woud probably be labelled the headline attraction, but with three mainstays on the hospital list through injuries, the Torontonians are not expected to be able to halt Art Ross' powerful outfit.

The teams are both occupants of the second place berths in their respective sections, and need victory to mainta'n their status there. In fighting spirit the Leafs no doubt can match the Bruins, but in numerical strength the New Englanders are much superior.

Managing Director Conny Smythe has secured Rolly Huard, centre player of the Buffalo International team to help out in this emergency and he will team up with Harvey Jackson and Roger Jenkins on the second string line.

If Leafs should surprise the hockey world by trouncing Boston they will be doing good for Detroit Falcons and New York Rangers as these two teams are tie for third place in the American group, three points behind the Bruins. The Falcons play in Philadelphia and hope to gain undisputed possession of third place by winning while Rangers are idle. Jack Adams' checking experts have even already decisively beaten the Quakers and should repeat, even though the tail-enders furnish stubborn opposition to the best of teams on their home ice.

Maroons a Chicago

Montreal Maroons make their first invasion of Chicago this season when they clash with the Blackhawks, American group leaders, on Sunday. Having already beaten the Windy City team the Maroons have a fine chance to improve their standing by duplicating that performance. Victory for the rugged Montrealers plus a defeat for Toronto will put Dunc Munro's team in a tie with the Leafs for second place.

The Blackhawks will be somewhat handicapped through illness to two of their stars, Art Somers and Gotteelig. Even so it is likely they can provide their opopnents with opposition of the hardest kind. The Hawks have not yet been beaten at home and are confident of keeping this record clean.

The Falcons journey from Philadelphia to New York where they play the Rangers in a game which should provide the speed crazed Gotham fans with a feast, as both teams play fast open hockey at all times. Detroit has onev ictory over the New Yorkers to their credit and a win on the Rangers' home ice will give them a strong hold on third place, especially if they trounce the Quaker

WINDSOR AND LONDON ARE KING WINNERS

QUAKER'S CAPTAIN TEAM SCORE LEADER

Although Benny Leonard's Philadelphia Quakers have been having a rough go of it this season even this tail-end team has records. Hibby Milks, captain of the lowly Quakers, has a unique record of having led his team now for five years in the art of getting goals. Milks was with the old Pirates when they were United States amateur champions. They turned pro. as a team in 1925-26, representing Pittsburgh in the N.H.L. Milks came from the great incubator, Hockey Ottawa, having been born there April 1st. Since the first time he scored a goal he has had the laugh on nearly every team in the league. "Hibby" weighs 160 lbs. and stands 5 ft. 9 inches in height, shoots left-handed and plays centre and left wing. The first season that the Pittsburgh club was in existence was in 1925-26. Milks not only led his team in scoring but was more than well up in the league standing. He had 14 goals and 5 assists, almost 20 per cent. of the total number of goals scored by his team. Considering that his club earned a hundred and fifteen goals Hibby only had seven penalties. In the 1926-27 season he again led his team in goal-scoring with 16 goals and 6 assists. In the 1927-28 season he scored 18 goals and had 3 assists serving but 32 minutes in the penalty box, again leading his pack of team mates. The 1928-29 season was not such a good year for him, as he only bulged the nets 9 times with 3 assists and he did 22 minutes in penalties. Last season his work was outstanding, he got 13 goals and 11 assists. Thus the all-time record for Milks in the National Hockey League is 70 goals, 28 assists with 125 minutes in the penalty box. The notable factor of this whole list of records is that each year he has led his team in compiling points.

TECUMSEHS SCORE OVERTIME VICTORY OVER PITTSBURGH 3-2

Bill Phillips, Utility N. H. L. Player Aids "Dogs" Defeat Olympics.

BY 3-2 COUNT.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 13 (C.P.)—Windsor and London squeezed through to close victories in the International Hockey League last night and maintained their second and third place positions in the standing.

The Bulldogs, reinforced by that clever playmaker, Bill Phillips of the Canadian Sault and utility forward of the Montreal Maroons of the National League, emerged victors over Detroit Olympics, by 3 to 1, while the Tecumsehs scored a lucky, 3 to 2 triumph over Pittsburgh after overtime.

Phillips was the dominating factor in Bulldog-Olympic clash. To start off with he unwittingly assisted Gillie, Detroit forward, to tally the first counter of the game when he batted the puck against Gillie's skate while clearing from his defensive area. The rubber bounced toward the Windsor goal and Gillie followed through to beat Clint Benedict. In the second frame, however, Phillips evened matters by scoring unassisted. He also registered the final marker of the game during the last minute of play after Stan Brown had put the second place holders in the lead on a pass from Jack Arbour.

The husky Yellow Jackets from the Smoky City almost humbled Roy Brothers hopefuls at London. Milt Halliday gave them an early lead by scoring half way through the first period after Lloyd McIntyre had laid down a perfect pass.

Only three minutes remained of the second 20 minutes before the Forest City team knotted the count on Speedy Groh's well-earned goal.

Plenty of excitement developed in the extra period after the third session ended scoreless. Harry Connors put the home team in the van on a pass from Leo Goldsworthy one minute after the start, but McIntyre deadlocked the teams again by scoring on his own rebound five minutes later. Three minutes from the end Goldsworthy picked up Quennville's pass and shot, the puck caromed off Gordon Fraser's stick and into the Pittsburg net to give Tecumsehs victory and assure them of third place, one point ahead of Detroit.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, the football season has got itself untangled at last, and last Sat. seen the West, which has been getting none of the brakes in the wheat market and elsewhere, take a couple more bumps, what with the Argo jrs. beating the Native Sons of Winnipeg and the Balmy Beachers outscoring the Regina Tigers. Both games was played in the same mud, and the westerners hadda have a lotta tough luck to send them home with a loss. The Sons was only a foot out from the Argo line and all set to sail over for a touchdown and the chance to convert that woulda meant a tie score when the timer's whistle woke them outa their beautiful dream. That's a close call, and I don't mean probably.

As for the Regina lads, they took the steam cars for the far west feeling that the officials had hi-jacked them outa the title. Mebbe they did at that, for that play that seen the Tigers called back after they had recovered a fumbled ball and was nearly over for a major score mighta just as well been called the other way, according to newspaper accounts of the same. However, Balmy Beach deserves a lotta nice things. They had to go through most of the game without their 2 stars, Mister Cox, the kicking wizard, and Mister Ted Reeve, the powerhouse of the front line, and they didn't miss them more than a bird would miss a complete set of molars when called on to tackle a restaurant stake. Under that handicap the Beachers was good enough to go on and win, and you can't rob them of that, big boy.

It looks like, Mac, as if Mister Connie Smythe of the Leafs will hafta go and get himself a coupla forwards. 2 weeks ago the Leaves was sitting pretty, but 2/3 of the kid line is now in the hospital, and Mister Smythe's forces is real short-handed. Lack of manpower beat them in Montreal Tues. nite, Mac, for they outplayed them flaming Canadiens for most of the journey, until the wily Mister Cecil Hart killed them off by shooting constant relays out there to skate the Leaves into the ground. And at that the Canadiens only win by the odd goal in 3, so the Toronto lads scored a moral victory which don't cash in very high in the league standing, but is anyway good for the morale.

Locally, Mac, it looks like we oughta get hockey in quantity anyway. This here East Peterborough League, which brings the Lakefield batters and the Havelock shock troops into a warfare with the C.G.E. Toolroom and the Cogs of here, will add a new spice to the hockey proceedings. The Havelock and Lakefield boys form a section of the intermediate group as well and they're going to settle their O.H.A. differences in the E.P. competition. That is, when they clash in a East Peterborough battle it will count as a O.H.A. game as well, so that them 2 teams will have plenty to get excited over. With the 2 local junior teams in the same group and the intermediates tangled with Port Hope and company, there oughta be plenty excitement in the neighborhood of Brock street throughout Jan. anyway.

Well, Mac, don't forget The Examiner dance next Tues. nite and Jack Stewart's big midnite show at the Capitol Thurs., proceeds of both of which goes for Christmas relief. I expect to see you and all the customers at both.

Till then, old top, cheerio.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

Latest news and views of the Golfing World

By RALPH H. REVILLE

(Copyright 1930)

TORONTO, Dec. 13—A few belated hole-in-one performances received this month brings up the total to the very respectable one of 236 registered on Canadian golf courses the past season.

The "one-shotters in 1930 ranged in age from 15 years to 78 years. Eight women golfers "turned the trick" which is a record for any one year demonstrating how the ladies are improving in the use of the mashie as it is generally on short holes that the ones are recorded. By Provinces this is how the stunt was registered:—Alberta 25, British Columbia 39, Manitoba 9, Maritimes 9, Ontario 110, Quebec 19, Saskatchewan 15. It will be noticed that Ontario one-shotters almost equalled the total of all the other Provinces. Fifteen years ago when the "Canadian Golfer" first instituted this "Hole-in-One" competition now copied in both Great Britain and the United States, there were only sixteen candidates for the "Hall of Fame." The law of average holds in golf as in everything else, so this increase the past season of over two hundred members in the Hole-in-one club compared with 1915 demonstrates in no uncertain manner the remarkable increase in the number of golfers in the Dominion, the past decade and a half. It is interesting to note that the shortest hole on which a one was made, was 65 yards and the longest hole, 325 yards—the latter a record for Canada.

Mr. H. H. Ramsay, Vice-President of the United States Golf Association and President-Designate states that expressions of praise of the larger and lighter ball, which becomes official in the United States on January 1st have been received from all sections of the country.

Among others sending in words of commendation, Mr. Ramsay mentioned Bobby Jones, Harrison Johnston, Miss Glenna Collett, Horton Smith, Walter Hagen along with many letters that had been received by the U.S.G.A. from what he termed "average golfers." Jones said there was no mystery about the new ball. Mr. Ramsay quoted the champion. "If it is hit like a golf ball it will act like a golf ball." Miss Collett said long carries were easier with the new sphere and Horton Smith asserted that after the larger and lighter ball was in use three months the old one would soon be forgotten. The average players Mr. Ramsay maintains had been able to reduce their scores with it. After outlining the advantages of easier hitting he said the new ball would bring back the spoon and long iron shots to the game, and it would also sit up better in the fairway. In commenting on the quantity of golf balls used in the United States Mr. Ramsay said that although "not all had been counted" 2,000,000 dozen are sold in the course of the year.

Perhaps it would be well to emphasize just once again that the new ball authorized by the U.S.G.A. is not authorized by the Royal Canadian Golf Association. In Canada as in Great Britain the 1.62 ball is still the official ball although the new ball 1.68 inches in diameter and 1.55 ounces in weight, can be used in this country in championships if the player prefers to do so. Thus far Canadian golfers however, have shown no indication whatever, that they will play with the so-called "American ball" and golf manufacturers here are making very few of them for sale next year.

The women Seniors of the United States have some very fine players in their ranks as is evidenced by the fact that Mrs. Samuel S. Laird won the Senior Championship there this year with a score of 172 for 36 holes. This compares with the best score of 190 in the Canadian women's championship last October at Lambton, or a difference of 18 strokes. Like the men, the women Seniors of the States have unquestionably "the edge" on the majority of our Canadian senior golfers and there seems little hope that this country can expect to win for some years to come at least, against the players of the states either men or women, if they decide, as in the past to field their best teams or unless the fixtures, as has been suggested are played on handicaps, which more or less does away with the accepted idea of a championship.

As was generally expected the officers and members of the Royal Ottawa Golf Club have lost no time in arranging to at once rebuild their historical club house so devasted by fire on Thanksgiving Day. At an enthusiastic meeting the directors were empowered at a cost of some $200,000 to start work at once on the new building. The insurance on the old club house amounted to $82,000. It was decided to assess all male members of the club $100 and all lady members $50. This will raise approximately $50,000. Then $70,000 in debentures was authorized and this sum was subscribed for in three days. The Royal Ottawa certainly has an enthusiastic and loyal membership. The new club house which will be fire proof and enlarged and improved in many respects will be ready for occupancy it is anticipated by August or September next year.

A 9-hole golf course has been laid out in the grounds of the Mental Hospital at Queensland, Australia. The patients themselves built the pretty little club house. The doctors find that many mental cases are cured as the result of playing golf, the sunshine, air and relaxation all contributing to this happy result. Here is an idea that might be followed in some of the larger Mental Institutions in Canada.

British Columbia is making quite a bid this winter to attract Canadian golfers who have been in the habit of spending the next few months in Southern resorts. Out on the Pacific, courses are now open all the year round and golf can be played generally under ideal conditions. A mid-winter golf tournament is scheduled to be played over the beautiful Victoria Golf Club course, Victoria, B.C., February 23rd to the 28th, and indications are for a good entry list of leading players from all parts of Eastern Canada and the States.

WINDSOR SENIORS LOSE TO NATIONALS

Mic-Macs Are Outscored 9-3 in S.P.A. Semi-final Fixture.

TORONTO, Dec. 13.—The Toronto Nationals won the right to meet the University of Toronto seniors in the S.P.A. final when they scored a decisive victory over the Windsor Mic-macs in a listless hockey game played at the Arena Gardens last evening, the final score being 9-3.

As the score indicates, the visitors were no match for the local team, and showed very little class in a hockey way, while the Sea Fleas, after they had piled up a comfortable lead, did not extend themselves a great deal. The game was by no means interesting to watch.

BELLEVILLE JUNIORS WIN FROM OSHAWA

Superior Condition of Winners Accounts For Exhibition Tilt Result.

BELLEVILLE, Dec. 13.—Belleville Cubs, entrants in the O.H.A. junior series, defeated the strong Oshawa sextette, coached by Ken Randall, by a count of 5-3 through superior condition here last night. Randall did not have much to build from, having only Lortie and Drinkle left from last year's team, but he trotted out an aggregation that will be hard to stop in the near future. The defense is the strongest part of the team, with the forward line strong defensively but weak on offence, Lortie being the goal-getter.

FEW PLAYER DEALS.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13 (C.P.)—Major league baseball magnates and managers were headed toward home today after five days of much talk and little action.

The annual mid-winter meetings of the National and American Leagues broke all records for conversation but failed to produce a single player trade of any importance nor any official action of any particular consequence.

The draft dispute not only monopolized news reports of the convention but also conspired to hinder player trades. All efforts to bring about a settlement of this troublesome question failed, and at the end the disputants were further apart than ever. The split had developed to such an extent that there was considerable talk among the big non-draft minors, American Association, International and Pacific Coast Leagues, of building their circuits to rival the majors.

The concluding day of the convention was monopolized yesterday by a meeting of the joint rules committee. One important change wiped the sacrifice fly off the books. In the future, batsmen who life long flies to the outfield on which base runners can advance a base will not be credited with a sacrifice and will be charged with a time at bat.

Two Base Limit

Another change limits a batsmen to two bases on all balls which bounce off the playing field. This was aimed to halt the epidemic of "trick home runs" made when the ball bounced off the playing field into the stands.

The American League approved the National League rule by which balls are judged fair or foul where they leave the playing field and not where they are last seen. The rule thus became a standard regulation.

Bowling

Alley Gossip

By Pin Boy

A barrage of heavy hitting that eclipsed all previous performances was laid down this week when the City Leaguers went into action in their regular games, and hammered the pins in wholesale fashion, registering four shutouts and one 3–1 decision.

The Canadians topped the list with a perfect night of bowling, collecting a total of 3,524 pins in the three games.

Their efforts were directed against the Brintons, who were literally smothered under an avalanche of maple. Nels Routley, lead-off man for the winners, connected with the pins for a triple totalling 809, which was the second highest three-game score of the evening. The following are the scores of the Candiens:

N. Routley	234	256	319	809
H. Freeman	203	329	239	771

By virtue of a 4-point win over the Bowlrites the Big Five retained the leadership in the league while their opponents slipped from second into fifth place. The winners were going great guns and crumpled 3,356 pins to chalk up their snappiest performance this season. The Bowlrites, however, were below their usual form and will feel this defeat very keenly, as it interrupts a rather consistent string of victories. Every bowler on the winning crew topped the 600 mark, while J. Naples excelled, making 261, 220, 353, for a total of 834, which gave him both high single and high three for the night.

The Examiner trundlers were forced to concede a four-point victory to the heavy hitting Rangers who jumped into a second place tie in the league standing, and who look like a real threat in so much as they can gain the leadership next week if they are able to shut out the Big Five. Ranger and Fred Jones led the winners with triples of 707 and 703 respectively, while Dormer and Scates were high for the printers with 615 and 612.

The Cognawaga Club attained one of their objectives this week when they climbed out of the cellar position, by securing a 3–1 decision over the Westclox. This upset was the surprise of the night, but the difference in team totals gives the clockmakers no chance of an alibi. The Cogs' other objective is to take one of the league leaders for a ride and a few weeks may provide another upset. Williams, with a 340 single and 679 triple was the topnotcher for the winners, while Bill Prest was close behind with 667.

The Lucky Strikes went on a striking rampage in their league tilt with the Belmonts to pile up a total of 3,382 pins, gaining four points and completely outclassing the clubmen who were let down by a few new promising recruits; however, the losers are still in the fight and are confident that they'll spill the dope bucket next week. Leo Martyn and Fred Hickey both toppled 776 and 746 pins respectively for the winners.

Ladies' City League.

The classy Columbians, heavy-hitting league leaders in the Ladies' City League, met and vanquished their most formidable opponents last night when they wrested a 6–2 decision from the Quaker Oats team. Miss L. Campbell, who collected 621 in this battle for the winners and Miss A. Dixon, who picked off 623 for the Quakers, have been running neck and neck since the season started and both have consistently scored high in every league game.

The Metropolitan Stores gave the West Ends plenty of opposition in their league duel but lost out 6–2, before the consistent work of the winners. T. Pearson knocked over 191, 170, 175 to supply the winning punch for the West Ends while S. Holland on the Metropolitan team took high single, 234.

The Nashua Paper continued their winning style by blanking the Brintons for an 8-point victory, securing a winning margin of 300 pins in pinnage. M. Hatcher's scores of 149, 171, 194 were high in this battle and P. Taylor of the Brintons was close behind, securing 178, 167, 162.

Seventy Thousand Football Spectators Will See Army-Navy Charity Clash To-Day

NEW YORK, Dec. 13 (C.P.) — Seventy thousand spectators marched toward the Yankee Stadium to-day to watch the 31st football clash between the Army and Navy, and, incidentally to give the unemployed a helping hand to the extent of three-quarters of a million dollars.

There were strong hopes that receipts not only from ticket sales but from incidental concessions might swell to a total of $1,000,000. Whatever the total, football history can point to no previous game involving such prodigious financing.

Grover Whalen's committee in charge of arrangements has had a hard row to hoe. For some time the game failed to arouse the general interest that had been expected, perhaps because most experts predicted an overwhelming victory for the Army's huskies. The Army still was favored to-day but no longer by any excessive margin.

Navy's smashing triumph over Pennsylvania last week did more.. than all the publicity in the world.. to start a spurt in ticket sales. The Midshipmen revealed a smoothly working, powerful attack and a rugged defense against Penn and their stock took a sharp rise.

ONTARIO MARBLE CO. HAS FELT

market. Since the company's inception in Peterborough and until two years ago, the Canadian sales and drafting offices were situated in this city. They are now located at Manning Chambers, Toronto with F. E. Aronson as manager. The removal of the offices from here, was considered advisable, in order that a closer touch could be maintained with the trend of conditions in the building trade throughout the Dominion, which is so closely allied with the marble industry.

More than counter-balancing the removal of the offices, however, have been the alterations and additions to equipment, in the local plant at a cost of $10,000. These changes made in the past year, have included the installation of a large moulding machine by the Peterborough Machine and Lubricator Company Limited, the erection of a large pump by the Canadian Allis Chalmers Company, and the increasing of the floor space by 1 600 square feet, making a total floor space of 29,670 square feet.

Last May the company secured one of the largest contracts ever handled in the Peterborough plant, and were obliged to increase their staff by 85 per cent. The work which is for the Aldred Building, now under construction at Montreal, is expected to last until the middle of January.

Employ Forty-two

The normal staff at the plant consists of from 28 to 32 men, but in order to handle this large contract, the staff was increased to 52 men. At the present the plant employs 42.

"Just what such addition to the staff entails, cannot be fully realized by one, unless they are familiar with the work in a marble shop" stated Mr. Stevenson, who continued to explain that all the men were recruited locally, and have now been trained to such a degree that they are able to turn out work of an exceptionally high standard — the standard upon which the company has built its enviable reputation.

Mr. Stevenson was not quite sure as to what the future holds in store, following the completion of the large Montreal contract, but expressed his confidence in the firm's ability to secure other large contracts which will ensure steady employment for the present efficient staff. "The sales staff, located in Toronto is working particularly hard right now" he said, "and they have hopes of securing a contract" the nature of which Mr. Stevenson was reluctant to discuss.

He was by no means pessimistic as to the future outlook in the trade, so far as the Ontario Marble Company is concerned, realizing that for high class workmanship, his firm occupies a unique position.

"The builders to whom the firm has been supplying marble in fulfillment of the Montreal contract, have expressed their complete satisfaction, both as regards quality and workmanship,' he stated.

Outside of large contracts, the firm maintains a steady custom business, with show-case manufacturers and stove manufacturers, etc., and just so long as Canada's building program forges ahead, just so long will the marble trade continue to keep pace. The outlook on the whole is most encouraging.

Supply All Parts of Canada

Only a very small percentage of the firm's product is usued locally, their customers being located as far west as Calgary and Edmonton and east to Prince Edward Island. The bulk of the finished material goes to Montreal and Toronto.

The Ontario Marble Company supplied all the lavatory marble used in the T. Eaton Company's new store at College and Yonge streets, while among the more recent local contracts they supplied all the marble work for the Toronto Loan and Savings office on George street, which was a contract of considerable size; and also a small quantity of marble for the Ovaltine plant, now nearing completion.

In the United States the company have plants of considerable size at Proctor, Vermont; in Dallas, Texas, and also two factories on the Pacific Coast, and a quarry in Alaska.

Mr. Stevenson, who succeeded L. W. Gleeson as superintendent, came to this city a little over two years ago, from Dallas, Texas, his native city, where he was employed with the Vermont Marble Company. Mr. Gleeson, who is still with the company, is at present an estimator at Cleveland, Ohio.

Mr. Stevenson is very favorably impressed with Peterborough. "Seldom have I seen a city of this size with so many factories," he exclaimed, adding that at no time had he been handicapped either for machinery or labor, having always been able to procure efficient workmen in this city.

In a pleasing drawl, characteristic of the Southerner, this amiable Texan mentioned something of the various markets from which their raw material is procured, during the course of which he took his listener on a mental tour of the world.

For the large Montreal contract most of the material came from Italy. It included Montenelle marble and Roman Travertine marble, while a certain amount of marble was also imported from Missouri, U.S.A.

Most of the lavatory marble, he said, is produced in this country.

Received in Big Rough Blocks

The marble reaches the local plant in rough blocks, weighing anywhere from ten to twenty tons. There are four large machines used here for cutting the marble into smaller blocks.. The method used being identical to that in operation for hundreds of years, with the exception of the machinery which supplies the motive power.

The sawing machine consists of a large frame of steel, with steel bands drawn tightly into place. These steel bands, which are entirely free from teeth, are lowered until they touch the block of marble which is run underneath them. When the machinery is set in motion the steel bands see-saw back and forth, being automatically lowered from hour to hour. As an abrasive liberal supplies of sand and water are used. It take on an average from 150 to 225 hours of constant sawing to cut through a block of marble.

This process is known as mill-work. After the huge blocks have been cut into sections, they are sent to the shop to be cut to the required sizes and shapes and to be polished.

For handling the huge blocks of marble, the plant possesses a 25-ton travelling crane. The water which is used in large volume is procured from Little Lake, from whence it is pumped by the company's own pumping apparatus.

Approximately 4,000 yards of sand were used in the past year's operations; this commodity being procured through a local contractor from a sand pit in the vicinity of the city.

IN LOVE WITH LOVE FEATURE PICTURE AT MIDNITE SHOW

All Proceeds Are Being Donated to Relief Work in City.

THURSDAY NIGHT.

There must be something in heredity after all.

Take the case of Joan Bennett, daughter of Richard Bennett and Adrienne Morrison, famous stage folk. Miss Bennett is currently playing the leading feminine role in "Crasy That Way," Fox Movietone production, directed by Hamilton MacFadden and based on Vincent Lawrence's stage play, "In Love Wish Love," and which will be the feature picture at the big midnite show at the Capitol next Thursday evening, starting at 11:30. All proceeds are being donated to relief work in the city.

Less than a year ago Joan Bennett was just the daughter of Richard Bennett, Educated at St. Margaret's boarding school in New Jersey and late at L'Hermitage, a finishing school in Versailles, France, Joan decided to follow the family trend and do a little acting. At seventeen she was given the lead opposite her father in the stage production of "Jarnegan." Samuel Goldwyn, who has "discovered" many stars, decided she was film material and dared to sign her to a contract to play the lead opposite Ronald Colman in "Bulldog Drummond." Not yet nineteen, she has been the leading lady in six audible pictures, "Bulldog Drummond," "Three Live Ghosts," "Disraeli," "The Mississippi Gambler," "Puttin' on the Ritz" and "Crazy That Way," and with such stars as Ronald Colman, George Arliss, Joseph Schildkraut, Harry Richman and Kenneth MacKenna.

Those who been privileged to see and hear "Crazy That Way" claim it is her best speaking role to date. At least she thinks it is. "Crazy That Way" is the story of a beautiful girl of wealth who seems disinclined to be a one-man woman.

Hamilton MacFadden directed. The cast, in addition to those mentioned, includes Lumsden Hare and Sharon Lynn.

CHURCH LEAGUE

The third series of games between the Blues and Reds of the Mark Street Carpet Bowling Club brought out some very exciting moments on Wednesday evening.

Herb. Tremaine showed unusual skill and judgment in one or two occasions by making almost impossible points and led his team to an easy victory in the first game. Charlie Profit was not in his usual form but played a steady game.

Fred Stephenson and Eric Denison worked hard and pulled their teams out of a near defeat.

Particular mention is made of the very brilliant play of Wallace Houston and Geo. Eason who all through the games showed their judgment and skill.

It would be pretty hard to choose between the two opposing sides as each kept up a well balanced play and it was only through careful and well placed shooting that the finish came with one point in favor of the Blues.

Noticeable among the point winners were Messrs. Bachelor, Denison, Graham, and Payne.

The Reds, skipped by George Record, are looking forward to next Wednesday's game with a firm determination that the victory will not favor the Blues again.

OLD CASTLES REFURNISHED.

France has adopted a new policy of displaying, where possible, national historical treasures in appropriate surroundings of castles rather than in museums, and already priceless furniture and tapestries of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries are finding new homes. The government now is restoring the chateau of Azay-le-Rideau, and wagon loads of furnishings are being transferred from museums to the place. In connection with this work the fortress castle at Loches is being repaired. While workmen were burrowing under the foundations they discovered a secret passage which extends under the entire town.

GOV'T TO TEST IRON IN NORTH

Drilling Starts Shortly Sixty Miles North of Cochrane.

ON METTAGAMI RIVER.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 13. —After investigation by provincial geologists the department of mines will undertake diamond drilling operations on the Mattagami river, 60 miles north of Cochrane, to prove or disprove the value of the iron indications at that point, it has been announced by Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines for Ontario.

Mr. McCrea stated D. M. Sutherland, Deputy Minister of the Department would leave Monday for Grand Rapids, scene of the operations, to supervise the drilling. A series of shallow drill holes will be put down 75 feet apart and about 100 feet from the river. On the results obtained by this drilling, will depend whether future exploration will be carried on, it was announced.

For more than 25 years it has been known that iron deposits were to be found in this vicinity but not until a shipment of 800 pounds was taken out last summer did the Department decide to proceed with the most scientific methods. The shipment last summer gave 48 per cent of iron.

The ore is of low grade of good quality but differs from iron ores in general use in that it has to be treated by an electrial process instead of in blast furnaces.

A Monthly Cheque for You That Could Not Fail

Suppose you are earning $100 a month—it may be $150, $200 or more—there is part of that income you want continued.

How much of it would be continued, would go on whether you were able to earn money or not? Many people would have to answer "Not very much!" because it takes $20,000 of capital well invested to earn an income of $100 a month, and few people have saved enough to get this.

Under the Canada Life plan you do not need to save $20,000 in order to make sure of an income of $100 a month. Our plan is much simpler than that, and it is safe and sure.

Why not arrange to place your savings along with the Canada Life's $175,000,000 of well-invested assets and we will guarantee to continue that part of your income which you must have for living expenses when you get on in life? The Canada Life may have to start the monthly cheques at any time to you or to your family. Do not forget there will be no "years of waiting" if the need should come suddenly: that is, should you become totally disabled or should you die. See what happened in these cases:

He was a man about thirty years of age. Everything was going well until he got tuberculosis. Then he lost his earnings; but his Canada Life Policy gave him $100 a month. Four years later he returned to work, and said: "That income saved my life, gave me courage enabled me to pay my way—a blessing indeed."

An elderly man came to our office. He was alone in life—home, family, all gone; unable even to pay his board bill. He had but one asset, a Canada Life Policy, taken years before "to protect his family!" He was astonished to find that the cash value and profits in his policy were large enough to buy him $100 a month annuity for life.

Another man bought a policy which guaranteed to pay him $100 a month when he reached age 65. But he died at age 30. His widow has been drawing the $100 a month for years, and she says it seems as though he brings it to her each month.

There is but one sure way. How you can provide a similar income is told in our Booklet, "Getting the Income You Want." Why not send for it?

THIS COUPON WILL BRING BOOKLET BY MAIL.

Diplomas were also given to Lorne Bateman, Gordon Bailey, Pauline Bailey, Leda Chamber, Reta Deacon, Homer Hewitt, Dorothy Joblin, Gertrude Sumsden, Ivan Martin, Patricia Shea, Etta Thompson and Elizabeth Wright.

Dorothy Joblin thanked the donors, saying the tangible rewards were an incentive to better work. Following this a dance, Wedgewood Gavotte, was given by C. Fargey, E. Thompson and P. Shea. Another interesting feature of the entertainment was the "Tumbling Exercise" given by the boys and featuring somersaults, handsprings, fan combinations, back somersaults and diving over pyramids.

What To-day Means To You

"SAGITTARIUS.

If December 13th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m., from 3:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. and from 11 p.m. to midnight. The danger periods are from noon to 2 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m.

This date will contain an element of unexpected luck, but will prove to be rather "nervy" and unsettled. A different mental outlook will be born out of the day's happenings.

Children born on this December 13th will be capable of lifting themselves by their own merits to positions of honour. Having a restless and creative mind, they will be in search for knowledge. They will be slow to anger, but hard to appease.

If you be a woman, and your birthday is on a December 13th, you are fitted for one of the "mothering careers", which include medicine, nursing and housewifery. You would be happy and efficient in any vocation where you could serve for other people, and administer to their comforts. You have the gentle, sympathetic touch, which is so appreciated by those in trouble, and you know how to say the right thing at the right time. You are very unselfish, and Number One is the last person you think of, and not the first. There are times, when you do not sufficiently stick up for your own rights, and your sacrifices and services are wasted on ungrateful people.

If you are of the masculine sex you are rather too diffident and considerate in the practical affairs of life. You are extraordinately apt in arbitration for others and in settling differences, but you do not seem to be able to apply the same judgment and force to your own affairs. You are not fitted for a commercial life, or sedentary work, and you should be successful in some agricultural pursuit. You are very fond of animals, and you know how to handle them. You have homely and simple tastes, and the comforts and pleasures, which you receive within the home are satisfying, and you seek few interests away from your own fireside. A formal social life frightens and bores you.

"SAGITTARIUS."

If December 14th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 p.m. to 1 p.m. and from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. The one danger period is from 7 a.m. to 10 a.m.

Astrological influences make this date doubtful, and plans will be muddled up. Worry over unimportant matters will spoil the happiness of the day. Evening may bring a change of atmosphere, and your mental depression may automatically lift.

A child born on this December 14th will be inclined to be a typical Mama's boy or girl, and will prefer companionship of adults to children of its own age. Its character needs to be moulded by a firm and wise hand, or its lovable character will become a weak one.

You do not have a character which can pass unnoticed—people like you very much, or dislike you intensely; here are no happy mediums where you are concerned. The very positiveness and forcefulness of your nature creates enmity, without further guilt on your part, in your mental equals and rivals. A little more diplomacy on your part, would be a godsend, for you thoughtlessly say things, which had better be left unsaid. You will speak the truth, whether it hurts or not. Your quick temper often proves your undoing, where friends are concerned.

You make quick decisions, act immediately upon them, and they seldom lead you wrong. Long periods of contemplation, only confuse you, and you would be wise to obey your first hunches. You have considerable push, ambitious aspirations, and red-blooded courage. Fate may deter your progress, from time to time, but it will never be able to hold you back.

Your personality is an engaging one, and you can be very charming. Your indifference, and almost rudeness to those who do not interest you, is one of your selfish faults. If you are in one of your dark moods, you brutally disregard all social amenities. You strongly attract those of the opposite sex, but they in turn do not attract you. Matrimony is not essential to your happiness.

think they got us by the neck. That's why they are asking an increase. It looks to me like highway robbery, and 90 per cent. of the members feel the same way about it."

Mr. Hancock: There are two things we can do. We can let the lease drop and Cobourg can give us notice to vacate, or we can ask for a lease for one year, refer the question to arbitrators, and abide by their award. I feel that we might ask for a renewal of the lease for one year. We've got a suitable building in Port Hope, and we would be glad to have you there."

Col. Bygott: We've got a good building at Campbellford.

Dr. Wilson (Hastings) remarked that if the committee's report was adopted the 1931 Council would have no place to meet.

Major Bygott: I don't think Cobourg expects to get 3,500. If they had asked for a reasonable increase, it might have been granted. They don't want us to move out, and we don't want to go. Moving would be a heavy expense. I don't think Cobourg would be so unreasonable as to prevent us from holding our January and June sessions in this building.

The next move in these negotiations is Cobourg's. The town will not likely eject the county from the municipal building in the meanwhile, but the main question of rent must be settled eventually.

Hastings Road Request.

The petition of Percy Township ratepayers for the assumption as a county road of the present township road leading from the village of Hastings to the Campbellford-Havelock Road was laid on the table until the January session.

The Roads and Bridges Committee agreed that there was nothing to be gained by immediate action, as the work in any event could not be undertaken until next season.

Ex-Warden W. T. Wood, of Millbrook, was appointed auditor of criminal justice accounts, succeeding Col. F. D. Boggs, whose new position as Crown Attorney precluded him from continuing as auditor. Mr Wood was proposed by Reeve Stinson of Millbrook.

Old-Age Pensions.

J. A. Vance, Millbrook secretary of the Old-Age Pensions Board for the United Counties, informed the Council that the Board had granted 330 applications during the year, ten of them for inmates in the House of Refuge. Thirty eight applications were rejected. The total number of applications that had been approved in the two counties was nearly eight hundred.

House of Refuge.

The Board of Management of the House of Refuge reported total receipts of 8,153.50 for the year, of which $6,368.15 was received through old-age pensioners. The cost of maintenance was 50.6 cents per day for each inmate. Thirty-three of the inmates receive the Government's pension. Fourteen of them tre women.

The number of inmates on November 30 was 73. Thirty-four were men and thirty-nine women. At the time of the last report in June there were 68 inmates. Eleven had been admitted since then and six had died. The total net cost of maintaining the counties institution was $13.963.

The total expenditure, includng goods and produce purchased, amounted to $15,682.35. To this was added $3,204.35, the value of the produce from the House of Refuge farm, and $3,250, representing the interest on the counties' investment of 65,000, making a gross total of $22,136.50. From this was deducted the total receipts of $8,153.50, leaving the net cost of maintenance $3,963.

The Finance Committee report by Reeve Van Volkenburg included the statement that cost of old-age pensions to the counties averages about $2,500 a month, and Mothers' Allowance payments slightly in excess of $1,200 a month.

Two Boxes Gave her Quick Relief

"I was very sick with a bad pain in my back," writes Mrs. T. Cherepak, Broad Valley, Man. "I tried a lot of different medicines but they did not help me much. Then one of my friends told me about Dodd's Kidney Pills and I thought I would try them. After using two boxes I felt very much better and now I am never without them and shall recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to others."

Christmas pudding, which is to be presented to Princess Elizabeth, the charming little daughter of the Duke and Duchess of York, is here seen being prepared at Australia House. Several well-known people assisted in the preparation of this Empire Christmas pudding. Lady MacMahon, Lady Granville Ryrie and Mrs. L. S. Amery (wife of former Dominions Secretary) are stirring the pudding, while Sir Granville Ryrie, High Commissioner for Australia, looks on from the extreme left of the picture.

TWO GRAND JURIES HAVE FOUND WATER PRESSURE POOR IN COBOURG

Fire Protection at Ontario Hospital is Found to be Inadequate.

GRAND JURY REPORTS.

COBOURG, Dec. 13. (By Staff Correspondent).—Two grand juries' reports in close succession have referred to the unsatisfactory water pressure for fire protection at the Ontario hospital for insane women here.

One report was read at the opening session of the counties council on Tuesday. It had been prepared by the jury called for the assizes of the supreme court of Ontario last month, and was passed on to the counties council.

The other one was presented to Judge O'Connor on Wednesday by the grand jury for the December sessions of the county court.

The juries invariably visit the hospital for psychopathic cases, and usually they include the counties house of refuge which is also on the north side of the town. They have been unanimous in their criticism of the water supply in the mains. The report to Judge O'Connor this weeks was in part as follows:

"We visited the House of Refuge and found about 70 inmates all apparently happy and contented and everything possible being done for their welfare and comfort with nothing but praise for the superintendent and the matron, Miss McMillan. The building throughout being exceptionally clean and sanitary. We find the water supply for their fire protection is inadequate and should be remedied without delay.

We inspected the Cobourg Hospital and found the patients being well cared for. Everything was in the highest possible state of efficiency. The equipment is second to none in the Province and this Jury is of the opinion that these United Counties are very fortunate to have such an institution at their convenience and is deserving of very generous support.

We visited the Ontario Hospital and found about 472 inmates, with about 24 day and 5 night nurses. This institution is well kept and apparently well managed under the direction of the superintendent Dr. Herriman. We also wish to emphasize the fact that the water pressure at this institution is far from satisfactory and action should be taken without delay to remedy this condition.

The Court House seems to be in fair condition but the lavatory accomodation is far from satisfactory and should in our opinion be attended to without delay.

The jail is in excellent condition in every respect and 12 prisoners are receiving careful and proper attention. The officials are courteous and attentive to their duties.

YEAR CLOSED AND OFFICERS ELECTED BY UNDERWRITERS

New Officers Confident of Success and Desire 100 Members.

CONVENTION IN JANUARY.

The winding up of the year's affairs, and the election and installation of officers for the coming year was the agenda before a meeting of the Peterborough Life Underwriter's Association in the Club Room of the Empress Hotel last evening.

A splendid banquet preceded the business transactions. D. M. Bissell opened the meeting in the capacity of President. Mr. Bissell expressed appreciation of what had been accomplished during 1930, and was satisfied with the financial and numerical success of the season. The membership had increased from 70 in 1929 to 73 in 1930.

G. Gibbons, the retiring Secretary, was called upon to present his financial report. He stated that the money end of the Association was previously much of a "hand to mouth" affair. At the end of 1929 there was a balance of about $3, while at the close of this year the credit was $530.13 and the debit $461.84. This left a balance of $58.29 from which the balance of the Literary Club and outstanding debts is to be deducted, leaving clear $40 or more.

D. M. Bissell announced that on January 16, a meeting of the Canadian Life Underwriters was to be held in the Royal York Hotel, Toronto. The speaker stated, that the indus rial depression of the present time is not so bad as many pessimists imagine. However, the poor conditions may be bolstered up by the application of life insurance, and therefore the underwriters will be enabled to get away to a good start next year.

At this point F.C. Marshall was given the chair as head of the nomination committee. He announced appointments as follows: Hon. President, D. M. Bissell; president, E. L. Sackville, Secretary-Treasurer, not selected yet; 1st Vice President, F. C. Marshall; 2nd Vice-President, N. J. Wotten; Executive, W. A. Giles, P. A. Martyn, F. M. Tyrell, T. E. Ross, Neil Tobin, and two Lindsay members, W. Mason and B. L. McLean.

Mr. Bissell asked the underwriters to back up the officers in the matter of attendance, and then declared the new officers elected. Mr. Sackville was called to take the chair as President.

The new officer looked forward to a successful year with his efficient executive and with moral support. He complimented the Lindsay members on their attendance and interest. The movement has the best men of the underwriting business. Its members find keen, but clean competition. He placed his objective at 100 members at the close of next year, which aim would be realized by the spread of enthusiasm. All members are by no means managers. Mr. Sackville asked for the support of past presidents, especially of D. M. Bissell and J. I. Allen.

Mr. Allen moved a vote of thanks to the energy and persistance of the retiring president. He welcomed Mr. Marshall who possessed a fund of unformation, and praised the ambition of the new president.

W. Mason of Lindsay, stated that he had enjoyed the meetings, and increased the number of men from his town in the Association by telling of the gatherings. He was glad to render any assistance and promised the help of "the other boys of Lindsay."

A. J. McClellan asked his fellow underwriters not to forget the good things said and the promises made to-night, but to remain by them during the coming year. The members should be enthusiastic in the matter of attendance in order to give encouragement to the guest speaker, and to aid the President in filling the Club Room.

A letter was referred to regarding a one-day convention in the early part of 1931 with a special speaker from Toronto. This event will take place in January if possible, because if there is any impetus to be obtained from it, it must be obtained in the early part of the year.

Did you ever go "Crazy That Way?" Come and see it at the Midnite Show (all proceeds for relief) at the Capitol Theatre, next Thursday night, December 18th.

IN POLICE COURT

Charged in Police Court this morning with being drunk in charge of a car on Water Street last night, William McMurray, 21, of this city, pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to seven days in jail.

Explaining the case, Chief Newhall told the Court that McMurray did not own the car, and did not have a permit to drive. A friend of McMurray's put the young man in his car and ordered him to drive it. McMurray ran over the sidewalk. After his arrest the car was left at the rear of the Police Station, and its owner, according to the Chief, returned in the night and stole it away.

A warrant for the man's arrest was sworn out.

Did you ever go "Crazy That Way?" Come and see it at the Midnite Show (all proceeds for relief) at the Capitol Theatre, next Thursday night, December 18th.

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. 18 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The foremost of the charging warriors went down to quick death beneath the long, stout club of the ape-man. Now his lithe, sinewy figure was among them, striking right and left with mighty power and fury. Then over the frightful din, Tarzan lifted his voice in a series of sudden weird screams, a sound so terrible that the savages could not believe their ears.

Yet with their own eyes they had seen this white man open his mouth to pour forth his awful cry. A moment they hesitated. Then came a mighty crashing in the jungle behind them. As they looked in the direction of this new noise, there broke upon their startled vision a sight that may well have frozen the blood of braver men than these black warriors.

Leaping from the tangled vegetation of the jungle's rim came a huge panther, with blazing eyes and bared fangs. And in his wake a score of ponderous shaggy apes lurched rapidly toward them. Half erect upon their short bowed legs, their long arms reaching to the ground, the frightful horde advanced. The beasts of Tarzan had come in answer to his call!

No wonder the Wagambi blacks scattered for their lives. Heavy spears were hurled and apes went down, never to rise. Sheeta's tearing claws ripped and tore at black hides. Akut's yellow tusks found the throat of more than one glistening savage. And Tarzan of the Apes was here, there and everywhere, urging on his fierce allies, and himself taking a heavy toll with his keen knife.

per, who passed away December 13, 1925.

Five years have passed and gone
Since one we loved so well
Was taken from our home on earth
With Jesus Christ to dwell.

The flowers we place upon his grave
May wither and decay,
But the love for him who sleeps beneath
Shall never fade away.

Our lips cannot tell how we miss him,
Our hearts cannot tell what to say;
God alone knows how we miss him
In our home that is lonesome today.

One by one they go before us,
They are fading like the dew,
But we know they're watching o'er us,
They the good, the fair, the true.
They are waiting for us only,
Where no pain can ever mar,
Dear ones who left us lonely
Watch us through the gates ajar;
There a father, there a mother,
Gone within those gates ajar.

TORIES WORKING ON WHEAT QUOTA BALDWIN STATES

Study Fiscal Problems Ready to Start When Opportunity Arrives.

SPEAKS IN GLASGOW.

Britain's Future Development Wrapped Up in Advancement of Empire.

GLASGOW, Scotland, Dec. 13. (C. P. Cable).—The Research Department of the Conservative Party is busy working out the fiscal problems involved in the wheat quota scheme and other Empire economic co-operation projects, Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, former Prime Minister, told a big gathering here last night. "We are working on it so that we might be ready to start the moment the opportunity is given us" he added. "We believe the future development of this country is wrapped up in the development of the Empire."

The Government, said Mr. Baldwin, had been fully aware the vital question at the last Imperial Conference would be economic co-operation. That was shown in speeches of the Ministers. They knew the Dominions would urge that this could best be done by imperial preferences. "But the Government had made up their minds before the conference that they were against Empire preference" Mr. Baldwin continued.

No Alternative Policy

"Despite that they gave no alternative policy to the conference, the Government gave no lead to the conference of any kind. That is not a very fine record."

Premier R. B. Bennett of Canada had said there was danger in delay, Mr. Baldwin went on. "That is not a threat, it is a statement of fact," he said. "Why is there danger, Because if the Mother Country will not make fiscal treaties with them, other countries will jump at the chance. You run the risk of letting the British Empire slip into the economic orbit of some other country". He added with emphasis, "Never, never."

He said he was a strong advocate of the quota allowance for Empire countries on British wheat purchases it would enable Britain to deal with subsidized wheat and Russian dumping.

WALTER PHELAN NOTED ATHLETE

Lacrosse and Hockey Star of 35 Years Ago Dies Suddenly.

FUNERAL ON MONDAY.

The death of Walter Phelan, which occurred suddenly yesterday afternoon, recalls vivid memories to older residents of this city, of one of the leading figures in the local world of athletics, and removes a native son who was fondly regarded and respected by all who knew him.

The late Mr. Phelan was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Phelan, and was born on May 19th, 1875. Leaving this city as a young man, Mr. Phelan accepted a position as traveller for the Pittsburgh Brewing Company, and worked out of that city for many years. He retired from active business, about seven years ago, since which time he has lived in retirement in the city which gave him birth.

Suddenly stricken as he sat in Spencer's barber shop, East City, yesterday afternoon, his death has come as a sad blow to his numerous friends, whose heartfelt sympathy will go out at this time to his only surviving relatives Rev. Father Phelan of Campbellford, his brother and Alderman Nagel Phelan, nephew of this city.

As an athlete Walter Phelan will be remembered, not only by older Peterborough citizens, but by sports lovers in all parts of Ontario, as a lacrosse and hockey star of thirty-five years ago. As a hockey player he was a member of the Peterborough team which in 1894 and again in 1895 brought this city its first hockey championships' The team in those years winning the Junior O.H.A. honours by beating the Toronto Granites in the final series on both occasions. In 1894 the Peterborough team won by 15 goals to 0, and the late Walter Phelan was responsible for five counters. Later as a member of the Peterborough Seniors he was a star, among his exploits being the scoring of 3 goals against the famous Winnipeg Stanley Cup team in an exhibition game in 1898. He had afterwards the distinction of being a member of the team of Canadian hockey stars gathered together at Pittsburgh, Pa., where they initiated American fans into the mysteries of Canada's natural winter game. Mr. Phelan was a good scorer and a fast and lucky forward in hockey, while on the home fields in lacrosse he was equally clever and dangerous as an attacker.

The funeral will be held on Monday morning from the residence of his nephew, Alderman Phelan, to St. Peter's Cathedral and Cemetery at 9 o'clock. Arrangements are in the hands of M. McFadden and Son.

Smithsonian Institute is Presented Famous Rug Used by Queen Victoria

WASHINGTON, D.C., Dec. 13. —(By Ken Clark, C. P. Staff Correspondent.)—After a career confined to few carpets, the rug upon which Queen Victoria stood to open the Crystal Palace in London ,goes to rest along with Lindbergh's trans-Atlantic plane and other famous things in the Smithsonian Institute here. The King through Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British Ambassador, has presented the beautiful old Axminster to the scientific institute of the United States' government.

The Scotsman who made the rug in Glasgow half a century ago, knew their jobs because when the rug was last seen in the ball room of the old British Embassy here it retained its pristine soft red color and appeared unworn although thousands of feet including those of American officialdom, the entire diplomatic corps and visitors to the Embassy from the four corners of the earth had pressed down its nap. Sir Eric Geddes brought the rug from London when it was discovered consigned to an untimely obscurity in a government warehouse.

SPANISH REVOLUTION IS SHORT-LIVED

Soviet Reply Unsatisfactory To Britain

PROTEST ANSWER FALLS FAR SHORT OF EXPECTATION

Ambasasdor in Moscow Told to Express British Gov't's Attitude.

REMARKS NOT EXPLAINED.

Soviets Claim Prosecutor Could Not Ignore Statements Made By Engineers.

LONDON, Dec. 15—(AP)—Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, Foreign Secretary, informed the House of Commons today that the Soviet Government had not yet made a satisfactory reply to an important point in the recent British protest against reflections cast upon the British Government in the conspiracy trial at Moscow.

This, he said was despite the fact additional representations had been made to Moscow.

Remarks Not Explained

The Soviet reply to the British protest, Mr. Henderson declared, did not sufficiently explain remarks broadcast by the Prosecutor N. B. Krilenko at the trial of eight engineers charged with an attempt to overthrow the Russian Government and which referred to "the possible participation of British circles in intervention." The Foreign Secretary added that he had instructed the British ambassador in Moscow to express "the dissatisfaction felt by His Majesty's Government at the attitude of the Soviet Government in this reply."

In the Soviet reply to the British protest the Moscow Government declared that the prosecutor could not ignore statements made by the accused persons with regard to British intervention in Russia. The Soviet Government itself, the reply said, could not demand that M. Krilenko ignore such materials as were at his disposal which it was the court's business to investigate.

CAPONE IS ASKED TO ATTEND COURT

Authorities Have Little Hopes That Invitation Will Be Accepted.

ATTORNEYS REPLY.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—Alphonse Capone, the gang leader, was under invitation to appear in Federal Court to-day to answer a contempt of court citation.

There was a growing belief on the part of the authorities, however, that the invitation would not be accepted, and the gang chiefs attorneys contended that Capone's personal appearance was not necessary at a preliminary hearing on such a charge.

The contempt charge grew out of his failure to appear last winter to talk about his income tax. At that time Capone through his attorneys, contended he was too sick to come up from Florida to face the rigors of the Chicago climate, but Government investigators said they found he was going about his Palm Island estate, apparently with no signs of physical disability.

Laborite To Contest East Bristol Seat

BRISTOL, England, Dec. 15. (C. P. Cable).— Sir Stafford-Cripps, newly appointed Solicitor-General who is without a seat in the House of Commons, will be the Labor candidate in the East Bristol by-election which is necessitated by the death of Walter Baker. Liberals and Conservatives are expected to oppose Sir Stafford.

Sir Stafford, appointed last October on the resignation of Sir James Melville, has had no parliamentary experience but he had been the prospective Labor candidate in West Woolwich riding.

Walter Baker was Labor member for East Bristol from 1923 until his death recently. He had a majority of 2,036 in 1923, 4,777 in 1924, and 11,621 in a straight fight with a Liberal in 1929.

During a heat wave in Eastern Spain in November the thermometer in November in Barcelona registered 80 degrees in the shade.

SIGNIFICANCE OF CHRISTMAS TOLD TO ROTARY CLUB

Eloquent Message Delivered By His Lordship Bishop O'Connor to Service Club.

CHRISTMAS RELIEF.

Rotarians Complete Arrangements For Taking Care of Many Needy Local Families.

The real significance of Christmas was emphasized by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor in a most eloquent and impressive address to the members of the Peterborough Rotary Club to-day, in which His Lordship stressed the fact that the mystery of the incarnation was the mystery of love.

It was a message most appropriate to the occasion, in view of the fact that the business portion of the luncheon was largely devoted to preparations for Rotary's relief work for needy families. Members of the Club will work in pairs, the names being drawn from a hat, and by next Monday's luncheon full reports are expected, President Abbott announced, of the families to be helped, along with particulars as to the number and ages of the children, the occupation of the bread-winner, and the time that he has been out of work.

An appeal from Ald. J. D. Fitzpatrick, calling attention to the Lawn Bowlers' dance on Wednesday night in aid of needy families, was read by the President. The decision as to what and should be given this enterprise was left to the individual members, President Abbott pointing out that the Rotarians were already, on their own account, undertaking heavy obligations in the way of assistaing families whose circumstances necessitated assistance.

Introducing His Lordship, Rotarian V. J. McElderry, K.C., referred to Bishop O'Connor's great services in the diocese of London, both as head of the Seminary and as vicar-general of the diocese, and to the manner in which he had already won the affection of his people in the diocese of Peterborough.

His Lordship, smilingly acknowledging the introduction, remarked that he appreciated it as much for what Mr. McElderry had not said about him as for what he had said.

If he had the members of the Rotary Club in St. Peter's Cathedral, Bishop O'Connor said he might feel tempted to deliver a philippic on the commercialization of Christmas, or if not a philippic, at least a Jeremiad on the irrevalence of some of the Christmas cards in use at this season, which would be equally appropriate for the first of July or even the first of April.

He proposed, however, to address them as Christian gentlemen upon

Got Married and Was Without a Job, But City Records Fail to Confirm

One of the city's unemployed nearly lied himself into a job this morning. The man unfolded a strange tale to City Engineer Parsons and it was only after keen search through the marriage records at the City Hall that it was proved to be false.

He was a young man and previously he had applied for work on the city's unemployment relief gangs without success. He wasn't married and it was explained to him that married men had the first call when jobs were available.

Today he returned to the City Engineer's office and said he had been married since his last visit. "You mean to say you got married while out of a job?" asked Mr. Parsons. "Sure," was the reply, "Jennie, and I did it a couple of weeks ago. Now that I'm a married man you'll give me a job."

It was then that Mr. Parsons spent several minutes looking up the records of marriages in the city. The man's name was not there. It was proved that he had not sacrificed himself on the altar for a job. So he is still out of work and remains unmarried officially.

F. O. GOODFELLOW IS IN THE FIELD AS AN ALDERMAN

Election For Aldermen Seems Probable on New Year's Day.

POSSIBLY 8 NAMES.

Five Retiring Aldermen Are Expected to Seek Re-election.

Any vision of an acclamation for members of the City Council went a-glimmering this morning when Fred O. Goodfellow announced himself as an aldermanic candidate.

Certain other men, who have recently shown interest in city affairs, were asked their election intentions by The Examiner. Each admitted that he was giving more than a passing thought to the wiseness of tossing his hat in the municipal ring. None, however, except Mr. Goodfellow, was prepared to say for certainty. But it can be taken as assured that at least two more will have their names on the ballots on New Year's Day.

Five aldermen will be elected this year. Those members of the Council who must stand or fall are: Harry Huffman, Daniel Holland, J. A. McNabb, Nagle Phelan and Malcolm McIntyre. All have declared that they will seek re-election. One may contest the mayoralty with Mayor Denne, who has announced that he will seek a fourth term.

Mr. Goodfellow's candidature has made it most certain that local ratepayers will have the privilege of getting out New Year's and marking ballots for their aldermanic choice. It will be the second attempt Mr. Goodfellow has made to gain a seat in Council. He ran last year but was defeated.

BURGLAR ENTERS GASOLINE DEPOT

Service Station on Park Hill Road Robbed For Third Time This Year.

ON SATURDAY NIGHT.

For the third time in a period of three weeks, A. C. Curtis, proprietor of the British American Oil Service Station at Park Hill Road and Water street, was the victim of petty thieving, when between the hours of 11 p.m. on Saturday and 7.30 a.m. on Sunday, entry was gained to his premises, and goods to the value of $60 were stolen.

Access to the station, wherein Mr. Curtis also carries a large stock of cigarettes, candy and soft drinks, was gained through the cellar window on the north side of the building. The window was broken some few days ago by children at play, and it only remained for the robber to push out a piece of cardboard which shielded the broken pane and to reach around and unfasten the catch. He was thus able to squirm his way through, onto the cellar steps, and gain admittance to the shop through the door at the head of the stairs, which was unlocked.

Ignoring the more expensive loot, in the way of tires and accessories, which are incidentally easily traceable, the thief centered his attentions on the show case, from which he extracted cigarettes, chocolate bars and pipes, to the value of approximately $60. The till had also been opened and the sole contents, 50 cents, was taken.

On Friday last Mr. Curtis related he was working out in the yard for a few minutes and on returning to the office and shop, he found that the till had been rifled and $15 was missing; also about three weeks ago entry was gained to his premises, by some person unknown, and fifteen dollars worth of cigarettes and a flashlight were stolen on that occasion.

The matter has been reported to the City Police, who are expending every effort to trace the perpetrator of this and several similar robberies which have taken place in this city recently.

BENNETT CALLS CABINET COUNCIL; MUCH TO DECIDE

Statement Promised By Premier Not Ready For Several Days.

WHEAT CHIEF WORRY.

Minister at Washington, Ministers of Labor and Finance, Judge and Senator to be Named.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 15 (C.P.).—Immersed in his official duties, not only as Prime Minister but as Secretary of State for External Affairs and Minister of Finance, Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett was busily engaged throughout the morning. From an early hour on his arrival in the east block of the Parliament Buildings, Premier Bennett has been keeping appointments and attending to a deluge of correspondence which arrived for his personal attention over the week-end. One of the first acts of the returning Premier was to call a meeting of Cabinet Council for 2.30 o'clock this afternoon. It will be the first gathering of his Ministers around the Council table since his return from the Imperial Conference.

Wheat Chief Question.

Himself from Alberta, two of the Ministers with whom Premier Bennett conversed late this morning were Hon. Robert Wier, Minister of Agriculture, who sits for a Saskatchewan constituency, and Hon. Thomas Murphy, Minister of Interior, and member for Neepawa, Man. Apparently the wheat question is a matter in the mind of the Prime Minister, and will doubtlessly engage his most careful attention. The situation is pretty well before the Premier, and no arrangements have been made at the moment at least for the Western Premiers to come to Ottawa in the matter.

The statement promised by the Prime Minister on his arrival at Saint John, N.B., late on Friday after his two months' absence from the Dominion will hardly be ready for several days. In announcing that he would issue a statement, Premier Bennett declared at the time that it would be available "at an early date." It is generally accepted that this statement, which will have reference to the general situation in Canada, the further intentions of the Government, the recent Imperial Conference and the coming economic conference to be held in Ottawa next year, will not likely be prepared for a few days.

No out-of-town engagements have been made by Mr. Bennett since his return; although in view of the Artillery Shells Rebel's Airdrome 30 Are Captured

Ramon Franco, Spain's Idol of the Air, Who Made Dramatic Escape From Prison Recently, Appears at Head of Short-lived Rebellion—Bombs Were Seized.

ALCALA ZAMORA, FORMER CABINET MINISTER, NAMED PRESIDENT OF NEW GOV'T IN BILBAO PROCLAMATION

Madrid in Great Excitement—Civil Guards Fire Into Republican Group, Killing One—Cabinet Meets All Night in Vain Effort to Stem Revolt—Aviation Corps Deserts.

MADRID, Dec. 15.—(CP)—Ramon Franco, Spain's idol of the air who recently escaped from prison, made a dramatic reappearance to-day and a short-lived revolution resulted.

At the head of a group of other army officers, including General Quiepo Dellano, he burst upon the Cuatro Vientos airport near Madrid, proclaiming rebellion. They disarmed the guard at the ammunition warehouse, loaded a truck with airplane bombs and transferred the bombs to several army planes on the field.

But news of the rebellion spread quickly and a column of troops shelled the airdrome with field pieces. After half an hour of that the rebels hoisted a white flag and the loyal troops poured in.

But meanwhile Franco and Dellano had escaped in a plane. Thirty rebels were captured.

Zamora Named President.

A proclamation at Bilbao named Alcala Zamora, former Cabinet minister whom the Government imprisoned on Sunday because of his Republican sympathies, as President of the new Government.

Madrid was in the throes of great excitement. Considerable uncertainty existed and no one knew what to expect next. Communications with outside points were difficult but apparently similar conditions existed all over the Republic.

The movement broke out similarly in Bilao, where circulars were distributed throughout the city. All business and industries were closed and the workmen went on to the streets to stage demonstrations for the projected new Government. Civil guards fired into one group of Republican sympathisers, killing one person and wounding another.

The Cabinet was in session most of last night and, it is clear now, knew what was coming, but did not know how to prevent it.

Nationwide Arrests Ordered

Nationwide arrests of Republican leaders Sunday, among them Niseto Alcala Zamora, the new President, were planned as a supressive measure.

The movement follows a revolt of the military garrison at Jaca, in the Pyrenees, Friday, which was put down Saturday at dawn with a battle at Ayerbe Pass, near Huesca. Two ringleaders of the movement were executed by firing squad Sunday afternoon.

Aviation Corps Revolts

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 15. (CP)—A Reuters dispatch from Madrid this morning said there was a well authenticated report current there that the Spanish Aviation Corps had revolted and joined the Republican movement.

PLAN AIR MAIL INTO NORTHLAND

Letter Sent From Yukon to Buenos Aires Will Take Only Three Weeks.

FORMERLY 9 WEEK TRIP.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(A.P.)—A nair mail hook up to 'within snowball toss of the North Pole" was promised by Assistant Postmaster-General Glover on his return to-day from negotiations with Canadian postal authorities.

Glover said service between St. Paul-Minneapolis and Winnipeg would be assured "just as soon as the Council of the Canadian government gives its approval."

This leg, he added, will complete an 11,000 mile route reaching as far north as Iklavik in the Canadian Yukon, An air mail letter mailed in Iklavik, he said, would reach Buenos Aires, South America, in three weeks —now a nine wek trip by dog sled, steamboat and railroad trains.

The twin cities-Winnipeg route, Glover said, would also connect directly with Canadian-West mail, now flying from Winnipeg to Calgary and Edmonton, and to be extended to Vancouver as soon as the route is lighted.

In view of these developments he said, it is not impossible to expect development of an air route through Alaska, across Bering Strait, to Soviet Russia, China and Japan.

CONFESSION BY YOUTH UNRAVELS WESTERN HOMESTEAD MYSTERY

Judge Bans Knees As Trial Evidence

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 15.—The evidence was there, according to defence counsel, but the Judge wouldn't allow the jury to view it ,or them, and now they must render their decision without evidence which would have "spoken for itself."

V. MacBeth, appearing on behalf of Maija Kaikkalainen, a pretty Finish girl, who is suing Roderick Fraser for $5,000 damages suffered in a motor accident, invited the jurors to view the lady's knees which, he said, would determine conflicting medical testimony. "They are here and can be easily produced," he urged the Judge, as the jurors straightened up, but Judge O'Connell thought a decision could be reached without the lady displaying any more of her person than what was already showing.

Mind-reader Plays Big Part in Finding of Farmer's Body Near Beechy.

MURDERED 3 YEARS AGO.

SASKATOON, Sask., December 15 (C.P.). — Unearthed from beneath a pile of refuse, a half-garbed skeleton to-day stood as the solution to the three-year-old mystery of the disappearance of James 'Scotty' McLachlan, homesteader in the Coteau Plains district of Northern Saskatchewan and John F. Schumacher, 23, who farmed with McLachlan near Beechy, became the self-confessed killer of the man who vanished in January, 1928.

After a sensational series of incidents which began with the declaration of a mind-reader in Beechy that "murder had been done" and ended with Schumacher's confession, police were told by the accused man that he had killed McLachlan with a stable-fork in self-defence. Schumacher was taken into custody and charged with murder.

Police are stated to have been aided by Professor Henry Gladstone who says he is a mind-reader gifted with the power of locating corpses by a mental process he cannot himself explain.

Pleasure Boat Blast Deaths Total Four

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Dec. 15 (CP) Four persons lost their lives in the explosion and fire aboard the glass-bottom excursion boat Eureka II yesterday, an unofficial check disclosed to-day. One other person was unaccounted for and 130 of the 135 passengers on the boat had been brought safely to shore.

Three bodies were brought here and another was reported aboard a disabled fishing craft somewhere south of Miami Beach.

Those known to have lost their lives were H. C. Grimm, 60, McCook, Neb., a passenger; Clarence Vince, 30, Haverill, Mass., a deck hand; and Mrs. Mamie Sawyer, 45, Miami, whose identity was not established until to-day.

The Weather

Another cold dip, of a minor character, has come over this section. This morning the temperature was down to 4 above zero. The air being damp, it felt quite cold. The days will soon be at their shortest. In fact the day will begin to lengthen in the evening, beginning to-night, when the sun will set one minute later. In the morning, however, the sun will rise later for several weeks yet. There will be a further loss of 8 minutes in the mornings until about the 10th of January. The change in the evenings will scarcely be noticeable for several weeks—but it is there just the same.—W.P.

OFFICIAL ANGLICAN YEAR BOOK UNCOVERS DISQUIETING FIGURES

20 NEW CHURCHES BUILT.

LONDON, Dec. 15 (By Thos T. Champion, C.P. Staff Correspondent). Disquieting figures concerning the Anglican Church at home are revealed in the official year book of the Church of England, published to-day. It is shown that the number of Easter communicants, which has always been accepted as a rough indication of the definite adherents to Anglicanism, are 2,304,000 in 1929, against 2,339,000 in 1928.

Infant baptisms totalled 417,000, against 433,000 in the respective years; confirmations numbered 191,-000, against 200,000.

More encouraging, however, is the fact that 503 deacons were ordained in 1929, compared with 439 in 1928. This figure, indeed, is far above any of the last 10 years. London, as usual, attracted the largest number of ordinants, although a fair proportion of them are destined for missionary service.

Twenty new churches were built in 1929, well above most figures in the last decade.

The Anglican Church also shows herself head and shoulders above other denominations here in subscribing to benevolences with which she is not directly associated. Her contribution to the Metropolitan hospital's "Sunday Fund" last year, for instance, was £24,000 (about $120,-000), which was more than twice the total of contributions from all other denominations combined.

In purely voluntary offerings the Anglican Church provided nearly $50,000,000 last year. The Church of England among religious bodies appears to be still the richest and also perhaps, the most open-handed.

Oshawan Remanded On Forgery Charge

COBOURG, Ont., Dec. 15. (CP)—Arraigned in Police Court to-day, Gerald Montgomery of Oshawa, pleaded not guilty to passing worthless cheques to Roseneath merchants and was remanded until Dec. 23. Montgomery was arrested last week by Oshawa police and brought to Cobourg by Provincial Constable Kidd, Saturday night.

BOMB ATTEMPT PROVES FAILURE

Police Foil Effort to Burn Doukhobor School at Grand Forks, B.C.

FUSE TO BOMB GOES OUT.

NELSON, B.C., Dec. 15 (C.P.)—Attempts to bomb and burn two Doukhobor schools in the Grand Forks district were made over the week-end.

Saturday night a burning candle to which was attached oil-soaked hemp rope and other inflammable material was discovered under the steps of the school at Outlook.

Sunday morning a sack protruding from a basement window in the Fruitova school attracted attention and when police investigated they found an improvised bomb in the school basement. It consisted of an oil can filled with 15 pounds of nitroglycerine and dynamite. A fuse attached to the bomb had died out.

FAMILIES NEED IMMEDIATE HELP

Many Small Children Will Go Without Santa Claus.

DANCE ON TUESDAY.

Christmas brings babies, just as it did a long time ago. And sometimes the preparation for them is just about as inadequate as it was in the little town of Bethlehem.

There are many houses right here in Peterborough where tiny infants haven't much to look forward to. In one home, for instance, the mother will come home from the hospital to five other children. All of them need clothing and the house is cold. No work for the man—a laborer.

In another, the father is a cripple and the new baby is the last of eight.

In still another, there are nine children. This woman had four other children who are dead. The home has little for any of them, for work is scarce and the children are still young.

If you would like to help in any way, for these or other cases, let us know. We will call for donations of food, fuel, clothing, toys or books. Cash donations are also welcome.

The Examiner Social Club will hold a dance and card party in the Legion Hall on Tuesday evening next, to assist in this fund for providing Christmas dinners for the unemployed and the needy. Arrangements are in charge of an energetic committee and include the dance in the lower hall to start at nine o'clock, and Prize Committee — The executive and others.

It was decided that the Prize Committee shall meet the County Council in January to discuss the question of a grant in connection with the International Plowing Match. Following the petition to the County Council, the members of the association will interview the City Council on the same matter.

The secretary, in presenting his report of the past year's activities stated that the annual match had been most successful. He made special mention of the large part which local merchants had played in making such a success possible by their generous donations of prizes. After everything is settled up, Mr. Nelson said the association would conclude the year's business with a credit balance of from $125 to $150, a decided increase over the year 1929.

CAPONE'S SISTER WEDS IN CHICAGO

Elite of Gangland Present as 4,000 Curious Jamb Church For Ceremony.

GUNMEN ARRESTED.

CHICAGO, December 15 (C.P.) — The elite of gangland put on its best and nosed luxurious motor cars through a snowstorm on Sunday to an obscure church in Cicero, to see "Scarface Al" Capone's 18-year-old sister, Mafalda, become Mrs. John Maritote in a wedding lavish with chrysanthemums and sinister with an undertone of firearms.

The principals tried to keep the event secret—and succeeded to the extent of having only 4,000 persons packed sardine-fashion into St. Mary's Catholic Church, built for a quarter as many. An additional thousand, unable to push shove or prod their way in, milled about outside.

Among the uninvited guests were detectives who circulated for business purposes. As the tenor sang "Oh Promise Me," they abstracted five gunmen from the mob. Each carried a pistol.

Bearers of names prominent in "Who's Who" trod down the aisle apparently carefree, careless — but not quiet. Three sturdy swarthy men were observed to keep their right hands in their pockets throughout the service and there were rumors that the elusive Al, who is adept at keeping jumps ahead of all varieties of law, was present.

LIBERALS GATHER FOR GREAT RALLY OPENING TO-DAY

Major Questions Are Slated For Discussion on Tuesday and Wednesday.

WILL GROUP DELEGATES.

Choice of Leader and Prohibition Policy Will Head Long List.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 15.—For the dual purpose of choosing a permanent leader and revising the Provincial party platform, Liberals from all over Ontario will meet in convention here this week. Registration of delegates and other preliminary business commenced to-day with the major questions slated for discussion on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Delegates from every Provincial and Federal constituency will be present, together with elected members and candidates in the last Ontario and Dominion elections. The convention will be operated on the general lines of the 1919 Dominion gatherings which resulted in the selection of Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King as Liberal Leader in the Dominion. Delegates will be grouped together on the floor of the Convention Hall geographically with those from Northern Ontario in one group, those from Western Ontario in another and those from Eastern Ontario in a third section.

To Select Leader

Although many questions will go before the convention, chief interest will be centered in the selection of a leader and the drafting of new platform. W. E. N. Sinclair, K.C., the present Provincial Chief, was selected from among the Liberal members of the Legislature in 1923 as a House Leader and his appointment never has been made permanent by a Province-wide convention of the party.

Three names have been mentioned prominently for the leader's position: Mr Sinclair; S. C. Tweed M.L.A., North Waterloo, and M. F. Hepburn, M.P., West Elgin. The latter, a short time ago, visited Ottawa and conferred with Mr. King and Senator Andrew Haydon, chief of the party's Dominion organization.

The prohibition question in all its ramifications will be the chief topic for discussion when a new platform is being drafted. Those close to the party say the convention possibly will discard prohibition as a platform plank and will go on record as favoring a referendum to the people whenever there seems to be a public demand for a change in the liquor laws.

FLAMES DESTROY LAKEFIELD BARN

Firemen Are at a Loss to Know How the Fire Started.

ON SATURDAY NIGHT.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 15 (Examiner Correspondence).—Fire of unknown origin late Saturday night destroyed a barn owned by Mrs. D. C. Chads, formerly of Lakefield, now of Kansas. First notice of the fire was gained at 10.30, and the brigade, responding at once, fought the flames until after 2 o'clock Sunday morning.

Besides the barn itself, the loss includes three tons of hay stored in the barn by Stanley Windsor, and several cases of valuable books belonging to Mrs. Chads. Firemen state that the blaze did not originate in the hay, and are at a loss to explain how it started, since the barn was kept locked and few had access to it.

St. Lawrence Bridge Scheme Not Dropped

OGDENSBURG, N.Y., Dec. 15. — (C.P.).—Francis K. Kernan of Utica, chairman of Governor Roosevelt's St. Lawrence River Bridge Commission here, denied that consideration of the proposed international bridge sites at Morristown and Brier Hill had been definitely abandoned by the Commission. The report, which emanated from Albany yesterday, was published in Northern New York.

Chairman Kernan declared no meeting of the Commission had been held since public hearings on the bridge project were conducted in Northern New York last Friday, and no action had been taken with regard to the five sites under consideration. The sites are at Waddington, Morristown, Collins Landing, Brier Hill and Ogdensburg.

BLAST SHATTERS EXCURSION BOAT 3 DEAD, 7 MISSING

Pleasure Yachts and Fishing Tugs Arrive in Time to Save 125.

TRAGEDY OFF MIAMI BEACH.

Passengers Were Observing Marine Gardens Through Ship's Glass Bottom.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Dec. 15. — An explosion and fire aboard the Sunday excursion boat Eureka II forced 135 persons to leap into the surging Atlantic they had been observing through the crafts glass bottom, but valiant rescue work by both fishing tugs and luxurious yachts brought 125 of them safely ashore.

Three bodies had been recovered and seven persons were unaccounted for today as th emaster of the vessel headed a salvage expedition in the Marine Gardens, 15 miles south of here where the "Eureka II" burned and sank in ten feet of water.

Wild Confusion

A scene of wild confusion, attended by the shouts of women and children and the music of a three-piece orchestra which tried courageously to stem the panic, was sketched by survivors of the capacity crowd that jammed the two decks of the 105 foot boat.

Smoke from the engine room, on the craft's return trip here, they said, first gave notice of the mishap and was followed by three explosions.

Heroic stories of the rapid rescue operations were numerous. Sighting the fire through binoculars, P. W. Miller retired grocery executive of Cincinnati, abandoned a pleasure trip and brought 83 of the survivors ashore on his yacht, the Lois Ann. He related how his guests and crew "worked like troopers pulling men, women and children aboard."

Some estimated 20 to 25 children were passengers on the Eureka II. The crew of the yacht Dorothea, which picked up 30 persons, took a baby from the arms of a father who said "Save my baby" when he learned the Dorothea could not care for additional survivors. A child was tossed to the deck of a fishing tug and brought here and reunited with its parents, rescued by another craft.

Time to Don Life Preservers

First Mate Al Styles, brother of Captain Clarence Styles of the Eureka II, said all passengers had ample time to don life preservers after the first explosion occurred and that there were many more preservers than there were passengers.

"A blast of flame swept past me while I was in the engine room," he said, "there was a call for fire extinguishers and the chief engineer was pumping water at the time the first explosion occurred. My brother headed the boat into shoal water which accounts for a small loss of life."

He valued the boat at approximately $75,000.

1,000 RESCUED IN ASYLUM FIRE

Inmates Leave Building Without Hitch Due to Nuns' Fire Drill.

WING DESTROYED.

QUEBEC, December 15 (C.P.). — Twenty minutes after fire broke out in the east wing of St. Michael Archangel Asylum for the Insane 1,000 inmates had been removed to safety. The fire destroyed the entire wing of the institution, with a loss estimated at $700,000.

The asylum, built in 1864, is at Beauport, a suburb. The east wing housed the male patients, comprising half the entire occupants of the institution. The blaze was discovered by a watchman at 6.15. Immediately it became known that the building, with its 2,000 inmates was endangered by fire, the entire Quebec Fire Department was rushed to the suburb, while hundreds of citizens organized volunteer rescue squads. But so carefully had the Grey Nuns who operate the asylum organized their fire drills, that in twenty minutes every patient was in a place of safety, and the firemen were enabled to concentrate their entire efforts upon saving the building.

Lapointe Doing Well Following Operation

BALTIMORE, Dec. 15.—Hon. Ernest Lapointe, former Minister of Justice for Canada, was reported as "getting along very nicely" by authorities at Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore. He had undergone an operation for appendicitis on Sunday. His nurse reported that Mr. Lapointe "did not spend a very comfortable Saturday night." When asked if there was any danger at all, it was said that, "Of course we are watching him closely, but we expect him to be quite all right to-day."

Mr. Lapointe, who has been not in the most rugged condition of late, went to Baltimore to consult specialists. It was while there that the attack developed and an operation was decided on immediately.

For how many things do you enlist the aid of sandpaper?

• • • • • • •

There are many, many things one might use sandpaper for, such as for removing paint, etc. The carpenter has many uses for it, but I wonder if you have ever used sandpaper as an aid in the wardrobe?

• • • • • • •

Very likely the uses of sandpaper as a wardrobe necessity are likely to surprise many who have realized only its more obvious household purposes.

• • • • • • •

Since it is so simple and inexpensive an aid to being well groomed, the ways in which it helps are well worth consideration.

• • • • • • •

Emery paper is a degree finer than sandpaper and better, you will find.

• • • • • • •

Cloth suits which have become shiny where originally they were not, can be restored to a condition more presentable by lightly applying sandpaper to the "tippering parts."

• • • • • • •

This must be done very gently in order not to damage the surface, and merely bring back the nap to it. It is well to try it upon the least conspicuous area when venturing it for the first time.

• • • • • • •

Suede shoes can be cleaned by the use of sandpaper gently applied to the soiled portions. This should never be practised when the shoes are damp.

• • • • • • •

It takes off the shiny look that old suede shoes acquire, and leaves them newer looking, as well as cleaner. Here, as I mentioned before, the finest of sandpaper or emery should be used.

• • • • • • •

Fountain pens that have grown scratchy or for some reason are not adjusted to the stroke of the one using them can be turned to better account if a few light passes are made over a fine sandpaper or emery surface.

• • • • • • •

It must be done with such feathery motion, however, as to make the contact almost imperceptible. But the difference to the writing qualities of the pen will be improved if directions are closely followed.

• • • • • • •

A needle whose point has become slightly off centre, so that it does not make a clean hole upon entering a fabric, can be freed from its catching quality by rubbing the jagged point of it back and forth over the sandpaper.

STORES ARE BEING GAILY DECORATED

Christmas Spirit Very Noticeable in City's Business Section.

MUCH ACTIVITY.

Seasonable weather prevailed this morning, with the thermometer hovering around four degrees above zero and a keen wind blowing from the north. Citizens bent on business or Christmas shopping excursions hurried to and fro on the gaily decorated thoroughfares of the city, crunching the powdery frozen snow underfoot, while the cold but benovolent rays of the sun shone overhead.

It seemed as if the very spirit of the season was abroad this morning. The dreaded blue Monday was forgotten by all apparently, and merchants and their assistants were to be observed diligently bedecking the exterior of their premises with evergreens, and seasonable captions brightly emblazoned on large sheets of pasteboard. Some splendid effects were obtained, particularly by the Canadian Department Stores, the Richard Hall Company and other progressive stores.

Activity in this direction is also being noticed among the householders, many of whom have already erected gay looking Christmas trees, all a-sparkle with vari-colored lights at night. There is a particularly nice tree of this kind on the approach to the city, in Monaghan township on the Port Hope highway, while the Canadian General Electric Company also have a large lighted tree erected this year, in the middle of the spacious grounds adjacent to their large plant.

CANADA AND ENGLAND ALIKE EXPECTANTLY AWAIT ACTION OF NEW HIGH COMMISSIONER

London May Not Agree With Ferguson But They Cannot Help But Like Him—Appointment Has Caused Great Deal of Controversy From Both Liberal and Conservative Press of Canada.

The appointment of G. Howard Ferguson, former Premier of Ontario, to the office of High Commissioner for Canada to England, has created a great deal of controversy from both the Liberal and Conservative press of Canada. Herewith is a short sketch of Mr. Ferguson, written especially for the Examiner, which does not attempt to discuss the political side of the appointment but merely concerns the man himself.

(By W. John Stewart. Special to The Examiner. Copyright, 1930.)

TORONTO, Dec. 15 (SNS).—The Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett took a unique and interesting step when he chose as High Commissioner for Canada to England, G. Howard Ferguson, premier of Canada's most powerful and heavily populated province, Ontario. This fact is conceded by not only the press of Canada, but by leading business men and politicians of all parties.

The significance of the appointment lies in Canada's new position with respect to the British Empire. Mr. Ferguson, as right hand man to the Prime Minister, is, of course, in accord with Mr. Bennett's Imperial Conference policies, and has often, in an unofficial capacity, criticised various English governmental systems. He is the most notable figure in provincial politics that Canada has ever known; he has headed for ten years the most powerful provincial Conservative party in the Dominion. He was in no small measure responsible for the return of the Conservative party to Federal power last July by enlisting the aid of the French-Canadians, who have heretofore been solidly Liberal. And he is to relinquish this enviable position for one of even greater responsibility.

No one can say that he is not the man for the job; that fact remains to be seen. He may have said that he is going to remould the spirit of the British people and other things of equal note, but Mr. Ferguson is essentially Canadian and there is little doubt but that somewhere amongst his plans, he has mapped out a campaign for Canada.

Mr. John Henderson, who completed a biography of Mr. Ferguson in the same length of time that it took to make the earth — seven days — has this to say: "One imagines Premier Ferguson arriving in England as an apostle of a newer order from which shall arise an Empire founded on mutual interests and strong in the willing co-operations of its individual partners." If Mr. Ferguson can accomplish this, then he indeed deserves to rank with those who have moulded British history.

Compared with his predecessor, the late Hon. P. C. Larkin, it is hard to imagine two more widely different types. The change is one to be watched — indeed will be watched — with interest on both sides of the Atlantic.

Dominating Character.

Howard Ferguson loves to dominate. He is never satisfied unless he is at the helm. As High Commissioner of Canada, he will, however, not have the same freedom or the same power as he has had during the past seven years as Premier of Ontario. He must pay attention to tradition. But "Fergie," as he is affectionately known in Ontario, has a habit of defying tradition; he takes a keen delight in doing the unexpected, and, as a general rule, he succeeds, — not so much because of any extraordinary powers of diplomacy or skillful politics (though no one can deny that he is a very clever politician) but because of the sheer domination of his personality.

To meet this man is to like him. Even his worst political enemies have nothing but praise for Howard Ferguson as an individual, or a Canadian citizen. His politics, of course, cause disagreement, and though he was for years leader of the provincial Conservative party (and no doubt his spirit will linger forever about the Parliament Buildings), he nevertheless many times called forth the ire of even the Conservative press for alleged interference in business which is usually not the concern of a premier. But it "rolled off 'Fergie' like water off a duck." At least it did so until recently when he became so perturbed at the continued attitude of opposition on the part of the Toronto Star, that he forbade that paper from gathering news at the Parliament Buildings.

Needless to say, every newspaper in Canada which upheld the policy of freedom of the press, assailed Mr. Ferguson with lashing editorials. He was, overnight, dubbed the "Mussolini of Canada." The Star continued to gather news in spite of the proclamation.

But all that is passed and gone; he is premier no longer. He has become a man who cannot let politics interfere with his duty — a man who must have the interests of Canada and the British Empire at heart instead of the Conservative party? It is in this capacity as High Commissioner of Canada, that the press of Canada wishes him God speed and best wishes.

All His Life in Politics.

When Londoners meet Mr. Ferguson officially, they will meet a man who has been a politician all his life, whose forebears followed a similar calling. They will meet a middle-aged man, with grey hair and moustache, who is not very tall, but who possesses that "something" that makes a man conspicuous in a crowd.

His countenance is most interesting; his eyes seem to have acquired a perpetual twinkle; his lips were formed to smile and chuckle, — they seldom droop into a frown. He smokes innumerable cigars, and very often carries one in his mouth unlighted. His voice is clear, and his diction precise — a powerful speaker, yet no great orator. He is very quick-witted, inclined to be sarcastic as Londoners will soon learn to their enjoyment and chagrin.

He has a big heart where politics is concerned, but ruthlessly assaults those who oppose him; he is an indefatigable worker of tremendous energy, yet he can be his genial self when the occasion demands.

In all, Londoners will probably take "Fergie" to their hearts as almost the entire population of Ontario has. No doubt many will criticise and ridicule his actions; indeed they have already done so. But Londoners cannot help but like him.

A Political Atmosphere.

Mr. Ferguson has been active in public life for many years. Born at Kemptville, Ontario, June 18th, 1870, he was brought up in an atmosphere of politics. His father, Dr. Charles F. Ferguson, was a member of Provincial Parliament and active in educational and social welfare work. His son Howard heard political discussions from the moment he was able to understand English; even in his school days he displayed the talents for which one day he was to become famous. He attended the country school and later pursued a law course at the University of Toronto and Osgoode Hall. In 1894, at the age of twenty-four, he was called to the bar. From then on his rise was meteoric, and for the past quarter of a century, he has been a notable figure in public life. Even before that, he served for six years as councillor and reeve of his home town.

It was in 1905 that he first became an M.P.P., and he has been in parliament ever since. For the past ten years he has been leader of the Provincial Conservative party and premier for the past seven.

Liquor Control Act.

During his regime, Ontario passed a bill for the Government Control of liquor, supplementing the old Temperance Act. On his first election to office, Mr. Ferguson advocated the abolition of bi-lingual schools in Ontario, enlisting the aid of the Orange Order. By this method, he forbade French being used as the spoken language in public schools. More recently, however, declaring that the system was not satisfactory, he vetoed the original bill, and placed French back in its former position in Ontario schools. This action was considered in many centres to be a political move to aid the campaign of R. B. Bennett in Quebec, which heretofore has been solidly Liberal. By the move, he enlisted a great many French-speaking Canadians to the Conservative cause.

During the Federal election this summer, Mr. Ferguson called forth much criticism from some quarters by his campaign in the interests of the Dominion Conservative party. It has been an unwritten law in Canada, that provincial premiers stay out of Federal elections. But this deterred Mr. Ferguson not at all.

His Liquor Control Act and his work as Minister of Education are perhaps the features of his long tenure of office. It would take volumes to relate all that he has done.

Loves the Outdoors.

As a personality, Howard Ferguson might well have been chosen as the hero of some romantic, red-blooded fiction story — if it were not for his somewhat portly frame. For "Fergie" loves the outdoors. He loves to go fishing, and by that it is not necessarily meant that he loves to fish. He knows no greater pleasure than to climb into his old clothes and roam in the woods; he is an expert canoeist, but prefers to let someone else do the paddling while he sits and smokes.

As to his daily habits, he is most irregular. He detests routine, and prefers things to get into a muddle. He can do his best work then. He loves swimming, and once, when his motorboat stalled, he towed it some hundred yards to shore.

In all he is most versatile, — energetic, yet lazy, self-satisfied, yet discontented, efficient, yet dreading efficiency. An unusual man for the job of representing Canada in the British Isles.

Attacks British Policy.

Any biography of Mr. Ferguson would be incomplete without mention of his wife, to whom he has been married nearly thirty-five years. Many times has this quiet unassuming lady come to the aid of her famous husband; many times has she addressed gatherings of women at election time. She is, in disposition, perhaps the antithesis of her husband, yet he could not have chosen better.

And so this man from Ontario, who has declared on more than one occasion that he did not like politics or public life, goes to London as Canada's official representative. He goes there ostensibly to further Canada's interests, though so far the only intimation we have of his plans is that he is going to remake England first. He has attacked the "dole" system, with which he has never found favor; he has attacked her government; he has openly declared that Sovietism is forcing England down. He has said that he will remould the destinies of the British people; and that he will further the policy of Empire Trade by pursuing the plans laid by Prime Minister Bennett at the Imperial Conference.

He avers that England and Europe know far too little about Canada, and that what they do know has been horribly distorted. He plans to set them right. But whatever course he may pursue, there is little doubt but that he will be constantly in the limelight. Men of his characteristics are seldom satisfied with a place in the background.

He will be a new sort of man occupying an official position in the British Isles. London is in for a shock, and Bernard Shaw must look to his laurels and perhaps shave off his famous beard if he expects to hold precedence to this dynamic personality. That is, of course, providing he lives up to the standard he set at home in Ontario, and the expectations with which he departs from Canada.

That Body of Yours

DOES REMOVING TONSILS BENEFIT THE CHILD?

I met a father recently whose worried expression excited my sympathy. He admitted that it was on account of his little child, four years of age, who was about to undergo an operation for removal of tonsils.

"I had my own tonsils removed," he said, "and also those of my other youngster, but when I read of the accidents that sometimes happen with this operation, I just lose my nerve, that's all."

Now what about this business of removing tonsils? Is it really necessary? Why did Nature put tonsils into a youngster if they were not to be of use? What good does it do the youngster to have the tonsils removed?

As a matter of fact, Nature put the tonsils in to protect the youngster during the years when infantile troubles are most frequent.

The tonsils filter poisons out of the blood, and when they are in a healthy condition, help to prevent infection. Therefore it is usual for the tonsils to gradually disappear about the age of fifteen when the diseases of childhood are passed.

However, if the tonsils are unhealthy, are themselves filled with poisons, you can see that instead of removing poisons from the blood they actually pour poisons into it, hence the attacks of rheumatism from infected tonsils.

Does the removal of tonsils do the youngster any good? You and I have seen cases where there has been remarkable benefit, and other cases where there seemed to be no benefit at all.

However, Drs. J. D. Monroe and V. K. Polk tell us in the American Journal of Public Health of their analysis of the complaints of 736 children before and after operation as compared the results with the analysis of 741 other children having similar complaints, on examination and re-examination one year later.

What did they find?

That removal of tonsils offers a child considerable relief from such common complaints as sore throat, head colds and mouth breathing.

It increases weight and causes the enlarged glands in the neck to disappear. Complaints have been relieved in 91 per cent. of patients operated on.

Children below normal mentally, making poor progress in school resulting from enlarged tonsils and adenoids, showed improvement in 40 per cent. of all patients operated on.

Complaints in the 741 children who were not operated on do not show any improvement during the one year of observation, as compared with the 91 per cent. improvement shown in the group of patients operated on.

Ask your doctor about this.

"We've got to start to Save!"

¶ How often the words are uttered—how often the wish fails to harden into a definite resolve for lack of a workable plan.

¶ Life assurance instils regular and systematic habits of thrift into those who lack the will-power to save. It is a constant brake on families that spend too freely. It establishes a permanent plan of orderly economy, the need of which heads of households often realize but are unable to enforce.

¶ A Sun Life of Canada Endowment Policy provides a practical plan for utilizing small regular savings to confer a double boon — present protection for the home and family and a permanent and profitable investment of unsurpassed security.

¶ The Sun Life of Canada has an appropriate plan to cover every need.

WELCOMING CHRISTMAS.

The Kiwanis Club, The Examiner is glad to note, is again offering prizes for the business premises and private residences that show the most striking scheme of exterior Christmas decorations.

This plan of encouraging the community to develop a festival appearance for the Yuletide period had most happy results last year, and there is every reason to hope for a similar showing at this time.

Christmas is the most joyous season of the year; it should be marked therefore by bright lights and gay colors, by Christmas trees and a general atmosphere of rejoicing.

Already the business section is gay with colored lights, and at Confederation Square a brilliantly illuminated Christmas tree throws out its seasonable message of good cheer.

Let us have more of that kind of thing, both in private homes and our places of business.

It is agreed that Peterborough is passing through the depression in better shape than any other centre in the country, and while there are families in need, there is a general desire to help them so that Christmas should be a gladsome season for all.

Let us welcome the great festival in carnival attire.

"YOU CAN'T WIN."

If young men to whom the possibilities of a criminal career have presented a certain amount of glamor have been doing a little quiet thinking over the murder of a Toronto constable and the man-hunt that followed that cold-blooded killing, they must by this time have convinced themselves that to make war upon society is a fool's game.

Those Windsor youths who set forth last week upon a marauding expedition that culminated in murder had no idea that in a few days they would be harried and pursued by a battalion of officers, and that the whole countryside would join in the hunt as if a pair of mad dogs were threatening the public safety.

The lesson is surely plain.

When society is threatened the whole populace lends its aid to the officers of the law.

The criminal is an outlaw; every man's hand is against him, and his chances of escape after a major crime are so slight as to be not worth consideration.

There is no way out by killing a policeman; that is merely the way to death by an officer's bullet or the hangman's rope.

A notorious American crook not long ago wrote the story of his criminal career in a vivid volume carrying the significant title, "You Can't Win."

Those three words should be remembered by every young fellow who imagines that he can win a way to wealth by bank robberies and gun-play.

THE LIBERAL CONVENTION.

The Liberal convention, which opens in Toronto to-morrow, is an event that is full of interest not only to the Liberals of the Province but to the people of Ontario generally.

It is of the greatest importance that no political party should be allowed to completely dominate the situation, as has been the case in recent years in this Province.

Good government and efficient and progressive administration of public affairs are most likely to be achieved when the party in power, while necessarily possessing a working majority finds itself faced by a strong, virile opposition whose vigilance and alertness would keep the Government on its toes at all times.

It is in the interest of the whole Province that the Liberal party in Ontario should have a new birth, and that it should occupy a more prominent place and exert a greater influence.

This week's convention should bring about a stronger, more alive and better co-ordinated party, with a policy brought into line with modern conditions and a membership awakened to the problems of to-day and possessed with the desire to make their party an instrument of public service.

It may not, of course, be all plain sailing; there are questions—notably the liquor problem—that are sure to bring about marked differences of opinion, but if the delegates are animated by the right spirit a new and important page in Liberal history will have been written before this week has passed.

A HAPPY CHRISTMAS.

It may seem a trifle paradoxical to say that in spite of the depression and the number of families who are suffering from diminished incomes this is likely to be as happy a Christmas as Peterborough has experienced.

Yet the conditions should bring about that very result.

The real joy of Christmas is found in helping others; this year therefore, with its unusual opportunity for unselfish service on behalf of less fortunate fellow-citizens, gives the community as a whole a chance to display the genuine spirit of the Christmas season in a manner that has not been possible before.

And there is on every hand evidence that Peterborough is rising to the occasion.

"How can I help?" is a question that is being constantly asked; "Give us the names of families who need assistance," is a request that The Examiner has heard frequently in the last few days.

So obvious is the desire to help that no family in this city should miss sharing in the cheer of the Christmas season.

The Examiner's Christmas Fund has been created for the purpose of linking up the citizen who wants to assist with the family that stands in need of help.

This will be done through the medium of the various social service organizations, and in some cases directly by The Examiner itself.

The Examiner will be pleased therefore to receive donations of cash, food, clothing ,toys and other articles suitable for relief and Christmas distribution purposes, promising that these will be used to best advantage and among families most in need of assistance at this time.

THAT FIVE-YEAR PLAN OF SOVIET RUSSIA.

What is behind this deluge of news coming out of Russia? During the past ten days there has been the extraordinary trial of so-called conspirators, broadcast to the world; special interviews emanating from Stalin; copyrighted Associated Press statements, issued by the Soviets, glorifying the Five-Year Plan. After years of silence and secrecy, a barrage of publicity is dramatically launched, and Stalin, heretofore mysterious through unbreakable silence, becomes the most loquacious of world rulers. What does it mean?

What, to begin with, is this Five-Year Plan? What is its objective? How does it operate? How far has it gone?

* * * *

The Five-Year Plan calls for an expenditure of 33 billion dollars by the end of 1933, to say nothing of nine or ten billions more of non-industrial—"cultural" —investments of capital. The object of the program, the most colossal ever attempted by a people, is to make Russia substantially a self-contained nation, with manufacturing over-topping agriculture, and with an abundance of consumers' goods replacing the existing scarcity.

Viewing the whole of Russia as a going business, it is proposed to raise the value of the plant by about 33 billion dollars, the operating capital by about 20 billions, and to double the national income by raising it to 25 billions. The prime moving power of the country is to be quadrupled in the five years, manufacturing output is to be more than doubled, capital investments in agriculture are to be increased 50 per cent. and agricultural output 55 per cent. The railways are to be extended, and their traffic doubled. Construction is to be pushed up from less than 2 billion dollars in 1927-28 to more than 6 billion dollars in 1932-33. In the same period the cost of living is to be decreased about 14 per cent., the cost of construction about 40 per cent.

The whole country is to be electrified and industrialized. The output of electric power is to be raised to 22 billion kilowatt hours—eleven times the production of 1913. Originally, the output of tractors was to have been 55,000 in 1933, and of automobiles, 130,000—starting almost from zero; the estimate now is 180,000 cars a day in 1938. The output of pig iron is to be trebled; of coal and petroleum, doubled; of cement and brick, quadrupled. The production of textiles, leather and rubber shoes, hardware products, tobacco, matches and many other classes of goods is to be doubled. Russia, in short, is to be made one of the greatest, if not the greatest, producing countries on earth.

* * * *

How is this scheme being financed? Where is Russia getting the money, the materials, the machines, and the technical ability to carry it through? So far as the machines and the technical skill are concerned, the answer is easy. Russia is getting them from England, from Germany, from the United States. Practically all of the technical and expert work is in the hands of German and American engineers. Thousands of the best technical minds of the two most technically progressive countries are in the pay of Stalin.

What of the cash? Forty-two billion dollars is about twice the whole of the national wealth of the Dominion of Canada. It is more than the whole of the British Empire spent on the Great War. It is twice as much as Canada has spent for everything, including her railways and waterways and harbors, since Confederation. It is simply staggering.

When it is recalled that the entire national income of Soviet Russia is less than 13 billion dollars—this against 90 billion dollars for a country like the United States—the scheme seems all but fantastic. Taxation—the budget system—is put down to yield more than 22 billion dollars, the nationalized industries are to contribute promised profits of about 10 billions, loans something over 3 billions, social insurance about 4 billions, various other sources 3 billions. Practically the entire 43 billions must be raised internally—foreign loans being impossible—and all but 3 billions of it must be cash. In other words, on the basis of the present national income of Russia, more than 60 per cent. annually of the product of its people is to be absorbed by the Plan.

* * * *

What has been taking place? Russia, unable to get foreign loans, yet compelled to get foreign assistance in the way of materials, machinery and technical skill—all of which must be paid for in cash—is straining every nerve to increase Russian exports, is selling goods while Russians themselves are dying for lack of such products.

The cost of production in Russia to-day can be almost anything, when domestic goods and materials are purchased with printing press roubles at prices fixed by the dictatorship, which is also the universal manufacturer, exporter and merchant. When a paper rouble gets out of Russia it has but a value of seven cents in Canadian money, as against 51 cents of the gold rouble. Hence, on the basis of this relation, every dollar's worth of foreign gold or exchange that the Soviet Government can lay its hands on is worth seven dollars in Russia. That is why Russian wheat has been coming to Britain, while Russians starve in Moscow. That is why Russian cotton has begun to flood the markets of the world at prices lower than can be quoted by even Japan and China. That is why even Russian pulpwood has actually been landed in Canada. It is simply that the combination of modern factory equipment and agricultural machinery with slave labor, which is the very essence of the Five-Year Plan, is making its results felt throughout the world. In other words, through the use of foreign technical brains, and by the use of economic serfdom among her own people, Russia to-day is attempting to build a colossal industrial structure to menace all capitalist civilization. Already she is causing distress to more than one great British and United States industry; is making herself felt here in Canada.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

This is surely the Christmas season. Judge Stone of Algoma has released a poet.

Despite warning signals and shouts from spectators, a car was driven in front of a train at a Belleville grade crossing and three people are dead. Accidents of that nature are difficult to explain.

You can at least do your Christmas shopping early this week and avoid the last minute congestion. And select goods made in Canada and make this a real Canadian Christmas.

Canadian penitentiaries have a record number of prisoners. And judging from recent sentences, a good many of them are in for a long, long time.

Remember the dances and the midnight show this week for the relief of those suffering from unusual conditions. Good entertainment in aid of a splendid cause should receive liberal patronage.

Mr. Ferguson must be holding back his resignation until he sees who is going to be the new leader of the Liberal party in Ontario.

JEAN'S SANTA CLAUS

By JULIE ANNE MOORE

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE.

Jean did not know how long she sat there, her face buried in the crook of her arm on the desk. But when at last the hall door opened and she turned quickly to meet Sandy's questioning stare, she felt as if she had been wakened from a prolonged dream.

One hand on the back of her chair, the other gasping the edge of the desk, she watched him, waiting.

For a time Sandy stared at her curiously, questioning her unexpected appearance at the office, she thought. Then he took off his coat, threw it across a chair and laid his hat on top of it. His movements were slow, mechanical, and it was perfectly obvious that he was only vaguely conscious of what he was doing.

Jean thought that he was about to enter his office, but presently he faced her and said in a strangely strained voice: "The world is full of trouble, Jean." He was looking at her, but there was that emptiness in his eyes that told her he was seeing nothing. "I thought," he added after a moment, "we had been brought close enough to tragedy when Fargeson was killed. Now . . . "

"You mean Marcia?"

He saw her now. His eyes held hers, silently asking how she had divined his thoughts. "Lionel told you she was here?"

She nodded. "There was a telephone call for you a little while ago."

He asked abruptly: "Do you know who it was?"

"Yes, Police headquarters."

Sandy started nervously, then, quietly: "They told you about her?"

Jean nodded. "They found your card in her purse, Sandy."

"Yes?"

'How did you know about it?" She knew she had no right to ask him, but she had to know.

Calmly he told her: "I was there, Jean. I saw her."

Imperceptibly Jean drew back, avoiding his eyes.

Sandy must have seen what was in her mind, for he suddenly turned and walked across the floor, his hands deep in his trouser pockets. As suddenly he came back to her and dropped into a chair.

"Jean . . . "

She turned slowly and saw the pleading in his sober eyes.

Sandy said then: "I gave you reason to suspect me in the Fargeson affair. To save someone else. But I'll swear I won't let you think I . . . I had anything to do with Marcia's death. Will you believe me if I tell you the truth?"

But before she could answer, he went on: "You know what Marcia was. You knew before I did. Remember the charges you made against her here? I thought you were mad, Jean. Don't forget I had known Marcia for almost a year and I thought she was everything noble, and beautiful. But after you had gone the day, I made up my mind to learn the truth. I had never understood her friendship with Fargeson. He wasn't our kind, and I distrusted him. But she insisted he was one of the odd friends she had made in the Village; and I believed her. I believed her even after he had been killed and the papers had identified him as Sampson, the wholesale criminal. I thought she had simply been taken in by him. But . . . "

He hesitated as if trying to arrange his disordered thoughts. Then: "You know better than I can tell you what a fool I've been. But I couldn't bring myself to believe that Marcia had deceived me. I went to see Miss Wood the same afternoon you were there. I showed her a photograph of Marcia. She couldn't be sure. Perhaps she was afraid of being dragged into the murder investigation. Perhaps she was trying to protect little Ellen. But when I left her it was with a feeling that you had made a dreadful mistake.

"A detective could have done a better job of it, of course; but feeling as I did about Marcia, I couldn't bring myself to that. You understand, I was prejudiced in favor of Marcia. I couldn't believe what you had said of her, and I suppose I didn't want to believe it, even if I had thought there were grounds for suspicion

Jean said evenly: "You mean, you loved her, so much?"

He shook his head firmly. "No! I know now that I never loved her; and even if I had I should have loved her no longer after what I saw." He checked himself abruptly. "After Fargeson was murdered, I mean. Even an innocent friendship with a man of Fargeson's character was enough to undermine anything approaching love. It was simply that I had befriended her, Jean, and had come to admire and respect her, and to believe in her implicitly."

"Then you still think I said what I did about her without really knowing?" Jean asked coldly.

"No, No! That was the hell of it, Jean. I didn't want to find out that instead of being a beautiful woman of impeccable character, she was an unutterable fiend. And yet, on the other side, I knew in my heart that you could never have accused her as you did unless you had been convinced of the truth of what you said. In desperation, I finally went to the apartment last night to have it out with her, to ask her bluntly if she was Fargeson's wife, if she and Fargesin had conspired to . . . to rob me and ruin my character. But she wasn't at the apartment."

Jean said: 'Suppose she had been; do you think she would have admitted it?"

"Wait, I left a note asking her to come here to the office first thing this morning. I don't know how much Lionel has told you; but she came."

'And you asked her?"

Sandy nodded slowly. 'But I didn't put it in the form of a question. I had to her. I told her that I had positive proof that she was Fargeson's wife. She denied it, of course, but I saw the truth in her eyes. I saw it, and felt it, but until after almost an hour of storming she admitted it, I gave her the benefit of the doubt."

"Then she . . . she did admit it"

'Yes. Everything. Fargeson, or Sampson, she said, had selected me as an attractive blackmail victim and had planned the whole thing. But after she had gotten me where they wanted me they delayed. Chiefly because she was getting a generous monthly allowance out of me, and Fargeson decided it would be more profitable to wait until I showed signs of growing tired of the arrangement. That would be time enough, he thought, to begin the gamble for bigger stakes. Marcia told me they were going to demand a cool half million for the return of all my letters and a promise of silence."

Jean gasped: "A half million dollars! But why should they think you would pay for silence? Silence about what?"

"The truth is," he told her, 'that I wouldn't have paid a dollar. But you see they had what they thought was enough to ruin both me and the I.P.P. in the eyes of the conventional, proof that I had 'kept' Marcia, in that I had given her some fifty thousand dollars during the past year. The latters were more damaging, the sort that any young man writes to a young woman with whom he thinks he's in love."

Jean's lips did not move, but her eyes said, "poor, blind fool"

"I know what you're thinking of me," Sandy told her. "But let me finish. According to Marcia's story, Fargeson grew impatient and wanted to start blackmail at once. Then it sounds ridiculous, but she almost persuaded me that she meant it, she said she realized suddenly that she had fallen in love with me and couldn't go on with their plan. She said she resorted to every possible excuse to delay Fargeson without admitting she would not be a party to his conspiracy. Then, as fate would have it, the night I took you there, Fargeson went to the apartment determined to force her to give him my letters. He wouldn't be put off and because she could think of nothing else to do, she said, she told him to wait while she went to her room for the letters. When she returned to the living room, she declared, he had been shot."

Sandy suddenly got to his feet and leaned against the desk. 'Do you know what she had the audacity to ask me here this morning? She wanted me to marry her and make her 'an honest woman'. And when, with the best grace I could muster under the circumstances, I refused, she" he smiled grimly, "she tried to kill me."

"What! Are you serious?"

Sandy nodded slowly. "Grabbed my paper knife and came very near to putting it through my heart. I suppose I lost my temper then. All I'm sure of is that I very nearly broke her wrist getting the knife away from her. Then I opened the door and told her to get out before I called the police. It was all I could do to keep from throttling her pretty throat. I . . . I must have been very nearly insane. After all I've done for her, and she tries to kill me!"

'Yes," said Jean, with a return of the old suspicion, 'she left and two hours later you followed her. Why?"

Sandy said quickly: "To get my letters. What else? I meant to tear upthe apartment if necessary. But, Well, you know what I found when I got there. She," the telephone was ringing, but he ignored it. 'she was lying on the floor in her bedroom, dead!"

Jean lifted the telephone, but did not take the receiver from the hook "And the letters?" she asked, quickly.

Sandy took a neat bundle of letters from his coat pocket and tossed them to the desk. "They were on the floor beside her. She was apparently getting ready to put Fargeson's plan into effect."

At last Jean put the receiver to her car and answered. Then: "Yes, I found Mr. Clause. He . . . he's on his way now. He'll be there in a few minutes, I'm sure."

"Police headquarters again?" Sandy asked quietly.

Jean nodded. "You'd better go immediately. They asked me to send you when they called before."

Like a man moving in a dream, Sandy got into his coat, took his hat, and walked toward the door. Hand on the knob, he turned back to her.

'You believe what I've told you, Jean?"

For an instant she met the challenge in his eyes, then looked off with a curious little jerk of her head. How could she believe him? The night Fargeson was killed, he was in the apartment building, if not in the apartment. She had seen him there and he had lied to her when she had told him as much This morning he and Marcia had quarreled. He had left the office in such temper that Lionel had been afraid he would so something irrational. This afternoon Marcia was murdered, and he admitted he had gone to the apartment, had seen her dead, before anyone else knew of it. And yet . . . .

"Sandy, it's all so hopelessly confusing. If only . . ."

Sandy said softly: "You mean, Jean, that the evidence is against me?"

He had opened the door when Jean suddenly leaped from her chair and ran after him.

'Sandy! Of course I believe you." She checked herself abruptly and took her hand from his arm. 'But," she said then, a little coldly, 'it's blind faith. I don't understand anything."

Without a word, Sandy took her head between his hands and put his lips to her soft hair.

JUSTICE

Between man and man it is not always justice that is required. Between man and woman justice rarely meets the difficulty.—Merriman

Don't forget the big Examiner party and dance at the Legion Hall next Tuesday night, December 16th Come along and have a good time and provide a Christmas dinner for some needy family.

What To-day Means To You

"SAGITTARIUS."

If December 15th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m., and from 6 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. The danger periods are from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and from 10 p.m. to 11 p.m

Astrological influences on this date will have a quieting effect on your mind, and some deep study may uproot hidden truths. A little physical danger from ill health or accident. A friend upholds your good name.

The child born on this December 15th will have a quiet unassuming nature, and a lovable disposition. It will have high principles, and will know how to play a straight game. It will be burdened with responsibilities at an early age, but its back will not become bent. You possess many of the qualities which win life's victories. You can, and do rely upon yourself, your own skill and ability, instead of relying upon the support of others. You have initiative and resourcefulness and do not wait for others to head the line. You do not intend to walk in anybody else's shadow. You can concentrate your mind on anything you wish, and your memory is a reliable one.

To many you seem a little bit "high brow," because you are interested in the serious things of life, and are a deep thinker. Superficial people and you have very little in common with each other .You are awkward when you try to jest and play—tragedy is more your role than comedy. You never mind how foolish other people may be, so long as they do not drag you off from your dignified perch to join them. A "picknicy" life does not appeal to you; your life must be an orderly, and a systematic one. You have many favorite ruts, and you are going to cling to them. You think you jeer at love, but what you are really jeering at is sentimentality. Your heart is as breakable as any other person's, and it will not always remain whole. You are not entirely immune from jealousy, although all your emotions are well control under.

Y.M.C.A. BUILDING

To Editor of The Examiner.

Dear sir:

In connection with the addition to the Y.M.C.A. I think that the men who are unemployed and who reside outside the city have not been given a square deal. The Y.M.C.A board was not on bit backward when it was making its drive for funds to go out into the surrounding townships and ask the residents to help in this worthy cause. Why then should they not have seen that some of the laborers on the job should have come from those townships which helped in the campaign. I know the building is near completion but I hope there is time left to have this wrong rectified.

WALLACE NESBITT,

CONFEDERATION SCHOOL

Dear Mr. Editor:

The Confederation School and Home Association concert for distress relief last night was greatly enjoyed by all those who attended. It was advertised as a concert given by pupils, and as such would have been a real success. The clever drilling by the small children and that of the older ones was a great credit to Mrs. Jackson and her capable staff of teachers. Worthy mention is also made of the recitation, piano solos, dialogues, and a pleasing duet, referring to "Father's whiskers", accompanied by Auto Harp.

So far this little concert was greatly enjoyed by the writer, and is one way of raising funds. But the vulgar out-of-place act, hitting and throwing insults and reflections on many from the Municipal Council down to the humble grocer and neighbors' chickens, is too much for decent citizens to digest. Reflections are not in keeping with the cause of the concert but we must remember that where "ignorance is bliss 'tis folly to be wise."

Had the band of women in this act left the program to the teachers their arrangement would have been such as to continue the good work.

"Another Disgusted Ratepayer."

THE IMPERIALIST

Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir:

It has been a matter of record in the course of history that when extreme necessity arises some great personage will arise also to save the people from themselves and to guide the march of civilization safely on its way.

Hon. G. Howard Ferguson is an example.

Without detracting from the good qualities of Mr. Bennett it will be admitted by those who are willing to rise above the level of mere partyism and whose first consideration is their country and not their little party (which means themselves) that the dominating personage in Canada at this particular time is Mr. Ferguson. By an ingenious move and with the support of Mr. Taschereau he blocked all threats to cut loose from the Empire if we are not to get our own way in everything, by having the Imperial Conference at London agree that no change shall or can be made without the consent of the provinces.

That point of grave danger being passed he set himself to work to develope the patriotism which he has always been possessed of and which he alone made the keynote of his participation in the last Dominion Election. It may be recalled that I struck that note with reference to Mr. Ferguson with all my feeble strength and with the help of the newspapers it echoed and re-echoed in Ontario during the last election without the faintest semblance of contradiction from Mr. Ferguson or anybody else, because it is true.

While Mr. Bennett has taken upon himself the burden of "Canada First", Mr. Ferguson says, "I have been called an 'Imperialist'." He goes to London with the best wishes of Canadians who see what the making of history requires of us and with an extraordinary outburst of welcome from the press of Great Britain, who see at once in him the man of unselfishness, courage and vision, who has kept the glory and the greatness of The Empire always as his main objective point. It cannot be expected, no doubt that very many ardent party souls whose professions far exceed their performances will be able to follow him. They will prefer to hope that Empire or no Empire "the party will continue in power to spit at its opponents and to hand out preferments to its followers. But the better steward of both and all parties will, we may be sure, join in fervent prayer that the welding of the Empire into one splendid commonwealth of nations may not be spoiled by the fatal defect, "thinking of ourselves first" and that Mr. Ferguson may succeed in his great enterprise.

The postponement by Mr. Bennett of his revision of the tariff is no doubt a suggestion from Mr. Ferguson. Mr. Bennett has represented Canada in an efficient and even spectacuar way but when he came to take the last step in "Canada First" by a revision of the tariff he has since found it necessary to pause.

CITY MANAGER PLAN

To The Editor of The Examiner.

Dear sir:

I see that Mayor Denne has decided to take the Mayoralty for another year. That eliminates the danger of our City being without an aspirant for the office, which was the case in a northern town There is danger in this, perhaps, in that a Mayor might think himself indispensable, if no other person offers himself, thinking it might offend the present council. But it doesn't follow that, because the council is satisfied to let things slide.

Outside the sitting council altogether, there are men here able to fill the Mayoralty chair, if the present system is to continue. This has been found wanting in a good many other places and a city manager or commission is a more satisfactory plan.

There was a lot of noise when the council decided to take some pay for their city services, but hardly were any against the pay, except for the way it was done. Nor is the pay large. It is rather an admission that they were not going to do much work when it was so small, nor can anyone expect it, as they are all pretty well occupied in looking after their own businesses—one with a feed store, another a contractor or a grocer or what you will.

Until it is a full time job with sufficient pay to make it worth working for, can the ratepayers be sure that they are getting full value for their taxes paid?

Others suggest that the Aldermen should take the honor conferred for their pay, but if it is such an honor to get the job, are not the ratepayers also honored in having such a man without much work—honor for honor, as it were?

It looks rather a simple proposition that way. Thanking you, Mr. Editor,

Yours for a change,
BERNARD WELSH.

NORTH MONAGHAN CASE

Editor of The Examiner.

Dear sir:

The flagrant comment in a recent issue of The Examiner condemning the attitude taken by the Council of North Monaghan Township has attracted my attention to a report of the proceedings of the meeting referred to.

I ask you. First, where did you get the account of which you write, namely people owning radios must sell them. No such statement appeared in the council report so you are wrong to begin. Secondly, many centres in Ontario have had liquor permits cancelled to people looking for charity. I believe as early as July I saw reports to that effect in some towns. So where is your most drastic law in Ontario? Thirdly, would you give anyone charity who has money to buy gasoline or otherwise operate a motor car? Fourthly, I have lived in this township for many years and never knew anything other than that the relief officer was given power to investigate if the relief asked was really worthy. No worthy case was ever refused in our area: so that is no new or unusual news.

I give the Council credit for the fact that they have come out openly and above board with this matter, especially at so inopportune a time as three weeks from a possible election. They could easily have shelved the matter until after the New Year and let next year's council shoulder the responsibility. They surely can not create work for the many unemployed. But if you are so sympathetic why not agitate more strongly in The Examiner giving work to the men of said township. I am sure all our people spent their money in the city, and help to make it what it is in no small way.

Allow me to ask you why township men were refused work at the new wing of the city Y.M.C.A., now under construction? Did not our township help in contributing to the funds of your campaign last spring toward this most worthy cause, the Y.M.C.A. building? Why not return kindness for kindness, and give some of our men at least a small share of the work on this building?

The world wide economic situation has brought about conditions whereby even the wealthy economize, and is it therefore not wise that people requiring help be restricted? Especially so in North Monaghan where we have very few people of real wealth, and a large portion of the ratepayers are not in a position to be taxed too heavily for relief.

Therefore give credit where credit is due, let truth and reason count; for all, and conscience be your guide.

JUSTICE.

HEAVY SELLING WAVE CHECKED

Market Turns Dull as Wave of Liquidation is Spent at Mid-day.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15. (CP)—The stock market successfully braced itself against the largest wave of selling in weeks to-day, after permitting itself to be washed lower by mere ripples of selling for several days.

The heavy selling movement that developed Saturday was resumed with vigor during the early hours of to-day's session, but prices made only moderate concessions in the first few minutes, then recovered. The force of the selling movement spent itself by mid-day, and the market turned dull. Trading was at the pace of close to 1,000,000 shares an hour up to noon.

After sagging about a point, such shares as U. S. Steel, American Telephone and American Can, rallied to show gains of like extent. Such issues as Dupont, Westinghouse Electric, Consolidate Gas, Public Service of N.J., and Byers made similar gains. Among a few firm spots were Allied Chemical, Eastman and Macy, up 2 to 3. Trana-America rushed up more than 2 points, on announcement of the formation of a pool to support the issue. The New York attractions were buoyant on unconfirmed rumors of a tentative unification agreement; Interboro gaining 4, and Manhattan Modified, 6. Rails and oils, however, were generally sluggish. Standard of N. J. sagged a point to a new low, after refusing to break through its November resistance point on Saturday.

The mid-month settlements, including the Government financing, resulted in a large shifting of funds, estimated as high as $2,000,000,000. Call money showed a firmer tone, although it renewed unchanged at 2½ per cent. and time money rates were pushed up about 1-4 of 1 per cent.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND BRIEFS

A SPECIAL SERVICE TO THE EXAMINER

Canadian stocks are slipping down into the zone where speculators will be called for additional margin for the first time since October last. At the close Saturday most of the leaders were above margin point but at the opening to-day, International Nickel was the first to break through, selling below 15 to create a new all time low for the present issue, securities such as Brazilian Traction, Imperial Oil, British American Oil and others at the end of week were covered by a full point or more and only a few calls were sent out against such accounts. However, the decline continued in early trading this forenoon and brokers were making ready to send out calls in the event of the list not rallying before the close.

Price index for the Toronto Stock Exchange broke into new low ground on increased volume Saturday and in the first hour to-day the list dipped below the week-end close with many of the leaders setting minimum prices for the year and beyond. Issues to touch new bottoms for 1930 in the forenoon to-day included British American Oil, International Petroleum, Canadian Pacific Railway, International Nickel, Massey Harris and Noranda. The weighted index of the Financial News bureau ended the week at 63 a point below Friday's close and two points below the previous low for the year of 65 established October 22. While the Toronto board was sinking the index of the Montreal Exchange held a point above the October mark of 57 but gave indications of lowering this mark in the first hour to-day unless a recovery sets in before the final gong.

With the exception of a few weeks in November when the Wall Street market moved up moderately and then had a sidewise trend for a while, prices of New York stocks have been declining for months. The extent of the reaction in this period has been greater than at any time since October 1929. To-day the industrial averages started 8 points lower than the minimum of November 10. The rails were like wise 8 points and the average of that date. Public utilities were between 2 and 3 points under their previous low. The extreme of the liquidation supports the logic of the argument that the selling is approaching a climax where support will be rendered by various pools and where investment buying on orders that have for some time been placed "under the market" will be operative.

EARLY WEAKNESS IS THWARTED IN HEAVY VOLUME OF TRADING

International Nickel Hits New Low of 14 7-8 in 6,000 Mark Turnover.

OIL SECTION SOFT.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 15. (CP)—Early weakness was thwarted as the list on the Toronto Stock Exchange turned higher after selling held sway for the better part of the morning session. New lows for 1930 were uncovered all across the list as volume reached one of the highest points in many a session.

International Nickel hit a new low of 14 7-8 with the turnover well above the 6000 mark. At noon it recovered somewhat to sell at 15 1-8. Noranda dipped along with its teammate and as a result the stock unearthed its lowest level of the year at 12.50 at noon, however, it was fractionally above this mark.

Oils along with the rest of the list showed new lows, British American at 13 hit a new low, International Pete at 12¾ found its bottom price for 1930. McColl Frontenac was off a full point to 18. Supertest was practically unchanged from Saturday's close. All issues were just above their lows for the day nearing noon.

C.P.R. in the interlisted section was one of the hardest hit dropping nearly 2 points to 38 and a new low. Massey-Harris joined in and before the end of the first hour had found its low for the year at 10½. Canada Dredge was off a point to 26, while Loblaw "A" Page Hersey Tubes, Walkers, Service Stations, and Standard Paving went unchanged.

CRAZY THAT WAY HAS MADE BIG HIT

Midnite Show at Capitol Theatre to be Big Event.

CAPTURING BEST STAGES.

The talking screen is capturing the best of the legitimate stage these days. "Crazy That Way," adapted from Vincent Lawrence's stage hit, "In Love With Love," is the latest movietone picture which perhaps exceeds the original version and bears out this contention.

If you doubt our word make for the midnight show at the Capitol Theatre on Thursday and convince yourselves.

The Fox organization has produced a comedy in "Crazy That Way" with a cast that knows the difference between restraint and merely being hilarious. This is the salient reason—in a long list of commendable features in the eyes—and ears—of this reviewer.

Joan Bennett, our favorite of the three talented Bennett sisters, is just the type for the role of Ann Jordan, capricious daughter of an indulgent father. She attracts men but refuses to take any of them seriously unless there is competition.

Of course competition arrives when that sparkling temptress, Marion Sears, intriguingly interpreted by Sharon Lynn, arrives on the scene—after having obtained a divorce. Marion goes gunning for an indifferent fellow. Ann accepts this as a challenge and attempts to win the same man.

Several other young men are infatuated with Ann. She pays no attention to them. One finally corners her and she agrees to his proposal only to cancel it as soon as possible.

All this results in a series of amusing situations, such as we have seldom seen in talking pictures. And if one weighs such matter from the standpoint of laughs and wholesome entertainment, we believe is reason enough to endorse this really worthwhile picture.

Kenneth MacKenna, Regis Toomey, Jason Robards and Lumsden Hare are the featured male players who deftly interpret their roles, under the able direction of Hamilton MacFadden. The latter collaborated with Marion Orth, also in writing the sparkling dialogue and fashioning the screen play.

SOUTHERN CROSS MAKES LAST TRIP

Famous Monoplane Being Crated Ready For Voyage to Australia.

BILLED FOR MUSEUM.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15.— The globe-encircling monoplane Southern Cross was back to-day at Mills Field here, where she made practice flights before she flew to fame under the guidance of Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith.

The plane will be dismantled and shipped to Sydney, Australia, to be placed on exhibition in the National Museum. The last journey of the Southern Cross over the Pacific is to be in a crate aboard the steamer Golden Bear, sailing from San Francisco January 10.

The famous craft was flown here from Santa Maria, Cal., yesterday by Sam Purcell of San Francisco, who brought the ship down in what probably will prove to be her last "three-point" landing.

In refitting an ocean liner in England this winter about 15 tons of paint were used, and 1,000 yards of carpet and 40,000 pieces of linen were renewed.

PETERBOROUGH MEN IN LEAD

Two Peterborough men Harry Tudhope and Ray Brown have led the Central Ontario district of the North American Life Assurance company during the past two weeks in the contest being conducted by the company. The Central Ontario region has also taken the lead in the contest and up to date its sales are 53 per cent above those of last year.

MINE PRICES REMAIN SOFT

Noranda and Coast Copper Off Slightly—Other Base Metals Firm.

OILS UNDER PRESSURE.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 15. (CP)—Prices were soft in all groups on the mining market in the forenoon to-day.

Noranda touched a new low of $12.80, off 20 from Saturday, and International Nickel sold at $15, off a half. Hudson Bay firmed slightly to $1.10 but Coast Copper was down a quarter at $5 and other base metal stocks just holding in quiet trade.

Recessions were general in the gold group. Lake Shore dropped 20 to $20.80, McIntyre 15 to $18.20, Dome 10 to $8.50, Hollinger and Teck Hughes 5 each to $6.05 and $6.48, respectively, and Sylvanite and Wright-Hargreaves 3 apiece to 45 and $1.66. Lower-priced issues were off a cent or so each.

Higher-priced oils were under pressure, International Pete easing three quarters, B.A. Oil a point and Imperial a small fraction for the session. Home Gas dropped 3½ to 22½, Chemical Research a quarter to $2.75 and Nordon a cent to 50.

MRS. Z. SHEPARD SUFFERED FROM ALCOHOL POISON

Fort Riley Medical Officer Testifies at Trial of Army Major.

HEAVY DRINKER.

Major Charles A. Shepard on Trial For Murder of His Wife.

KANSAS CITY, Kas., December 15 (C.P.). — Major E. J. Strickler, medical officer at Fort Riley, and specialist in psychiatry, testified at the murder trial of Major Charles A. Shepard to-day, that symptoms he found the night Mrs. Zenana Shepard was stricken with her fatal illness indicated she suffered from alcoholic poisoning.

Major Strickler was the first physician called to attend Mrs. Shepard, whom the Government contends was poisoned by Shepard, another army medical officer, so he might be free to marry Miss Grace Brandon, the young San Antonio stepographer.

The defence previously had obtained testimony from Mrs. Zenana H. Curtis, 86-year-old grandmother of Mrs. Shepard, that the major's wife was a heavy drinker.

"The odour of alcohol was very strong on her breath," Major Strickler, a defence witness, said after describing her mental condition and appearance when he arrived at her bedside first on May 21, 1929. "I observed nothing that might be attributed to mercury except vomiting."

Major Strickler said he found Mrs. Shepard lying in bed fully clothed, apparently hearing voices, reaching for objects not present, partly blind, and with some numbness in her lower legs.

Strickler said he attended Mrs. Shepard during the early stages of her illness, and then withdrew because of "the confusion of the case."

He explained that every doctor at the army post was taking a hand in the case.

Metallic Poisoning.

On cross-examination Strickler testified Mrs. Shepard's condition might have been caused by metallic poisoning.

He said he had a conversation with Shepard relative to the possibility that she took poison and Shepard urged him twice to be sure to tell Mrs. Shepard's relatives, then coming to her bedside, that she suffered from alcoholic poisoning.

Strickler said these requests seemed "peculiar" to him.

On redirect examination, Strickler said Major Paul R. Hawley, a government witness who testified Mrs. Shepard died of mercurial poisoning, "told me he had gone to see Mrs. Shepard on one occasion and she was so full of liquor he couldn't get anything out of her."

Strickler was supboenaed as a Government witness, but never called to the stand by the prosecution.

Defence counsel said Shepard would take the stand in his own defence to-morrow.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

18 MOVIE STARS LEFT HOMELESS BY MORNING FIRE

Fashionable Malibu Beach Colony Forced to Flee in Night Attire.

MYSTERIOUS BLAST BLAMED.

Sand in Water Pumped From Ocean Hampers Firemen—Loss $400,000.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 15. — Fashionable Malibu Beach, colony of film stars and wealthy business and professional folk, was shaken by a mysterious blast and ravaged by fire to-day.

Eighteen residences, as well as many expensive automobiles were destroyed with a loss estimated by officials at more than $400,000.

Leading Stars Burned Out.

The homes of many leading film stars and other Hollywood celebrities were burned. Among those who suffered losses are Louise Fazenda, Marie Prevost, Allen Dwan, George De Sylva, James Malcolm Taylor and Oliver C. Marsh.

Other homes destroyed included those of Frank Fay, Broadway comedian; A. L. Rockett, film producer; Leo McCarey, former boxing promoter and now a film director, and Ben Hendricks, Jr., actor. The stars themselves, with a long list of weekend guests, were driven into the biting early morning cold.

Shortly after 2 30 a.m. a terrific explosion awakened the sleeping residents along the beach. The blast occurred near the home of De Sylva, noted song writer.

The home of De Sylva became a mass of flames almost immediately and in a few minutes an adjoining residence caught fire as a brisk northwest wind fanned the flames.

From house to house the flames spread and out of the dwellings ran panic-stricken occupants, to huddle, shivering in scanty night clothing as the cold north wind sought them out.

Braving the cold and danger, the beach residents joined fire fighters from three nearby county stations. Later the Santa Monica Fire Department apparatus fought the blaze.

Fight Lasts Three Hours

After almost three hours of futile effort, the wind shifted, affording the weary fighters an opportunity to halt the fire.

Los Angeles County officials stated the great headway made by the blaze was due to fire fighters being compelled to draw water by suction from the ocean and inlets, clogging hose with sand. Efforts have been underway for a year, they said, to have water piped to the beach colony for fire fighting purposes.

MARRIAGE LAW SMASH, CAUSES GREAT CRISIS

Young Women of Russia Robbed of Position and Romance.

"WORKING CLASS DOMINATES.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 15. (CP) Stephen Graham, the noted author, speaking in this city said of Soviet Life and Literature:

"With the marriage law smashed, woman in Soviet Russia is in a very bad position. She is free—to starve and to undertake the burden of bringing up a child. She has no securit." The picture of Russian life presented by the speaker was in no detail an attractive one. He spoke of the importance of the "youth movement" as a factor in the Communist regime, and of politically precocious boys and girls from nine to 14 years of age terrorizing their elders by scrawling accusations on walls and doors, marching in mobs through the rooms of a house singing insulting choruses.

For years the orphan children of Russia have been one of the greatest scandals of the Soviet regime, Mr. Graham, said. These, deprived of their mothers by death or abandonment, are driven out of towns because of being a nuisance to the authorities by picking pockets and other lawlessness, and into the country to perish.

Light Treatment of Love

In Russian fiction, love is regarded as a disease, and promiscuity in the universities is prevalent to such an extent that a chaste girl is regarded as a tremendous joke. Love being scaled down to the physiological and animal, the young woman is robbed of romance—a cry sounded in a book of Romanoff short stories. In this brutalized viewpoint, she is degraded and robbed of something emotionally enriching. She becomes one of the vast army of unmarried mothers, leaves the university for the birth of her child, which is then put into a creche. "I rather question whether it is very much progress to have swarms of unmarried mothers and children who are denied the immense benefit of visible fathers," commented Mr. Graham.

"The system is made so grand and pompous, and for the sake of an idea and a system they will destroy people in thousands and ruin the happiness of the living. One feels here, again, that there is in this apparent freedom and equality of the sexes, yet it is the women who are suffering I have read this point of view in stories, that woman has her freelom, she is an economic unit without requiring a man to make her so, but there is a sneaking feeling that they want homes. For the home is woman's institution, although in Russia it is regarded as a terrible survival of a dreary past.

Change from Middle to Working Class

A tremendous change in the personnel of the Russian city is seen in fiction, said the lecturer. The middle class has shrunk to a small and rebel minority and the working Working class and educated people of the old regime try to cling together, but are not allowed to do so by the Soviet Government. Space in house is allocated according to the number of persons in a family. A man and wife have a small room to themselves, and the bathroom is shared by 20 or 30 people. Working calss and educated people are put together under the same roof, and each person in turn is obliged to clean the premises. The educated people have refused to have children, but the others have them in swarms. One can speak only of "fairly clean" people in discussing Russia, the lecturer remarked. Stalin himself six years after the revolution wore the same soiled uniform.

BENNETT CALLS

Christmas season it is possible he may endeavor to pay fleeting visits to his old home in New Brunswick and his Western home in Calgary shortly.

Hon. G. Howard Ferguson will be in the Capital at an early date, probably this week, and will see the Prime Minister. The day is uncertain, but when the Ontario Premier does arrive he will on the occasion probably take his oath of office as High Commission for Canada in London.

Posts to Be Filled

A number of posts remain to be filled. Included in these are appointments of a Canadian Minister at Washington, a Minister of Finance, a Minister of Labor, a Judge on the Supreme Court Bench of Ontario, and a Senator for Manitoba to fill one vacancy caused by the death of the late Hon. J. G. Turriff. With regard to the first three appointments to be made, Premier Bennett has been maintaining a strict silence. Since the formation of his Government following the July election, Mr. Bennett has been Minister of Finance, with the exception of the period of his absence from the country during which Hon. E. B. Ryckman, Minister of National Revenue, was acting minister of that department.

It will be recalled also that in announcing his Cabinet just before the special session of Parliament last Fall, the Prime Minister in paying tribute to the capacity of the present Minister of Labor, Senator Gideon D. Robertson, intimated that in 1931 a permanent appointee to that portfolio would be made.

For the post of Minister at Washington, there has been an occasional rumor of the likely selection, but nothing from an official source. Several names are mentioned for the Judgeship in Ontario, including Eric Armour, K.C., Toronto; George Sedgewick, K.C., Toronto, and J. C. E. Makiris, K.C., Stratford.

SLIGHT PESSIMISM EXISTS IN COPPER METAL INDUSTRY

Stocks Suffer Setbacks Over Week-end to Renewed Liquidation.

FAIR OIL REPORTS.

TORONTO, Dec. 15. (Special to Examiner)—Due to renewed liquidation all the gains made in copper stocks when the price was raised from 9.5 to 12 cents have been lost and several points additional in most active shares. In the metal industry there is the same pessimism that existed before prices were advanced and the agreement to restrict production made. There has been a great deal of difficulty experienced in getting the domestic and foreign producers to make a mutual understanding, New York reports, with the situation now one of a free market and a prospect that the price of copper will go back to the old level if not lower.

This changes the outlook for copper stocks dividends which had seemed to be secure on the basis of 12 cent copper, but may have to be further reduced under present conditions. American writers claim. The copper group is now about 25 per cent under the average of a year ago. Anaconda is in a price area nearly 100 points lower than at that at which there was an enormous distribution of stock by interests identified with the company.

From the local angle the situation with regard to the copper stocks is somewhat brighter. Brokers report some good buying originating at current prices for nickel and Noranda, though at large part of it is being placed somewhat below the market. One house exhibited its order files early to-day, buying orders were numerous but the selling file showed only two slips, 'Money can't help coming out of the sock at these prices" one broker remarked.

Favorable Reports.

According to word received to-day from Glen M. Ruby, president of Nordon, who is in Los Angeles, coring in the Button Willow will have been successfully carried out and the definite geological markets desired have been secured. "These indicate the productive Elk Hills sands lie below the present drilling level and indications so far obtained are interpreted as highly favorable. The gas pressure has increased, pointing to a perfect closure of the structure, and it is wet gas. Owing to the increased pressure it has been necessary to further increase the weight of mud. They are now using mud weighing 105 pounds per cubic foot. The Elk Hills sands are the highly productive sands in this region of California."

Uncertain results and low price for copper may result in curtailment of operations on the Newbec, according to a Rouyn report. Some rich ore was found at 125 feet, one body being 17 feet in width of almost massive chalcopyrite but shipments made last winter disclosed only a patchy condition. Plans were made to resume shipments as soon as a summer road could be built, but developments prior to the completion of the road militated against this policy.

SIGNIFICANCE OF CHRISTMAS

the real significance of the Christmas season, upon the mystery of the incarnation which was the fact to which all previous history had looked forward and to which all history since had looked back. The incarnation, which was the basis of all philosophy, the foundation for all scientific development, the inspiration of all the arts. The mystery of that incarnation was the mystery of love, Bishop O'Connor declared, as he stressed the idea of service for others associated with the Christmas season.

The spiritual joy that came from such service was the Christmas wish that he offered to the members of the Rotary Club and to them as all the citizens of Peterborough. "And I am old-fashioned enough to add," said His Lordship, in conclusion, "that I hope your Christmas will be a very merry one."

The thanks of the Rotary Club were extended to the Bishop of Peterborough by Rotarian Rev. Dr. C. V. McLean, who eloquently voiced the Club's appreciation of the inspiring address.

President Abbott called attention to the Christmas relief plan inaugurated by Eaton's groceterias, by which boxes of groceries were supplied at cost to service organizations planning relief work.

Mrs. Everson gave a paper on, "A Historical view of Christian Work in Japan," in which it was pointed out that during the 17th and 18th centuries it was a crime to be a Christian in Japan but for the past thirty years Christianity has been one of the recognized religions of that country and during that time has made steady progress in membership. Since 1900 Christianity has been on a basis of equality with Buddhism and Shintoism. The first woman missionary went to Japan in 1869 and to-day in 40 missions there are 486 women representatives. The greatest work in Japan has been done by women workers and care is being taken to train such women. There are now in Japan 15 bible training schools with 403 women enrolled.

The election of officers resulted as follows: president, Mrs. Everson; vice-president, Mrs. John O'Rorke; corresponding secretary, Miss Marion Love; Treasurer, Mrs. Bruce Leslie; temperance secretary, Mrs. C. INDIANS LEADING CAN.-AMER. LEAGUE

Springfield Club Has Yet to Meet Defeat This Season.

BOSTON, Dec. 15 (C.P.)—With almost a quarter of the Canadian-American Hockey League season completed, the Springfield Indians have yet to meet defeat. As a result this New York Rangers' farm is leading the five-club circuit by three full games.

The Philadelphia Arrows, with but one victory in nine games, are trailing the league.

The award of Jack Beattie, Springfield forward, to the Boston Bruins gave Cecil Dillon, another Indian, a clear claim as the league's leading scorer with five goals and nine assists for a quota of 14 points. Beattie ended his Canadian-American career with a record of eight goals and six assists for 14 points.

Obs Heximer, also of Springfield, who lead the scorers last week, dropped back into second place with seven goals and five assists for 12 points. The others in the "highest scoring five" were Gaudreaul of Providence, with 11 points, Boyd of Boston with ten, and Burke of the same club, with nine points.

PLOWMEN PLAN

When it came to the question of electing an executive, Mr. Dufus said he did not see why they should desire to re-elect the retiring executive again, stating that they should make a change this year. He was given to understand that the members did not wish a change until the international match had been brought to this city.

In the event of no international match this year, the county plowing match will go to Ennismore, otherwise it will be held in Monaghan Township, and full parking facilities for the many visitors from distant points will be provided at Exhibition Park by the kindly co-operation of the Exhibition Board.

Delegates to attend the Provincial Plowing Association meeting in Toronto next February were selected, namely: G. A. Gillespie and T. Thompson of Asphodel.

It was moved that the association make the usual grant of $25.00 to the Home Plowing Association, to encourage the boys in the art. It was further moved that if the international plowing match comes here, all the adjoining counties will be invited to hold their matches in conjunction with Peterborough County, on the first day of the event, which is to be known as County Day, and the local association will encourage large entry lists by augmenting the prize lists with three minimum prizes in each class.

It was also decided that there be a boys' two-furrow class for two-furrow plows or more, and three horses or more for boys under 17 years of age. A three-furrow tractor class (open) is also to be added.

WM. ROBINSON 91 YEARS OLD

Bobcaygeon's Grand Old Man Served For Many Years as Wood Ranger.

BORN IN VERULAM.

BOBCAYGEON, Dec. 15.—William J. Robinson celebrates his ninety-first birthday to-day. He is known as Bobcaygeon's Grand Old Man. He was born in the Township of Verulam Dec. 15, 1839, on what was thought then to be the west 100 acres of the land taken up by his grandfather, but which later was proved to be the next lot south. Verulam was then a wilderness, with settlers just commencing to move in.

Mr. Robinson has been a wood ranger nearly all his life: first for Mossom Boyd, with whom he was for thirty years, and afterward with the Lands and Forests Department of the Ontario Government. Mr. Robinson's reports proved to be so trustworthy, and he was so absolutely honest, that when the Ross Government was succeeded by that of Sir James Whitney and despite his being a Liberal, he continued to serve under the Hon. Frank Cochrane until his work was completed. His reports were always accepted.

Miss Janet F. Robinson, Baptist missionary in India, is his second daughter. Ex-Mayor Thomas Urquhart, Toronto, is a brother-in-law.

Did you ever go "Crazy That Way?" Come and see it at the Midnite Show (all proceeds for relief) at the Capitol Theatre, next Thursday night, December 18th.

DEPARTMENT OF TRADE AND COMMERCE
OTTAWA, CANADA

December 13th, 1930.

To Canadian Consumers,
Everywhere in Canada.

More for Your Money, and of Better Quality!

When it comes to buying, we are all alike in one respect. We want to get the most we can, the best we can, for our money!

If our dollar has regularly been getting us 20 pounds of sugar, we are naturally pleased when, some day, it gets us 21 pounds. And if, on trying it at home, we find that at 21 pounds for a dollar we are actually getting a better quality of sugar than we formerly got at 20 pounds for a dollar, we're doubly pleased.

Now while it may not do that exact thing, that's the sort of thing that the "Produced-in-Canada" movement will do for everyone of us if we will give it our whole-hearted support. Let me explain.

Incidental to the operation of every manufacturing plant there are certain expenses that are commonly spoken of as fixed charges. Included in that category are such things as taxes, insurance, heat, light, superintendence, administration, depreciation, and interest on capital invested. Expenses such as these run along with little or no variation, month after month and year after year, whether the plant is operating full time at full capacity, or only part time at partial capacity.

Now let us suppose for purposes of illustration that these expenses amount to $25,000 a year, and that operating at full capacity, the plant is capable of producing each year 100,000 of whatever article it is making. If it really does operate at full capacity, the cost of each individual article will have been increased only 25 cents because of these fixed charges. But if the plant only operates at half capacity, that $25,000 of fixed charges, spread over 50,000 articles, will advance the cost of each article 50 cents.

From this simple illustration you can easily see why it is to our advantage, as consumers, to favour Canadian plants in our buying so that they will always be able to operate at full capacity. The lower their production cost per unit, the more cheaply they will be able to sell to us!

But that is only half the story.

After a plant has been operating for some years at half capacity its reserves, if not exhausted, are at least so reduced that it cannot afford to replace old machinery with new as one means of keeping abreast of the times. If half capacity means half time, as it often does, it cannot hold the best of its skilled workers; they leave to go where they can obtain steady work, and the plant must get along as best it can with labour that is less efficient. And confronted with the necessity of cutting expenses to the bone, it must forego all kinds of experimentation and research, with the result that the quality of its product shows no improvement, if it does not actually deteriorate.

But let that plant be kept at full capacity, as the result of Canadian consumers preferring its products to imported products, and it will always be on the alert to see that it has the last word in new equipment, it will always be able to retain in its service the highest class of skilled labour, and it will always be able to afford the expense of laboratories for testing and research, as a means of discovering new ways to improve quality or to reduce costs.

In previous messages I have tried to make it clear why, by adhering to the "Produced-in-Canada" policy, we all stand to benefit indirectly in many ways. But let us not overlook the direct benefits it is certain to bring us, eventually if not immediately, by stretching every dollar we spend so that it will buy us a bigger quantity, in a better quality!

Very sincerely yours,

H. H. Stevens

Minister of Trade and Commerce.

DOROTHY DIX says:

"If I could, I'd give Every Girl in Canada a box of Lux!"

"Let me tell you Girls of PETERBOROUGH just why I say this"

FEMININE DAINTINESS! It is a girl's chief charm. Nothing so attracts people, MEN especially, as dainty femininity. Womanly daintiness stirs the emotions more than anything else.

Sometimes girls are a little careless—a blouse is just a bit soiled at the cuff. Even more do some girls neglect the things that DON'T SHOW—a slip or a step-in is allowed to get shabby looking.

My dears, I have known a soiled—faded looking shoulder ribbon peeping out to shatter a man's ideal more quickly and completely than a nagging tongue or a display of temper.

Moreover, when your lingerie isn't dainty and colourful, you yourself don't FEEL exquisite and truly charming. And, in order to charm others, you must feel sure of your own feminine appeal. Self-confidence is contagious.

For your own sakes, I would like to urge every one of you to follow two simple rules—

1. Buy the daintiest, prettiest lingerie you can.

2. Keep it colour-fresh and exquisite in every way as long as you wear it.

I'm sure girls often hesitate to wash underthings—stockings, too—as often as daintiness requires, lest they become faded and wear out too soon.

You may rightly fear this, if you've been using just ordinary "good" soap.

But if you'll keep a box of Lux on your bathroom shelf and just dip your lingerie and hosiery up and down in a bowlful of suds as often as needed, you will find they stay colourful and lovely—soft and shimmering and beautiful—for an amazingly long time.

"Dainty, colourful lingerie makes you feel charming—faded, drab underthings cannot give you the same consciousness of utter feminine charm. Therefore—never be careless even about the things that don't show."

Lux is especially made to keep delicate colours unfaded, fresh, and to preserve the beauty of fine textures.

I feel so strongly about this that if I could, I'D GIVE EVERY GIRL IN CANADA A BOX OF LUX.

In Your Home, Too

Not only can dainty, colourful lingerie give you confidence of charm—but your very surroundings can help!

Pretty curtains, slip covers, cushions, colourful table linens, all form part of the magic spell when they are kept ever lovely with Lux.

DOROTHY DIX

Perfect!
Lingerie washed 15 times in Lux—silk and lace fibres intact, colour intact; charming as new!

Disappointing!
Lingerie washed 15 times with ordinary "good" soap—silk and lace damaged, colour faded.

If it's Safe in Water . . it's Safe in LUX

Aged Witness Claims Mrs. Shepard, Her Granddaughter, Liked Hard Liquor.

DID NOT WANT TO LIVE.

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Dec. 15—The 66-year-old grandmother of Mrs. Zenana Shepard, alleged by the Government to have been fatally poisoned by her husband, Major Charles A. Shepard, took the witness stand Saturday in defense of the army medical officer at his murder trial.

The aged witness, Mrs. Zenana Curtis, of Los Angeles, was the first to testify for the defense after the court overruled a motion for a directed verdict of acquittal.

Mrs. Curtis testified that Mrs. Shepard drank heavily when she lived with her before the granddaughter's marriage to the Major. This was prior to and after Mrs. Shepard's divorce from her first husband. She said Mrs. Shepard liked "hard liquor."

The witness said that Mrs. Shepard wrote her some months before her death at Fort Riley, Kas. in June, 1929, that she "did not want to live."

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—Skidding with cotton and stock, July wheat Saturday reached the lowest prices registered in 27 years. In sharp contrast, other future deliveries were upheld by Federal Farm Board allies. July wheat dropped into the "Sixties," and finished at virtually the day's bottom figures.

Closing quotations on all cereals were heavy, with wheat unchanged from Friday to 2¼ cents lower; corn, 1 to 1½ cents off; oats, 1¼ to 1½ cents down, and provisions unchanged to 10 cents decline.

MONTREAL, Dec. 15. — Prices on the produce and dairy market were unchanged here Saturday.

Prices of British Columbia fresh eggs in carlots were unchanged, extras being quoted at 57c, firsts 51c and pullets 46c a dozen. Prices to retailers were also unchanged.

Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized creamery butter, regraded, grass-make, in carlots, was 29c to 29¼c a pound. Solids were 32c and prints 33c a pound to retailers.

New Brunswick Green Mountains were quoted at 90c to 96c per 80-lb. bag on the potato market and per carlots in bulk were 75c to 80c per 90 lbs.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, December 15. — The drastic eight-cent break in wheat prices back on November 18 came back into the grain--traders' memories on Saturday, when values on the Winnipeg Exchange crashed through all--time bottom levels to new lows. Losses amounted to 1¾ to 1½ cents per bushel and pushed values down below the cheap marks established on November 18

Sales from Chicago, blamed for the slump that brought the historic eight-cent slide, were named as the reason for the last three days of losses. Pit men finally decided that the liquidation came from spread-unwinding between Winnipeg and Chicago in the May futures.

Canadian exports were reported fair, but failed to rally Liverpool's quotes, and cash wheat trading was in aSturday's usual slow time

Boston Piles Up Lead in Last Two Periods of Toronto Battle.

AMERKS TIE CANUCKS.

Roach Stars in Rangers' 3-0 Victory Over Detroit Falcons.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 15.—(CP)—Except for the leadership of the Canadian section which Montreal's Flying Frenchmen have well in hand the battle for other leading positions in both groups of the National hockey league tightened considerably over the week-end.

Five games were decided Saturday and Sunday and while Canadiens managed to gain one point by tieing New York Americans, one-all, the American group leaders, Chicago Blackhawks, did not fare so well. They lost to Montreal Maroons, two to nothing, and as Boston trounced Toronto Maple Leafs, 7 to 3, the Bruins and hawks are now tied for the driver's seat. Maroons' victory placed them in a tie with the Leafs, five points behind the Habitants, while the single point garnered by the Americans, lifted them in the Canadian group standing to within a point of Toronto and Maroons.

New York Rangers and Detroit Falcons maintained their close struggle for third place in their group when the Detroiters beat the tail-end Philadelphia Quakers, three to two, on Saturday, only to fall before the Rangers and John Ross Roach's brilliant goalkeeping on Sunday, three to nothing. The teams are deadlocked with 12 points apiece, three in the rear of Boston and Chicago.

Eddie Gerard shook up his attacking divisions for the clash with the Canadian group leaders. Billy Burch at his old center ice position, flanked by Hap Emms and "Pat" Patterson, proved a smooth playing trio and they managed to hold the Montreal speed artists pretty well in check

Burch scored for the A's early in the middle frame and Wasnie tied the score five minutes later to complete the point getting for the evening.

Bruins Too Much

The weakened Maple Leafs proved "soft" for the hard hitting Bostonians, who startled the Toronto fans by playing one of their cleanest but most brilliant games Only two penalties were meted out. One to each side. The teams finished the first frame tied at 2-all, but from then on it was a Bruin parade. Barry and Gainor each notched a pretty unassisted goal in the second session, while Barry, Harriss and the great Eddie Shore completed the route in the final period.

Harry Oliver scored a brace of goals in the opening 20 minutes for Boston, while Rolly Huard, on loan from Buffalo of the International circuit and Andy Blair brought on the red light for the Leafs' pair of tallies. King Clancy got the Leafs' third marker in the last period.

A system used by Maroons, successful two years ago, was adopted by Dunc Munro's team against the American section leaders and again proved its merits. Allowing the speedy skating Blackhawks to carry play to them throughout the Montrealers bided their time, waiting for openings.

"Babe" Seibert opened the scoring about five minutes after the start of the second period when he caught Chuck Gardner, Chicago's clever netminder, off-balance.

A whistly drive well placed by the hard shooting Seibert, found its mark in the top far corner and the game was over although the Hawks didn't know it then.

Stout defensive play enabled the Maroons to nurse their one goal lead until near the half-way mark of the third frame when the husky Seibert found another weak spot in the Blackhawk defence and he drove in to beat Gardner again.

The Hawks tried desperately for the balance of the contest to penetrate the stubborn Montreal defence and practically wore themselves out trying. When they did get by Johnnie Gallagher and Wilcox, they couldn't get the rubber past "Flat" Walsh, who gave a brilliant display of goalguarding.

Two rapid fire goals from the sticks of Ebbie Goodfellow and Carson Cooper early in the third session gave Detroit their victory over the Quakers. The first period had ended scoreless, while each team registered a tally in the middle frame, Jerry Lowery netting the disc for the home team and Goodfellow for the Falcons.

Milks put the Quakers back into contention late in the last session but their frantic rally failed to bring the equalizer.

Ross Roach Stars

Travelling over to New York to meet the Rangers the Falcons found Roach, diminutive Ranger net guardian, too good for them and though they beat the Gotham rearguard of Ching Johnson and Jerwa frequently they could not outguess Roach.

In the meantime Rangers through Jerwa, White, and Bun Cook, tallied once in each period, to keep abreast of the Detroiters, in the nip and tuck struggle for third position.

MAROONS WIN SECOND PLACE IN THE GROUP

Tie Leafs in Standing as Result of Week-end N.H.L. Hockey.

MORENZ STILL IN LEAD.

Abbie Goodfellow, of Detroit, Equals Bun Cook For Top Position.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 15 (C.P.) — Another crowded week-end of hockey with every team in the National League in action, saw some startling results. In the standing, this was particularly evident, for Maroons are now in second place in the Canadian section, with their fellow-citizens, Canadiens, still in front. The weakened Maple Leafs are tied with the Montrealers for the second position. In the American section, Boston suddenly stepped up, and are now tied for the leadership with the Chicago Blackhawks. With the first quarter of the season over, the lineup is as follows:

Canadian Section.—Canadiens, Toronto, Maroons, Americans, Ottawa.

American Section.—Chicago, Boston, Detroit, Rangers, Philadelphia.

As for individual point scoring—the ever-blooming Howie Morens, of Canadiens, still leads his Canadian group rivals by a nice margin. He has 15 points to his credit, with Joliat, Canadiens, 5 points lower. Too many cooks may spoil the broth in the culinary business, but it doesn't mean a thing in hockey. The Cook brothers, Bun and Bill, of the New York Rangers, have 12 and 11 points respectively. However, Bun has a real rival in Abbie Goodfellow, Detroit, who scored two goals Saturday night and is now tied with Bun for first place.

There is no change in the penalty ranking. Joliat has spent 26 minutes on the bench at the referee's invitation, while Shields, of Philadelphia, has had 37 minutes enforced rest.

Canadian Section

Canadiens.—Played 12, won 8, lost 3, tied 1; 17 points.

Most Points (goals and assists).—Morenz, Canadiens, 12 goals, 3 assists; 15 points.

Most Goals—Morens, 12.

Most Assists.—Primeau, Toronto, 7.

Most shutouts.—Toronto (Chabot 3, Grant 2).

Most Penalties.—Joliat, Canadiens, 36 minutes.

American Section

Chicago and Boston.—Won 7, tied 1 each; 15 points.

Most Points.—F. (Bun) Cook, Rangers, 12; Goodfellow, Detroit, 12.

Most goals.—W. Cook, Rangers, 8.

Most Assists.—F. Cook, 1; Shore, 7.

Most Shutouts.—Gardner, Chicago, 4.

Most Penalties.—Shields, Philadelphia, 37 minutes.

57 YARD RUN WINS FOR ARMY

Stecker Scores Only Touchdown of Army-Navy Charity Fund Game.

70,000 SEE BATTLE.

YANKEE STADIUM, Dec. 15.—A fifty-six yard run by Stecker in the final period yesterday gave the Army a 6 to 0 victory over the Navy.

This thirty-first game between the two service academies—played before 78,000 persons and the receipts of which go to the unemployment relief fund—was a thrilling affair. For three periods they played even. The Army's charging attack would carry well into the Navy territory, then Navy would tighten.

It was the first game since 1927 when athletic negotiations were severed over eligibility rules. Army was favored to win. In previous games Army won 15 and Navy 12, with three tie. The teams:

Army—Carlmark, Price, Humber, Miller, Trice, Suares, Messinger, Bowman, Frentzel, Steckner, Kilday.

Navy—Steffanides, Bowstrom, Underwood, Tuttle, Kirkpatrick, Bryan Byng, Bauer, Gannon, Kirn, Hagberg

Navy won the toss and elected to kick. Kilday took the Navy kickoff on the Army 7-yard line and raced 23 yards.

Army threatened early when Stecker passed over the goal line to Carlmark, but he was unable to reach the ball and took it on the Middies 20-yard line.

The first period ended with the score: Army, 0; Navy, 0.

The second quarter was also scoreless.

Between halves the crowd was entertained by designs made by the midshipmen carrying colored cards. The most amusing was a quick change formation in which a prostrate army mule was transformed into a live and kicking navy goat.

Stecker fumbled and Tuttle recovered for Navy on his own 42-yard line in the third period, the first fumble in which possession of the ball changed. Each team took time out. Stecker ran right end for four yards. Kilday ran out of bounds for no gain.

Bowstrom punted to the Army 44 yard line. Army made yards several times. Navy only once so far. Third period was also scoreless.

Shortly after the fourth quarter opened Stecker, for the Army, broke around the left end for 56 yards and a touchdown Broshous went in as a sub for Messinger and failed to kick the goal. Score—Army, 6; Navy, 0.

Bowstrom punted to Bowman, who signalled for a free catch on his own 8-yard line, but the receiver fumbled and Bynge recovered for the Navy. Succeeding downs lost the advantage and the ball was carried to Navy's 25-yard line with two minutes to go. Stecker attempted a pass, which fell incomplete, and Navy took the ball on downs on its own 6-yard line.

Kirn made a long wild pass to the 50-yard line as the game ended with the score—Army, 6; Navy, 0.

Don't forget the big Examiner party and dance at the Legion Hall next Tuesday night, December 16th. Come along and have a good time and provide a Christmas dinner for some needy family.

Heavyweight Contender From California Invading New York For Title "Chance"

NEW YORK, Dec. 15 (C.P.)—Another heavyweight "loud-speaker" has invaded New York, this time from the Far West. His name is Max Baer and he hails from California.

A cocky, talkative youngster vaguely reminiscent of Jack Sharkey in the earlier days, Baer makes his metropolitan debut against Ernie Schaaf of Boston in a ten-round bout in Madison Square Garden Friday night. Baer is supremely confident that he can stop Schaaf in a few rounds and then he's like to get a shot at Sharkey. After that, Schmeling or Stribling, or anybody for that matter, will suit this youngster whom some critics are calling a "second Jack Dempsey."

Baer has been beaten only once in 27 professional starts and he has won 24 bouts by knockouts. Schaaf, however, is a formidable test for any ambitious heavyweight. The Boston Battler has been holding his own with the best in the business in recent months, and certainly doesn't rate as the "push-over" Baer seems to believe he will be.

Other boxing centres have little to offer this week. Con O'Kelly, Irish heavyweight, battles Al Friendman at Boston to-night, and Jackie Fields, former welterweight champion, takes on Bucky Lawless, Syracuse, N.Y., in a ten-rounder at Detroit Friday.

Burnt River House Is Razed By Fire

LINDSAY, Dec. 15 (Examiner Correspondence).—A frame residence, the property of Mrs. J. Morgan, of Burnt River, was totally destroyed by fire on Friday morning while a tenant (Mr. W. Pocock) was preparing to move in. Mr. Pocock had put up a stove in the house preparatory to moving his household effects, and had started a fire to heat the structure. It is supposed the chimney was defective, as the fire broke out in the upper apartments, and the interior was soon a mass of flames. Very little insurance was carried on the house.

C. P. C. RECEIVE SWEATERS AT ASSOCIATION MEETING

Jamie Reid and Jean Simpson Entertain Large Audience.

WITH CLEVER NUMBERS.

A large and enthusiastic crowd filled the Canadian Legion Hall to capacity on Saturday evening, when they heard the well-known Canadian Scot, Jamie Reid, versatile artist and character comedian; and Miss Jean Simpson, character contralto, in a program that has not been excelled in this city.

Hon. G. N. Gordon, chairman for the evening, on behalf of the Peterborough and District Football Association, congratulated the executive on such a representative attendance being present. He was accompanied on the platform by President Vincent Stewart, P. and D.F.A.; Mayor Denne, who acted in capacity of chairman when Mr. Gordon was called away on business; ex-Mayor Holloway, Frank Clark, who presented the Clark shield to the association; William Cooke, Fred Sutcliffe and Stroyan Leith, all members of the executive.

Auspicious Opening

Miss Jean Simpson, attired in full Highland costume in the tartan of the Stewart dress plaid, opened the program with "Angus Macdonald," in which the voice produced the characteristic points of the song to perfection. The last verse carrying the martial spirit to the audience that compelled her to respond with another song in "Hundred Pipers." The audience showing their appreciation with an unabated applause.

Jamie Reid's initial appearance took the assembly by surprise when he appeared on the platform dressed in characteristic dress to sing "Mackay." The lilt of the song introducing the spirit of merriment and the dialogue in between his verses producing laughter untold. To satisfy the desire, in an encore, he sang, "Toddling Hame."

Phelan Cup Presented

On behalf of the Rev. Father Phelan, who had been sadly bereaved during the week, Mayor Roland Denne presented the new Phelan Charity Cup, which he hoped would be able to get finances through the games played in years to come. Fred Sutcliffe, accepted the trophy on behalf of the P. and D.F.A. "It is nine years ago," remarked the acceptor, "since I first accepted the old cup from the Rev. Father Phelan, and I sincerely regret his unavoidable absence through the death of his brother. In that period, we have been able to hand over to the charitable institutions in this city between five and six hundred dollars. With the further aid of your support, let us all encourage the new executive to carry on the good efforts of the past and I feel confident that the P. and D.F.A. will be a great asset to the city."

Tom Westwood was presented with the new cup in place of the old trophy, which will be returned to the donor as a souvenir.

In the next appearance of Jean Simpson, she appeared in a fashionable dress of Old Ireland, and sung a song of that country in "Old Ireland." Her encore being, "The Low Jaunting Car."

Two entirely new characters were given by Jamie Reid in the "Tramp" that went off without a hitch. This was followed by another excellent make-up in "Life on the Rolling Sea."

Vincent Stewart, on behalf of the P. and D.F.A. thanked the audience for the splendid support that had been given the players and the ruling body during the season. Enumerating other activities, he desired that they turn out at the general meeting and appoint their new executive for the incoming season.

Ex-Mayor Holloway confined his remarks to the benefits to be derived from the activities of sport and wished the company the compliments of the season.

Sweaters Presented

Mayor Denne and ex-Mayor Holloway, on behalf of the association, presented the winners of the local soccer league, Canadian Packing team, with sweaters as follows: J. Cross, J. Willshaw, W. Grant, W. Rickard, W. Downer, C. Griffin, R. Preston, A. Beggs, J. Buchan, A. Downer, H. Mann, F. Wade, A. Bromley, N. Downer and T. Foster.

For his valuable service during the year, the association presented the secretary, Stanley Gillespie, with a Dunhill pipe.

To the amusement of the audience, Jamie Reid appeared in night attire to still further carry the hilarity to the height of perfection that was interspersed with local jokes on prominent members present. He finished with appropriate rhythm.

As an encore he responded with "Chin Ching Chinaman" that carried character with it and still further added to his list with a sentimental song.

Miss Simpson then delighted the crowd with her rendering the favorite "The Bells of St. Mary." As a feature of the evening, she sang "Coming Through the Rye."

The final appearance of Jamie Reid demonstrated his versatility when he sang "Rio De Grande," dressed as a cowboy. Then gave "Granny's Rowan Tree." Also a favorite song that he sang in London, England, when he topped the bill at the Alhambra Theatre.

The artists concluded the evening performance with a duet that was a fitting climax to the two and one-half hours of rendition. The audience responding with continuous applause, after he had personally thanked them on behalf of himself and his partner for entertaining such a highly educated company of his twenty-five years' experience.

Aussies 376 Runs For First Innings

ADELAIDE, Australia, Dec. 15. — (C.P.)—The cricket test match between Australia and West Indies was continued to-day. The Australians completed their first inning for 376. Owing to the remarkable bowling Scott of the West Indies team the five remaining Australian wickets produced only eighty runs to-day. Scott took four wickets for no runs in nine balls. West Indies began their second venture to the wickets eighty runs behind and when play closed for the day they had scored 203 runs for seven wickets. Grant, who scored 5 not out in the Tourists' first innings, was again a mainstay, being 50, not out.

CRIME PICTURES WORRY CENSORS

Only 17 British Made Films Submitted to Board Out of 2,022 in 1929.

ACTION NEEDED.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 15. — The number of films purporting to reveal or depict gangster and underworld life in the "Big City" has given the Board some concern," states the annual report of the Ontario Board of Motion Pictures Censors, submitted to Hon. E. A. Dunlop, Provincial Treasurer by the chairman, J. C. Boylen.

According to the report, Canada, more so than any other British country, is becoming increasingly dependent on United States motion pictures. Only 17 British made pictures were submitted to the Board during the year out of a total of 2,022 film subjects.

"Scenes in detail of the commission of crime and acts of lawlessness," continues the report, "not only offer constructive suggestions to break the law but tend to create the impression that such conditions are normal and justice can be flouted.

"Promiscous use of firearms, not only in gangster films but in those portraying contemporary domestic life tend to make such films unsuitable for this country where the carrying of a weapon is an offence and where confidence in the law is such a thing that the citizen is unarmed," the report says.

65 Films Rejected

Of the total of 2,022 films submitted, the Board rejected 65 outright, and approved 486 after deletion or revision. Pictures classified as universal entertainment numbered 208 and 1,828 were sound or talking films.

"With the advent of the talking film, English speaking countries form the greatest market," the report says. "The British Empire appears to be the only unorganized portion of that market with British production practically confined to Great Britain.

"But the Mother Country, as well as the Dominions receives her main supply from the United States, the organized and most compact portion of the English-speaking market. If British production and distribution is ever to be anything more than an ideal, concerted action on the part of the British nations is necessary," the report adds.

WINDSOR CUTS DOWN HERDS' LEAGUE LEAD

Bulldogs Take 7-4 Decision From Indians in Overtime Decision.

TECUMSEHS LOSE OUT.

Brothers Negotiating For Services of Eric Pettinger From Senators.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 15. (CP)—Canada first is the motto of Windsor Bulldogs who are rapidly overhauling the Buffalo Bisons, leaders of the International Hockey League. A week ago Mickey Roache's well balanced Buffalo team held a six point lead, but after the results of this week-end's scheduled of four games had been reckoned the Bisons' commanding lead had dwindled to two points.

The Bulldogs walloped last season's champion Cleveland Indians, 7 to 4, in an overtime contest in the Ohio City Sunday night. London Tecumsehs however, did not fare so well, losing to the cellar-occupants, Syracuse Stars, 3 to 2, on Sunday. The night previous the Stars lost to Cleveland, 3 to 1, while Pittsburg downed Detroit Olympics, 3 to 1.

Windsor gave the Cleveland fans something to think about in the overtime period of their struggle with the Indians. The teams were deadlocked four goals-all at the end of the regulation playing time. Less than three minutes after the start of the extra frame, however, the Border City team took the lead when Frank Duncan scored on Earl Robinson's pass. Then "Baldy" Northcott clinched the game with an unassisted goal four minutes later and added another for good measure in the last minute of play.

Want Pettinger

Failure of the Tecumsehs to beat Syracuse was a disappointment to Manager Roy Brothers who is negotiating with Ottawa Senators of the National League for the services of Eric Pettinger, utility forward. He had hopes of securing Bill Touhey, centre player, but the Senators cannot see their way clear, to part with him, it is understood.

A last period rush by the Stars gave them victory over the Londoners. The score at the end of the second period was one-all. Harry Connors put the Tecumsehs in front early in the final frame but Markle and Brown chalked up a goal apiece to give the Stars their fourth victory.

The Yellow Jackets of Pittsburgh are now but one point behind Detroit and Cleveland as a result of their sparkling triumph over the Olympics. Goals by Whitey Fields and Freddy McGuire in the last half of the third session brought them the win.

The Indians proved far superior to the Stars in the Saturday game at Cleveland. A marker in each period enabled them to garner a three goal lead before Syracuse entered the summary in the last few minutes of play.

Curlers Preparing For Coming Season

Curlers are eargerly anticipating a continuance of thep resent cold snap and are digging out their 'stanes and besoms', toward the fast approaching day when they will be able to commence practice. The rink was flooded this morning, and is holding a good bottom, subsequent floodings will be carried out just as fast as the weather will permit and it is quite probable that curling will get under way at the latter part of the week. It all depends upon the weather!

LINDSAY JUNIOR SCHEDULE DRAWN

Home Games on Mondays Will Not Conflict With Intermediate Fixtures on Friday.

The junior schedule for the Lindsay group was drawn up at a meeting held last week in the Scugog town. On looking over the schedule it will be noticed that all home games fall on Monday, except one which comes on Wednesday. In this way the two schedules, Intermediate and Junior, will not conflict with each other, as the Vics play all their home games on Friday. The first home game for the juniors will be on Monday, January 5, when the Midgets entertain the lads from the Cataract Village. The schedule really starts on December 26, but both Bobcaygeon and Fenelon Falls asked for home games in Christmas week, and their request was honored by the local representative.

Four Home Games.

In the schedule, which follows below, all home games are marked with an (x). The first game is to be played in Bobcaygeon on December 26 and the last scheduled tilt is to come on Monday, February 2. This means that Lindsay fans will see at least four home games here this winter, and if the locals should cop the group they will see two more in the home-and-home series which decides the winner of this group and the Peterborough St. John's, Peterborough C.I., Havelock and Lakefield group. In the local group, the team winning the most games will be the representative in the group play-offs.

The schedule:

Friday, December 26—Lindsay at Bobcaygeon
Tuesday, December 30—Bobcaygeon at Fenelon Falls.
Monday, January 5—(x) Fenelon Falls at Lindsay.
Friday, January 9—Lindsay at Bobcaygeon.
Monday, January 12 — (x) Fenelon Falls at Lindsay.
Friday, January 16 — Lindsay at Fenelon Falls.
Monday, January 19—(x) Bobcaygeon at Lindsay.
Friday, January 23—Fenelon Falls at Bobcaygeon.
Monday, January 26 — Bobcaygeon at Fenelon Falls.
Wednesday, January 28—(x) Bobcaygeon at Lindsay.
Friday, January 30 — Lindsay at Fenelon Falls.
Monday, February 2—Fenelon Falls at Bobcaygeon.

Shell Discharges Into Brain of Hamilton Youth Before Guests.

DYING IN HOSPITAL.

HAMILTON, Ont., Dec. 15.— Roy Griffiths, 25, is reporter dying in a hospital here with a bullet wound in the head. According to information given police Griffiths was demonstrating a trick with a loaded revolver before a party of guests.

He placed the gun to his head and slowly twirled the Chamber, pulling the trigger as he did so. The guests were amazed at his apparent skill. Four times he pulled the trigger without result, but the fifth time the firing pin slipped, and the gun discharged the last bullet into his head and through his brain.

Police found Griffiths lying on the floor, unconscious and the revolver clasped in his right hand.

Corroborative stories were told by the guests at the party and after questioning they were allowed to go. Later a charge of breach of the Ontario Liquor Control Act was preferred against Russel King.

MRS. G. WHITFIELD RE-ELECTED HEAD OF SPRINGVILLE W.M.S.

Society Holds December Meeting at Home of Mrs. A. Hunter.

RECEIVE REPORTS.

SPRINGVILLE, Dec. 15 (Examiner Correspondence)—Mrs. George Whitfield was re-elected president of the W.M.S. of the Springville United Church at the December meeting held at the home of Mrs. A. Hunter, recently.

A touch of the Christmas spirit was lent to the meeting in which Christmas hymns were sung and the scriptural lesson which dealt with the birth of Christ.

Mrs. A. Hunter, who so graciously consented to present the entire Study Book, "Fruits of Christian Missions in Japan" dealt in her usual splendid manner with the latter half of the second chapter. She told of Nushema, the criminal, who was educated in the United States, pardoned by the Japanese Prince and returned to Japan to preach and to do great work in his home Church—the church attended by his parents, of Honda, the politician and first bishop of the Japanese Church and of Miss Kitter, of the Dutch Reform Church who was the first to begin work with the women. This woman's movement has advanced with great strides, but the laborers and farmers have as yet not been reached, being of too conservative a nature.

Reports Received

Reports of the year's work were received from the officers, the secretary reporting a membership of seventeen, three life members inclusive. The treasurer's report showed a balance to date of $198.91, the allocation of $175 having been reached. Other reports were also encouraging.

Mrs. M. Johnston was in charge for the election of officers all of whom were returned by acclamation. They are: vice president, Mrs. J. Grandy; Mrs. M. Johnston, secretary; Mrs. A. Hunter, treasurer; Mrs. E. Kelk, Associate Helpers' secretary; Mrs. H. Young, assistant; Mrs. S. S. Staples, Missionary Monthly secretary; Mrs. William Whitfield, Strangers' secretary; Miss A. Brown, Supply secretary; Miss H. Whittingdon, Stewardship and Finance secretary; Mrs. Moyer, temperance secretary; Miss A. Brown, pianist; Mrs. H. Young, assistant pianist.

Ladies' Aid Meets

Mrs. William Whitfield, treasurer of the Ladies' Aid, read a detailed report of the finances of the year 1930, at the meeting on Wednesday, showing a favorable balance on hand to start the new year.

The decision was reached that the new church tablecloths be cut and hemmed and sent to the laundry. Mrs. Whitfield was appointed to buy tablespoons and Mrs. Johnston will buy large plates for church use.

A vote of thanks was unanimously extended to Mr. and Mrs. M. Johnston and Mrs. Johnston, Sr., for drying the feathers saved from the geese used for the fowl supepr.

At the close of the meeting, light refreshments were served by the hostess, to whom a hearty vote of thanks was expressed for her hospitality.

JUNIOR INSTITUTE PRESENTS CONCERT

Pleasing Program of Vocal and Instrumental Music in Havelock Town Hall.

HAVELOCK, Dec. 15. (Examiner Correspondence)—A splendid concert, consisting of instrumental and vocal solos and duetts, a forty-five minute playlet, and a Christmas pantomime, was held in the town hall on Wednesday evening, Dec. 10, under the auspices of the Junior Institute.

The program opened with a chorus "Deck the room with holly", by all the girls. This was followed by a short address by the Chairman, Rev. Mr. Archer. Mr. Archer congratulated the young people on their work, and the object in view, that of distributing Christmas cheer to poor families in the neighborhood.

The second number was a solo by Miss Elfreida Pincombe, which was greeted by a great deal of applause. Miss Pincombe responded with another number, also well received.

Mrs. G. F. Creates gave two splendid readings, with her usual ability These two numbers were well received, and greatly appreciated. The next number was a pianoforte duet by Miss Gladys Anderson and Edna Haig and was well done. Kidnapping Betty was next on the program and kept the audience in kinks of laughter throughout.

Miss Jean Anderson as Betty was a typical modern Miss. Don Buchanan as the not to be reconciled lover, was very good, and Madalin Armstrong as his adoring sister was also good. Frank McLaughlin as the irate parent was perfect in the part, Marjorie Pencombe as maid, and Fred Rutherford as the hired boy made the most of small parts. The play was very humorous, and well done, and much enjoyed. Evelyn Leng as "Sally Perkins" the spinster in love with the hero, was a scream.

A sailors chorus was next, in which Frank McLaughlin was the smiling men.

sailor and was surrounded by nine girls in the regulation midday and skirt, who sang "All the nice girls love a sailor," dancing as they sang. The last number was a Nativity tableau in which the holy family, shepherds, angels and wise men were very realistically enacted. This was really a beautiful number; the costumes were loverly. While the traditional star was leading the wise men to the manger, Mrs. P. C. Howard sang Noel behind the scenes. A spot light in the gallery, operated by Grant Seeney, threw a subdued light on the figures. They were represented by Miss Katie Bannon as Mary, J. R. RESIDENTS PLAN CHRISTMAS TREE

Yuletide Parade to be Held in Havelock on December 23.

HAVELOCK, Dec. 15 (Examiner Correspondence).—At an informal meeting of officers of the Recreation Club, the Village Council and Havelock business men Thursday, it was decided to hold a Community Christmas Tree in Havelock this year on December 23.

A huge Christmas tree has been erected on the lot, at the corner of Oak and George streets, just east of the post office. This tree will be electrically wired and decorated with numerous colored lights. A parade will be held, in which all are invited to participate. It is understood that prizes are being offered for the best house decorated in keeping with the season. The celebration is designed to furnish the Christmas cheer to poor families in the district. Quite a sum of money was spent last year by the Recreation Club for this purpose, and it is thought that with the assistance of the business men and the Council this year's celebration will be on a much larger scale.

It looks easy to feed sheets of paper into one of the swiftly running presses . . . and it is easy. But it requires a trained eye to spot faults. Our pressmen take an intense pride in the quality of their work, and we make certain of this also by holding them to only one kind of work — "Good Printing."

CONFESSION

well. But it was on Wednesday night that he first came on the scene of the drama. At a mind-reading show staged at Beechy, in which he asked members of his audience to put questions to him mentally, a man named William Taylor concentrated on the local mystery of McLachlan's disappearance.

Without wording the question, Gladstone answered Taylor: "The man you are thinking of was murdered. There was foul play, and the body will soon be found." On Saturday, the elderly "wizard" as they now call him in the Beechy district, took up his promise to solve the mystery. With the permission of the police, Gladstone visited the McLachlan homestead. When he entered the barn, according to those who were with him, he sniffed, and remarked: "There has been a killing here. There is a dead body somewhere near here." To his companions he explained later that his reaction was mental, and not olfactory. The party started back towards Beechy, having learned that Schumacher had driven into town with friends to bring back gasoline for his car.

Almost Ditches Police Car

On the road the police car, in darkness, was almost ditched as a truck without lights came towards it, driven by Schumacher. Constable Charles Carey, who was at the wheel whipped his machine around, halted the other car, and Schumacher was asked to come back to town to discuss further the disappearance of his former partner.

At the little police detachment office in Beechy, Schumacher was closely enterrogated.

Eventually breaking into tears and voicing pity for the situation of his wife and baby, Schumacher admitted the killing and undertook to show the officers next morning where the body had been buried. He told the officers that he and "Scotty" partners on the farm, had frequently quarrelled.

On the morning in question, he said McLachlan attacked him with a scoop shovel, and he in self-defence struck back with the fork.

The body was buried under a large pile of straw and manure, close by the barn where the killing took place.

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. 19 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Of the scores of savages who had leapt upon Tarzan, a single warrior managed to escape the horde that had overwhelmed his people. This one was Mugambi, the chief. Only the keen eyes of the ape-man saw him disappear into the tangled forest. Leaving his pack behind him, Tarzan of the Apes pursued this single survivor of the ferocious fight.

He saw the fleeing black, making with headlong strides for a war-canoe drawn well up on the beach. Noiseless as the fellow's shadow Tarzan raced after the terror-striken savage. Before he could strike a blow in his own defense the black was hurled to earth, while a giant's iron fingers closed about his wrist. "Who are you?" asked Tarzan in the language of the West Coast.

"Mugambi, Chief of the Wagambi," replied the black. "I will spare your life," said Tarzan, "if you will promise to help me leave this island." "I will help you," answered Mugambi. "But now there will be none to work the paddles." Tarzan allowed his prisoner to stand up. A magnificent specimen of manhood, the fellow was a black counterpart of the white man.

"Come!" said the ape-man. They could still hear the snarls and growls of the feasting pack and Mugambi hesitated. But Tarzan forced him to come along. Soon they were in full view of the grisly spectacle upon the beach. At sight of the two men the beasts now looked up with angry growls, but Tarzan strode in among them dragging the trembling Mugambi with him.

TWO BIG EVENTS ARE SCHEDULED FOR THIS WEEK

Examiner Dance and Midnite Show in Aid of Relief Fund.

TWO THRILLS IN ONE.

There is just one thing we are all concerned about in The Examiner offices these days. Are we going to have a good crowd for our dance on Tuesday night and is there going to be a good attendance at the Midnite Show at the Capital Theatre on Thursday night?

Can you imagine anything better than combining fun with virtue? Two thrills in one. Here you have a chance to dance or play cards through a whole evening, or else go down to the theatre and see a splendid program of pictures and new reels, with vaudeville stunts on the stage and old-time, favorite music by the Cheerio Entertainers, and at the same time help along the work for the needy people of your own city.

The members of The Examiner's Social Club are doing everything possible to make their dance a success. The Canadian Legion Hall is one of the best in the city for the purpose and is being donated free for the occasion. Dancing will commence at nine o'clock and there will be door prizes for the event. The Examiner is giving all advertising and tickets, etc., free.

In the upper hall, away from the sound of the dance, cards will be played with special prizes. Bridge tables will be on one side of the big hall, and euchre on the other. All who enjoy cards may be sure of a pleasant evening.

Then there is the Midnite Show which Manager Stewart of the Capitol Theatre is putting on for relief work in the city, in co-ope ation with The Examiner. One of the best programs of the year will be given, with a little bit of everything in the way of entertainment; a special comedy picture entitled "Crazy That Way," special news reels and short features; the Cheerio Entertainers on the stage, playing mouth organs, violins, banjos and piano, and an additional vaudeville stunt.

And the draw for the Peter Robinson Chapter's doll and cake will be made by R. M. Glover, at the Midnite Show.

IN MEMORIAM.

HARPER. — In memory of Isaac Harper, who passed away Dec. 13, 1925.

Five years have passed and gone
Since one we loved so well
Was taken from our home on earth
With Jesus Christ to dwell.

The flowers we place upon his grave
May wither and decay,
But the love for him who sleeps beneath
Shall never fade away.

Our lips cannot tell how we miss him,
Our hearts cannot tell what to say;
God alone knows how we miss him
In our home that is lonesome today.

—Ever remembered by Wife and Family.

A feature of the program for the Midnite Show at the Capitol Theatre next Thursday night will be the draw for the Christmas cake and doll, by the Peter Robinson Chapter I.O.D.E. The society is now selling tickets for these two novelties. Both are on view in The Examiner window. The doll is a pretty rose-clad lady and the cake is a scrumptious looking big iced beauty. They will be drawn for by R. M. Glover at the show, the proceeds for which will be donated entirely for relief work in the city. Manager Stewart is providing a splendid program in an entirely new picture which is separate from the scheduled program of that day, and has also a number of novelty stunts and selections by the popular Cheerio Entertainers.

ANNUAL CHRISTMAS CONCERT HELD IN CONFEDERATION SCHOOL WELL RECEIVED BY AUDIENCE

Successful Affair Held Under Auspices of Home Association.

FOR CHARITY FUND.

Pleasing Vocal and Instrumental Numbers Given By Students.

The lower rooms of Confederation School were both required on Friday evening for the annual Christmas concert held there under the auspices of the Home and School Association. Before the time arrived for the program to start the concert room was full to overflowing, and those who still sought admittance were asked to adjourn to the adjoining classroom, where each item was repeated in turn. Many of the young people present kindly gave up their seats to the older ones, and joined the overflow audience. The proceedings opened with the singing of "O Canada." Mrs. H. Clare, president of the association, gave an address of welcome to the gathering, and spoke of the help and encouragement to the association. The whole object of this effort was to provide relief for families who have and are feeling the effects of the depression in trade and are suffering through the lack of many of the necessities of life. The president hoped the year 1931 would find those present had not changed in their attitude towards those less fortunate, but would continue to do their best. She then called on Rev J. L. Hughes, rector of St. George's Church, who had kindly consented to act as chairman of the gathering. Mr. Hughes reserved his remarks until the interval, and proceeded with the program:

Exercise—"Trimming the Christmas Tree," by scholars of Miss Johnson's Class.

Recitation—Ruth Farr.

Drill—Christmas Candies. Miss Garbutt's Class. In this drill the girls were neatly dressed to represent peppermint candy sticks in white with red stripes, and lollypops, in brown with large headgears of red or yellow. The soloist was Alfred Johnson, who took the part of the candy seller.

Solo—Viola Edwards.

Dialogue—"The Day After Christmas," by scholars of Miss Saunders' Class, Evelyn Ranger as Mrs. May, Audrey Russ as Mrs. Carson, James Hawthorn as The Doctor.

Piano solo—Gerald Bullied

Rose Drill—by 8 girls of Mrs. Jackson's Class. The girls in dresses of white crinkled paper, with sashes of green, carried hoops wrapped with green paper, decorated with pink roses. They kept perfect time to the pretty musical selections from the "Mikado" which accompanied them on the gramophone.

Solo with autoharp accompaniment—Viola Edwards and Frances Wells.

Chorus with action—"Topsy Turvy" scholars of Miss Saunders' Class. Much amusement was caused over this item by the apparently "standing-on-head" position, the performers enjoying it as much as the audience.

Piano solo—"A Christmas Party." Mary Parkes.

Doll Drill—Miss Johnson's Class.

Dolls representing different countries appeared in this item, which was cleverly performed by the little tots.

Negro chorus—5 boys of Miss Garbutt's Class.

Solo—Evelyn Ranger.

Exercise—"Ringing the Christmas Bells," Mrs. Jackson's Class.

During the few minutes' interval the chairman expressed his pleasure at being asked to preside on this occasion. He was sure the committee in charge of arrangements would feel gratified by the splendid attendance, showing the feeling of sympathy for the object of the concert—to provide relief. The handling of the relief for distribution was a difficult matter and required great discretion, but all seemed willing to contribut what they could to those less fortunate.

Chairman Hughes presented two prizes to the girl and boy who had sold the most tickets, Audrey Doig and Tommy Monk.

IN POLICE COURT

Six crap shooters faced Police Magistrate Langley and when the session was over were minus the "bones" and $7.25 each. The gamblers, all youths were found last Sunday rolling dice in the boat houses near the C.P.R. bridge. According to Chief Newhall more than twenty boys were congregated in one boat house, but only the half dozen were playing dice.

SMUGGLERS ROB ALIEN CUSTOMER

Victim Rescued From Strawberry Island By Tonawanda Policemen.

HEADED FOR CANADA.

BUFFALO, Dec. 15 (C.P.). — An alien whose cries reached the ears of a Tonawanda policeman and led to his rescue from windswept Strawberry Island in the Niagara River, unfolded to immigration authorities a story of having been robbed by two smugglers and abandoned in marsh lands. The alien who identified himself as Joseph Bodnar of Brantford, Ont., said he had paid the smugglers to row him to the Canadian shore, so that he would not be deported by immigration authorities to Czechoslovakia, the land of his birth. Instead of rowing him to the Canadian shore, however, the pair took him to the lonely island, threw his belongings into the river and robbed him of his money at the point of a revolver. Bodnar had left Canada and come to this country for employment. When thrown out of work, he feared deportation.

Provincial Liberal Convention Opens

MANY NAMES ARE BEING SUGGESTED FOR LEADERSHIP

Hon. George N. Gordon Looms Up as a Possible New Contender.

CONVENTION OPENED.

President Declares That Convention Will Not Be Cut and Dried Affair.

TORONTO, Ont., December 16 (By J. F. Sanderson, C.P. Staff Writer). — Preliminary business was discussed this morning when the Provincial Liberal Convention opened. Practically the whole morning was given over to striking committees, selection of chairmen and officers, and the registration of late-arriving delegates.

In the background hovered many rumors and conjectures concerning the selection of a permanent leader and the drafting of a new platform. Very shortly after Senator A. C. Hardy, of Brockville, president of the Ontario Liberal Association, opened the convention, a move was launched to diverge from the printed program and discuss immediately what was described as "the ills of the party."

Party's General Attitude.

Gordon Baker of North York, and Arthur Hawkes of Toronto, both delegates, supported a motion calling for an immediate discussion on the party's general attitude toward public questions, declaring that new ideas and ideals must be imbued in the party if it were to succeed to power in Ontario. The convention

OFFICIALS MAKE HUGE DRUG HAUL

Liner From Turkey Yields 1,090 Pounds Valued at Over $1,000,000.

PACKED IN FURS.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (C.P.). — Huge quantities of narcotics, termed at the Treasury the largest seizure ever made in the United States, have been taken on the steamer Alesia in New York Harbor.

Customs agents reported to-day it totalled 1,090 pounds, and said the market value ran above $1,000,000.

Importers of the contraband were not captured.

The narcotics were shipped from Turkey, enclosed in cases of furs that originated in Constantinople.

Announcement of the seizure was made by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, Lowman, who said it resulted from the joint work of the Customs and Narcotics Bureau.

Agents Keep Mum.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16 (C.P.). — A group of Customs officers from Boston and New York boarded the liner Alesia when it touched at Providence last week on its incoming voyage from Mediterranean ports, ostensibly to hunt for narcotics, but they gave no indication when the vessel docked in Brooklyn that their search had met success.

The captain of the vessel asserted that the tip that narcotics were aboard was inspired by a disgruntled seaman.

The Alesia formerly was the Montreal, owned by the Canadian Pacific Steamships, and was sold about a year ago to the Fabre Company of France. Its home port is Marseilles.

New York Customs officials intimated the seizure followed the discovery that a case of narcotics was missing from a commercial shipment.

Rehabilitation of Chinese Credit Have Favorable Effect on Market McFarland Says.

BENNETT KEPT BUSY.

Dinner Being Staged For Australian Minister of Markets.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 16 (C.P.)—Intense activity is marking the second day of resumption of official duties in the Capital by Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett. A series of appointments, including a visit from Sir William Clarke, British High Commissioner, voluminous correspondence, a Cabinet meeting late to-day and a Government dinner to-night to Hon. Parker Moloney, Australian Minister of Markets—all these are among matters engaging the Prime Minister today.

Nothing Definite Decided

The wheat situation is again before the Government to-day. The new manager of the Wheat Pool, John I. McFarland, is still in the city and will see some of the Ministers before his departure for the West to-night. On the possible action which may be taken conjecture continues, but certainly nothing definite in nature has been decided upon. Rehabilitation of Chinese credit would have a decidedly favorable effect on the wheat market, J. I. McFarland, General Manager of the Central Selling Agency of the Canadian Wheat Pool, said here today. Mr. McFarland was commenting on reports from Washington that the British Government had entered into discussion looking towards re-establishment of credit in China.

Prior to the serious drop in the price of silver, Mr. McFarland said, China had become a large importer of Canadian grain. "With the low price of silver, however, commodity prices became high in relation to silver," he explained, "and exports to China fell off."

Mr. McFarland said the establishment of stable Government in the Oriental Republic should have a very optimistic effect on the wheat market here.

MIDDLE OF JANUARY SET AS DATE FOR FERGUSON MOVING TO LONDON

Expects Little Immediate Cabinet Change Due to Closeness of Session.

VISITS HOME TOWN.

(By W. W. Murray C. P. Staff Writer)

KEMPTVILLE, Ont., Dec. 16. — Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, former Premier of Ontario, will proceed to London to assume his duties as Canadian High Commissioner about the middle of January in all likelihood. That is Mr. Ferguson's present intention, expressed to the Canadian Press here today.

He will go to Ottawa on Wednesday, there to be sworn into office. About three weeks will be needed, he said, to adjust his personal affairs in Canada, following which he will be ready to proceed to London.

Visits Home Town

The ex-Premier arrived in his home town by an early train this morning following a busy day in Toronto yesterday. His own resignation as Prime Minister of Ontario and the summoning by the Lieutenant Governor Hon. W. D. Ross of his successor were the outstanding events.

"Will there be any change in the Ontario Cabinet?" the ex-Premier was asked.

"I don't know," he said "I left them a pretty good Cabnet. However, I don't anticipate any imediate change in view of the closeness of the session."

Asked whether the new Premier, Hon. George S. Henry, would continue Mr. Ferguson's policies, the latter remarked that these policies had always been acceptable to his colleagues, and he presumed they would be continued.

"However, the time to talk about policies," added Mr. Ferguson, "is when you are forming a Government, not when you are leaving one."

DIET IN UPROAR OVER 'ALL QUIET'

German Captain Dubs Picture Scandal Second Only to Novel.

VOTING POSTPONED.

Berlin, Dec. 16.—Nationalist Germany's indignation at the movie, "All Quiet on the Western Front," exploded again to-day in one of the bitterest sessions the Prussian Diet has had in years. It began with a non-confidence motion against Carl Severing, Minister of the Interior, who approved the bill, and it ended in a harsh debate between members.

Ludwig Schwecht, an Artillery Captain, speaking for the German Nationalists, called the picture a scandal, second only to the publication of the German novel upon which it was based. The movie, said he, "Made the heroic plight of the German people in the World War the subject of an American business deal."

He was interrupted by cries from the Left: "That's the way it was, you hypocrite."

"The fact is," said Schweght, "two philosophies of life are clashing here. Against the pacifistic spirit of the new Prussia we juxtapose the true German spirit of Frederick the Great."

It appeared that the debate on the no-confidence motion would continue at length.

The vote was postponed to Friday.

All the work will be done in the Peterborough factory and is a pleasing announcement to make at this season of the year.

PITTSBURGH BANK YIELDS $50,000 TO SIX BANDITS

Robbery is Third Hold up of Same Kind Inside Ten Days.

TELLER OPENS VAULT.

Sawed-off Shotguns Intimidate 30 Employees of Bank and Insurance Company.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 16. (CP) — Flourishing revolvers and sawed-off shotguns, six bandits held up the Manchester Savings Bank and Trust Company here to-day and escaped with loot estimated at $50.000. The robbery was the third bank hold-up in the Pittsburgh district within ten days.

The bandits covered about 30 employees of the bank and of the Superior Fire Insurance Company, which has offices adjoining the bank, with their weapons and compelled the paying teller to go to the vault and open it. Several customers were in the bank.

Bank Just Opened

The robbery occurred half an hour after the institution opened for business. The bandits were described as young men.

G. C. Gerwig, President of the bank said the bandits had obtained about $50,000 in currency.

An attempt was made by Adam Hoffman, manager of the Real Estate Department, to go to the second floor and tell the telephone operators to call the police. One of bandits struck him on the head with a revolver and inflicted slight injuries. Hoffman made a second attempt to spread the alarm and got to the second floor, but the bandits had gone by the time the police arrived.

CONFIDENTIAL INQUIRERS URGED TO BE GUARDS FOR GRAIN MARKET

Would Track Down and Prosecute All Responsible For Irregular Transactions.

FUNDS NEEDED.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (CP)—An enlarged flying squadron of confidential inquirers to track down and prepare to prosecute those responsible for irregular transations on the country grain markets is desired by the Department of Agriculture.

This was revealed to-day when the Agriculture Department's supply bill was reported to the House, accompanied by the transcript of hitherto secret hearings of the House Appropriation Committee.

It was one of the myriad activities of the department's branches upon which experts testified. Dr. J. W. T. Duvel, Chief of the Grain Futures Administration, advocated authority for the Secretary of Agriculture to control short selling of grain by foreign governments — a consequence of the recently disclosed Russian transactions in the Chicago pit. He said it was essential to keep tab more closely on exchange brokers' and commission merchants' activities, to prevent irregularities in handling customers' accounts.

Study Grain Prices

The department's program declared it "most important" that studies of grain prices, including stock-market influences, other commodity markets, visible supply, grain movements and other factors both domestic and foreign, be extended far beyond the capacity of present organization.

Numerous cases of irregularities have already been uncovered" said Duvel, "which require further action by the department. The very nature of this work makes it essential that the department continue to take immediate action on all complaints that appear justified and to follow through with the most important cases."

The official specifically asked funds for "special investigations, mainly in Chicago and the prosecutions which will result."

BOSTON BLAMED FOR PARALYSIS

Congress Informed Synthetic Ginger Alcoholic Drink Had Its Origin There.

SOLD BY BOOTLEGGERS.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16. (CP)—Boston, congress was informed today, was the source of most of the synethetic ginger alcoholic drink which struck down with paralysis hundreds of drinkers in the central and Southern States during the year.

Dr. P. B. Dunbar, Assistant Chief of the Food and Drug Administration, informed the House Appropriations Committee of the drink's origin, adding many of its distributors were now awaiting prosecution. He testified on the agriculture department supply bill, at hearings of which the transcripts were made public to-day.

"Apparently most of it, if not all, originated in Boston," he said, "it was sent to various points, like St. Louis and Cincinnati, and the retail distribution was through bootleggers."

He declared it as a product ordinarily used to "give body to varnishes."

Hon. Geo. S. Henry Is Asked to Lead Ontario Cabinet

Ceremony of Swearing in of New Cabinet Will Take Place at Government House This Afternoon—New High Commissioner Vacates Office at Queen's Park.

Quietly and Without Formality Mr. Ferguson Placed Resignation in the Hands of Lieutenant-Governor Ross

Mr. Henry Has Been Prominent Figure in Provincial Conservative Ranks During the Last 25 Years and During the Last Seven Minister of Highways.

TORONTO, Ont., December 16 (C.P.). — A prominent figure in provincial Conservative Party ranks during the last 25 years and during the last seven, Minister of Highways in the Government headed by Premier G. Howard Ferguson, Hon. George S. Henry, farmer and business man of York County, today succeeds Mr. Ferguson as Premier of the Province.

Quietly and without formality Mr. Ferguson yesterday placed his resignation in the hands of the Lieutenant-Governor His Honor W. D. Ross. Later he left for his home in Kemptville, and on Wednesday he will proceed to Ottawa, where he will be sworn in as Canada's High Commissioner in London.

Following Mr. Ferguson's resignation the Lieutenant-Governor summoned Mr. Henry and requested him to lead the Government. Formal swearing-in of the new Premier, and approval of the new Cabinet slate, will take place at Government House this afternoon.

Holds Conference.

The Premier-elect spent several hours with his colleagues last night, re-arranging various portfolios, made necessary by Mr. Ferguson's retirement.

While the allotting of portfolios has been kept a closely-guarded secret, from well informed sources to-day, it was indicated Mr. Henry will retain administration of the Department of Highways. Hon. Leopold Macaulay will administer the portfolio of education, along with his present office of Provincial Secretary. Hon. W. H. Price and Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines, will continue to hand their departments.

It is understood two members of the Legislature, one from Eastern Ontario and one from Western Ontario, will be allotted posts in the new Cabinet, without portfolio. The names of Dr. Paul Poisson, M.L.A., Essex North, and Dr. H. A. Clarke, M.L.A., Brockville, have been mentioned in this connection.

It's All Over

"Well, it's all over," said Mr. Ferguson to waiting newspapermen, on his return from Government House. "I just went over to the Lieutenant-Governor's and wrote it out," he added, in reference to his resignation.

Later the erstwhile Premier issued a statement officially announcing his

EIGHT BANKS FAIL OVER N. CAROLINA

Directors Explain Action Taken as Precautionary Measure to Protect Depositors.

HEAVY WITHDRAWALS.

CHARLOTTE, N.C., Dec. 16 (C.P.). —Eight North Carolina banks, four in the western part of the State and four in Gaston County, either failed to open or closed their doors to-day.

Directors of the institutions explained the action was taken as a precautionary measure for the protection of depositors. "Heavy withdrawals" was given as the reason in practically every case.

The First National Bank of Gastonia, the largest of the eight had deposits of $3,066,072.11.

The other three Gaston banks, the Gaston Loan and Trust Company of Gastonia, the Bank of Dallas and the People's Bank of West Gastonia, were comparatively small institutions. The combined deposits totalled $270,-052.84.

The closing of the Bank of Franklin, in Macon County, left that town without a financial institution. The bank's deposits were listed at $416,800.

Visit Into London Is Fatal to Duck

LONDON, Dec. 16 (C. P. Cable) —How wild bird life exists within a few hundred yards of crowded Charing Cross was strikingly illustrated to-day. A wild duck flew from St. James' Park into the roadway, crashing through the window of a passing taxicab, fluttered around wildly and then with a last effort, flew back to fall lifeless on the footboard of the taxi.

The driver picked up the bird, stroked its plumage for a moment and then placing it in his tool box, drove off.

JUDGE O'CONNOR SURVEYS VALUES IN SOUTH MONAGHAN AND MANVERS WARDS IN DISPUTED ASSESSMENT

...ght Township Also Examined in Session at Millbrook.

SPENT ENTIRE DAY.

United Counties Council Referred Assessment Tangle to Judge.

(By A Staff Reporter)

MILLBROOK, Dec. 16.— Judge O'Connor's scrutiny of the assessments and real values of the taxable properties of Northumberland and Durham counties was focussed upon the townships of Cartwright, Manvers and South Monaghan at the judicial sittings in the town hall here yesterday. The progress of his evaluation continues today over the township of Cavan and the village of Millbrook.

When the council of the united counties disagreed upon the report of the three valuators who were appointed at the January session this year, Judge O'Connor was called upon to determine a definitive valuation which will be used as the basis of the equalized assessment of the two counties. His sitting are being held at Cobourg, Port Hope, Bowmanville, Millbrook, Campbellford, and Brighton, and His Honour has promised to complete his survey and report by December 31

He was assisted here yesterday by the assessors and other representatives of the three municipalities. The assessor for Manvers is Robert Halleran and with him was Deputy-reeve Charles McNeill. South Monaghan was represented by John W Moncrief, assessor, and J. W Dawson. Selecting a number of properties on each concession, and also in the unincorporated villages. Judge O'Connor compared their local assessments with the amounts registered in actual sales of these properties during the years 1928 and 1929. He also obtained the opinions of the municipal representatives as to the actual values of these properties. In other instances in which there were no registered sales Judge O'Connor compared the assessments of properties with the estimated real values as quoted by the assessors.

Manvers properties included some of the best farm lands and some of the worst, and in the latter category were both swamp and sand lands of comparatively little value ...ey apparently provided a cross-... on of the township from which ... assessment and value of the ...le township could be computed

The following are some of the sale prices, assessments and estimates of real value of properties in Manvers and South Monaghan:

Manvers Township.

Executors of Thos. Heaslip sold to T. W. Heaslip 50 acres for $1,000. Assessment $500.

Wm. Whiteside sold 50 acres to George Kerr for $2,400; no buildings; "a good price" the assessor said; assessed at $650. The rest of this property, 100 acres, sold for $2,500; assessment $900.

J. J. Hickson bought 200 acres from David B. Belch for $4,000; assessment $2,150.

Thomas Logan bought lot and house at Pontypool from Sarah Kellett for $925; assessment $300

Thos. Hart bought 50 acres along Pigeon Creek from W. H. McGill for $2,000; assessment $800

Bertram W. Finnie bought a fifty-foot lot at Pontypool from M Edna Woodle for $550; assessed at $225

W J. McMaster bought 50 acres on the fifth concession from W Taylor for $600. The assessor said $500 would be a big price. Assessment $400.

Isaiah Strong bought 97 acres at Ballyduff from Francis Porter for $9,700; assessment $1,800.

Robt. Gray bought from the Ridge estate small house and lot at Pontypool for $1,000. "Seven hundred dollars would be big money," said the assessor. Property is assessed at $300.

Sir A. Currie Lauded By Earl Of Jellico

LONDON, Dec. 16.—"No words can express the gratitude felt by the British Legion to Sir Arthur Currie and his colleagues for their kindness to members of the British Legion and their families when they arrived, as settlers, in Canada," said the Earl of Jellicoe, head of the British Legion, when he spoke at a luncheon given Sir Arthur Currie by the Empire Service League.

In replying, the Commander of Canada's war-time forces declared the question had now to be faced of what the Canadian Legion was going to do in the future. The time had come when consideration would have to be given to the means through which the great potential power of the organization could best be made to serve the interests of the country and the Empire as a whole.

Wm. Rennie sold a hotel at Pontypool to Fred Graham for $4,000. Mr McNeill said it was not worth more than $2,000, although that sum would not be replacement value. It is assessed at $600.

HIT BY MOTORIST VICTIM PERISHES FROM EXPOSURE

Chatham Youth Lies Unconscious in Ditch For 19 Hours.

COVERED WITH SNOW.

Body Still Warm Found By Telephone Linemen—Only Had Arm Broken.

CHATHAM, Ont. Dec. 16. (CP)—In a shroud of drifted snow, but still warm from the spark of life which had flickered for 19 hours, the body of Joseph Vanver was found beside No 2 highway near Thamesville late yesterday—victim of a motorist who failed to stop.

Hidden by the darkness and then when daylight came, by the mantle of snow that had fallen the body of Vanver was unseen by hundreds of motorists who passed the spot where he was run down—believed to have been late Sunday night—and exposure slowly sapped the life from him.

Dead About Hour

Examination of the body by physicians summoned after its discovery revealed he had been dead about an hour. The only injury apparent was a broken arm but doctors believe shock, possibly concussion, had stunnedVanver and that he did not recover consciousness during the 19 hours he lay in the ditch.

Parents of Vanver told police he had left the Cryderman farm at six o'clock Sunday night to visit friends.

The body was found by a party of telephone linemen under a mound of snow. Death was attributed mainly to exposure.

COUNCIL BODY SETS DATE FOR NOMINATIONS

Arrangements Made For Municipal Elections For 1931 at Campbellford.

APPROVE BY-LAWS.

George D. Whitelaw is Awarded Contract as Tender For Town Scales.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 16 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent).— The last regular meetin of the Campbellford Town Council for 1930 was held last evening in the Public Library with a full attendance registered. Mayor C. H. Davidson occupied the chair.

In regard to the matter of the insurance for the Campbellford fire brigade, tenders for this were presented by J. J. Lewis, A. L. Reindeau and Ross McLaren. This matter was discussed by the Council and, on motion, it was decided that it be referred to the 1931 body for action.

Tenders for the town scales were also received by the clerk and presented to the Council. They were two in number, one from Jarvis Boyles at a price of $218.00 and the other from George D. Whitelaw, who submitted $215.00 as his tender. It was thought that as Mr. Whitelaw had the contract last year and that everyone seemed with his work, the council made a motion letting the tender to him.

Oppose By-law

A transient traders' by-law was presented by Reeve J. M. Bygott, read three times, passed, signed, sealed and carried. This called for a license fee of $200.000. The stipulations contained therein were based on the old by-law, but brought up-to-date and made to conform with statute law.

Arrangements for the municipal election for 1931 were made per by-law which was presented and passed. This fixes the last Monday of December as the day for nominations, the place to be the Campbellford High School, at 7.30 in the evening. For the election in January the following polling places were designated: Ward 1, Town Hall; Ward 2, G. A. Kingston's office; Ward 3, Armouries; Ward 4, Henson's Shoe Shop. The appointment of deputy returning officers and poll clerks resulted as follows: 1a, W. A. Stillman, Earl Sloggett; 1b, Vince Farrel, Miss M. Calhan; 2, J. D. Cummings, W. Hume; 3a, J. Arnold, Clarence Long; 3b, Mrs. C. A. Turner, Miss Nellie Hoover; 4, Hillier Coxwell, Levi Wicher.

The rent for the booths was set at $4.00 per booth, and the salaries for deputy returning officers $5.00 and poll clerks, $4.00.

The petition of J. Jacobs and four other signees for a water main on Portage street was ruled by the clerk to contain insufficient signatures and was, on motion, received and filed. The financial statement amounting to $7,991.91, was presented by Councillor N. A. MacColl and passed.

On motion the Council adjourned until Monday, December 22, to be held in the clerk's office for the purpose of finishing incompleted business.

RAGGED AND POOR WAITING FOR AID

Examiner is Holding Big Dance To-night to Help Relief Fund.

SHOW THURSDAY NIGHT.

He was little and ragged and poor. But his small chest fronted bravely to the east wind that Mr. Jarndyce used to complain about in "Bleak House." At the back of each leg was a large hole in the stocking and his ragged sweater had no covering coat We are quite sure that his little breeches were not all they should be, either, and his shoes were nothing-to boast about.

But the interesting thing about him was his whiste and the sideways set of his small head. With his ten-year old hands thrust into ragged pockets, he strode down the street, whistling "Here We go Gathering Nuts in May." And it certainly was a cold and frosty morning.

And we knew quite well that he wasn't a little, cold, ragged boy. He was a knight errant setting out to fight an invisible dragon. He had a gay cloak over his shoulders and a gay feather in his cap and for aught we know, mayhap he had a shining sword by his side. It's the spirit that counts, anyway, and perhaps Christmas will bring something warm and nice to his house. Who knows?

If you would like to help him and plenty more like him, in this city, why not come along to The Examiner dance in the Legion Hall on Tuesday evening? Or at least buy a ticket for it. Or patronize the Midnite Show at the Capitol Theatre on Thursday night of this week.

CHARGE DISMISSED AGAINST DAVIDSON

Otonabee Man Appeared Before Magistrate Langley Charged With Criminal Negligence.

Magistrate Langley dismissed the charge of criminal negligence brought against Robert John Davidson, of Otonabee, arising from a motor accident at Lang on November 19, in which Jean Clarkson, 13, was injured. The Clarkson girl was walking across the road when struck by a car driven by Davidson. She suffered injuries to her legs.

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., prosecuted, and A. L. Elliott appeared for the defence. Several young witnesses testified that Jean Clarkson had started across the road when the car was 100 feet away and had stopped momentarily in the centre of the road. The car was moving slowly, but having struck the girl it continued on for more than 50 feet before being brought to a stop

Davidson admitted that he had not applied his brakes when it appeared that he might strike the girl, but that he endeavored to steer around her.

Magistrate Langley stated that he did not want to brand Davidson as a criminal because he had shown some lack of judgment that day, and dismissed the charge.

SINCLAIR GIVEN PARTY APPROVAL ON EVE OF RALLY

Philpott Resigns Globe Position to Contend Post—Hepburn Mentioned.

TORONTO, Dec. 16.—(CP)—On the eve of the party convention called to select a permanent leader, the Liberal members of the Ontario Legislature last night expressed unanimous approval of their temporary Chieftain, W. E. N. Sinclair, K.C.

At a caucus held in a down-town hotel, the members discussed many questions likely to come before the convention and afterwards issued a press statement setting forth their unanimous opinion that Mr. Sinclair should be made the permanent leader of the Provincial Party.

The fact that S. C. Tweed, M.L.A. North Waterloo was present at the caucus and prepared the statement to be given to the press, was taken to mean that he will not oppose Mr. Sinclair for the position of leader. He has been mentioned prominently as a likely candidate for the office.

BANDITS KILLED ON SECOND VISIT

Constable Hiding in Chicago Tea Room Shoots Robbers As They Enter.

WOMAN GIVES WARNING.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16 (C.P.).—It was so easy ten days ago to rob the Cliff Tea Room, in Chicago's loop, that a robber came back with a partner, and the loot was death.

The coolness of a girl employee frustrated the attempt and sent the pair down before the fire of Policeman Raymond Schlagel, detailed to guard the place since the hold-up of December 5.

The girl, Mrs. Ethel Rathner, assistant cashier, was talking to her husband, when she saw the men walking cautiously down the hallway of the tea-room.

"Oh, we're being held up again—and by the same fellow," she said, recognizing one of the pair.

Then, although the robbers' pistols were pointed at her, she pushed her husband through a revolving door into the kitchen, and calmly walked over to warn the patrons. One robber pursued Rathner, and was shot down by Schlagel as he entered the kitchen. The other, who had started after Mrs. Rathner, turned at the sound of shots, and went to his companion. He, in turn, was shot by the officer. Both died almost instantly.

Train Strikes Van Horses Are Killed, 18 Children Escape

TUGASKE, Sask., December 16 (C.P.). — Eighteen school children in a horse-drawn van faced death on the railway tracks near Bridgeford, when a Canadian Pacific Railway freight train killed the horses and dragged the vehicle along the rails.

All the children but three escaped unhurt. Little Annie King, Raymond Bathgate, and Harry Craig missed death by a miracle. Drawn underneath the train, they were hauled from under the caboose with only slight scratches.

The driver of the van, Walter Hogg, escaped with a broken shoulder and head injuries.

Tourist Revenue for 1929 Shows $21,367 Increase

FIGURES FOR 1930 COMPARE FAVORABLY WITH THOSE OF 1929

Total For Year Was $638,603 Against $617,236 Despite Trade Depression.

MUCH PUBLICITY WORK.

In spite of the so called trade depression the figures compiled through the Trent Waterway Association and Chamber of Commerce by the local and district bank managers show an increase in this year's tourist revenue of $21,367, over the year 1929. The total for this year was $638,603 as compared with $617,236 last year.

Such a growth in tourist revenue, which has advanced steadily since the year 1925, when such statistics were first compiled by the Association, is a reflection on the comprehensive publicity campaign which has always been fostered by these two organizations, who have never been tardy in broadcasting the fame of this beautiful section of Ontario whenever opportunity has afforded itself.

Their publicity work has been carried to all parts of the States and Canada by the medium of booklets distributed with the co-operation of the railroad companies; by the annual attendance of one of their representatives at the New York Motor Boat Show, the Cleveland and Pittsburgh Tourist and Sportsmen's Shows; through motion picture films, which have been exhibited as far south as St. Peterburgh, Florida and by radio broadcasts etc.

Increasing Popularity

The following figures of tourist monies traceable through the chartered banks of the districts show very plainly the benefits which have accrued from such extensive advertising, and demonstrate the fact that the Trent Waterway district is becoming increasingly popular as the summer playground for the people of the United States.

1925	$252,000
1926	305,000
1927	315,000
1928	507,000
1929	617,236
1930	638,603

The figures have been obtained from year to year through a questionaire sent out to the managers of the seven banks in this city, and to the banks in the following towns and municipalities: Hastings, Lakefield, Omemee, Campbellford, Bobcaygeon, Lindsay, Keene, Port Perry and Burleigh Falls. The total includes the United States currency shipped from each of these banks to the United States; the travellers' cheques cashed at these banks and the estimate of the total United States funds exchanged. It will thus be readily appreciated that these figures are only a conservative estimate, as many tourists arrive here with Canadian currency already in their possession.

Peterborough City alone shows an increase this year of $297,000. Taking the Trent Waterway as a whole, that is from Georgian Bay to Trenton the total tourist revenue was in the neighborhood of $2,500,542. The revenue derived by some of the leading towns on the system was: Lindsay $130,000; Barrie $123,000; Midland $104,000 and Trenton $68,000.

THREE YEAR TERMS.

HAMILTON, Ont., December 15 (C.P.). — Changing their previous plea of not guilty to one of guilty, Malcolm Young and Lawrence McGinnis, accused of the theft of a car, were sentenced to three years each in Porthmouth Penitentiary by Magistrate Burbridge in Police Court today. McGinnis was further sentenced to two years on a charge of escaping from the Industrial Jail at Fort William on October 10 last, the term to run concurrently with the first.

HON. G. S. HENRY IS ASKED TO LEAD ONTARIO CABINET

resignation and expressing appreciation of the confidence and friendship to the citizens of Ontario which he had enjoyed "to a degree that my utmost personal services and gratitude could scarcely repay."

Referring briefly to his duties as High Commissioner, Mr. Ferguson said he was deeply conscious of the importance of the step he was undertaking, but that the welfare of Ontario would be ever present before him in his work, hopes and aspirations for Canada and the Empire.

A practical farmer with a university degree is to be Prime Minister of Ontario. Hon. George Stewart Henry, B.A., LL.B., has spent the greater part of his life on the farm in King Township, York County, where his ancestors settled more than 100 years ago. He had been no "white collar farmer," for all his background of education, but has taken an active part in the labor as well as the management end of his farm. But he has found time for highly successful business activities as well and long continued activity in municipal and Provincial politics.

Perhaps Mr. Henry's greatest asset as he assumes the direction of the affairs of the province is his ability and experience as a business man. For a practical farmer he took a keen interest in efforts to bring the producer and consumer more closely together and cut down the cost of distribution of farm products. He was one of the active spirits in the formation of the Farmer's Dairy Company Limited, and the business experience he gained in the successful operation of this company and other concerns is certain to prove of great value to him as head of the Provincial Government.

When the leadership of the Conservative party in Ontario was vacant in 1920 Mr. Henry as one of the few members of Sir William Hearst's cabinet who retained their seats in the 1919 election was mentioned for the post. The choice of the party, however, was Hon. G. Howard Ferguson and now after ten years of service as Mr. Ferguson's chief lieutenant in opposition and in power Mr. Henry becomes Premier.

North Ireland Stock

The new Premier is 59 years old and comes from North of Ireland stock. Born in King Township, close to Toronto, he was educated in Toronto schools, at Upper Canada College and the University of Toronto. After his graduation he spent a year at the Ontario Agricultural College. He then spent a short time in a business office but soon decided to take up farming as his life work. He took over the farm his grandfather had settled when he first came from Ireland.

His first public service was on the township council and rising steadily he became warden of York County in 1909. He first entered the legislature as a member for East York in 1913 by winning a by-election and has represented the riding ever since. Sir William Hearst made him Minister of Agriculture in 1918 but his tenure of that office was short for the government went down to defeat the next year.

On the return of the Conservatives under Mr. Ferguson in 1923 Mr. Henry became Minister of Public Works and Highways. Only a few months ago in the re-organization of the cabinet the department of public works was turned over to a new Minister but Mr. Henry carried on both portfolios up to that time. During the absence of Mr. Ferguson from Ontario Mr. Henry usually became acting premier.

Under Mr. Henry's regime Ontario's mileage of paved roads has greatly increased. The first important road improvements were made before he took office but it remained for him to map out the greater part of the network of highways which now covers the Province and carry out the building programme.

While not a showy speaker Mr. Henry has a simple matter-of-fact style which carried conviction to his audiences. Invariably courteous, he seldom figures in the sharp exchanges which sometimes take place in the legislature.

Mr. Henry is married and has three children. His wife Anna Ketha Pickett was the daughter of Rev. T. W. Pickett and a niece of Laura Secord, famous heroine of the War of 1812. Mr. Henry is an Orangeman, a Mason and a member of the United Church of Canada.

He was the central local figure in the big Convention of the Ancient Order of the Mystic Shrine held in Toronto during the past summer. As head of the reception committee, Mr. Henry took an active part in the making arrangements for the convention and welcomed the delegates on behalf of the province and the local shriners.

COBOURG MUNICIPAL OFFICERS ARE RETIRING FROM POLITICS

Mayor A. R. Willmott and Mrs. E. K. MacDonald Not Running This Year.

YOUNGEST MAYOR.

(Special to The Examiner)

COBOURG, Dec. 16.—Announcement of their retirement from municipal politics by Mayor A. R. Willmott, youngest mayor in Cobourgs history, and Reeve Mrs. E. K. Macdonald, the first and only woman in Canada to hold that office featured Monday night's meeting of the Town Council.

Mayor Willmott has served six years on the Cobourg Town Council, having been elected a councillor in 1924. He was elected deputy reeve in 1928 and 1929. This year he was elected mayor and his return to that office in 1931 by acclamation was generaly conceded.

His retirement comes as a complete surprise to his friends who, however, predict that he will re-enter public life before many years.

An ex-officer of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, and with his gallantry at the front attested by mentions in despatches, Mayor Willmott, who is a prominent member of the local bar, declared that he was forced to give more time to his own legal practice. His retirement will be deeply regretted by the Cobourg Branch of the Canadian Legion as the mayor is the only ex-service man serving in the Town Council.

His worship is secretary of the Northumberland Liberal-Conservative Association and is a trusted counsellor of the Ontario executive of the Conservative Party.

Four Years As Reeve

Mrs. Macdonald, reeve of Cobourg, has served four years on the Town Council. This year she was elected reeve and became the first woman member of a County Council in Canada.

She is a daughter of the late Senator William Kerr, and a sister of the late W. F. Kerr, K. C., crown attorney of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham for 25 years until his death on June 11, 1930.

Earlier this year she was prominently mentioned for appointment to the Canadian senate, and in the recent federal election she contested the riding as Independent-Progressive-Liberal.

THROAT DISEASE TAKES 4 VICTIMS IN KIRKLAND LAKE

Between 250 and 300 People Stricken Since Infection Appeared Wednesday.

MILK SUPPLY BANNED.

Medical Authorities Pronounce Epidemic Worst of Kind Ever in Dominion.

KIRKLAND LAKE, Dec. 16—Septic sore throat is raging here at the present time. Since it developed last Wednesday, four deaths have occurred, and between 250 and 300 people are down with the infection.

Local medical authorities are inclined to pronounce the epidemic as possible the worst of its kind ever experienced in the Dominion. Raw milk is charged with being the source of all the trouble.

Dr. John M. Robb, Minister of Health at Toronto, has been in touch with the situation since its inception, and drastic measure have been taken, with the co-operation of local and district authorities, to prevent the spread of the infection.

Milk Supply Banned

Local milk supplies have been completely banned, and only milk brought in from the outside, pacteurized, and approved by the authorities, will be permitted to be consumed.

Dr. A. L. McKay, Provincial Epidemimiologist, and Dr. Andrew L. McNabb, head of the Provincial Laboratories, at Toronto, arrived here yesterday, and are working with Dr. George of North Bay, District M.O.H., to bring the outbreak under control.

Further drastic control measures are likely to be introduced if there is no immediate improvement in the situation.

SNAKE-SKIN TRADE BOOSTED.

Taking advantage of the demand in America for snake and alligator skins for women's shoes, purses and other articles, Venezuela is boosting its possibilities in that direction. Certain portions of the Orinoco River and its tributaries are literally crowded with alligators and crocodiles, according to official word from Caracas. While it is difficult to travel through the terrain, and malaria and other fevers infest these regions, the skins can be produced in large quantities. If snakes are wanted large quantities of huge non-poisonous specimens are waiting for hunters in the interior, declares the report.

WORLD CRUISE IN KETCH

Starting a world cruise in a small ship alone, three youths are now on their way from Holy Loch, Scotland, to Madera. They are D. G. Dunn, of Knck Castle, Largs, Guthrie Penman, Dumfries, both of Scotland, and M. Shackleton, of London. Their vessel is the Southern Cross, a fifty-foot ketch. The cruise is entirely for pleasure and is expected to last 18 to 24 months. Madera will be the first port of call, and the vessel will not be docked for overhaul until it reaches Brisbane, Australia. Dunn, the owner of the Southern Cross, is 23 and a graduate of Cambridge. The Southern Cross has a rating of 21 tons and is estimated to have cost $40,000. It is fitted throughout with the latest electrical devices.

WHERE HELP IS NEEDED.

One of the difficulties in regard to the distribution of Christmas relief is that of reaching families who are suffering from unusual economic conditions but who are preserving such a strict silence about it that outsiders have no conception of the actual situation.

There are many householders in straightened circumstances at the present time where some measure of relief would be of services, but not even the immediate neighbors of such families know the need.

When the bread-winner has been working only a day or two a week for months, when the little savings account put by in times of steady employment has been exhausted, the pressure of insufficient income becomes more and more severe; it is a problem for social service organizations to locate such cases and lend a helping hand over the present period of depression.

Whether the need is greater in cases like this than in other instances where there is a continual cry for help, and The Examiner would welcome suggestions from any of its readers who care to write to this paper as to the most effective way of reaching and dealing with conditions such as have been outlined here.

More fortunate citizens are ready and willing to help when they know how and where they can help to the best advantage—and The Examiner is anxious to see this willingness and readiness harnessed up to the most effective policy of Christmas relief.

MAKING HISTORIC SITES.

It is announced in connection with the road maps to be issued in Ontario next year that important historic places will be marked on these maps and these spots will also be designated by the erection of metal signs.

This appeals as a move in the right direction.

We in this province have been far too careless in this respect—perhaps because our history after all does not date back so very far and we are still too close to important events of the past to appreciate their importance and their significance.

Yet there are in every section of Ontario places that loomed large in the early days of this province, and the memory of those spots should be preserved for the benefit of our own people and of the army of tourists invading Ontario each year.

It has always seemed to The Examiner that something along this line might well be undertaken in Peterborough.

Such historic spots as the site of the landing of Adam Scott, the place where his little mill was erected, the location of Peterborough's first school, first church, and first place of business, and other spots that readily suggest themselves might be so marked that the citizens of to-day would gain at least a little knowledge of the fascinating story of the early days of this community.

The marking of Ontario's road maps gives a lead for a general recognition of historic sites throughout the whole province.

THIS MAY AFFORD RELIEF.

That was an interesting announcement the Hon. W. G. Martin, Minister of Public Welfare, made the other night to the effect that the Ontario Government proposes to provide free dental service for underprivileged children, through the medium of the Children's Aid Societies throughout the province.

The importance of early care of the teeth is now generally recognized and the extension of the many social services already furnished by the Ontario Government to include free treatment for children, whose parents are unable to pay for having the necessary work done, is a progressive step that will be appreciated.

It will be especially welcomed if it means that in the case of those communities, such as Peterborough, where free dental treatment is provided for those whose parents are not in a position to pay for it are henceforth to be relieved of the expenditure involved in furnishing this service.

With the provincial administration pressing heavily upon municipal shoulders in various fields of taxation, the suggestion that in this one respect the Ontario Government proposes to step in and lift that part of the load should be received with loud cheers in municipal circles as an indication that Queen's Park is beginning to sense the resentment that is felt in urban centres over provincial encroachments.

The free service announced by the Minister of Public Welfare is one of several very progressive steps recently taken by the new department of which he is the head, not the least important of which is the decision to establish a school for girls along the line of the boys' institution so efficiently operated at Bowmanville.

AN EDITOR TRIES HIS HAND.

We notice in the Kincardine Review-Reporter that Editor Johnson of the Mildmay Gazette knows considerable more now about cattle than he did a year ago. On July 16 the Mildmay editor in partnership with another man, bought 26 head of cattle, with the idea of fattening them for the market later on. The purchase price ran around 6¾ cents per pound, or a total of $1,250.

For a few weeks in the spring, we read, there was abundance of pasture and water, and the editor had cause to believe that there was a fairly good poundage being added each and every day to his herd. After that pasture dried up there as elsewhere, and the editor's cattle found nourishment hard to secure. Then one steer beame lame with thrush and shed his pounds at an alarming rate, while another of his playmates had some trouble with the neck. It took to worrying, we believe, and, of course, cattle that worry move toward the place where their ribs can be used for a washboard on Mondays.

Early in October 11 cattle were sold for $550; a neighboring farmer took three of them for $160, and another took five at $250. A drover came along a few days after and cleaned out their remaining nine for $408. The total selling price was $1,368, an increase of $118 over the purchase figure.

Then there was insurance, salt, pasture, interest, etc., so by the time the Mildmay editor had it all figured out he found that he and his business associate had just broken even. There were no profits out of 28 head of cattle after keeping them from early in July until October.

Of course, the Mildmay editor had other means of making a living, and in that particular he was more fortunate than a farmer who would be depending on the cattle for his income.

So there will be a little question of arithmetic to work out: If there were no profits in feeding 28 head of cattle for three months, how long would it take to pay the mortgage off a farm that depended on the cattle business?—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

TOO EASY TO SECURE.

Today there are a widow and two fatherless children in the home formerly inhabited by Officer McQuillen.

That condition has come to pass because the law in this country has been sound asleep regarding thugs riding around the country carrying firearms.

We cannot put our finger on any one concerted effort to take these vermin by the neck and snake the weapons out of their pockets.

We satisfy ourselves by a diligent hunt after a crime has been committed.

Officer McQuillen, aged 33 years, active and unafraid, was a victim of the complacency with which we view the carrying of guns in this country.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

The Examiner, whose views on this subject have been frequently stated in this column, is in thorough accord with every word of what our Stratford contemporary says.

Apparently deadly weapons can be obtained as easily in this country as groceries.

Any young fellow who thinks it a glorious adventure to go round holding up people and demanding money at the point of a gun does not seem to have the least difficulty in obtaining the firearm he requires.

There are far too many revolvers at large in this county, and while that condition pertains there will be plenty of killings, premeditated and accidental.

In several recent sessions of Parliament there has been an attempt, originating in the Senate, to bring about the adoption of legislation that would make it less easy for crooks to obtain revolvers.

For some reason or other it did not secure the support it deserved and as a result society is still menaced by gun-carrying irresponsible, many of whom do not hesitate to shoot when in a tight corner.

RECOGNIZING HEROISM.

The public mind is shocked and numbed by the awful tragedy of Thursday night in which Constable Roy A. McQuillin lost his life while in the discharge of his duty. There has been so much evidence of the desperate character of lawless gangs now roaming the country, that this young officer well knew the danger involved in challenging the fleeing occupants of a stolen car. But that was part of his day's work, and he did it with the utmost courage and efficiency.

Constable McQuillin could have shot first but that is not the habit of an officer conscious of the responsibilities of his post. His whole procedure was in accord with the course that should be followed under the circumstance. Because of this caution and regard for human life, Constable McQuillin met a hail of bullets that left him dead on the roadside.

This ghastly murder, the ending of a useful young life, is in itself a thing terrible to contemplate; but there is more to it than that. There is the bereaved widow, for whom the future is filled with gloom and sorrow. And there are the young children who do not understand. A happy family circle is broken because its head was zealous in the performance of the work required of him. Constable McQuillin gave up his life in an effort to save the citizens of Toronto from the depredations of recklessly criminal men. He died that banditry and thuggery might be checked.

The people of Toronto are not unmindful of heroism such as this. It will be their desire that this sacrifice on their behalf shall not go unrecognized. They will be agreed that this tragedy presents an opportunity to express the gratitude that is in their hearts to-day—gratitude for this additional knowledge that their police force is animated by a high sense of duty, ready to risk life and limb that law and order may be maintained.

Consequently there will be general approval of the decision of the police commissioners, meeting yesterday, to recommend that the salary of Constable McQuillin be paid to the widow until the two children are educated, and after that an amount equal to what he would receive under the pension system. There should be no hesitation on the part of the City Council in endorsing this proposal. The widow must not suffer distress; the little ones must be educated and given the chance in life that would have been provided by their murdered father.

The decision of the commissioners will be good news to the people of Toronto, especially in view of the magnificent work done by the police following the shooting of their companion. Seldom has there been so thrilling an example of team-work by citizens and members of the force in an effort—which seems to have been completely successful—to capture the criminals guilty of this cold-blooded crime, and the incident creates renewed confidence that the guardianship of the city is in good hands.—The Globe.

JEAN'S SANTA CLAUS

By JULIE ANNE MOORE

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX.

It was on Tuesday morning that Jean awoke from a long, deep sleep, yawned, sat up in bed, rubbed her eyes with the knuckles of her index fingers, and wondered if Mollie had left for the store. Then she saw that the cover had not been pulled out on Mollie's side, and that Mollie's pillow was as smooth as it had been the night before.

"My goodness!" Jean thought, alarmed. "Mollie hasn't been in at all. Maybe something happened to her.

After the events of the past few weeks, she should have been immune from minor shocks, but Mollie's nearness had been one of the stabilizing forces in her mad adventure, and to find that she had not been in her accustomed place through the night sent a little chill through her warm body.

Mollie had gone out a few minutes before seven the evening before to meet Lionel.

"This fast social life is about to wreck me, honey," she had told Jean while she dressed. "The funny thing is, I love it. We've having dinner somewhere again to-night. Going to a high-brow concert at Carnegie Hall after. Then something to eat again. They are sure great eaters, that boy and his folks. Not that they eat so much when they get it before them; but when they can't think of anything else to do, Dad says: 'Well, Mother, guess we had better get a little food now, hadn't we?'"

Jean smiled gently. "So it's 'Dad' now? You're learning to play the game even better than I had hoped."

Mollie, accepted this praise with a broad smile. "Had to honey. They're darlings, Lionel's mother and dad. And you'd think they were crazy about me. Can't move unless I go along, looks like. Think of yesterday, child. Church in the morning, Long Island in the afternoon, Town Hall last night. It's having to be at the store week days that saves me from a physical breakdown."

After Mollie had gone, Jean had written a long letter to Phillip, not so much because she was thinking of Phillip as that she was not wanting to think of Sandy. Then she had read a little, and finally, at a quarter after eleven, had gone to bed.

And Mollie hadn't come back. But surely if anything had happened, Lionel would have gotten her some word of it.

When she was dressed and ready to leave, Jean took her diary from a bureau drawer, made little crosses on two blank pages, and on the third wrote:

December 16th.

SEVEN WORKING DAYS TO CHRISTMAS. I've been neglecting my diary, though not intentionally. I simply forgot it Sunday, and yesterday I was in a fever all day. I hardly know where to pick up the loose ends. Marcia's death has aggravated all the old problems and introduced some new ones so that I'm in a greater mental stew than ever. The good Lord knows I will welcome Christmas. This past week-end has been about the worst. But there's no point in putting it in the record. Perhaps I will feel more like writing to-morrow.

Jean's naive suggestion that her week-end had not been exactly quiet is hardly adequate.

After Sandy had left the office Saturday afternoon to go to police headquarters, she had sat at her desk, trying to write a report of the week's work on the Miniature Baby Plan. She had a feeling, born of hope, that Sandy might come back, or telephone.

When he had done neither at six-thirty, however, she went out to supper and, after, to her room.

Sunday morning the papers were full of it. There were pictures of Marcia and Fargeson on the front pages and columns of gruesome details. Jean took the brown section from the paper she had bought and left the remainder on the table where she had eaten breakfast The absence of Sandy's name from the headlines had given her new hope.

That afternoon she took a taxi to East 34th Street. Ellen was visiting a little girl on the next floor above. Miss Wood insisted that she would go for her, but Jean assured her she had only run in to say hello and would come back later.

Miss Wood went to the door with her. Her eyes were troubled.

"You've seen the papers, Miss Melba?" she whispered. And when Jean nodded gravely, "The poor thing's orphaned now, but I don't know but it's just as well. She was Ellen's mother, you know, the one that was up here just before you came one day?"

"Yes, I know," Jean said softly. "At least I guessed it. What will you do with Ellen?"

"My dear! What I've been doing since I've had her. Her father used to bring me money, but her mother . . . never! I've been getting along somehow. The Lord will provide."

Late Sunday afternoon, Jean went by the office; but the door was locked and her knocks brought no response. She was tempted to call Sandy at his apartment, but then decided that it would not be wise.

So she went back to the room and arrived in time to see Mollie riding off with Lionel. They sat very close together, Jean observed, and though they passed her midway the block, they were so much interested in themselves, they did not see her.

Jean was at the factory before nine on Monday morning. At half past nine she called the office and was told that Sandy had not come in. She went back to the big room where the typewriters sang and paced the floor. Ten minutes later Miss Trelling said she was wanted on the phone.

It was Sandy. Could she come to the office at once.

She went, eagerly, reluctantly; hoping, but afraid.

"You've seen the papers?"

Jean nodded. It was the first reference to the subject uppermost in their minds in the five minutes that they had been talking.

"I haven't been arrested as yet," he told her; "but I'm being shadowed. I had to call in half the social register of New York Saturday to persuade them against holding me as a material witness, until they could charge me with worse, of course."

"But," Jean asked anxiously, "what are they going to do? If they can't find who killed her?"

Sandy shrugged. "They're sure to charge someone with the murder. We may as well accept that. And I suppose I'm the best prospect. When they get all their information together, a clever prosecuting attorney could probably send me to the chair on the strength of it.'

Jean shuddered and turned her head quickly.

"But," Sandy said presently, "that isn't why I sent for you, Jean. I . . . Have you thought of Ellen?"

"I went out to see Miss Wood yesterday," Jean replied. "Ellen was out, but I learned what I wanted to know. Ellen never knew that Marcia was her mother."

"The point is," said Sandy, "we must find a home for her, preferably out of New York where no one will ever know."

"But you can't take her away from Miss Wood. You'd break both their hearts."

"I've thought of that. We'll have to get a home home for both, though it isn't so easy when you're dealing with an old soul as sensitive as Miss Wood is. She won't accept money unless she earns it. But I've an idea and I'm leaving the city some time this afternoon if I can manage it. I've a friend in Boston who might adopt Ellen."

"Do you mean it?" Jean cried hopefully. "But . . . but he couldn't adopt Miss Wood, too?"

Sandy smiled. "Hardly. But he could engage her as a sort of governess, or something of the kind. She can well afford it."

"How long will you be gone?" anxiously.

"I'll be back to-morrow. By air both ways, of course. Remember, however, I'm not off yet. I've the New York detective bureau to dodge before I will be able to get out of town."

When Jean had completed the brief entry in her diary, she put the letter she had written Phillip the night before in her purse, locked the door, and hurried down the stairs. She was worried about Mollie. She had to find Lionel. He would know something about her, surely.

But her exit from the hallway was simultaneous with the arrival of Lionel's car at the curb before the house, and in it was Mollie. Mollie, laughing joyously, and leaning heavily against Lionel.

Jean stared, incredulous. But Mollie popped out, kissed her, and backed her into the machine.

"Get in there, darling. We're going to breakfast. Imagine! The bride and groom got up at eight o'clock to take you to breakfast. It's our wedding breakfast, Jean. And you're the only guest. Aren't you all puffed up?"

Jean, sandwiched between them, could only grin foolishly and wonder.

"We're both a little mad just now, Jean," Lionel told her, grinning happily. "What she's trying to tell you is that we've made a fresh start."

"But . . . but when?" Jean stammered.

"Last night, silly," Mollie giggled. "It just came over me all at one that I couldn't live without him. The big palooka!" she added under her breath, giving Lionel a gentle slap on the back of the neck.

Afterward Jean wondered what had possessed her, but at the moment she didn't think. She just reached up suddenly and kissed Lionel on the lips. And the traffic so thick a false move would have meant a collision. But there was no false move, and everyone was happy for the moment.

ONLY AMATEUR SHOWS LEFT

To the Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir,—For years I have been a great lover of the theatre and frequently wondered why others similarly interested in play acting have not got together and formed a good local amateur society.

Now that the picture magnates have practically closed the doors to road shows our only hope for anything worth while is through amateur effort.

My reason for writing this is the result of conversation I had with some friends on the subject recently. I learned that there is in this city a gentleman who came here from the Pacific Coast this summer, a man with the reputation of having staged in those parts the finest amateur shows, which I believe outclassed many professional productions.

If this is so, surely we in Peterborough ought to use such talent (if available) by forming a society to start immediately after Christmas for some worthwhile theatrical presentations.

The statement was made that the gentleman in question is also an organist and choir leader but as neither of our newest organists came from the West this letter is sent in the hope of bringing the gentleman to light also the views of any others interested in this subject.

Yours for community effort,

Thespian.

To the Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir,—Many do not perceive the comprehensiveness and completeness of the redemption work of Jesus; and their edeas concerning the same are confusing. The gospel or glad tidings is the announcement of the deliverance of all mankind from death which came upon Adam and all his property on account of Adam's disobedience. The release of all from death, will in the resurreection put all on the same footing as Adam was before he disobeyed. All being released from death (the penalty of disobedience) by the resurection, will not die again on account of Adam's disobedience.

Those only who will die the second death, will be those who wilfully will not yield obedience to Jesus, after being delivered from the first or Adamic death. 'Every soul that shall not hearken to Jess shall be tterly destroyed from among the people."

It is not hard to understand the meaning of 'utter destruction.' These words are used only in reference to the second death, from which there is no resurrection. Only a little flock is on probation for 'eternal life' in this age. This little flock that makes their probation good, will be called 'the bride' and will be associated with Jesus in the udgment day of the world of mankind.' Jesus when yielding up His breath on the cross cried, 'It is finished.' The redemption of mankind from death was accomplished by Jesus giving his own perfect human life as a full ransom price for the life lost by Adam and his property. The results of that ransom price being paid seemed not only rescue from Adamic death, but the opportunity of possessing eternal life.

RELIEF WORK

To the Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir,—Apparently the City authorities have made a hard and fast rule that no single man without dependents, whatever his age or however hard he may be up against it, shall be given work, and this attitude is taken up as to public money granted for the help of every section of the community!

Now Sir, I am sure the single men are willing to go to the limit of human endurance rather than let any women or children go cold, hungry or insufficiently clad—but when we hear of men who are property owners, have been in steady work for years at good wages, whose 'children' are grown up and wage earners, being given work, can you wonder that there are bitter feelings?

The word 'unemployed' is rather loosely used. Surely it does not mean that a man who is out of work but is financially well able to carry on and to weather the storm should be considered eligible to benefit in preference to destitute single men. A better definition would be 'destitute unemployed,' which is a vastly different thing, and I take it that it was for such that this money was voted by Parliament and not for such as may be for the moment out of work but who are perfectly able to carry on; these people are not 'destitute' and would be very much annoyed if you hinted as much to them.

But the poor single men who have exhausted their savings, have not been fortunate in getting regular work and really are genuine destitute unemployed receive no consideration; their hard case is very accurately stated in your editorial of November 13.

The funds which are being so splendidly sponsored by yourselves, Capitol and many other organizations some under a totally different category—they are not monies voted from the public funds, and the single men cannot expect to receive aid therefrom, but they ought to relieve the pressure on the municipal fund and perhaps let in some deserving cases of the elder single man, though I fail to see how under existing regulation, the authorities are to discover the deserving cases—they are all refused.

They seem to have no supporters in the Aldermanic ranks—I wish some gentleman would come forward at the approaching municipal election and make this a plank in their platform. Unfortunately the single men cannot vote for them because strangely enough, they have no vote in municipal elections, although they pay direct taxation in the shape of a Five Dollar Poll Tax. That is an occasion when they cannot complain that the City authorities forget them!

I must apologize for taking up so much of your space, but I know there is considerable public opinion that these men are not getting a fair deal owing to the fact that the elderly single man's application is not considered on its merits—it is not considered at all.

Yours truly,

Fifty-Five.

What To-day Means To You

"SAGITTARIUS"

If December 16th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:30 a.m. to 9 a.m., and from 4:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. The danger periods are from noon to 2 p.m. and from 10 p.m. to midnight.

For the young on this date, there will be unusual success in sports and social advancements. For the elderly, health maintained or improved. Travel, if at all possible, which will bring success or happiness. Considerable correspondence.

The child born on this December 16th will have a modest and retiring nature, and will be inclined to withdraw within its shell, at times when it would be to its advantage to advertise its merits. It will be very honest, very sincere and very loyal. Whatever it does, will be done well.

You have a personality which can be fine, but to the world in general you are a sour, taciturn individual, doing ordinary things in ordinary ways. Your real humour, your friendliness, and your vitality is not often exhibited outside of the walls of your own home, or in front of any but your most intimate associates. An inferiority complex and a lack of ambition are both guilty of holding you back and keeping you down. You do things well enough, and have brains enough, to handle bigger missions in life, but you do not realize your own capacities. You have too peaceful a nature to make much of a fighter.

You are extremely unselfish, generous to a fault, affectionate, and dependable. There is nothing vicious or evil about your mind or spirit, and you are a clean thinker and a clean liver. You never try to shift your burdens to other shoulders, although often carrying a load for some one else. You have too trusting a nature, and are often fooled in your judgment of others' characters. You are never twice fooled in the same place, however, and you will never remain any one's permanent door mat. There will be some unhappiness, on your part, if you marry, as you are inclined to put your loved one on a pedestal. It is not easy for you to forget, and you seldom forgive a wrong from which you have suffered.

PEACE THOUGHT ONLY ILLUSION?

Swedish Archbishop Declares That Prospects Are Not Bright.

ORGANIZED CHURCH WORK.

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 16. (By the Canadian Press)—Archbishop Soederblom of Sweden, who is considered by many as a possible winner of the Nobel peace prize, a few days ago made a remarkable speech in Stockholm on the subject: "Is the peace thought an illusion?"

"Now a generation grows up," the Archbishop said, "which was not present when the powers of hell were let loose over our part of the world. Youth is the barometer of mankind. In many places it now indicates thunder and storm. We must not speak about history or peace in such a manner that youth rearts against it. But the prospects are not bright. The disarmament, which we were promised, hardly seems to lessen the implements of destruction but to give them an increasingly awful perfection. We must never forget the menace hovering over this little European humanity, justly proud but unjustly conceited over its long-time position of honor and power, now squeezed in between the armed threat of the East with the world revolution and the universal state of America with its power of youth."

Christian Unity.

As hopeful signs of peace the speaker mentioned the supernatural Christian unity formed through the organized work for peace through the churches. He also quoted the striking resolution at the world meeting of the Anglican bishops, urging every church in every nation to refuse to recognise any war unless the Government of its own country had declared its willingness to submit the dispute to mediation. A supernational order of right is now being built up through treaties between the nations to use arbitration instead of war to settle disputes. The speaker urged the peoples and the states in God's name to continue building up that structure, which, according to our Christian faith, is a continuation of God's own creation.

Selection of Books.

The Archbishop warned against the idea that anyone has a monopoly on the peace movement, since peace is too serious a matter to use for partisan interests. "Amongst the fundamental dogmas of the Christian faith is the brotherhood of all men around our great brother Christ," he went on. "In this respect there is a duty also to weed out of the school books in history everything that breathes hatred or contempt against other countries. It is our human and Christian duty to work patiently and faithfully for the seemingly impossible—for peace. The one road to peace is a narrow one, on which every human does not leave himself in peace, but takes up an implacable war against old Adam in himself and in others."

OPEN INVESTIGATION

STRATFORD, Ont., Dec. 16.—(CP)—Albert Burnett, Deputy Fire Marshall of Ontario will open an inquiry tomorrow at Seaforth into the fire which destroyed the Broderick Block Dec. 4.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND BRIEFS

A SPECIAL SERVICE TO THE EXAMINER

Directors of Gypsum Lime and Alabastine Canada Limited are meeting to-day, and the suggestion is made the directors may see fit to reduce the payment for the final quarter of 1930 to be made January 2, 1931. The company has already made three quarterly payments of 37½ cents in the current year and a decrease of 12½ cents for the last quarter will mean that shareholders will receive $1.37½ per share for 1930. In September last, Gypsum Lime and Alabastine made public offering of an issue of $1,500,000 in 5½ per cent first mortgage sinking funds. The funds were used to reimburse the treasury for capital expenditures and the result was a substantial improvement in liquid position. Earnings for the first seven months of 1930 were reported at $400,689 and making allowance for seasonal variations incidental to the company's business it was anticipated the year's total would be in the neighborhood of $850,000. Out of this the company will have to meet a portion of bond interest

Out of this the company will have to meet a portion of bond interest and provision for depletion and depreciation. The dividend of $1.50 on the ordinary shares will require approximately $635,000, leaving about $185,000 for other charges. In the past the allowance for depreciation and depletion has been quite liberal and the directors may be conservative to-day in reducing the dividend on the common stock to conserve cash assets, which in the long run might prove in the best interest of the stockholders.

The parallels are not quite exact, for the decline in commodities and in the percentage of decrease in various lines of trade, as well as in railroad earnings, have been greater in the past year than they were in 1927. One Wall Street writer believes this may permit of a more rapid recovery than occurred following the banking troubles of that year.

Comparisons are being made with the Wall Street market action in 1907, following the failure of the Knickerbocker Trust Company, and what this precedent may mean in the present situation. In the earlier period, the low average of the market was reached in November about three weeks after the bank suspension and the end of the business depression in the following June. From this it is gathered that stocks are likely to see their bottom figures this month and that the beginning of improvement in trade may be expected to be quite evident some time during the first half of 1931.

C.I.C. Meeting.

Stockholders of the Canadian Industrial Company, Limited, are meeting in Montreal to-day in a session that promises to be of more than passing interest. Earnings for the fiscal year, September 30, 1930, were down considerably from those of the preceding year and early in in the fiscal period directors found it necessary to discontinue dividends on the ordinary shares. Then there was the airing of the company's affairs in the course due to the estate litigation so that further light will probably be spread on the company's operations at to-day's gathering.

In the last fiscal period net earnings of $523,7770 contrasted with $2,073,977 in the preceding year and, after payment of dividends of $415,307 against $1,661,136 in 1929, there remained surplus for the year of only $108,462. The printed report did not include any remarks by the management as is customary with most other companies and it is anticipated the chairman will make a rather lengthy address which is bound to be followed by discussions. Banking difficulties among some of the smaller institutions in the United States is said to be the reason for the selling. A portion of it has been distress and other institutions are understood to have decided to lighten their loans against securities and do a bit of window dressing in order to finish the year in the best possible cash position. Corporations are said to be doing likewise in turning a portion of their investments into cash. The stock markets gave a better performance in early trading to-day with the list inclined to be steadier and prices rising above the extreme lows of Monday. Liquidation in Wall Street was said to have come from institutions and corporations with the idea of improving their cash position before presenting their balance sheets for 1930 to shareholders.

PIVOT STOCKS BREAK THROUGH TO NEW LOWS

International Nickel, Noranda and Gypsum Included Among Declining Issues.

OIL SECTION REACTS.

Ford of Canada Offers Resistance to Selling, Rising to 21 Mark.

TORONTO, Dec. 16 (CP) — The drive against security prices resumed in the second hour to-day, though lacking the intensity of Monday when the index was driven down well below the previous low for the year. At the opening to-day leaders recovered from last night's final prices, due to short covering and some investment buying. These orders soon were cleared, however, and pressure was again applied with the result that several of the pivotal stocks broke through yesterday's lows. International Nickel, Noranda, Gypsum were included among these latter, Nickel selling at 14¾, Noranda at $12.40 and Gypsum at 12.

Oils reacted after opening higher but B. A. Oil, Imperial and Supertest at midday still retained a slight advantage over last night. International Petroleum and McColl and Canadian oil were lower.

Ford of Canada again offered strong resistance to selling, rising to 21 for a small gain. C.P.R. recovered less than a point, Service Stations made some headway and the steels and foods were steady and firmer.

Brazilian, while not quite down to yesterday's low, nevertheless was off from last night. Massey-Harris equalled yesterday's low of 10⅛.

LOWER PRICES MINING LIST

Nickel off Another Half While Noranda Holds Steady at $12.50.

LINDSLEYS FIRM.

TORONTO, Dec. 16 (CP).—Though the list appeared to be making an effort to recover from early weakness, the mining market again displayed a predominance of recessions at mid-day to-day. Some forced selling resulting from weakness of the past week or so was evident in the first hour but this was fairly well absorbed.

Further declines in the price of copper were reflected in the base metal issues. London quotations for all metals continued the decline and the New York price was reduced to 10.80 export with Customs Smelters offering copper at 10 cents. Large producers are still out of the market, however.

International Nickel, at $14.50, was off another half and Noranda just holding at $12.50. Hudson Bay lost 15 to $3.85, while Abana, Amulet and White Lake eased a point each. Falconbridge dropped 5 to $1.20, but other Lindsleys were firm, Sherritt Gordon even showing an advance of a couple when taken.

Hollinger dropped to $5.90 for a loss of 10 while Teck Hughes recovered 5 to $5.45 and balance of the gold producers held steady. Vipond and Big Missouri off a point apiece, showed the only change in the lower-priced golds. Mining Corp. and Gem Lake were somewhat firmer.

Acme Gas recovered fractionally, Chemical Research was up 9 and interlisted oils were firmer. Home Oil lost 5 to $1.75, Ajax Oil and East Crest 3 each and Nordon a cent to 49.

COURT REMANDS FARM LABORER

Albert E. Pitchey, of Oakwood, Faces Charge of Passing Bogus Cheques.

WORKING IN MARIPOSA.

LINDSAY, Ont., Dec. 16 (Special to The Examiner).—In police court this morning, Albert C. Pitchey of Oakwood, alias Sam Netley, was remanded for two weeks on his own request for forgery. He was arrested last night by Provincial Constable Nelson for passing forged cheques. He has been working in Mariposa as a farm hand for years. Police claim he forged the name of Gordon Ferguson for $25.00 and James Thorndyke, a garage man at Oakwood, cashed a cheque for $10.00 for him; he then endeavored to cash a cheque at the Bank of Commerce at Little Britain for $35.00, using the name of Henry Aldridge. The banker became suspicious and informed the police. All he would tell the police was that "I needed the money and I didn't need it." He is an immigrain but has been in Canada for over thirteen years.

MAKING PROGRESS

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 16. (CP)—Hon. William Finlayson, Minister of Lands and Forests, who is convalescing in the Toronto General Hospital, from an operation for appendicitis, is reported to be making favorable progress. It is not known definitely when he will leave the hospital.

Barriefield Woman Succumbs to Burns

KINGSTON, Ont., Dec. 16. — (CP)—Mrs. Charles White of Barriefield, who was seriously burned when escaping from her burning house early on the morning of December 1st, died early this morning in the Hotel Dieu hospital, from the effects of the burns and shock.

Mrs White and her family were barely able to escape from their little house at Barriefield when the fire broke out, she having to run through the path of the flames to get outside. In doing so Mrs. White sustained serious burns about the face, neck and head.

FURTHER CUT COPPER BUYING

Expert Price Drops to 10.80 Cents Per Pound Following Period of Dull Buying.

SOME MARGIN CALLING.

TORONTO, Dec. 16. (Special to the Examiner.)—Though some margin calls were sent out last night as a result of the steady decline in base metal stocks during the past week, brokers report majority of accounts in good shape to weather the present uncertain conditions. Selling was in evidence, the opening of the mining market but these appeared to be fairly well absorbed in the first hour and while trade died off, prices showed a tendency toward renewed firmness. Another copper cut in the export price to 10.80 cents per pound follows a period of dull buying and is taken as indication that the 12 cent level established immediately following the agreement to curtail output was premature. Buying in New York is reported to be very small with Customs Smelters willing to sell copper at 10 cents delivered to the end of May. The larger producers are almost entirely out of the market, most of them having sold output fairly well ahead previous to the international conference. According to reports to a loca brokerage house from Timmins the difficulties met in initial operation of the new Dome mill are being overcome rapidly and it is expected production will be running normally at 1,500 tons by the first of the year. Gold figures for November and December will be scanned carefully for signs of the effect of Dome output on the Porcupine total.

The report is again received from the west that Coast Copper Company has been finding ore carrying high gold values at depths between 1,400 and 1,600 feet in its old sport mine in the northern part of Vancouver Island. Nothing official on the subject has come out, but visitors from the coast report unusual interest is being displayed out there in the development.

A further campaign of drilling has been arranged for Waite Ackerman and will go forward immediately. There is understood to be every indication the present ore reserve plus the provision for the new shaft, will make the property an important factor in future output of Noranda Smelter. The grade of ore is such that shipments could be made at any time on a profitable basis, but the view is held the company will benefit more by deferring production until such time as metal prices improve.

FOUR BANKS FAIL TO OPEN

GASTONIA, N.C., Dec. 16 (C.P.)—Four Gaston County banks failed to open their doors to-day, leaving only one financial institution in this textile city of 20,000.

STANDARD OIL DROPS 3 POINTS

New York Market Again Feels Oppressive Weight of Heavy Commodity Prices.

INDUSTRIALS DOWN.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16 (C.P.)—The stock market again felt the oppressive weight of heavy commodity prices to-day, after showing an inclination to advance in the first hour.

Strength of pivotal industrials was soon spent, as oil and miscellaneous issues again dragged the list down, and by early afternoon many prominent issues were off 2 to 5 points to new bottom prices. Trading was in only moderate volume, diminishing substantially from the turnover of the previous session.

Standard Oil of N. J. was conspicuously heavy, breaking about 3 points to a new low since 1928, closed to 46. Its 1929 low, recorded in February, was 48. Texas Corporation lost nearly as much, recording a new minimum for the present shares. U. S. Steel sold up 2 points only to drop back to new low ground. Canada Dry broke 4 points on reduction of the annual dividend rate from $5 to $3, and Coca Cola lost 7.

Copper prices fell back further. Copper Exporters, Inc., reduced its price ½cent to the basis of 10½ cents a pound domestic, and some custom smelters offered the metal at 10 cents, only ⅛ cent above the 34-year low touched a few weeks ago.

Credit conditions were a little easier, presumably reflecting the Treasury overdraft in connection with its quarterly financing. Call money held at 2½ per cent at the loan desk, but some was available outside at 2 per cent.

STOCK MARKETS BREAK BADLY

New York, Montreal and Toronto Exchanges Are All Affected To-day.

A very violent break took place again on the New York and Toronto stock markets at the close to-day. Dozens of new lows were made, Nickle reaching 13⅞. American Can 104¾, A.T.T. 173½, U.S. Steel 134½, Westinghouse 89, General Motors 32, C.P.R. 36½. There should be a short covering rally some time to-morrow but a sustained upward turn does not appear to be in sight.

Opening on a weak note, the leading industrials on the New York Stock Exchange, fluctuated fitfully, during the morning and closed in a discouraging manner, a great many of them dropping to unprecedented levels.

Steel, which opened hopefully at 138¼, dropped 2¾ points on the day's transactions, while Am. Can. struck a new low at 108 3-8. Likewise Allied Chem. suffered a drop on yesterday's closing price of 5 points. To-day was a day of real smashing, and to the seasoned speculators it is regarded as something in the nature of a climax.

DRUGS COME UP IN MURDER CASE

Major Shepard Testifies His Wife Used Narcotics and Feared Going Insane.

DRANK ON HONEYMOON.

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Dec. 16 (CP) Major Charles A. Shepard testified to-day in his trial for the alleged poison murder of his wife, that Mrs. Shepard was a victim of alcoholism and narcotics, was morose and had expressed fears of becoming insane.

In taking the witness stand in his own defense, the army medical officer, a former resident of Belleville, Ont., who is charged with having poisoned his wife so he would be free to wed Miss Grace Brandon, young San Antonio stenographer, related a story of futile efforts to break his wife of the liquor habit which, he said, had marred their married life from the time of their honeymoon in 1916.

His was the first mention in the trial of narcotics.

Shepard testified that he discovered a few months before Mrs. Shepard's death at Fort Riley, Kas., in June, 1929, that she was using narcotics.

At the time of their marriage Mrs. Shepard was a nurse in a Los Angeles Sanitorium with which Shepard was connected.

Shepard said they drove to San Diego on the honeymoon and there he smelled liquor on his bride's breath.

Shepard told of serving in the Philippines and of efforts to prevent his wife from drinking in the islands.

home early this forenoon, told newspapermen waiting outside. "His condition is grave."

In description of his illness, the Paris press uses the expression hemiplegia, that is, a paralysis which affects one lateral half of the body.

The former President's kidneys have not acted since last Saturday, producing an affection and some uremia, while a noticeable hardening of the arteries has developed When he was first attacked on Saturday there were evidences that a small vein connecting the brain was rupturing, but Dr. Boidin relieved his patient by bleeding him.

Among the distinguished personages calling on him to-day were M. Tardieu, Doumergue, President of the Senate, the Prince of Monaco, former President Millerand, former ministers and other officials.

MID JANUARY SET AS DATE

thing is the promotion of closer trade contacts with the other parts of the Empire and with the Mother Country. The necessity for extending that trade is all important."

Mr. Ferguson was asked if he had any comment to make on a newspaper report which recently stated that he had "forced Mr. Bennett's hand" with respect to demanding that Canadian constitutional amendments, particularly the repeal by the British Parliament of the Colonial Laws Validity Act, be submitted to the provinces before the Dominion Government acted.

"I don't know what is meant by forcing Mr. Bennett's hand," he said. "But the situation is that this confederation came into being by the agreement of the four contractive Provinces, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec and Ontario. The constitution then drawn up in the British North America Act has several times been amended, these amendments being of a minor character. The provinces were not consulted on these.

Wrote Bennett a Letter.

"But when major amendments are sought, then the parties to the contract must receive consideration. This was the attitude of Mr. Taschereau and Mr. Tolmie. Last session of the Dominion Parliament and in the last days of the session, this resolution of the 1929 conference was submitted to Parliament with very little opportunity for discussion. I then wrote a letter to Mr. Bennett enclosing a memorandum of the situation as I have outlined. This was printed and distributed to the members of the Imperial conference. I don't know if you could call that forcing anybody's hand but these are the facts."

The former Premier will to-day go to Spencerville to attend an executive meeting of the Grenville County Conservative Association.

"Just to say good-bye and find out how things are going in the country," said Mr. Ferguson.

He recalled that it was on January 26, 1906, that he was first elected to the Ontario House.

"I was born on Waterloo Day, June 18," he said, 'and my political life began on another fine anniversary—the birthday of Robert Burns."

EAST ANGUS, Que., Dec. 16.—An outstanding figure in the newsprint industry, Joseph A. Bothwell, for many years president of Brompton Pulp and Paper Company and more recently a director of St. Lawrence Corporation which now includes Brompton, died here to-day.

Mr. Bothwell, who was 80 years of age, had been connected at various times with many other paper and lumber companies in Canada and the United States. He was president of Brompton Pulp and Paper Company until the formation in the spring of 1929 of St. Lawrence Corporation, which absorbed Brompton, St. Lawrence Paper and Lake St. John Paper.

He had not been in the best of health for the past two years and last summer underwent a serious operation at Montreal. He gradually failed and death occurred this morning.

A former Mayor of East Angus, Mr. Bothwell had been a Liberal in politics all his life. He is survived by his widow and one daughter, Mrs. Douglas Hyndman of Three Rivers.

POLICE AFTER HOLD-UP

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 16. — Two local police have left for New York to escort back for trial here, "Sunny" Lass and Jack Geller, alias O'Brien. The men are wanted for a payroll hold-up here some months ago. In addition, charges have been preferred against them in Orillia. It is also claimed by police that Western Ontario authorities want O'Brien for questioning in connection with a murder near London.

WHEAT SITUATION

Minister of Markets will probably be private. Premier Bennett plans to be present with his Ministers, and the function will be ended in time for Mr. Moloney to entrain to-night for Toronto. Last night, the Minister from the Antipodes was entertained at Government House by His Excellency and Viscountess Willingdon. The Cabinet will sit into the early evening and at its conclusion the Prime Minister and his colleagues will have to hasten to the dinner to Mr. Moloney.

Two Mentioned For Vacancy.

The death yesterday of Judge Blaise Letellier at Quebec City creates a vacancy on the Superior Court bench for the Quebec district. Two names are mentioned for the appointment—Emile Jelly and Aime Dion, both practicing law in Quebec City.

Rumor continues to associate the name of C. E. Neill, of the Royal Bank of Canada, Montreal, as the likely appointee as English-speaking representative for Quebec Province on the Canadian National Railways directorate to be named shortly. If Mr. Neill does not accept, it is suggested that Guy Tombs, Montreal, may be appointed.

Canada's new High Commissioner to London, Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, will take his oath of office here Wednesday. Mr. Ferguson will be in the Capital to see Premier Bennett Wednesday morning.

WORKMEN ON DAM

a few days ago, and his visit was followed by the dismissal of the derrick runner, fireman, and the steam shovel operator. As a protest against this action, the thirty-two men put on the "walk-out" demonstration, and it was immediately intimated that not one of them would be re-engaged. All but one laborer on the dam "downed tools" when the walk-out was proposed.

The men then asked for their wages, but they were informed that they would have to wait until the company's regular pay day. Had they been discharged they would have been entitled to immediate settlement. A deputation waited on E. A. Peck soliciting his intervention, but the men did not receive their money until Saturday.

MANY NAMES ARE

turned down the motion, preferring to abide by the printed program and take up matters of policy in their agreed upon order.

Many rumors were afloat regarding the selection of a leader. Hon. G. N. Gordon of Peterborough loomed up as a possible new contender for the position and the same rumor had it that M. F. Hepburn, M.P., West Elgin, would retire from the contest. Elmore Philpott, Toronto newspaperman, renewed his declaration that he would permit his name to go to a vote, while another possible contender, S. C. Tweed, M.L.A., North Waterloo, announced he would not oppose W. E. N. Sinclair, K.C. Mr. Sinclair has been temporary leader since 1923.

In opening the convention, Senator Hardy declared it would not be "a cut and dried affair." He hoped, in fact, it would be rather radical in nature and that all question of policy would be discussed and treated on their merits.

Senator Hardy read a message of greetings from Rt. Hon. W. L. M. King, Dominion Liberal Leader, in which he expressed the hope the convention would give rise to a new Liberalism in Ontario.

Joint Chairmen

Senator George P. Graham and Col. Andrew T. Thompson of Ottawa were selected as joint chairmen of the convention, with Miss Gertrude Ranking of Stratford; J. J. Duffus of Peterborough, and Joseph Bradette, M.P., North Temiskaming, as Vice-chairman.

Great care should be exercised, Senator Graham said, to see that the permanent leader and the new policy were in line and harmony. The convention should keep this in mind when approaching either question, he said.

It was when Sam Factor, M.P., West Centre, Toronto, made a routine motion calling for the printed program to be followed, that the amendment was introduced calling for immediate discussion on the question of the party's ills. Both Mr. Baker and Mr. Hawkes stressed the need of "getting down to immediate business" and of formulating a policy that would be in harmony with post Liberal accomplishments in Ontario.

"The state of the Liberal party should receive our attention before anything else," declared Mr. Hawkes. "We had a fighting Liberal party in the past and we should discover why we have lost that trail, the party is not up to date."

The party, he said, needed "courageous leadership" to lead it back to power. In recent years it seemingly had been "afraid to talk and expound the principles of Liberalism." It had been "cowed and afraid to declare its face." All that should be changed, he declared, and he believed the convention, before proceeding to any other matter of business, should debate the problem and define a remedy. When the amendment was placed before the convention, however, it was voted down.

In welcoming the delegates to Toronto, Kenneth Christie, President of the Toronto Men's Liberal Association, said the election of Sam Factor as a Liberal member of the Federal House from Toronto was merely a beginning. He predicted further inroads in the Conservative phalanx at the next election.

HINDU-MOSLEM RIFT CONTINUES

Failure to Patch Up Difference Casts Shadow Over Conference.

PROTESTS FROM INDIA.

LONDON, Dec. 16 (By George Hambleton, C.P. Staff Correspondent).—The failure of the Hinus and Moslems to patch up their differences continued to-day to cast a shadow over the proceedings of the Indian Round-Table Conference. It had been hoped that the intervention of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald would result in finding a middle way, but this hope has been disappointed. The impasse between the representatives of the two great Indian communities continues, and until some solution is found, the conference is not expected to make much real headway.

Reactions in India add to the difficulties. Suggestions that either side might yield a little are followed by a flood of telegrams of protest from India.

The conference plans to meet tomorrow in committee of the whole, to receive reports. Adjournment over Christmas will probably be only a short interruption. The Indian delegates are planning to return home in the middle of January.

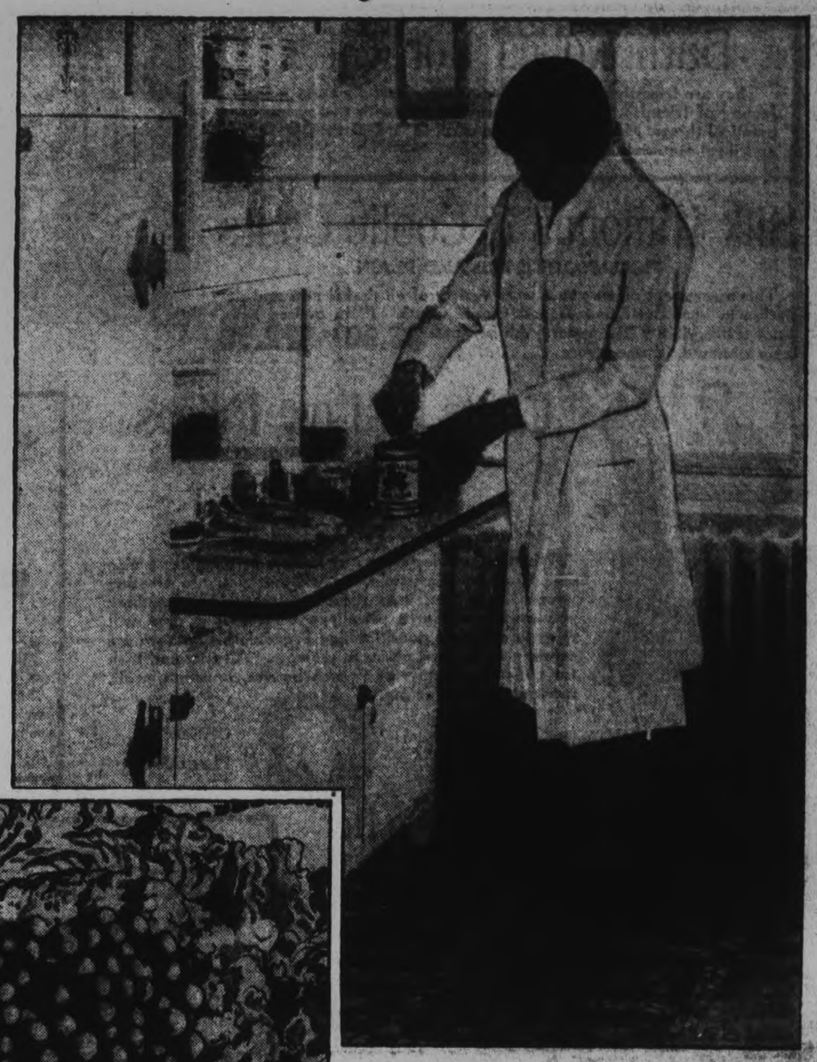
Now... A Famous Canadian Dietitian tells you a tasty new way to serve CLOVER LEAF SALMON

HELEN G. CAMPBELL
director of Chatelaine Institute, Toronto, suggests menu with her favorite salmon recipe.



"There are many ways to prepare Salmon for tasty salads and sandwiches for bridge luncheons, afternoon teas, children's school lunches and the main dish for week day meals," says Miss Campbell. "The recipe I particularly favor, however, is Moulded Salmon Salad prepared this way:

MOULDED SALMON SALAD

1 can of salmon
½ cupful of chopped celery
½ green pepper, chopped
½ teaspoonful of salt
¼ teaspoonful of paprika
2 teaspoonfuls of lemon juice
Few grains of cayenne
Boiled salad dressing

"Remove the skin and bones from the salmon and shred. Mix all the ingredients together, using enough salad dressing to moisten.

Pack into a wet mould and chill thoroughly. Loosen the edges with a knife, and turn out on to a bed of lettuce. Garnish with green peas. A very attractive salad is one made in a ring mould, and the centre filled with green peas."

"When served with Luncheon menu suggested below, it makes a delightfully balanced meal:

Cream of corn soup
Cheese crackers
Moulded Salmon Salad
Hot biscuits
Pineapple mousse
Fancy cakes
Coffee."

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—Australian and Argentine reports of adverse crop conditions, together with 1,621,000 bushels United States wheat visible supply decrease, tended to lift wheat yesterday. Corn acted oversold, and rose sharply at the last, responsive to brisk demand from previous speculative sellers spurred on by wintry weather and prospective curetailment of receipts.

Wheat closed irregular, from a shade net decline to 1¼c gain; corn, 1⅜c to 1⅞ up; oats at ⅜c to 1½c advance, and provisions from a 2c setback to a rise of 10c.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, December 16.—Sharp rally from the all-time low marks reached on Saturday featured wheat trading here yesterday, and at the close values ranged 2¼c to 2⅝c a bushel above the record break of the previous session.

Unexpected strength at Liverpool and buying by export houses were the paramount factors in the upward trend which was manifest right from the start yesterday. At the high point for the day the price advance was 2½ cents a bushel above Saturday.

Houses with foreign connections were the chief buyers during the session, and all offerings were well taken.

Sentiment appeared more friendly and it was thought that the greater part of the spread between here and south had been taken off so much, that additional pressure of this market from that source is not expected.

There was a general demand for cash wheat, but light offerings held the volume down. Export sales of Canadians over the week-end were estimated at 1,000,000 bushels

Actual sales of coarse grains were not large, but exporters confirmed some export business in barley. There was a little foreign interest in rye.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, Dec. 16—The butter market showed a slightly stronger undertone yesterday for the first time in many weeks. Previously the news has always indicated a downward trend, but yesterday, probably due to the sudden cold spell, buying was stimulated to a considerable extent, and stocks of good No. 1, at 29c and No. 2 at 28c, were cleaned up, and sellers were taking a higher view on trading. The market for the day was more in the range of 29c to 29¼c for No. 1, and 28c to 28½c for No. 2.

Some brokers have probably been making odd sales at the higher figure before, but the better buying feeling has not been so pronounced for some little time.

Cream

Cream quotations were steady, with previous offerings at 31c for special, 30c for No. 1, and 27c for No. 2 f.o.b. country points, and with the better outlook for butter it is likely that the steadiness will prevail.

Cheese

Cheese prices to country shippers were level with previous quotations at 13c to 13¼c for new large, 13¼c to 13½c for twins, and 13½c to 13⅝c for triplets, but new cheese was cheaper to retailers at 15½c for large, 15¾c for twins, and 16c for triplets.

Eggs

Prices for ungraded eggs, delivered, cases returned, were unchanged at 45c to 47c for extras, 40c to 42c for firsts, 35c for pullet extras, and 28c to 29c for seconds. Fresh seconds were scarce, and were not being quoted to the trade by some of the larger dealers. Retailers were offered extras in cartons at 52c, extras loose, 50c; firsts loose, 45c, and pullet extras loose, 43c.

ENEMY PROPERTY AWARDED TO U.S.

Supreme Court of Canada Settles $1,000,000 Great War Dispute.

BONDS OF CANADIAN ORIGIN.

OTTAWA, Ont., December 16 (C. P.). — A legal conflict as to the possession of approximately $1,000,000 worth of alien enemy property seized during the Great War was resolved yesterday in a judgment of the Supreme Court of Canada in favor of the alien property custodian of the United States when an appeal by the Secretary of State for Canada was dismissed.

On the entrance of United States into the war, the Government of that country seized a quantity of shares and bonds in the possession of German Nationals. The securities were of Canadian origin, and the claim was made by the Secretary of State as Canadian custodian of alien enemy property that the shares and bonds should be turned over to Canada. Chief Justice MacLean of the Exchequer held that the securities had been properly attached by the United States custodian and that judgment was upheld yesterday in the Supreme Court.

WOLF HUNTERS HAVE HARD LUCK

Peterborough County Greatest Breeding Ground For Scourge, in District, Trappers Claim.

DEER KILLED OFF.

LINDSAY, Dec. 16 (Examiner Correspondence).—Thomas J. Hutchinson and Aldridge Hunter, two well-known northern trappers, who reside near Gooderham, Haliburton County, were in town a few days ago, and gave a new angle to the stories told of the wolf menace in the north. The two men had a number of wolf pelts with them. They intended forwarding them to the Department in Toronto in order to collect the bounty. They had snared seven wolves, but four of them had broken loose from the snares, two of them had been stolen and one had died in a pool of blood while trying to bite her way to freedom.

Four or five packs of wolves roamed about their property and their howls during the night hours would melt the marrow in the bones, the hunters said.

Mr. Hutchinson is authority for the statement that the deer are being destroyed by the wolves to such an extent that there is scarcely a fawn in the country. Some time ago he noticed the carcases of thirty deer in an area about eight miles square.

Mr. Hutchinson contends that Peterborough County is one of the greatest breeding grounds for wolves in this district. The reason for this Mr. Hutchinson points out, is because it is against the law to snare wolves in that county. The ban on snaring in Peterborough County was put into effect, he claims, because certain influential hunters had their dogs trapped on different occasions. The wolves are multiplying rapidly in the north because it is difficult to shoot them, poisoning is prohibited and they are becoming wise to the snares.

Because "the extra cost would be out of all proportion to any educational advantage which might accrue," Northern Ireland has decided not to oin Britain in the raising of the compulsory school age limit from 14 to 15.

EATON GROCETERIAS ARE AIDING IN BRINGING RELIEF TO NEEDY

Christmas Cheer Baskets Are Being Offered For Sale.

PREPARE SPECIAL HAMPERS.

Eaton Groceterias have enlisted with the local relief corps —those organizations and individuals which are working so unselfishly to see that every needy home is provided for during the Christmas festive season.

While local merchants have always co-operated to the fullest extent in relief promotions, Eaton Groceterias bring a new and unique feature with their "Christmas Cheer Baskets" They bring the general public directly into active participation..

Prepare Special Hampers.

The plan simply is this. Eaton Groceterias have prepared a special Christmas hamper containing groceries to the value of two dollars, packed in a carton. This amount represents the actual cost of the groceries in the basket to The T. Eaton Company, Limited, of which the local groceteria is a unit. No profit is made. Customers simply give a two dollar bill, handing it in with their name and address to the Eaton Groceteria, receiving a receipt. Eaton's prepare the box and forward it to a prominent, undenominational local charity, who deliver it to deserving homes which are in want. Your donation will be acknowledged by Eaton's and by the local relief institution which is handling the distribution.

Several reasons prompted Eaton's to make up these Christmas Cheer Baskets. It is recognized that many people who would gladly do their bit in helping the relief work along and who are in sympathy with the efforts, are lax in sending donations, partly because of the inconvenience, and sometimes because they do not know where the donation is to be sent Eaton's Christmas Cheer Baskets eliminate these difficulties

The baskets themselves have generous contents. They consist of: ½ pound of Palawan black tea, 5 pounds of rolled oats, 5 pounds of sugar, one jar of orange marmalade, 4 pounds of white beans, one pound of butter, two loaves of bread, one peck of potatoes, seven pounds of flour, one tin of condensed milk, ½ pound of mild Canadian cheese.

Eaton's feel that the need is urgent. William Butcher, local manager of C.D.S.L. Stores, said today: "If the suffering and actual destitution that is being experienced by an unfortunate part of our community could be realized by the average citizen, there would be no need for further appeals for aid. It is time for concerted action and relief organizations will welcome any donation you may care to make either food or fuel, clothing or money. I believe the way our company has opened up for citizens will prove of great help."

LAKEFIELD DELEGATE READS TORONTO CONVENTION REPORT

Women's Institute Members to Carefully Study Addresses.

SEVERAL SPEAKERS.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 16 (Examiner Correspondence). — Mrs. Amberson Davis, president of the Women's Institute, gave a splendid report of the recent convention at the regular meeting held on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Davis urged a study of the printed report of the convention which will be sent to each member and which repays careful study.

"Besides the excellent reports of the officers and the convenors of the various committees there were addresses by the Hon. T. L. Kennedy, recently appointed Minister of Agriculture and Mr. Fairbairn, the deputy minister who gave the very appropriate slogan, "Hats off to the past, coats off to the future." Addresses were also given by the Hon. W. G. Martin, and by the Rev. Canon Cody who spoke of the Women's Institute as one of the best service clubs in Canada and said the future of agriculture in Canada lay with the junior farmers and girls. Sir Joseph Flavelle like many other gentlemen ignored the women and addressed himself to the young girls, however he addressed the women later on the Ontario Research work which is a worthy object, very near his heart.

Mrs. Davis also attended the Royal Winter Fair and was greatly impressed with it all including the magnificent flowers, the beautiful stock and the horses which were particularly well worth seeing.

Mrs. W. J. Charlton gave a very appropriate reading, "Home" which began, "It takes a lot of living in a house to make it home," and stressed that it is the experience of joy and sorrow, pain and trouble and good times which continue to make a real home which grips one's heartstrings.

The presence of Mrs. W. M. Graham after an absence of twelve months was a feature also and Mrs. Graham received a hearty welcome after her recent serious illness. She thanked the Institute for the remembrances received during her illness.

THE BUYING OPTIMIST

By Alice Michaelis

PROGRESS?

In ages past, long, long age,
Man sallied forth to meet his foe
With weapons made of sticks and stones,
And thus they broke each others' bones.

His knowledge grew with mature years,
From bronze he fashioned crude like spears
'Gainst fellow man to match his wits,
And cut each other into bits.

Again we find, as time went on,
A suit of armour he would don,
On prancing steed with battle axe.
Would meet his foe with deadly smacks.

In recent years it must be stated
We're more advanced and cultivated;
And so when war besets the nations
We plan wholesale annihilations.

To quibble facts means to evade
The truth; best call a spade a spade.
In times of war that raze and ravage
We find that man is still a savage.

The modishly cut gored skirt makes this model distinctly unusual. Incidentally the tapering movement of the upper edge of the gores in rounded outline is very slimming.

It features the becoming cowl neckline that also minimizes the breadth through the bodice. The sleeve frills are pretty.

The original model in dark green crepy woolen with novel ring dots is perfectly stunning and wearable too.

Style No. 2842 may be had in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

Black canton crepe with white accents in the sleeve frills and in the gardenia at the left shoulder is chic.

Transparent velvet and crepe marocain are charming for this model.

Size 36 requires 4¼ yards 39-inch.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D

MEAT A NECESSARY FOOD FOR MOST PEOPLE.

When it was found that overweight could be a serious hindrance to health to the point where the life insurance companies charged higher rates to overweight individuals, it was only natural that efforts would be made by those interested to reduce their weight.

This was a sensible act. However, when the craze came along for "slimness", then reducing became a bigger danger to health than overweight. And it was our young women particularly who went to extreme lengths in reducing weight. Many of them are now paying the penalty in anaemia, tuberculosis, and the dropping downward of the abdominal organs.

Similarly when it was learned that many middle aged individuals were suffering from heart disease; hardening of the arteries, and kidney ailments, and that alcohol, meat, and lack of exercise were to some extent to blame, immediately a number of people began to cut down on meat or avoid it althogether.

Now this was all right for some middle aged folks who lived entirely indoors and took no exercise but for the rest of the family, it was a great mistake. and unfortunately it was the growing youngsters that were made to suffer.

Of course the youngsters drink milk which is an excellent food for babies and children because it is an all round food, but children who are growing and who play outdoors need more protein in their food because protein is Nature's tissue builder.

The starchy food is necessary to give them energy to play, but it is meat and eggs that repair the tissues worn out by the play. Children should thus have meat or eggs daily.

In institutions for tuberculoses patients meat is a big factor in building up tissue that will be able to do some work for the patient—not soft fatty tissue.

After my wasting illness meat should be eaten regularly.

Surgeons are now finding that wounds heal more quickly, in fact days sooner, where meat forms a large part of the diet.

My thought, then is that, growing children, individuals recovering from wasting illnesses, and those suffering with slow healing wounds should have plenty of meat daily.

The average man who does not work with his hands, can get along with outdoor athletics, can eat meat twice a day with benefit to his health.

TRINIDAD WANTS TO GOVERN SELF

Similar Resolutions May Be Moved Throughout West Indies.

BUILDING ORGANIZATION.

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Dec. 16. (By the Canadian Press)—Trinidad, the most southerly island of the British West Indies, wants self-government. A resolution asking for the appointment of a royal commission to enquire into the granting of self-government was moved and adopted in the legislative council, adopted by the governor and executive council, and passed on to the British secretary for the colonies.

If the British government acts favorably and appoints a commission, it is possible similar resolution will be moved throughout the West Indies. Eventually, progressive men of the Indies visualize a new commonwealth in the Atlantic.

Trinidad, with a population of 400,000, is an important producer of cocoa, sugar, and many other commodities. The capital, Port-of-Spain, is one of the finest cities in the Indies, with a population of 70,000. Trinidad with Tobago is governed by a governor appointed by the British government, aided by an executive council, and by a legislative council of 12 official and 13 unofficial members. The governor is His Excellency Sir Horace Wyatt.

Advance in Representation.

When the resolution was accepted by the executive, the colonial secretary said he was authorized to make it clear that representative government was recognized. It was the policy of the Imperial Government that crown colonies should be advanced by the granting from time to time of a fuller representative government. The government, he said, welcomed the views of unofficial members of the house and would submit the resolution to the secretary of the state for the colonies at London.

The resolution was moved in the council by the Mayor of Port-of-Spain, Captain Cipriani, who said the work and experience of Commissions such as he was trying to have appointed had been responsible for the building of the Empire. If the West Indies could do their little bit in helping to build this wonderful organization there would be a great deal for them to be proud of.

The Labor Government, in 1928, pledged to give a responsible form of Government to certain colonies when they asked for it and it was reiterated in 1930 and pressure was brought to bear on the subject by Miss Susan Lawrence in her address at the Labor Commonwealth Conference.

The duty of the people of these colonies was to demand from the Imperial Government that they live up to the pledges given. He quoted from the King's Speech at the opening of the Indian Round Table Conference. He also referred to the fact that Mr Morgan was going to bring the matter up in the House of Commons and assured the Government that similar resolutions would be moved throughout the length and breadth of the West Indies.

SINCLAIR GIVEN

meeting was being held in another and resulted in the official announcement that Elmore Philpott, a Toronto newspaperman would permit his name to go on the ballot for leader. He has been an associate editor of the Toronto Globe since 1928 and today resigned that position to participate in the contest for the Liberal leadership.

A native of Bronte, Ont., Mr. Philpott went overseas with the 23rd Battery, and won his commission on the field. He was awarded the Military Cross in the fighting near Arras in 1918, and later was wounded severely.

The third man, whose name has been mentioned prominently for the leader's cloak, is M. F. Hepburn, M.P., West Elgin. Late last night he was unable to say definitely whether he would permit his name to go to the convention, although it generally was believed he would.

Although it is believed the choice of leader rests among the three men mentioned, others have been referred to as possible candidates. The names of Arthur Roebuck, a Toronto lawyer, S. C. Tweed, M.L.A., North Waterloo; Hon. Peter Heenan and Harry Sifton have been heard in this connection. Those close to the centre of the party said last night neither Mr. Sifton nor Hon. Peter Heenan would permit his name to go on the ballot, and the fact that Mr. Tweed was present when Mr. Sinclair was endorsed by the sitting members was taken to mean he was out of the running.

Nearly 750 Present.

With most of the 750 delegates present last night, the convention proper will get under way to-day. Although he would not discuss the matter last night, it was understood Hon. Peter Heenan, former Minister of Labor for Canada, had prepared a series of "Labor-agricultural" planks to be written into the party platform. It was rumored these planks were of a type foreign to anything yet taken up by any Provincial party in Canada, and were designed to appeal both to the farming communities and the Labor voters in the cities.

Beyond saying that he had spent considerable time on the preparation of "something" to be submitted to the convention, the former Minister of Labor would not discuss his resolutions. They will be presented to-day on the floor of the convention hall.

In making his announcement that he would contest the leadership, Mr. Philpott said he intended "to urge the convention to demand the dismissal of Attorney-General W. H. Price." He charged the Provincial officer with "apathy, indifference, negligence and incompetence" in connection with the stock market crash and its investigation.

Senatro A. C. Hardy of Brockville, president of the Ontario Liberal Association, will take charge of the convention when it is called to order this morning. The two major questions of selecting a permanent leader and formulating a new platform will be settled to-day and Wednesday.

Classes in boxing for babies from two and one-half to four years old are being formed in London.

THE LOST WORD PRESENTED BY DRAMATIC CLUB

Lovely Production is Read By Mrs. L. J. Pettit of Art Association.

8 MEMBERS TAKE PART.

"The Lost Word" by Henry van Dyke, in a reading of the famous brief sketch that was illustrated by eight members of the Dramatic Club of the Women's Art Association, was the Christmas presentation by the Dramatic Club, under direction of the convenor, Mrs. L. J. Pettit, that held the interest of its audience at the Conservatory studios on Saturday afternoon.

It was a lovely production of a composition that is colored by the picturesque language of van Dyke and Mrs. Pettit read it beautifully, her well-modulated, clear tones bringing out all the charm of the story that centers about the ancient theory of the lost word of power.

As an appropriate introduction to the reading, Mrs. Pettit told her hearers a little about that ancient legend which was common to so many of the races of mankind, the Jewish in particular. They believed that many of their leaders; Moses, Aaron, Elisha and Elijah, were in possession of the secret of the mystery of the Holy of Holies, which could unlock the store of magic. They thought, as so many think, that around man is a source of infinite power and supply and that it may be tapped by the possession of a mystic word.

"The Lost Word", written by van Dyke, portions of which were read and enacted by Mrs. Pettit and her associates on Saturday, outlines the story of Hermas, a dweller in ancient Antioch, son of the proud Demetrius, master of the House of the Golden Pillars, and himself an outcast from his paternal home because of his conversion to the Christian faith.

But Hermas, tiring of the penances and obligations of the Christian belief, made a compact with the wicked Marcion, whereby he was restored to his former estate of wealth and power, but gave in return his belief in God and so lost, through a magic spell, the power to utter or remember that "Lost Word" of power.

The Wicked Spell.

Dwelling in happiness and in forgetfulness of his former allegiance to the Christian faith, Hermas and his wife, Athenais, with their lovely child, rise to the heights of success and power and then are hurled to despair by an accident which injures the child. In their grief they strive desperately to remember their obligation of gratitude to some unknown being for their former blessings, and the "lost word" returns in all its power and majesty.

It was an exquisite reading, touched with the spiritual import that lies behind the words, and the various actors took their parts admirably, appearing in brief sequences to delineate in pantomime and speech the smoothly-moving story. They were gowned in flowing Eastern robes that harmonized splendidly with the tale, every detail being considered in their attire. A simple but effective background was contrived by the use of dark green velvet hangings and cleverly-placed floor lights.

Miss Nan Parsons had the striking role of Hermas; Miss Isabel Connelly was the beautiful wife, Athenais, and little Joyce Gallegher was the dainty child. Miss S. A. Tomkins gave a wonderfully realistic portrayal of the aged and dying Demetrius, father of Hermas, in a scene that was quite absorbing in its skill, and Miss Viola Payton had a well-enacted part as John of Antioch, orator and preacher. The villainous role of Marcion was in the capable hands of Miss Viola Fusee, and Miss Maida Conner made a brief, attractive appearance as the white-gowned slave.

Madam Sifroy Goulet created a fine impression with her delineation of the part of the Singing Girl. Her voice was lovely in a song, "Harmonies of Evening," sung in French, and her appearance and acting were charming.

An effective opening to the program was the violin playing of Christmas carols; "Holy Night" and "Adeste Fidelis", by Max Warne, with accompaniments played by Mrs. T. Cruikshank. Mrs. Cruikshank also played softly during portions of the reading of the story by Mrs. Pettit.

The Christmas decorations of the studios were very attractive. Spruce boughs whose dark green branches were brightened by glistening-leaved crimson poinsettias and little wreaths of scarlet immortelle, were over the archway, the pictures and the mantelpiece, and hung from the chandeliers. On the mantelpiece and cabinet were silver candlesticks and candelabra holding tall red candles whose soft light made the illumination through the room where drawn curtains shut out the natural light. There was a large bronze bowl filled with bittersweet, on the mantel.

Mrs. C. B. Adair assisted Mrs. Pettit in the arrangement of the rooms, as we as the other members of the society.

A pleasant feature of the program w the presentation by Mrs. N. D. Seato on behalf of the Dramatic Club, of handsome floor lamp with a lovely shad to the Women's Art Association, th lamp to be used in the Conservator studios. Mrs. W. Blackwell, presider of the Association made a suitab acknowledgement in a few appropria words in her usual delightful manner.

POULTRY VOLUME FAR BELOW 1929

Only 4,054,795 Pounds in Storage Compared With 7,344,054 Last Year.

WESTERN TURKEYS SCARCE

OTTAWA, Ont., December 16 (C P.). — With the active poultry marketing season for the current year about ended, it has become apparent that marketings will not be up to the volume anticipated five or six weeks ago, says the Weekly Market Review issued yesterday by the Fruit and Poultry Marketing Service of the Dominion Live Stock Branch. At the dressed poultry fairs of Eastern Ontario the volume offered has been hardly half that of a year ago; there is no doubt the turkey crop in the West is short, the report adds. On December 1, according to the preliminary statement of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, there were only 4,054,795 pounds of poultry in storage as compared to 7,344,054 pounds on the corresponding date last year.

Manchester, England, will spend $40,000,000 on its projected underground railway system.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Are you planning to send a parcel of home made candy to the members of your family who are unable to get home? If so I have gathered together a number of recipes which may be of use to you either for gifts or for home use.

• • • • • • •

Before starting to make the candies all ingredients must be at hand. Almond paste can be bought in small cans and one can goes a long way. There should also be an assortment of nuts and vegetable colorings.

• • • • • • •

The fondant can be boiled or be the French style of uncooked fondant. For the boiled you need 3 cups sugar, 1 cup water, 1-8 teaspoon cream of tartar or omit this and add 1 tablespoon light corn syrup.

• • • • • • •

Put the water and sugar over a low fire and stir until the sugar is dissolved. Then raise the temperature to the boiling point and add cream of tartar or the corn syrup and boil hard until the candy thermometer registers 238 degrees.

• • • • • • •

As soon as it registers this remove and pour into a large platter. When it is cool enough to dent with finger pressing it, stir with a wooden spoon until it is creamy.

• • • • • • •

If it separates before it creams wet a cloth in cold water, spread over the fondant and leave for a few moments. The dampness should bring it back again.

• • • • • • •

For the uncooked fondant 2 tablespoons of rich cream, confectioners' sugar and butter the size of a walnut is needed. Pour the cream into a small mixing bowl, and gradually stir in the sugar. As this is done add the butter slightly warmed so that it will mix easily.

• • • • • • •

When the mixture is so heavy that it can be shaped enough sugar has been worked into the cream.

• • • • • • •

Which ever fondant has been used, separate it into small portions and color and flavor each differently. Orange coloring calls for orange flavoring, but use but little as it softens the fondant too much.

• • • • • • •

A simple way to make almond paste fondant is to add a spoonful of the paste to two spoonfuls of either fondant. Mix thoroughly and soften with a few drops of cream if needed. By mixing the paste with the fondant less of the former will be required and a more delicate paste fondant result.

• • • • • • •

Form pieces of the fondant colored green into wee ones, and dip them wide end into the melted coating chocolate.

CHURCHES OFFER MYSTERY PLAYS

Performances Become Fairly Common—Even Held in Canterbury Cathedral.

MANY WORKERS ATTEND.

LONDON, Dec. 16. — (By Thos. T. Champion, C. P. Staff Correspondent.)—Performances of mystery plays in Anglican churches are becoming fairly common nowdays. They have been given for instance at Canterbury Cathedral.

A striking departure in this direction is being witnessed at the Church of St. Andrew's by the Wardrobe, near Blackfriar's Bridge, where a body of semi-professional players, remaining anonymous, is performing. The play, called "The Outcasts," depicts three "down and outs" on the Thames embankment, who are attracted through acts of self-sacrifice to the cradle at Bethlehem.

The scene in which the Holy Mother and Child are revealed is on orthodox lines, but some of the earlier dialogue of the abject human characters seems somewhat startling in association with other parts of the play.

The church attracts many London business workers, including also many Salvation Army people from the nearby International Headquarters. The church derived its peculiar name because the King's wardrobe was established in the vicinity in earlier days.

Arrangements Are Made For Annual Presentation

The Women's Patriotic League of Ashburnham Will Give Play Jan. 23rd and 24th.

The Women's Patriotic League of Ashburnham which has so successfully put on for some years back an annual amateur theatrical performance, has selected January 23 and 24 next as the dates for their next show.

The proceeds from these events are all spent on labor for the work on Armour's Hill, that beautiful memorial which has become such a sight-seeing point, not only for our own citizens, but for visitors as well. This last season $966.00 was all spent on labour, and the proceeds of the coming play will be used for the same purpose.

CATHEDRAL JUBILEE MARKED.

In all parts of Germany the jubilee of the completion of the Cologne Cathedral has been celebrated in the last few months. Programs were given in large cities, and addresses by the clergy and laymen extolled the beauties of the building and outlined its history. Cologne Cathedral has been visited by Germans from all sections of the republic, who see in it Germanic creative genius Germanic courage and Germanic unity. To many it is the symbol of what their nation has been, and to many others it symbolizes what their nation may be in the future. Large throngs attended the Cologne ceremonies, and the attendance during the year probably has been the greatest in its 50 years' history.

ARCHDEACON DAVIDSON RESIGNS RECTORSHIP OF ST. JOHN'S PARISH

Congregation Favors Dr. Blagrave Being Appointed Rector of Church.

VESTRY MEETING HELD.

The voluntary offer of Venerable Archdeacon J. C. Davidson to resign the rectorship of St. John's Parish, was last evening accepted at a special meeting of the vestry, held in the Church Parish Hall, under the chairmanship of Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave, the present incumbent.

The churchwardens were authorised to pay Archdeacon Davidson the sum of $1,000 per year, under an agreement in written form to be approved by the Lord Bishop of the Diocese, by Archdeacon Davidson himself and by the churchwardens.

Rev. Dr. Blagrave took the chair, by consent of the meeting which constituted one of the most representative gatherings of St. John's vestry which has ever been held. He was supported by F. M. Dela Posse, vicar's warden, by W. R. Thompson, people's warden and G. A. Smith, vestry clerk.

In the course of a lengthy opening address Rev. Dr. Blagrave, laid bare the issues which had led to the meeting being called, handling a very delicate situation in a most commendable manner.

Following this came the reading of correspondence by Mr. Thompson, which had taken place between Archdeacon Davidson and the churchwardens of St. John's and between the Lord Bishop of Toronto. It was moved by F. D. Kerr, "that the voluntary offer of Archdeacon Davidson to resign the rectorship of St. John's Parish be accepted and the wardens be authorised to pay him the sum of $1,000 annually; an agreement to be drawn up in writing as may be approved by the Lord Bishop of the Diocese, by Archdeacon Davidson himself and by the churchwardens."

The motion was seconded by John A. Aylmer, former people's warden, and was carried by a large majority.

Following the foregoing decision, another important question confronted the meeting, namely as to whether it was their desire to have Rev. Dr. Blagrace as rector of St. John's Parish in place of the rector whose resignation had previously been accepted.

During the disussion on this question, Rev. Dr. Blagrave withdrew from the meeting, and Dr. G. S. Cameron was nominated to occupy the chair.

Dr. Cameron at the outset entered into a lengthy explanation of the circumstances under which Rev. Dr. Blagrave was induced to accept the incumbency of St. John's Parish ten years ago, and also that the resignation of Archdeacon Davidson did not automatically leave the rectorship open to the present vicar. It is a matter which is decided by the Lord Bishop of the Diocese and the wardens.

Following Dr. Cameron's address several questions were asked. It could not truly be described in the nature of a discussion; throughout, the meeting was exemplary in its character, and nothing but the broadest spirit of sympathy existed on all sides.

It was moved by W. R. Morris and seconded by Dr. A. G. Howson that Rev. Dr. Blagrave be asked to take the rectorship of St. John's Parish. On the motion being put to the meeting it was carried unanimously, after which Rev. E. R. James closed the proceedings with the benediction.

BRITAIN PUTS GIANT PLANES INTO SERVICE

Mammoth Air Liners Tested For Empire Air Services Next Year.

GREAT NOISE REDUCTION.

Estimated Weight of New Aircraft When Fully Loaded is 13 Tons.

LONDON, Dec. 16. (By the Canadian Press)—First flights of the largest passenger-carrying land aeroplanes in the world, the Handley Page Type 42, heralded incalculable developments in commercial flying. This great British airliner, with space in two saloons for 38 passengers, surpasses in size all existing land-operated aircraft. One of two marine air giants are larger, but even in nature the sea-supported creature grow to greater sizes than the biggest land beasts.

The new British giant is docile and easily controlled. Four engines, each developing up to a maximum of some 600 horsepower drive him within a few seconds to a speed at which he immense biplane's wings, the upper pair measuring nearly 140 feet from tip to tip, lift him from the ground. Laden in the fuselage with the comparatively light burden of three tons of scrap iron the craft rose in the space of seven seconds and, with the engines running at cruising speed, moved through the air at a velocity of 117 miles an hour. It was flown on various combinations of engines, the pilot throttling down to idling point first one and then another. On the ground skilful pcontrol of the engines and the use of wheel brakes enables the pilot to handle the machine as easily as small light aeroplane. In the air, safety "auto-slot" wings ensure a full range of control and assist in making landings in a restricted area.

Heavier Loads Carried.

The estimated weight of the aircraft when it is fully loaded is nearly 13 tons. The maximum speed is expected to be 129.5 miles an hour; easy cruising speed approximately 105 miles an hour. The paying load-passengers, mail and urgent freight—will total in weight 8160 pounds, an amount far greater than that borne by any other aeroplane yet built.

Comfort is a predominating note in the design. The passenger saloons attain in furnishings a standard of luxury equal to that of a pullman railcar. Two saloons, each about 17 feet long and seven feet high are placed fore and aft of the plane of rotation of the airscrews with a capacious luggage hold, lavatories and a refreshment bar betwegn them. In the aft saloon, with accommodation for 20, smoking will be allowed. In flight the wants of the passengers will be served by a steward and a stewardess. The crew handling the ship on commercial flights will consist of two pilots.

Noise Greatly Reduced.

Noise reduction previously thought impossible is gained in this big new craft. The saloons are outside the vertical plane of the airscrews and engines, which is the region where the greatest noise is heard. Further, there is no engine in the nose of the fuselage to transmit possible vibration and "Drumming" through the cabin structure; the motors are mounted in the front (or leading) edges of the wings well away from the hull. The main portion of the fuselage is constructed of metal, eliminating noise caused by the flapping of the usual fabric cover, with an inner skin of wood. Between the metal and the wood skins is a padding of sound insulating material. The floor is thickly carpeted. At full speed the passengers should experience no more noise than the first class compartments of an express train.

Eight of these huge craft are ordered by Imperial Airways for the operation of their European and Empire Services at a otal cost of more than $1,000,000. The first of the fleet should be placed in service early next year on the completion of exhaustive trials. Full complement of 42 will be carried by the aircraft operating in the west, but over the long sections of the Empire mail routes towards India and South Africa which lie in semi-tropical regions the "Eastern" type, with reduced passenger space and increased room for mails and freight, will fly.

Needed Own Cutlery On Old Ocean Liner

But Passengers Promised as Much Provisions as They Could Eat.

(Special to the Examiner, Copyright 1903.)

Dec. 16.—Ocean sailing in the early sixties in the then new de luxe full-powered iron screw steamships (also three-masted sail rigging), would not appeal to the 20th century traveller if an old sailing notice owned by Charles Heming is any criterion.

The notice announced the sailing list for 1864 of the Liverpool, New York and Philadelphia Steamship Co.'s 12 ships which carried passengers from Liverpool, England, or Queenston, Ireland, to New York city for five pounds five shillings.

Particulars of the regulations governing passage on the ships were contained in finely-printed Victorian language.

Some items were: "A liberal table will be kept for the passengers—except wines and liquors which may be had on board, there being no extra charge for steward's fees, etc.

"Passengers will be provided with berths to sleep in, each grown person having a separate berth; but they will have to provide themselves with a plate, mug, knife, fork, spoon and water can, as well as bedding—all of which can be bought by then for ten shillings or less.

"Each passenger will be provided with three quarts of water daily and with as much provisions as they can eat."

The menu would be anything but inviting to the present day traveller. "Breakfast: Coffee, sugar and fresh bread and butter, or biscuit and butter, or oatmeal porridge and molasses. Dinner: Beef or pork with soup with bread and potatoes, or fish and potatoes according to the day of the week; pudding will be added on Sunday. Supper: Tea, sugar, biscuit and butter."

Another tidbit was affixed to a list of baggage regulations: "Females will be placed in rooms by themselves. Sick persons or widows with children or lame persons cannot be taken unless full securities be given that they shall not become chargeable to the state. Dogs not taken on any terms."

CREWLAUNCH LAUNCH IN WAR.

That the Germans used in the World War an engine of destruction off the Belgian coast about which practically nothing has been revealed, was the assertion of Rear-Admiral G. R. Blount of the British Navy in an address in opening a Missions to Seamen exhibition in Leeds, England, recently. This was an electrically driven crewless launch controlled from the shore, capable of high speed and quick turning and carrying 500 pounds of gun cotton in its bow. It was designed to ram its prey. It took very skillful seamanship to dodge the craft, which could port, starboard, or run with its helm amidships and took a lot of shaking off. Warships were able to sink it with gunfire once its nature was recognized, but merchant ships were at its mercy.

ADVANCE OF ROADS SLOW IN MID EAST

However, Many Miles of Metalled Roads in East Indies.

With the outstanding exception of Java, road building has not made great progress in the countries of the Middle East, writes B. C. Butler, Assistant Canadian Trade Commissioner at Batavia, in the forthcoming issue of the Commercial Intelligence Journal. The motor car, however, is causing the Middle East countries to think more and more in terms of good roads, but in most cases they still lack anything approaching a highway system. The Netherlands East Indies alone can be said to have highways, and as mentioned above, these are found chiefly in Java, where one can travel almost anywhere by motor car. In the Netherlands East Indies there are 37,767 kilometres of metalled roads which are at all times suited for automotive traffic, and of these 18,736 kilometres are in Java and Madura, 11,237 in Sumatra, Banka, and Billiton, and 4,413 in the Celebes. British Malaya has not the network of roads that Java has. The important centres are connected, but there are many parts of the "back country" untraversed. The mileage of metalled or gravelled roads is 2,734. During 1929, 62 miles of new road were constructed in British Malaya, and many new projects of this kind are being planned. In Siam, there are no real motor highways such as those found in Java, and, except in the vicinity of Bangkok, there are practically no motor roads. However, there are many projects under consideration, but Siam is not a wealthy country and developments will of necessity be slow.

The road roller seems to be the one machine which is generally used in road building throughout the Middle East. Until recently steam rollers were employed, but sales of this type are giving place to the new-type diesel and semi-diesel engine. In cases where they are to be used at inland points, it is frequently necessary that they be light, due to the fact that the bridges are not of sufficient strength to carry heavy loads. This factor is a further deterrent to the use of other heavy road machinery, although cheap labour is unquestionably the most important. English makes of road rollers predominate, with German next in importance.

Fatal accidents in London streets number more than 800 a year.

Council Member and Delegate Appointed to Attend Ontario Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough and District Football Association took place last evening in the Chamber of Commerce Rooms with a good attendance of enthusiasts, in spite of the weather prevailing.

Vincent Stewart, president of the local board, during the past season occupied the chair. Stanley Gillespie, secretary, read the balance sheet that was accepted as printed. Thereafter the meeting appointed Sidney Whatley, president protem, for the purpose of appointing and installing the new officers for the season 1931.

Peterborough Affiliates

On the unanimous decision of all present, the Peterborough and District affiliated with the parent body—the Ontario Football Association. The secretary was instructed to forward immediately the necessary documents and finances to the secretary, Robert Muir, of the O. F. A. There were no objections to the procedure and no amendment raised.

Three Teams in Tie For Association Lead

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Dec. 16. (CP)—Three of the seven entrants in the American hockey league to-day had elbowed their way into a crowded first position. Minneapolis Millers vaulted up to a par with Tulsa Oilers and Chicago Shamrocks by defeating Buffalo Bisons 1 to 0, in a none-too-interesting game here last night.

Freddy Gordon, rugged Saskatchewan player, scored the lone goal on a pass from old Ade Johnson. Winnipeg veteran. The winning tally came just as the third period opened and a spirited rally by Buffalo before the close could not fathom the defensive style of "porky" Levine in the Millers' nets.

A BRIGHT WESTERN STAR

Hockey has probably more oddities than any other sport. One of the latest turns in the game is the case of Roger Jenkins. Roger was born in Appleton, Wis., U.S.A., but journeyed to Port Arthur when about three years old. It was there that he caught the fever for puck-chasin' and was first heard from when he stepped out with the Port Arthur West Ends of the Thunder Bay district. The following year he moved to Edmonton and was out for the Edmonton Superiors. The next season 1929-30 he played for the Edmonton Imperials. It was at the end of this season that he turned pro. being signed for Chicago-Hawks by Bill Toba. This spring he commenced his training duties with the Windy City's squad but before he had a chance to step on the ice for them he was sent to London under Roy Brothers to get more seasoning. But the amusing point of his whole career came when he played his first Pro. game during the pre-season exhibition schedule it was against the Toronto Leafs. But since Lady Luck has turned to hard luck for Connie Smythe, injuries brought him to Toronto and now it's turn about and Roger is getting his first N.H.L. seasoning with the team that he played his first professional game against. Next Saturday night the Western lad plays against his own club, the Chi-Hawks in Toronto and Mr. Dick Irvin will have the surprise of his life at the brand of hockey that Jenkins can display.

LAKEFIELD CLUB IS ORGANIZED

Curlers to Ask Rink Company For Rent Reduction This Season.

HONORARY MEMBERS.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 16 (Examiner Correspondence).—A meeting of the Lakefield Curling Club was held in the Town Hall on Friday evening for purposes of arranging for the coming season, with a fair attendance. About forty have signed up for the season and as this number does not mean that the club can meet its expenditure, a committee was appointed to interview the Rink Company regarding rent reduction. The club will meet the Rink Company this week, when it is expected that satisfactory arrangements will be made. A minute of silence to honor the memory of the late Charles Waldon—"a good curler and a good sport" was prefaced by a few words about the deceased gentleman by Dr. F. H. Lingwood.

Messrs. G. A. Welbourne and J. W. Ridpath were made honorary life members of the club.

Dr. F. H. Lingwood and Mr. J. E. Galvin were appointed to draw up a schedule.

Did you ever go "Crazy That Way?" Come and see it at the Midnite Show (all proceeds for relief) at the Capitol Theatre, next Thursday night, December 18th.

POST OFFICE ROW IN ULSTER.

Claims that practically all good post office appointments are going to Belfast men has caused heated feeling in Ulster. At a recent meeting of the Northern Ireland District Council of the Union of Post Office Workers, held in Derry, it was pointed out that since the establishment of the Northern Government only one Class 3 provincial overseer had received promotion to head postmastership. The head postmasterships of Armagh, Ballymena, Coleraine, Cookstown, Derry, Omagh, Portrush, Bangor, Holywood, Newcastle and Strabane are all held by men from Belfast. In addition other Belfast men were promoted to be assistant postmasters. Delegates to the meeting said that all claims of local men were ignored. Resolutions of protest were sent to the Executive Council of Northern Ireland.

BAND IN INTERNATIONAL MIX.

Possibility is looming that the League of Nations may have to settle a dispute over instruments of the Smithborough, Ireland, band. The British Customs authorities have seized the pieces after they had been sent to the parish priest of Rosslea, County Fermanagh. This was a sequel to the evidence given in a case heard at Monaghan, from which it appeared that the members of the Smithborough Band had a dispute, and the instruments were taken to the parish priest's home. Part of the parish is in the Free State and part in Northern Ireland. The trustees undertook to take the instruments back to Smithborough and pay the customs duty; but the British Customs authorities have them now, and are demanding duty on them, as well as a penalty for taking them into Northern Ireland by an unauthorized route.

MORE LONDON ART UNDER FIRE.

With criticisms of figures on the subway mansion still in the air, art critics of London have turned their heavy fire on the sculpture representing the "Old Lady of Threadneedle Street," which has just been uncovered on the pediment at the summit of the new Bank of England. "Hideous" and "grotesque" are some of the epithets cast at it. The figure is that of a burly woman in loose draperies, seated in a very awkward position. Her muscular right arm is beside her head, while on her lap she holds in her left hand a model of a pillared building. To her left the drapery blows out in stiff folds, resembling a wing. "She is the strangest 'Old Lady' I have seen," declares one critic. "She looks for all the world as if she had sat on a needle by accident and was rising in agony. I cannot imagine a pose less likely to suggest stability."

PRINCESS PERFECT "SITTER"

Princess Margaret Rose is a perfect "sitter," according to Richard Speaight, the Court photographer, who took the first pictures of the new princess and her mother, the Duchess of York. The baby was two months old at the time. "I have never photographed a better baby. She was wonderfully good, and is very healthy and happy," said Speaight. "The drawing-room had to be turned into a studio, which meant the introduction of powerful lights. The little Princess's eyes must be very strong, for I have never taken so many pictures of a baby with the eyes always open. Not once did she whimper or close her eyes. She has a perfect disposition. I was struck too by the quick way she seemed to 'take notice' for so young a child."

SENATORS AND AMERICANS HAVE CHANCE TO IMPROVE STANDING

Ottawa Tangles With Chicago While A's Meet Philadelphia Quakers.

PETTINGER SOLD.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 16. (CP)—Ottawa Senators and New York Americans may improve their standings in the Canadian Division of the National Hockey League to-night to the discomfiture of other teams in their group.

While the leaders, Montreal Canadiens, and the dual second place Londoners, Montreal Maroons and Toronto Maple Leafs are idle, the Senators and A's meet Chicago and Philadelphia, respectively. In the third fixture carded, Detroit encounteres Boston at The Hub.

Since Maroons have shown other teams in the circuit how the Blackhawks, leaders of the American group with Bruins, can be stopped, it is quite within the realm of possibility the Senators may secure revenge for an early season shut-out at the hands of the Windy City speed artists. Victory for the Capital City outfit will place them within one point of the Leafs and Maroons.

Dave Gill, who is now guiding the destiny of the Senators, has sold Eric Pettinger, former Toronto Leaf player, to London, and now has three well balanced forward lines to depend on to outlast the Chicagoans.

Sunday the Hawks suffered their first home defeat of the season when Maroons played a waiting game, coupled with some healthy checking, to attain victory. A double reverse on home ice may cost them the leadership of the group as their rivals for first place honors are not in the habit of losing many games before the rabid Boston fans and will likely take the lead unless the Blackhawks successfully repel the Ottawa threat.

Having held Montreal Flying Frenchmen to a tie last Saturday, the revamped Americans are expected to jump into undisputed possession of second place in their group when they entertain the last place Quakers in New York.

Eddie Gerard's team were hard pressed to beat the Philadelphians in overtime in their only meeting of the season, but having re-arranged his line-up since then and found the right combinations, if the game against Canadiens is any criterion, the A's should once more be right in the thick of the battle when the fog clears from the ice of Madison Square Garden.

Bruins Meet Falcons

Art Ross' all-star collection will be out after their eighth victory in 13 games when they meet the Falcons and having maintained an unblemished record in the Boston garden are unlikely to lapse long enough to let the Detroiters get the jump on them. Possibility of gaining the leadership of the group, should Ottawa happen to tumble Chicago, may also spur the Bostonians on, even though they have given evidences of conserving themselves more this year than last when they raced through the season to create more records than any other team in the history, only to lose out in the Stanley Cup final.

Bowling Alley Gossip
By Pin Boy

The Pontiac Warriors in the Automobile League took a real fall out of the Hudson-Essex crew this week when they hammered the maples for a four point win, and jumped into third place in the league. Miss Mills was high for the losers while W. Hickey and T. Lucas ran a close race for the high triple on the winning side.

The Ford outfit lived up to their promises by swamping the Oldsmobile quintette in a heavy hitting affair that bristled with action in this week's league crash. The winners got away to a good start when they piled up a 300 pin lead in the first game and from then on they were never in trouble. R. Hood and A. Juby were the leading wood bouncers in this duel for the Ford while Shields made a good showing for the Oldsmobile.

The Chevrolet-Buick tussle was a real battle and although the latter took the big end of a 3-1 decision, they were forced to fight for every pin. Toms for the Chevrolet picked off the highest single of the evening when he bowled 270, and was also high man for his team. J. J. Duffus tipped the scales in favor of the Buicks when he collected a triple of 612.

The Chrysalers are parked on top of the ladder, having gained a soft victory when the Durant team failed to appear. Robinson was going great guns for the Gillespie crew, securing both high single and high three scores.

Cuthbert and Foreman Battle To 15-Round Draw

LONDON, Dec. 16 (C.P.)—Battling furiously from bell to bell, Johnny Cuthbert, British featherweight champion, held Al Foreman of Montreal, lightweight champion, to a fifteen-round draw here last night. Cuthbert weighed 130¼ and Foreman 131¾. Although Foreman carried the heavier artillery and several times floored his rival, Cuthbert's excellent boxing held the Montreal at bay for a greater part of the distance.

STRIBLING PRESSES CLAIMS TO MATCH FOR CHAMPIONSHIP.

CHICAGO, Ills., December 16. —"Pa' 'Stribling, father-manager of W. L. Stribling, who scored a decision over Tuffy Griffiths here last Friday, is en route to New York to deposit a cheque for $2,500 with the New York State Athletic Commission. 'Pa' seeks to back up a challenge to Max Schmelling, in behalf of 'W.L.' for a title heavyweight match in New York any time it can be arranged.

Two things must be done before Stribling receives the recognition of the National Boxing Association, according to President John V. Clinnin. First, the body must vote to oust Schmelling for failure to defend the title within six months of winning it, and second, Stribling must defeat the next ranking contender.

NATIONALS BEAT VARSITY 4 TO 1

Collegians Outplayed in Every Department—Bruce Paul Scores in Two and Assists in Another.

BEFORE SMALL CROWD.

TORONTO, Dec. 16. — Showing superiority in nearly every department of play, the Toronto Nationals last night defeated the University of Toronto senior team by 4 to 1, and won the Sportsmen's Patriotic Association championship. Only a small crowd was in attendance, and as a result applause was conspicuous by its absence, and the game lacked the thrilling incidents expected. However, the teams fought hard all the way, and Nationals, in particular, turned in a nice effort. They will take a world of beating in the Ontario Association race.

The Watson-coached team were kept out of the scoring column for the first eleven minutes of the game, the Students putting up a stubborn defense, but finally, Bruce Paul, who was the best man on either team, raced from end to end and tallied. Thirty seconds later, George Beal registered when the puck rebounded from Bruce Paul's shot and at that stage it looked like a parade. The Blue and White, however, took on a new lease of life and escaped unscathed during the rest of the session.

Only one goal was chalked up in the second twenty minutes and Jimmy McMullen, another former U. of T. stalwart, got it when he checked an opponent near the Collegians' net and snapped the puck into the twine. The clock showed that only four minutes had elapsed.

ACTION EXPECTED IN MALONE CASE

Lindsay Coroner's Jury Finds Victim Died in Hotel of Acute Alcoholism.

FACTS SENT TO TORONTO.

LINDSAY, Dec. 16 (Examiner Correspondence).— Developments by the authorities are expected to follow the outcome of the coroner's jury which inquired into the cause of the death of Edward Malone, of Lindsay, who was found dead in a local hotel last week.

The jury in its verdict declared that Malone's death was the result of acute alcoholism. The jury went on record as expressing its regret that greater care was not taken of Malone during his presence in the hotel.

The evidence went to show that a boarder at the hotel had purchased a bottle of rubbing alcohol on the solicitation of the latter; also that the deceased had bought a quantity of sweet nitre from a local druggist. All these facts had been reported, it is understood, to the authorities at Toronto, and the outcome is being awaited with interest.

185 French Bankers Are Under Suspicion

PARIS, Dec. 16.—(C.P.)—Minister of Justice Henri Cheron announced to-day that 185 French bankers or financial agents are under accusation in connection with recent financial operations. He added that 35 were held in jail.

Investigation of Bourse and banking activities began about six weeks ago after the failure of a number of banks including the Oustric bank. The closing of the latter institution created a scandal that resulted in the resignation of three members of the Tardieu Cabinet and was held indirectly responsible for the downfall of the Cabinet itself.

OTTAWA CLUB APPROVES RULE

Senators to Support Adoption of Forward Pass in O.R.F.U. Rules.

AT SATURDAY MEETING.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 16 (C.P.)—The Ottawa club of the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union has decided to throw its weight in support of adoption of the forward pass by the union. At an executive meeting of the Senator club last night delegates to the annual meeting of the Senator club last night delegates to the annual meeting of the O.R.F.U., to be held in Toronto this coming Saturday were instructed to press for adoption of the play in the playing rules of the "Big Four."

Ottawa delegates also are armed with a resolution on the troublesome question of the residence rule. The Toronto Argonaut club has already given notice of a motion to change from June 1 to January 1 the date on which a prospective player must be resident in the city where he intends to play that year. Ottawa delegates will move an amendment, that players moving from one city to another in a bona fide manner, such as under a business transfer, be allowed to play football, regardless of the date on which he becomes a resident.

LACK OF CONDITION COSTLY, SAYS ELDER

Former Notre Dame Star Asserts Team Was Not Prepared to Cope With Giants.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—The fancy trimming that the Giants gave the Notre Dame All Stars at the Polo Grounds yesterday perturbed Rockne's former luminaries not a whit and dimmed their confidence in themselves to no perceptible extent. The sentiment in the dressing room after the game was that the only reason they lost at all was because they were not in proper condition.

Jack Elder, flashiest of the South Bend backs a year ago, acted as spokesman for his team-mates with the declaration that the All Stars at their best could have coped with the powerful Giant running attack.

"I'm not saying that we could have beaten them," said the former Notre Dame ace, "but the game would not have been anything like it was to-day. How in the world could we be expected to stop that club? We started practice on Tuesday and Rock took charge of us on the following day. We rehearsed signals and went through our formations, but we had lost that fine touch we used to have."

Lacking In Fundamentals.

"Our tackling was excellent, but on the other fundamentals we were sadly lacking. We were not blocking at all and the interference was not there. Then, look at our forward passing. Not one completion in nine tries. That does not look like Rockne perfection. I guess we should have let the signals go and have started work from the ground up."

Elder had the highest praise for Benny Friedman, describing the Giant coach, manager and captain as being one of the greatest passers he ever set eyes on. But then, quite in order with the general tenor of the Notre Dame attitude that Rockne's men stand supreme, Frank Carideo was believed the better all-around man.
